Grand Forks Landfill to increase tipping fee

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Howard Person, Pennington County solid waste officer, reported to commissioners at the Pennington County Board's Aug. 9 meeting, that the Grand Forks Landfill had sent him a notice that it will increase its standard tipping charge by 75 cents per ton effective Jan. 1, 2006. The 75-cent increase would raise Omega of Thief River Falls' tipping cost to $33.50.

Person also reported that Steve Nordhagen, president of Omega, informed him that Omega will also need to increase its tipping charge by one dollar to battle increased operating costs.

A motion to discuss the increases at an upcoming solid waste committee meeting was carried. With both the 75-cent and $1 per ton increases, Pennington County will be charged $58.75 per ton in tipping fees, a 3.1 percent increase from the existing $57 per ton charge.

The increases would be the first since the Grand Forks Landfill and Omega each increased fees on Sept. 1, 2004.

Board approves concrete work for glass bunker. Person presented plans to pour a concrete base for a glass collection bunker at the Pennington County Solid Waste Transfer Station. Glass was previously collected at the county compost facility. That facility is no longer in use.

The new glass bunker will be located at the northeast corner of the transfer station property. Person estimates that 11 yards of concrete will be needed for the project. He added that Sentence to Serve will be used for some of the labor; and the project does qualify for the use of SCORE (Select Committee on Recycling and the Environment) funds. Person estimates the project's total cost to be between $1,100 and $1,200.

A disagreement over payment of Highway Department bid work was brought to the attention of the board. Jerry Unruh's company, TRF Parking Lot Striping, was awarded the winning bid of

On the road to recovery

A parent's worse nightmare

Brady Anderson, a Thief River Falls resident, looks and speaks with a nurse at Hennepin County Medical Center in Minneapolis. He is wearing a helmet to protect his head after he was assaulted in May and after he underwent a craniotomy to remove a piece of his skull to release brain pressure. Shortly after this picture was taken, the piece of skull was reinserted into his head. His mom said Brady asked his doctors if they would take a picture of the piece of his skull before they put it back again. "Like Brady explained, 'Not everyone has pictures of their skull,'" his mom, Paula, said. (Submitted photo)

Three months after assault, Brady feels he's 100 percent

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Paula Anderson has lived every parent's worse nightmare. In May, her son Brady suffered a brain injury after being assaulted in Minneapolis.

At 1:30 p.m. May 1, she and her husband, Mike, received a phone call from the Minneapolis Police Department. Their 24-year-old son Brady had been assaulted in the early morning hours of May 1. They called the Hennepin County Medical Center and were told their son had suffered a severe brain injury. He was in critical condition.

"It was really terrible because it's nothing you expect," said Paula, whose son Brady and husband, Mike, declined to be interviewed. She noted Brady was a good kid who was always on time. She added that she never expected anything other than possibly a car accident to happen to Brady.

> "You feel like you're a piece of china with a thousand cracks, and one little touch and you're just going to fall apart." – Paula Anderson

Confusion ensues

Confusion had ensued after Brady's attack. On his cell phone, he had listed his parents' Thief River Falls home as "The Crib," which confused hospital nursing staff. Later that day, Brady's friend and former roommate Mike Alexander called Brady's cell phone. A nurse answered and explained what had happened to Brady. He went to the hospital to see Brady. He also went to Brady's apartment to get the emergency information off of the application for the apartment. Brady hadn't filled in the information. Eventually, the police were able to track down Mike and Paula, who were vacationing in the Iron Range.

After they learned what had happened to Brady, Mike and Paula drove about three hours to see their son. Little did they know, they would remain in the Twin Cities area for about two months.

"It was a long, long trip," said Paula. "It was just endless miles, you know."

Besides suffering the brain injury, Brady had also suffered facial fractures, and Mike and Paula didn't know what to expect when they saw him.

Seeing "her baby"

"It made my knees weak when I saw him – here's your baby," said Paula, who has worked as a nurse for 27 years. Brady was on a respirator. He had been beaten, was wrapped up in gauze and had a swollen eye. Brady had so many tubes protruding from him that Paula couldn't hug him even though she wanted to. Despite her son's severe injuries, Paula said, she never asked how close he was to death. She later recalled that she didn't believe he would die.

"There were quite a few touch and go days," remembered Paula. "It was quite serious."

When the couple arrived at Brady's bedside, his head pressure was 37. Doctors want head pressure to be 20 or below, Paula said.

Brady was placed into a drug-induced coma. Putting someone with a brain injury into a coma helps his or her brain heal. While Brady was in a coma, Paula asked him whether he heard her. He squeezed her hand. "It was like, 'I know you're in there,'" Paula recalled.

Even though Brady was in front of her, Paula carried a picture of him in her pocket while he was in a coma. "I just needed to look at him – how he was, is," Paula said.

His parents stood for hours beside his bedside in the Intensive Care Unit (ICU). "We just talked to him and told him we loved him," Paula said.

About a day after Brady's assault, the pressure on his brain was going down, but it was still above 20 when Mike and Paula were approached about enrolling Brady in a study, Paula recalled. Through the oxygen therapy study, some patients would receive 100 percent oxygen, some patients would be placed in a hyperbaric chamber and others would receive neither of those treatments.

Just as the couple agreed to place Brady in the study, a doctor said Brady's brain pressure was over 20 for too long. An operation would need to be completed. "Within 45 minutes, they were operating," Paula said.

Taking out a portion of his skull

Brady underwent a craniotomy, meaning a bone flap was removed from his skull to reduce pressure on his brain. The surgery left an incision from the top of Brady's head, around his head and to the front of his ear,

City vacates part of frontage road

Action will move road behind Speed's and in front of Wal-Mart

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

The Thief River Falls City Council has approved vacating a part of a frontage road in Barnick's First Addition. The approval came at the Aug. 9 council meeting, which may be the shortest regular council meeting ever.

The frontage road will serve a future Wal-Mart store, which will be constructed along Highway 59 Southeast.

At the eight-minute council meeting, City Attorney Paul Ihle said, "The new frontage road will go behind Speed's, the Northern State Bank property and behind Pizza Hut."

The portion of the current frontage road near Speed's Automotive will remain in place. Ihle noted the current frontage road will be rerouted, and Speed's will be on an "island."

Council approval came after a public hearing about the matter. One member of the public attended that hearing.

This approval was the latest in a number of items the city has approved in connection with the future Wal-Mart store. Recently, a developer's agreement was approved for the site. Construction began on the future Wal-Mart store in July. At the earliest, it is anticipated the Supercenter will be open for business next spring.

Public Works Director Ron Lindberg updated the council on the progress of this year's construction projects. He noted Barzen Avenue construction has ended.

Lindberg added that storm sewer and utilities are in place for the future Wal-Mart store along Nelson Drive. Curb and gutter have yet to be put into place.

The contractor is now working along Spruce Avenue and has three other segments of the summer's construction projects to complete, Lindberg said.

The council approved the transfer of the Fixed Base Operator (FBO) lease for R.C. Shefland Flying Service Inc. to Joe Cornelius effective Aug. 1 contingent upon receipt of certificate of insurance.

The lease is effective until May 31, 2006. As part of the lease, the FBO pays $450 per month in rent to the city, and the city also receives $0.05 per gallon for fuel pumped at the FBO's area at the airport, Lindberg said Aug. 10.

The FBO fuels aircraft and provides rentals, pilot services, mechanic services and weather information at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport, Lindberg said. Using a cardtrol system similar to a credit card, pilots are also able to pump their own fuel late at night or whenever the FBO is not at the airport.

The next council meeting is scheduled Aug. 23 at 5 p.m. at City Hall.

Brady Anderson sat and ate with his parents, Mike and Paula, before coming home after being hospitalized in Minneapolis. In May, Brady suffered a severe brain injury after being assaulted. He didn't return home to Thief River Falls until the end of July. (Submitted photo)

TRF man has charges pending for assault with a dangerous weapon

Second degree assault with a dangerous weapon and third degree driving while intoxicated: On Aug. 10 at 11:45 p.m., police received a report of an alleged assault with a dangerous weapon and were told the caller's sister, who was the alleged victim, had fled to Super 8. Upon arriving at Super 8, the caller arrived with the alleged assailant following her in another vehicle. Timothy Miles Smith, 40, Thief River Falls, was asked to step out of the vehicle by gunpoint due to the nature of the call to police. According to the report, Smith allegedly got into an argument with a female at the Rusty Nail and told her that she shouldn't go home or he would kill her. Later, the woman went to Country Acres Apartments. Smith allegedly waved a firearm at her and grabbed her by the back of the neck. While the woman's head was next to his, he then allegedly put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger. There was nothing in the gun's chamber. The woman then fled to Super 8. ## Law enforcement to participate in Safe & Sober mobilization

From Aug. 19 to Sept. 5, Thief River Falls police, the Pennington County Sheriff's Department and Minnesota State Patrol will again participate in the Safe & Sober Labor Day Impaired Driving Mobilization.

The mobilization will feature enhanced saturation patrols targeting intoxicated drivers. The goal of the mobilization is to reduce and ultimately eliminate intoxicated driving by motorists. Since 1999, 662 motorists have been arrested in Pennington County for driving while intoxicated. One in nine Minnesotans with a driving record has a driving while intoxicated offense on his or her record.

On Aug. 1, Minnesota became the last state to enforce the 0.08 blood alcohol concentration level. This means drivers must drink more responsibly.

The law enforcement agencies remind drivers to walk, get a cab, or call a friend or designated driver. Do not drive after even a few drinks. When one person drinks and drives, everyone pays.

State's 2005 traffic deaths pass 300-mark

Minnesota's year-to-date traffic fatalities reached 307 Thursday – reflecting an 11 percent increase compared to the 277 traffic deaths this time last year. While the increase is alarming to safety officials, the pace of deaths has slowed from the 35 percent increase year-to-date recorded at the end of March.

The incidence of death among pedestrians (19), motorcycle riders (27) and bicyclists (four) is up from last year's tally of nine, 24 and one, respectively. Collectively, the deaths make up more than half of the current year-to-date increase.

The Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) urges all motorists to commit to safe driving practices, especially as two key periods loom – the busy Labor Day holiday travel period and the reemergence of school-related traffic.

"A slowing of deaths on our roads isn't good enough; we need to have a reversal," said Kathy Swanson, OTS director. "Ultimately, most crashes result from driver behavior or, rather, misbehavior. If all drivers exercised greater individual responsibility, we could stem this tide and move toward zero deaths."

Continued enforcement campaigns and public education focusing on key safety issues, including impaired driving, speeding and seat-belt use are scheduled through the rest of 2005.

State Patrol responds to separate fatal accidents

He lost control on the gravel road. His vehicle then rolled several times. The vehicle was totalled. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 11:50 p.m. Friday.

KSRQ-FM to host birthday party Aug. 20

Northwest Minnesota's community radio station is turning 1-year-old this month, and its only employee is urging area residents to get involved.

"Community radio needs to be for, by and about the people in the community," said Travis Ryder, Pioneer 90.1 (KSRQ-FM) station manager. "We have about a dozen great volunteers but other, more established community radio stations will often have more than 100."

The station, based at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) – Thief River Falls, is launching into its first-ever listener support and participation drive starting Aug. 19. The drive's goals include receiving feedback from current listeners, getting potential volunteers to sign-up for upcoming training sessions, and building a base of financial support from listeners and businesses. Included in the drive is a first anniversary celebration with free food and music in Floyd B. Olson Park throughout Saturday afternoon, Aug. 20.

The event will feature live music from Twin Cities bluegrass act The Blue Drifters, which includes Phil Nusbaum, host of Pioneer 90.1's weekend Bluegrass Review program. Also coming from the Twin Cities is progressive rockers The Amber Estate. Several local acts are also scheduled to appear during the first birthday event. In the event of rain, the celebration will move to NCTC's Swenson House.

NCTC and its predecessor institutions have been home to the radio station since 1971. Since 1989, KSRQ-FM has had a strong signal out as far as Grand Forks, Karlstad, and Fosston, but all the programming was produced by students in the Broadcasting or Mass Communication program at NCTC. Recently, the station has been opening its doors to community members and civic groups who wish to produce music and talk programs.

Ryder said this has been a slow but successful process. A number of volunteers from around the region have gotten involved.

Ryder hopes to find hosts for more programs focusing on local culture and interests, as well as people with a knowledge and love of music.

During the upcoming drive, listeners to Pioneer 90.1 can expect to hear stories about how community radio has evolved elsewhere and examples of what could happen with the station. Current volunteers will also talk about their experiences so far. The drive runs from Aug. 19 through 28. Volunteer training classes will form in mid-September.

Who wants to act their age?

Act your age! I heard the phrase countless times as a kid.

I remember a substitute teacher screaming it at us after she caught us stuffing the choir room thermostat with snow so that the room got so hot that she had to let us out early.

I remember a preacher yelling it at us in Bible camp after we sixth graders giggled our way through another of his boring sermons.

I remember the principal yelling it to me after he peered into the English room only to see me playing catch with one of those brick-sized grammar books which just seemed made to throw.

Just what does it mean to act your age? A friend and I tossed the question around this week after I had a birthday and added yet another digit to my odometer reading. I am now half-way to 82.

Looking back, I think stuffing the choir room thermostat with snow was probably appropriate 16-year-old behavior. Typical, at least, if not exactly nice.

In fact, about the last thing you want a 16-year-old to do is act his age. What you really want is for them to return to their huggy little easily-controlled 9-year-old selves.

But what does it mean for somebody in their 30s and 40s to act his age?

I think I know, and I don't think I like it one bit.

People my age are the ones who make the world go around - at least that is what they think. They are doing the work. They are raising the kids. They are buying the homes and the cars. They are taking the expensive vacations.

Busy, busy, busy. That's what I am supposed to be right now at this age - running along on the treadmill of life, nose to the grindstone, keeping up with the Joneses, climbing the corporate ladder, remodeling every two years, running to soccer games.

People my age aren't supposed to have much senses of humor. Life is serious business when you're trying to get ahead.

Forty-year-olds can laugh, but it better be at some minority's expense, for what they are doing - all those soccer games, new cars and late nights at the office - is a sacred and holy duty that is beyond question, however bitter it makes them.

Don't ask if they really need a $50,000 Chevy Tank-on-wheels with individualized television programming for each spoiled brat strapped up in back, the fact that their brother-in-law has one is reason enough.

As for those worthless, lazy kids these days: What they need is a good boot camp! And those hands-in-the-pockets retired men who do nothing but putter in their woodshops: Lazy leeches on society, that's what they are!

Act my age? If it means becoming a status-grasping, busybody suburbanite drone, no thanks.

To heck with the soccer games and parent-teacher conferences. I'd much prefer to spend a couple of hours every couple of weeks with other peoples' kids, get them good and hyper, and fill their little minds with subversive ideas, like switching the labels on Mom's canned goods so that when she opens a can of corn in a couple of months she'll get black olives instead, I'd rather do that than act my age.

I don't want to act my age. In fact, I am already looking forward to the nursing home so that I can terrorize the place using dementia as an excuse. Wouldn't those long hallways be perfect for bottle rockets?

My hero is a lady in an area home who collected peoples' dentures every night and got them all mixed up. They said she had lost her marbles, but I am sure she was just having fun and I applaud her for it.

Maybe when I am 82, I can start making prank phone calls again. I used to so enjoy calling local righteous types and pretending to be a missionary in dire need of additional funding for my ministry on Florida beaches - but you just can't do that when you're 40!

Despite the pleas of childhood teachers and preachers still ringing in my ears, I think I'll always have a tough time acting my age.

Farm Management Minute

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Safety alert

by Danie Packard
FBM instructor, Thief River Falls

Most people who live and work on a farm would agree that faming is a great way of life. It allows people to live and work close to nature and produce food and fiber for themselves as well as the rest of the world. But farm work has more than its share of accidents. Recent statistics indicate that each year in our state, one farm in five experiences a lost-time work accident of at least one day in length. These accidents range in seriousness from those causing death or permanent injury to those requiring only minor medical attention.

Developing a "safety first" attitude is a must for all farm managers and setting a good example for others is important. As the rush of harvest approaches, there are things that we must consider. Are each of the operators physically and mentally fit? Fatigue, stress and worry can distract an individual from safely operating farm equipment. Make sure that everyone who operates equipment has the proper training. Inspect the equipment and fix any hazards that may exist before operating that particular piece of equipment. Shut down equipment, turn off engines, remove the keys and wait before clearing clogs or doing any repair work on equipment. Keep bystanders and others away from equipment operation areas. Do not allow "extra riders," especially children, to accompany you while operating equipment.

Carefully review the following principles and see how they apply to you:

- Make accident prevention a personal goal. Being safe means reducing the risk in whatever you do.
- Get a handle on hazards. Know what hazards exist around your farm. Routinely evaluate equipment, work areas, and the way work is being done. Note potential hazards that need to be corrected, avoided or dealt with in a safe manner.
- Maintain equipment. Keep your equipment in good working order.
- Know your physical and emotional limitations. When not feeling your best, either physically or mentally, do not attempt to do stressful or hazardous farm work.
- Be prepared for emergencies. Every farm should be prepared for medical, accident, fire and weather emergencies. All farm employees should be trained in each of these areas.
- Warn others to stay out of work areas. Warn children, the elderly, the handicapped and visitors of potentially dangerous areas around the farm. If necessary, keep them out of the area.
- Be familiar with safety and health laws. To avoid legal problems, be aware of local, state and federal safety and health requirements.
- Educate yourself, your family and your workers. Education is the key to preventing most farm accidents. Knowing how to recognize and correct farm hazards and understanding safe work procedures are basic components of eliminating accidents in farming.

Aasland receives first-place medal at exhibition

LeRoy Aasland of Thief River Falls received a first-place medal June 19 at the 46th Annual Midwestern Exhibition at the Rourke Art Museum in Moorhead. Aasland, a Concordia College alumnus, painted "Tower of Babel."

Aasland used acrylic paints on canvas for his painting. For the painting, which measured 53 inches by 43 inches, he received a prize of $2,000.

Each year, the Midwestern, the oldest and largest art exhibition in the Red River Valley, celebrates the founding of the Rourke Gallery on June 18, 1960. This year's show featured 118 artists. The exhibition's theme changes annually. This year's theme was "The Bible."

PARENTING TIPS
Introducing New Foods To Children

Children can have fears about eating new or different foods. Because of this, eating at a friend's house or at a day care center could be a traumatic experience. As children grow older, it is increasingly important for them to feel comfortable with new or strange foods.

Developmentally, children's curiosity will lead them to explore new foods in much the same way that they explore the rest of their environment. Allowing children to play with a food without having to swallow it is a good way to introduce it. Remember that children learn and explore with all their senses. We are not suggesting that you let your children play with their food on a regular basis, but rather that you should be sensitive to your child's developmental level. Give your child an opportunity to check out the new food before you expect him/her to put it into his/her mouth. Forcing a child to try new foods can create a negative situation and discourage future exploration.

It's best to remain calm and relaxed at mealtime. Allow your children to not like a food. Simply try it again at a later time. Children are more likely to take risks in a safe and familiar environment. Remember trying a new food can be a risk!

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the food you are serving. Describe the color, shape, texture, taste and smell!

...It is coming, for sure

Well, Wal-Mart is coming whether we like it or not - and please remember, even though I am glad it is coming, I had nothing to do with it.

However, it will be here next year, probably next summer, and we know that things will change then. But I think, instead of waiting until next year, now is the time for area businesses to do some changing. This would be a good time to get ahead of the game.

I've been doing a lot of shopping lately and have been in quite a few stores the past few weeks. There seems to be something going on around here. Some stores are looking better and better, but some stores look like they are on their last legs - and all before Wal-Mart has even opened. What is up?

It is sad to see that some stores appear to be desperate. They aren't having sales and if they are advertising sales, it is because they have marked their merchandise up in the past and are just coming back to normal. The quantity of the stores' merchandise is shrinking to just a few pieces of each item and the quality is pathetic.

These stores haven't even tried to improve the looks of their places or the way they present items. They just don't seem to be trying - the clerks are apathetic and unenthusiastic, and they seem to be worn out, just like the merchandise and the stores themselves. These are the stores that probably will not survive after Wal-Mart comes in. It seems like they are already heading downhill. Too sad.

But some area businesses have the same idea I do. They're getting ahead of the game. I've seen that some of them are sprucing up their places, fixing up the outside as well as the inside, and changing the way they are presenting their merchandise. They look really good. It seems that these stores are looking better and better every time I go in.

Sales clerks are enthusiastic and seem to be extremely knowledgeable and helpful. They are cheery, smiling and chatty and just nice to be around. There are real sales in these stores, and the merchandise has been dusted and straightened up and is presented neatly. There are plenty of items to buy and it looks like the stores are really planning to give Wal-Mart a run for their money. This is wonderful - this is what we want to see.

These stores will be the ones that we return to for shopping after the rush of Wal-Mart is over. We will go to them because they are enjoyable places to shop, with friendly salespeople and plenty of "hometown" satisfaction. They are the places where we can take our time and ask questions and get good and helpful answers. Sure, they are the places where we can get a "Baker's Dozen," that extra half yard of fabric free, a free yardstick or that package of screws thrown in for nothing. You know what I'm talking about, and you know which stores I mean. Some of the other stores who don't try to do anything positive will fall by the wayside.

Don't forget, there will be plenty of shoppers to go around when Wal-Mart brings in people from near and far. Local shops and stores, get ready, because you'll benefit from the traffic, too. Wal-Mart can be a "good thing" for all of us - shopkeepers and shoppers alike.

Operation Round Up Grant Applications due Sept. 12

Organizations involved in community projects and charities are encouraged to apply for funds from Operation Round Up at this time. Completed grant applications are due in the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office by Sept. 12.

Operations Round Up is a program adopted by Red Lake Electric Cooperative, headquartered in Red Lake Falls. Customers choosing to "round up" their monthly electric bill payments provide funds for this effort. Over 85 percent of Red Lake Electric members are now choosing to contribute pennies each month to enhance their communities.

Funds will be donated primarily to nonprofit organizations to help fund their specific projects or programs. Since the program began in 1993, $237,453 has been granted to community organizations and charities. Money is donated for betterment of the community within the outside service area boundaries of Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

The Red Lake Electric Trust Board of Directors determines grants. Board members are Rodney Hoffman, Goodridge; Kim Swanson, Thief River Falls; Bonnie Cote, Trail; and Veral Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy, both of Red Lake Falls.

Granddaughter of Newfolden man wins rodeo competition

Jada Lee Rokke, 5-year-old granddaughter of Phil Rokke, Newfolden, won the All-Around at the Harding County Stick Horse Rodeo recently, turning in the best times in barrels and goat tun-tying.

The trophy belt buckle awarded for All-Around Champion was so large it caused her pants to sag rather than help hold them up. This is a huge comeback for Rokke who just 3 weeks ago was kicked in the abdomen by a horse. The kick left her with the imprint of a horse's hoof on her abdomen and a tear in her liver.

For several days, doctors feared the tear would start to bleed, making surgery necessary, but when the danger of bleeding passed, her doctor gave her the "okay" to compete. Rokke delivered an outstanding performance.

Preparing for the school year

As I write this article, we are still receiving recaps and summaries of the new education laws for Minnesota schools. We have gotten the big picture items, but many details are still coming. Next week, I will be hearing another update from Minnesota Department of Education officials on specifics of the new 2005 Education Bill.

Along with increased funding in the general fund come some mandates specifying how and where those dollars are spent. Staff development and Gifted & Talented (G&T) are two of the areas that were identified in the new law. Dollars designated for G&T are small, but certainly represent a good start in the right direction since that is an area that has been discussed but never funded specifically in the past. This allows us to bring back the Destination Imagination program. Also dollars set aside for staff development have been cut drastically in the past couple years, so again that represents dollars well spent.

Only minor other additions have been made to school district operations for the 2005-06 school year. Elementary science is being enhanced. Tutoring hours for students, the "School Within a School" program at Franklin Middle School (FMS), early childhood, and orchestra all received some limited help. Afterschool supervision during part of the year will be increased slightly. Other programs and proposals, all with merit, will have to wait for consideration in another year. Only a small amount, approximately $50,000, will be designated for building the fund balance again. With over $1.4 million reduced in the past two years we need to work on rebuilding that.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf was recognized by the Minnesota School Board Association last week along with five other state legislators for all the hard work they put into developing an education bill that was fair and equitable for all districts in the state. I had received reports throughout the last month of the special session that Stumpf and Rep. Barb Sykora had been meeting long and often regarding an education compromise. Sykora is the Republican chairperson of the House Education Committee and represents the western suburbs, so the two of them had all the bases covered - from metro to rural and from large to small. Education leaders and lobbyists from around the state recognized the huge impact these two had on the process and the final outcome - thus the awards and recognition. I'd like to publicly thank Representatives Bernie Lieder and Maxine Penas for their tireless work on behalf of all of us here in northwest Minnesota. They were always there to listen to our concerns and ask us how various proposals and bills affected our school district.

A question that has come up a number of times in the past couple years is "when does school start?" This year school starts again on Sept. 1. Sept. 1 is a Thursday, so that may seem strange to you. The Legislature did change that law again however, so this will be the last year that school will start on Sept. 1. Next year all elementary and secondary public schools across the state are required to wait until after Labor Day to start classes. This issue has been discussed at great lengths for many years, but I would think this change will now settle the issue in our state for the foreseeable future. I've learned to never say "never" or "always" however. One thing we can count on is change, so somewhere down the line I assume they will at least discuss this again. School buildings can be very hot and uncomfortable in August, but, nevertheless, states like South Carolina are already in session and Iowa has started a week or more earlier than Minnesota for many years. Some of my friends say "We here in Minnesota are smart enough that we don't have to go to school as long as those in some other states." You can't see the smile on my face as I report that, but I hope you take it like I say it - lightheartedly.

We have many people who have been working long and hard through the summer to help get everything ready for the start of school. I have reported in the past that we are implementing a new student information system throughout the district and that has required much, much work. Jim Kotz and Janet O'Hara have put in countless hours of time and effort as district leaders in this area. They have received training themselves, and are providing training to many others in the district. My assistant, Chris Wavra, has also shared in providing training and help regarding this new technology piece. Others in the district will also be counted on as leaders and helpers as we move forward. All teachers will receive training on the first day of workshop this fall. Secretaries, administrators and others are being trained in August before the workshop.

Several staff members, teachers and others, have been involved in college courses, Advanced Placement classes, cutting-edge vocational classes and other specific training to help them be better trained and/or educated with the bottom line being - to help students learn and to provide expanded opportunities for all of them. This is an example of lifelong learning, and our staff members are great role models in this area.

New staff orientation is less than a week away from the date of this publication. The first day of "all-staff workshop" is one week away. Fall activities have already begun. New student orientation has already been taking place. Open houses are two weeks away at Challenger and FMS. The school calendar, printed by Community Education, will be in the Aug. 27 edition of the Northern Watch. The State Fair is ready to start and with that will again come the Minnesota school report cards. We don't see them until you do, so we are anxious to see the report cards too.

Have a great rest of the summer. We look forward to seeing you at school functions throughout the year as you follow the progress of and listen to and watch our fabulous students. God bless.

Eagles Auxiliary to hold blood drive Aug. 29

In order to assure that blood will be available when and where it's needed, local residents can donate at the Eagles Auxiliary's next blood drive Aug. 29 at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls from 12 to 6 p.m.

In the summertime, blood centers really feel the heat. When patients need blood and the supply of blood is low, the pressure mounts quickly. Blood centers can only keep their commitment to patients if the community provides the basic ingredient – blood. Unfortunately, summer donors are in short supply. There are many reasons for this – vacations, fishing trips, camping trips, barbecues – all the things people like to do in the summer. Another great source of blood donors is from the colleges and high schools, which blood centers lose as donors in the summer.

For an appointment and to help with summer shortages of blood, call Lori at 964-5341 or Kay at 689-8367.

Stephen Asselin, 91

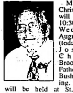
Brooks - With his family at his side, Stephen Asselin went peacefully to his rest on Saturday, August 13, 2005 at the age of 91.



Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, August 17 (today), at St. Joseph's Church, Brooks, with Father Tim Bushy officiating. Interment will be held at St. Joseph's Cemetery, Brooks.

Visitation will one hour prior to the services on Wednesday at the church.

Stephen Louis Asselin was born to Cleophas "Clifford" and Elzema (Lessard) of Oklee, on April 17, 1914. One of five children, Stephen grew up on their small farm, taking over the heavy work of rural life when his father died unexpectedly, forcing Stephen into adulthood at a very young age. Stephen attended the small country school near Oklee and went on to marry Verla Rose Morinville on June 16, 1941 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Brooks. Soon after, America entered the Second World War, and Stephen enlisted in the armed forces. He served his country in the Army Air Corps, and later the American Air Force. During the 10 years of his service, he was stationed in California, Texas, Alabama, and Massachusetts, and later went overseas to Japan and North Africa. After his honorable discharge in 1952, he and Verla returned to Brooks, where they resided for three years.

St. Louis, Missouri was their next home where Stephen worked as a factory technician for Dutch Boy Paints. The Family then moved to San Rafael, California in 1960 where he worked in the public school system. The urge to return to Minnesota was strong however, and in 1971 they moved back to Brooks where Stephen took a position with the Brooks Cheese Factory, and later, the Crystal Sugar plant in Crookston. He and Verla owned the Brooks Hartz Store for a short time until health forced them to sell. He was a member of the Woodmen of the World and the American Legion, and was active in St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Fluent in French and conversant in Japanese, Stephen often brought a smile by singing a Japanese folk ballad, or telling a joke in French, making everyone laugh despite no one being able to understand the punch line. He was well read and stayed abreast of current events, politics and local news. He was always curious about the goings-on in the community, and greatly enjoyed the times he was able to visit with the neighbors and friends he had spent a lifetime getting to know.

Closer to home, his seven grandchildren were a joy to him, and he always celebrated the visits of his three great-grandchildren. An avid collector of antiques, Stephen could never pass a flea market or auction sale without stopping. Gardening was another of his hobbies, and he made his talent nurturing flowers and vegetables seem natural and effortless. He truly lived a full life as a devoted husband, respected father, and valued member of the community.

Stephen is survived by his two daughters, Mary (Leroy) Mercil of Brooks, and Monica (Kent) Wentzel of Baxter; seven grandchildren, three great-grandchildren; and a cousin who was particularly close to Stephen, Gloria Taylor of Roseville, Mich.

He was preceded in death by wife, Verla in 1992, three brothers, Eugene, George and Homer, and his sister, Doris Asselin Loranger.

Walter Brothers Farm was the top dairy herd producer for the month of June, according to the supervisor of the Red Lake-Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA).

Supervisor Randy Rasmussen put the following herds in the Top 15 of the association for June:

1. Walter Brothers Farm – 265 cows, 91 percent in milk, 71 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 101 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
2. Wayra Dairy 3X – 197 cows, 86 percent in milk, 66 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 103 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
3. Northwest Research & Outreach Center – 115 cows, 86 percent in milk, 67 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 103 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
4. Hamrick Farms Inc. – 62 cows, 94 percent in milk, 59 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat, 1.7 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 108 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
5. Todd and Kathy Johnston – 58 cows, 84 percent in milk, 61 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 101 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
6. Tony Gerardy – 39 cows, 85 percent in milk, 49 pounds of milk, 2.1 pounds of fat, 1.4 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 110 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
7. Kevin and Beth Roppe – 38 cows, 95 percent in milk, 58 pounds of milk, 2 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 102 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
8. E. Duane and Faith Knott – 88 cows, 86 percent in milk, 58 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of fat, 1.6 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
9. Neuschwander Dairy – 41 cows, 80 percent in milk, 48 pounds of milk, 1.6 pounds of fat, 1.3 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 102 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
10. Leonard and Marge Geske – 43 cows, 88 percent in milk, 52 pounds of milk, 1.9 pounds of fat, 1.5 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 100 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
11. Tom and Diane Kolstoe – 38 cows, 97 percent in milk, 60 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 104 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
12. Lehmann Dairy – 57 cows, 86 percent in milk, 61 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 1.7 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 101 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
13. Morlyn and Debbie Ornquist – 37 cows, 92 percent in milk, 62 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 100 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
14. Goodvue Ayr. Farm II – 54 cows, 93 percent in milk, 52 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat, 1.5 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 104 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
15. Kevin and Sheila Tharaldson – 48 cows, 79 percent in milk, 48 pounds of milk, 1.5 pounds of fat, 1.4 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low even though the cow that is milking produces a lot of milk.

Pennington County Humane Society reports fund shortage

The Pennington County Humane Society began finding homes for abandoned, unwanted and often abused animals in 1997. Money was scarce during the Humane Society's first year – it opened with just $41 in its checkbook.

The Humane Society's funding has improved significantly since. As a result of money acquired from donations, memberships and many nickel and dime fundraisers, members have established an active humane society, established a shelter, found homes for over 1,800 animals and thanks to the generosity of Judi Bruggeman, they have leased shelter land for one dollar per year.

At present time, funding has reached a critical low, as memberships and donations are considerably down and expenses are up. The Humane Society's primary mission at the beginning was to get to the point where it did not adopt out an animal that was not spayed or neutered. That is now the case.

The Humane Society also ensures that all animals have received the proper shots prior to adoption. The $50 adoption fee charged to new pet owners doesn't cover half of the pre-adoption costs.

The Pennington County Humane Society needs the help of the community. Memberships and donations are more important than ever. For membership information, contact the Pennington County Humane Society at 681-8045.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: My husbands' ex-wife has custody of their child (my stepdaughter) and we have a child of our own. Are both children covered under his Social Security? Would they get the same amount?

A: When a person becomes eligible for Social Security benefits, or dies having enough work for survivor benefits, there are potential benefits payable to his or her children under age 18, students in high school up to about age 19, or adult children having a very severe disability beginning before age 22. Broadly speaking these benefits are payable if a parent-child relationship exists. This includes biological children, adopted children and stepchildren. The issue is not custody but existence of the parent-child relationship.

In your situation, assuming that all requirements are met, both children could receive benefits and the benefit amounts would be equal. Benefits for minor children are usually sent in care of the custodial parents.

Q: When filing a disability claim the SSA representative encouraged me to file two applications. Later on she said that one would be denied almost immediately while the other would be processed. What was that about?

A: Rule one is to ask questions. Understand what you are signing, what benefits you are applying for and the information given to you. Social Security administers several programs with different purposes and different requirements.

In the area of disability you likely filed applications for both Social Security disability, based on your work record; and for Supplemental Security Income (SSI), a federal need based program. Although administered by the Social Security Administration, SSI is very different from Social Security. It is based on income and resources instead of your work record and funded from general revenues, not SSA taxes.

Having you file for both programs is often done to protect you for possible entitlement to both benefits. Since they are different programs it is possible for one person to be eligible for both Social Security and SSI if all requirements are met. As the interview continues the SSA representative often knows if you meet the non medical requirements of either program.

In your case it appears that you did not meet these requirements for one of the programs. Rather than have you confused when a denial letter for it came in the mail, the representative told you right away, that one application would be denied and the other would go for a medical decision and continued processing. In the future, remember Rule 1. Ask questions.

Three months after assault, Brady feels he's 100 percent

Paula noted.

"Then it was just a waiting game to see what happened," Paula said.

For a total of about eight days, Brady was in a drug-induced coma. "You want to be able to look into your child's eyes," Paula said about that time Brady was in a coma.

As can be expected, it was traumatic for Brady's parents. "You feel like you're a piece of china with a thousand cracks, and one little touch and you're just going to fall apart." Paula said.

After his surgery, Brady underwent three treatments in a hyperbaric chamber. He had to be unhooked from several machines and taken half a block away to the hyperbaric chamber, Paula said. It took one hour to build up the pressure in the chamber, one hour to be in the chamber and one hour for the pressure to go down.

"We're talking hours that he'd be gone," said Paula, who added that the doctors believe placing patients with brain injuries in the chamber improves their mortality rates and the healing process. The treatment has yet to be approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Their "lowest day"

Then came what Paula referred to as the family's lowest day. A doctor told Paula and Mike that none of Brady's medications were working. The doctor told them, "'We're running out of options. We're running out of hope,'" Paula recalled.

At the time, Brady was also suffering from pneumonia as a result of being on a respirator. A nurse, though, gave Mike and Paula some hope.

"She said, 'There's still hope. There's still rabbits that can be pulled out of the hat,'" Paula remembered.

Mike and Paula went to the waiting room to tell Brady's family and friends what had just happened. They prayed.

"We just trusted in God, and the doctors were wonderful in their care, but he took it to the next step," Paula said.

Paula and Mike were also told Brady may never speak again or understand language. They were told he might not be able to move the right side of his body.

At first, Brady began moving the left side of his body. He eventually began moving the right side of his body. However, Paula and Mike were told those right-side movements were "not purposeful." He also tried to mouth words, but he was unintelligible since he was on a respirator.

Throughout the ordeal, Paula prayed to God for reassurance. She expected Brady to be sitting up in a chair one day when she walked in, but she kept reminding herself everyday not to expect such leaps.

A wish comes true

Then one day she got her wish. "There Brady was sitting up in a chair with this goofy hockey helmet," remembered Paula. "He mouthed the words, 'Hi, Mom.'"

It was the moment she was looking forward to. "I can't tell you how awesome that was," Paula said.

Brady spent about 18 days in the ICU. He then spent two days in what is called a step-down unit, meaning it's a step down from the ICU. At that time, he was undergoing physical therapy.

Brady continued undergoing physical therapy as he moved to the Knapp Rehabilitation Center at the hospital. He also underwent speech and occupational therapies. At first, he couldn't hold his head up and he was drooling as a result of his tracheotomy, Paula recalled. It was not long before Brady could wheel himself around the rehabilitation area and have his tracheotomy taken out. "It just kept improving," Paula said.

In mid-June, about a month-and-a-half after he was injured, Brady switched to being a day-patient at the hospital.

Then came the moment for which he and his family were waiting – the surgery to put the section of skull back into Brady's body. Intravenous tubes were placed in Brady's body, and his family waited.

It wasn't going to happen that day. Brady had an infection, and doctors had to postpone the surgery. "That was very disappointing," Paula said.

The surgery was completed at a later date, and Brady eventually became well enough to be treated on an out-patient basis.

Brady and his family had the option of returning home for rehabilitation. However, Paula noted, they knew all the doctors in Minneapolis and Brady would also have to go to Fargo, N.D., for rehabilitation if he went home at that time. Plus, Mike and Paula were renting an apartment eight blocks from the rehabilitation unit.

While Brady was undergoing rehabilitation, his parents remained in Minneapolis. They came home once during that time – around July 4.

"He finally finished rehab at the end of July," said Paula, who noted, Brady's neuropsychology tests have been great.

Once Brady finished rehabilitation about three months after his assault, Mike and Paula returned to Thief River Falls – with their son. "Everything's fine," Paula said about Brady. "He feels he's 100 percent."

Paula noted her son is his "same old self." This was particularly noticeable when it came to his reactions about Paula's driving. At the time, Brady couldn't drive and he couldn't stand Paula's driving. Given his dislike for his mother's driving skills, Brady was tested on his driving skills at the Courage Center in the Twin Cities area before coming home. He passed the driving test and is able to drive.

Even though he is well enough to drive, Brady may undergo surgery for his facial fractures. Yet, there is still some facial swelling, so it's not known whether that will happen.

Outpouring of support

Awesome could be used to describe the outpouring of support Brady's family received from other family members, friends and the community. Brady's friends "camped out" at the hospital even while he was in a coma and told stories about him, Paula said. At the time, Brady's friends were in the process of taking their final exams at the University of Minnesota.

Several of Brady's friends "just lived" at the hospital, Paula noted. It obviously wasn't an easy time for them. Two of his friends had other friends who had suffered brain injuries in the past and died.

Other friends, as well as some of Mike's co-workers at Arctic Cat and their spouses, made the trek to the hospital.

Arctic Cat also supplied a computer, enabling Mike to work from the apartment he and Paula had rented in the Twin Cities. Paula, who is self-employed, was unable to work while they were in the Twin Cities.

Thief River Falls residents also traveled to the Twin Cities, bringing Mike and Paula food and also taking Brady to the mall once he got out of the hospital.

"The support from everybody in Thief River was amazing, and we just appreciate it," said Paula, who noted the prayers and concern from Thief River Falls residents.

That concern has also been evident from the benefits arranged after Brady's assault, including the tin cans that were placed at area businesses and also a barbecue held at Arctic Cat, among other events.

"The money that's been raised for Brady has been really appreciated," said Paula, who noted the cost of medications as well as for the apartment Mike and Paula called home while Brady was being treated.

At first, Mike and Paula were able to live rent-free at the apartment complex for which their nephew worked. However, he eventually left that company, and Mike and Paula were then required to pay rent.

Fundraisers organized by local residents have helped the family pay for those expenses. "The outpouring of care and concern from everybody has been overwhelming," Paula said.

The criminal case

Two people have been charged in connection with Brady's assault. John Wade Arthurs, 21, Spring Lake Park, and Ryan Michael Goth, 21, Minneapolis, have been charged in Hennepin County District Court with felony first degree assault. The maximum penalty for the charge is 20 years in prison and/or a $30,000 fine.

It took awhile for police to determine who allegedly injured Brady since he was found unconscious on a sidewalk in Minneapolis. In the meantime, police officers advised Mike and Paula to go to the media and ask for help from the public.

"It was frustrating because the police kept us in the dark," said Paula, who noted the police kept them in the dark because if Mike and Paula didn't know what happened, they would be less likely to inadvertently blurt it out to the media, therefore letting the assailants know police were looking for them.

In addition, police officers told Mike and Paula to not even say what little they did know, including what Brady's injuries were or what condition he was in.

As a result, the media went to Lonetree Bar, where Brady had gone hours before his assault. "They had all sorts of stories," said Paula, who noted one of those stories was that Brady was kicked out of the bar three times. Knowing Brady's personality and size, Paula said that people would realize that was untrue.

When she got to the hospital, Paula also looked at Brady, who hadn't been robbed, to see if he had any marks from fighting against his attackers. He had no marks from fighting back, she said. However, he had a large bruise from being grabbed.

Brady's friend and former roommate Mike Alexander had seen Brady the evening prior to Brady's assault. He had seen Brady with several females that night. Brady's friend didn't know who the females were, Paula said.

After the story hit the airwaves, one of the females came forward. She didn't realize what had happened to Brady after they got separated during what is referred to as the Spring Fling in Minneapolis. However, she was concerned for him. Paula added that it reassured her to know that Brady was with someone that night who cared about him.

What the family does know is that Brady brought beer into the bar and was removed from the bar, Paula said. "What happened after that is anyone's guess."

She added, "We don't really know for sure because Brady doesn't remember what happened."

Police later learned the names of the alleged assailants and charged them with the crime. According to the criminal complaint, the incident allegedly occurred after a bouncer escorted Brady out of Lonetree Bar along South Hennepin Avenue in Minneapolis. John allegedly told police that Brady badmouthed the bouncer, who is John's friend. A criminal complaint indicated John told police that he told Brady to "leave the area before he did something to him."

John went back into the bar and later went back outside. Brady was still outside the bar. John told police Brady said he was waiting for friends. John then allegedly punched Anderson in the face. Ryan also allegedly punched Brady in the face, causing Brady to fall backwards and hit the back of his head on cement.

Paula said one of the men remains in jail on drug charges, and the other is out on bail and was scheduled to have a pre-trial hearing last week.

"It's such a stupid, tragic thing that affected so many people," Paula said about the incident that could have taken her son's life.

At the same time, though, Paula said: "We have seen so much goodness and love from people that far outnumbers the bad part."

$71,925 or 68.5 cents per pound, during a special County Board meeting held on June 1.

TRF Parking Lot Striping was contracted to seal highway cracks totaling up to 105,000 pounds during the 20-working-day time period. According to TRF Parking Lot Striping's records, it used 79,000 pounds of rubber sealant during the county's 20-day time limit.

The Pennington County Highway Department disputes TRF Parking Lot Striping's total and payed the company for work totalling 74,529 pounds. The Highway Department estimates that only 71 percent of the project was completed during the allotted time.

Continuing to work past the 20-day work schedule is not a likely option for TRF Parking Lot Striping, because the company would be faced with a $250 per day penalty assessed by the county for each day working past the project's scheduled completion date.

No board action was taken. The matter was referred to Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin.

Plans for a cold storage/salt shed were presented to the board. No action was taken, but a combination cold storage and salt shed could be constructed in the near future.

The project has an estimated cost of $120,000, half of which can be paid for using the Highway Department's state aid maintenance account. Once approved, the project will be constructed adjacent to the Thief River Falls Joint Operations Facility.

Plans for motor grader and backhoe purchase were introduced. Pennington County Engineer Mike Flaagan stated that the Highway Department has $219,000 in a line item to potentially be used for the purchase of a motor grader and backhoe. He requested permission to get quotes for each machine, off of the Minnesota state bid. The board took no official action, but asked Flaagan to first present a breakdown of motor graders and trucks compared to the total mileage of Pennington County Highways at the next Highway Committee meeting.

Board approves railroad crossing gates for Hazel. Crossing gates will be placed at the intersection of the Canadian Pacific owned railroad and CSAH 3.

Sheriff's items

- Board approves Sheriff's Department resolution to adopt National Incident Management System. This will replace the department's old emergency management system, the Minnesota Management System. Hruby said the emergency management system is intended to assist counties in dealing with natural disasters.
- The board approved a Minnesota Department of Public Safety contract for the Safe and Sober Communities program.
- The board approved a resolution promoting intra-state mutual aid agreements.

The next meeting of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners will be Aug. 23, beginning at 5 p.m.

Team USA 3-1-1 at Jr. World Cup

■ Prowlers' Michael Forney is member of 18-Under Select team

It was a fifth place showing for Team USA during the 2005 Under-18 Junior World Cup hockey competition played Aug. 9-14 in Piestany, Slovakia; and Breclav, Czech Republic.

Thief River Falls' Michael Forney was named the Best Scorer in the Slovakian bracket of the event that began with a round-robin pool schedule at the two sites. The Lincoln High School senior scored four goals in three pool play games, along with a goal in an exhibition game prior to the start of the tournament.

Forney scored the first USA goal in the 4-2 Sunday exhibition win over Slovakia and also opened the scoring as USA and Finland skated to a 2-2 first round Monday tie.

The Prowlers' contribution to Team USA was held scoreless in a 5-2 Wednesday loss to Russia, but he had a hat trick in a 7-4 Thursday victory over Slovakia.

Although USA and Finland both finished at 1-1-1 in Group B behind 3-0 Russia and ahead of 0-3 Slovakia, Finland made the four-team medal round based a better goal differential (+1) than the U.S. (0). With a three-goal Thursday lead against Slovakia, the United States pulled the goalie in favor of an extra attacker in the final minutes in an unsuccessful effort to reach the medal round.

Forney added to his point total in two consolation round games with one assist as Team USA beat Switzerland 4-2 Saturday and three assists in an 8-1 Sunday fifth place game victory over Slovakia.

Canada won the tournament for the ninth time in 10 years with a 5-3 championship game win over the Czech Republic.

The United States Under-18 Select team was chosen from the 2005 USA Hockey Select 17 Festival held July 8-15 at St. Cloud State University. Forney made the 20-player roster (12 forwards, six defensemen, two goalies) after leading all Festival scorers in scoring with two goals and nine assists for 11 points.

Championship Flight finalists in the 2005 Thief River Golf Club Tournament exchanged a handshake before Sunday's 18-hole showdown. Lee Peterson (right) and Jeff Hendrickson advanced through a stroke-play qualifying round and two match play encounters to reach the finals. Peterson emerged with a 1-up victory for his second club title in the past three years. Hendrickson won the tournament in 1994.

LHS junior makes Thief River Golf Club finals for third straight year...

Lee Peterson wins second club title

Still two weeks away from the start of his junior year of high school, Lee Peterson appeared in his third straight Thief River Golf Club Tournament championship match and won his second club title Sunday with a 1-up final-match victory over Jeff Hendrickson.

Peterson became the tournament's youngest champion in 2003 as a 14-year-old freshman-to-be with a title match win over Chuck Tuthill. He reached the finals a year ago, too, but lost to high school golf teammate Paul Sjoberg.

Hendrickson was also going for his second Thief River Golf Club championship – a title he won in 1994.

Sjoberg was not on hand to defend his 2004 title.

Peterson, after an 83 that tied him for fifth place in Saturday's qualifying round, beat Rick Nikunen and Ryan Hughes in the match play quarterfinals and semifinals, respectively.

Hendrickson, who shot a third-best 79 qualifying score, reached the finals with match play wins over Shane Peterson and Randy Pederson.

The two finalists were even going through 16 holes. An early edge for Peterson, who won on No. 2, disappeared when Hendrickson won No. 4.

It was then a series of matching pars until Peterson went ahead on No. 17 with a par-saving 12-foot putt.

Peterson appeared to be in trouble on 18 when his tee shot hit a tree on the left side of the fairway. Fortunately, the ball came straight down and gave him a chance to recover against Hendrickson, who put his first shot smack down the middle of the fairway.

A strong 3-iron second shot helped set up another par-saving putt – this one a title-clinching 10-footer.

"I got a great break on 18," admitted Peterson. "Then after I hit the tree, I figured I had to take a chance and go for it. Jeff is a really good golfer. He's the most consistent golfer out there, and I knew he would probably get a par."

Seventeen golfers teed off in the stroke-play qualifying round that set up the match play brackets – with the top eight scores going to the Championship Flight and the next eight playing in the President's Flight.

Peterson said he wasn't as nervous as he was when playing for the title two years ago, but that didn't keep him from struggling with that 83 in the qualifying round. "I didn't think I would make it (into the Championship Flight)," he acknowledged."

His golf improved and his confidence began to climb in the match play portion of the tournament. "I was pretty happy with myself," said Peterson. "It's a pretty neat feeling. I really enjoyed being out there."

Corey LaSalle defeated Lonnie Thompson in the President's Flight final.

Coaches, student-athletes, and parents filled the halls at Northland Community and Technical College Friday for fall athletic reporting day. The athletic department announced that 75 students reported for football and volleyball.

"We are looking forward to a great year in Pioneer athletics," said athletics director Deb Jacobson. "The student-athletes reporting today looked excited to be here and start practice, and I know the coaches feel the same way."

Sixty-five football players reported in by 9 a.m., and coaches expected a few more players to join their ranks in the upcoming week. Players had their first team meeting that afternoon and their first practice that night.

GREENBUSH RACE PARK

from Bob Hultgren

Clear, cool weather and a fast track greeted racers and fans Saturday night at the Greenbush Race Park. A nice racing surface led to exciting, competitive action in all six classes of cars.

In the Mini-Sprints, Clay Sorteberg (Greenbush) passed Robbi Peterson (Middle River) four laps into the race and then led the final 11 laps to pick up his first feature win at the track this season. Peterson finished second while Jeremy Swenson (Badger) had a strong third place run. Points leader Dan Wiskow (Roseau) finished fourth.

The NOPA Pure Stocks put on quite a show, with Ken Crane (Mahnomen) picking up the win. Crane led flag-to-flag, holding off an early race challenge from Mike Peterson and a mid-race dual with points leader Justin Olson (Thief River Falls), who would finish a close second.

Fans were treated to a great race in the NOPA Street Class. Points leader Steffan Snare (Hallock) jumped out to an early lead, and while the rest of the 17 car field battled behind him, built a comfortable cushion out front. Snare led the first nine laps before a blown transmission sent him from the track. With Snare gone, Roger Bernstrom (Hallock) took over the point, holding off Jamen Foss (Greenbush) to pick up the win. Foss finished a very close second.

While the Modified feature was a disappointment in numbers, it certainly didn't disappoint in action. Just four cars were on hand, and yet there were three lead changes over the course of the 15-lap feature. Dave Riopelle (Argyle) jumped out to lead the first three laps before making way for Rick Delaine (Manitoba). Delaine would lead through the middle laps before being passed by Nolan Olmstead, who ran third through the first half of the race before moving his car to the high side of the track, hooking up, and racing to the win.

Contact between the front row cars, on the opening lap of the 4-Cylinder feature race, sent one car to the pits and another to a "back of the pack restart". That opened the door for Kurt Smith (Greenbush) to get a great start from the second row and lead all the way for his third consecutive Race Park feature win.

Saturday night's race was a Super Stock Special and the Wissota Supers finished off the night with another exciting finale. John Halvorson (Warren) led all the way to pick up the win. He held off several challenges from Scott Ripplinger (Warroad), who was all over Halvorson, but unable to get by. Ripplinger finished second.

Next on the schedule at the Greenbush track is the Northern Outlaw Sprint Car Special Saturday, Aug. 20. Hot laps begin at 7 p.m.

The Race Park is located one-half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 7.

ROCKET SPEEDWAY

from Bob Hultgren

Stock car racing was competitive and entertaining Sunday evening at the Rocket Speedway in Hallock. Five classes of vehicles took to the track, with one of the best car counts of the season.

In the NOPA Street feature, Jamen Foss (Greenbush) passed Steffan Snare (Hallock) with just two laps remaining for the win.

Bill Meader (Karlstad) jumped out to lead early in the Super Stock final. Meader ran strong before giving up the lead to Rod Fidler (Winnipeg, Man.), who would lead through the meat of the race before being passed by Scott Brown (Winnipeg) with just a lap to go.

NOPA Super Trucks made their second appearance of the season with Dave Buffie (Winnipeg) taking the feature.

Three lead changes in the first four laps of the Pure Stock feature built on the excitement of the night. Mike Peterson (Lancaster) powered his way by Travis Beito (Middle River) to take the lead on Lap 4 and race to the win.

In the night's finale, Alan Beamish (Winnipeg) jumped out to an early lead in the 4-Cylinder final before a mechanical breakdown forced him from the track. Dustin Wahl (Greenbush) took over and led the rest of the way for the win.

Next race for the Rocket Speedway will be held Sunday, Aug. 21. Hot laps start at 4:30 p.m.

Sixty-one new laws went into effect Aug. 1, 2005

Sixty-one new laws in whole took effect on this date, together with provisions from a number of laws with various effective dates and omnibus finance and policy packages.

Beginning Aug. 1, 2005, the approximately 50,000 Minnesotans who earn minimum wage received pay raises, smokers have begun paying a so-called "health impact fee" on cigarettes and sex offenders and methamphetamine manufacturers have started facing stiffer sentences.

Here, House Public Information Services presents highlights from select categories of those new laws.

For a complete summary of new laws, vetoed bills and proposals in limbo, House Information presents New Laws 2005 on the Web at www.house.mn/hinfo/NewLaws/NewLawsmain.asp.

Children

Child welfare law changes made

A number of technical changes will be made in child welfare laws, under a new law effective Aug. 1, 2005.

Under alternative response for maltreatment of children, the law defines "family assessment" as a thorough assessment of child safety; it defines "investigation" as a way to gather facts about the child's safety and determine if protective services are needed; and it defines "substantial child endangerment" as an act that substantially endangers a child's well-being by a person responsible for a child's care.

The local welfare agency will decide whether to conduct an assessment or an investigation after receiving a report; it is compelled to do an investigation if there is "substantial risk" to the child's safety. Family assessments must be completed in 45 days, and tribal social services agencies are added to the definition of "local agency."

Under adoptions and custody issues, the law requires the human services commissioner to maintain a permanent record of all adoptions granted in district court; social service agencies must make "reasonable" efforts to develop a permanency plan for a child in their care; and if a parent flagrantly abuses or abandons a child, or has had rights to another child terminated, a termination of parental rights petition must be filed by the Department of Human Services.

In addition, the responsible social services agency or the court must assume immediate custody of a child when it is "contrary to the interest of the child to remain in the care of a parent or guardian."

Crime

Fighting sex offenders and methamphetamine An omnibus public safety law contains life sentences with no possibility of release for the "worst of the worst" sex offenders and efforts to curtail the state's methamphetamine epidemic.

Focus on sex offenders Legislators want dangerous sex offenders, like the one who allegedly abducted and killed college student Dru Sjodin, in prison forever.

First- and second-degree criminal sexual offenders will face life in prison without the possibility of release when their crimes involve force, violence or a dangerous weapon, and either two or more heinous elements exist or the offender has a previous sex offense conviction and one heinous element exists. (Art. 2, Sec. 21)

Also, the law creates a new crime known as "criminal sexual predatory conduct" that applies when an offender commits a predatory crime motivated by sexual impulses or as part of a predatory pattern of behavior with criminal sexual conduct as its goal. The statutory maximum sentence for this offense is 25 percent longer than for the underlying predatory crime. (Art. 2, Sec. 20)

Other sex offenders could be given indeterminate sentences with the possibility of being on supervised release after serving the minimum sentence. Several factors must be considered when placing an offender on supervised release, including the possible risk to the community, progress in treatment, behavior while in prison, psychological evaluations, past criminal history and other relevant conduct of the offender. (Art. 2, Sec. 4)

Combating meth makers A felony crime is established for stealing, purchasing or possessing anhydrous ammonia to be used in the manufacturing of methamphetamine. (Art. 7, Sec. 11)

Meth is added to the definition of narcotic drug, which gives law enforcement more options for charging defendants. (Art. 7, Sec. 2)

The law criminalizes meth-related activities that impact children and vulnerable adults and establishes a penalty of up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. (Art. 7, Sec. 12)

New crimes The law creates several new crimes and establishes their penalties.

A crime of domestic assault by strangulation is added to the list of qualified domestic violence-related offenses. Enhanced penalties will apply to those who commit more than one qualified domestic assault within a certain time frame. (Art. 17, Sec. 8)

It will be a crime to knowingly provide false information to a police officer. The law also establishes a crime for falsely reporting police misconduct when a person knows the allegations are not true. (Art. 17, Sec. 30)

Anyone who interferes with ambulance service personnel providing emergency care will face the same penalties as those who obstruct peace officers and firefighters performing their duties. (Art. 17, Sec. 29)

People convicted of gasoline theft will face a 30-day suspension of their driver's licenses. (Art. 17, Sec. 3)

It's already a crime to flee from a police officer in a motor vehicle; it will also be a crime to flee in other ways to avoid arrest, detention, investigation, or to conceal or destroy potential evidence. (Art. 17, Sec. 28)

Identity theft is a growing concern and one way the Legislature responded was by establishing new crime of "phishing," which is the electronic use of false pretense to obtain identities through e-mail, Web sites or any other Internet communication. The crime carries a penalty of up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. (Art. 17, Sec. 35)

The harassment and stalking crime is expanded to include monitoring with the use of technology. (Art. 17, Sec. 46)

Education

Contracts for coaches Within the new omnibus education law, sponsored by Rep. Barb Sykora (R-Excelsior) and Sen. LeRoy A. Stumpf (DFL-Plummer), is a provision that takes effect Aug. 1. As of that date, a varsity head coach whose contract is not renewed can request that the school board provide, in writing, reasons for the nonrenewal. Upon request, the board must also give the coach an opportunity to respond to the reasoning at a board meeting.

FSA unveils simplified LDP process

John Nelson, county executive director of the Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Office, unveiled a new streamlined process Monday that makes it easier for agricultural producers to receive loan deficiency payments (LDPs).

"In the past, some producers have been unable to collect LDPs because they lost beneficial interest in the commodity before completing the required paperwork," said Nelson. "Today, producers will be able to fill out the new CCC-633 EZ form annually to express their intentions of receiving LDPs for eligible crops. This will help to ensure producers receive benefits and meet all eligibility requirements for LDPs."

Previously, producers had to complete and submit a CCC-633 LDP or a CCC-709, Field Direct LDP form, prior to losing beneficial interest in the harvested commodity in order to receive LDP benefits. Producers will now fill out the new CCC-633 EZ form each year to receive LDP benefits for eligible crops on all their farms and submit page 2 of the new form when the producer requests LDPs.

A producer must have beneficial interest in the commodity at the time the CCC-633 EZ is completed and submitted to the FSA office. A producer retains beneficial interest in the commodity if all of the following remain with the producer: control of the commodity, risk of the loss and title to the commodity.

Either at the time a producer first submits the CCC-633 EZ or any time before the final loan availability date, the producer must request a payment for a specific quantity and provide acceptable production evidence. The LDP rate is based on the earlier of the:

- Date of the request for payment; or
- Date the beneficial interest is lost.

LDPs are obtained by producers who are eligible to obtain a marketing assistance loan, but who agree to forgo the loan. By filing a CCC-633 EZ, producers do not preclude themselves from obtaining marketing assistance loans on applicable crops. The LDP rate equals the amount by which the applicable loan rate where the commodity is stored exceeds the alternative loan repayment rate for the respective commodity.

FSA developed the new form to help ensure that agricultural producers obtain LDPs when they are requested and when producers still have beneficial interest. In the past, some farmers inadvertently lost beneficial interest in their commodities before requesting LDPs, making them ineligible to receive benefits. The form will be effective for the 2005 and subsequent crop years.

The CCC-633 EZ is available online at any FSA office, http://forms.sc.egov.usda.gov/eforms/mainservlet and www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/psd.

For more information, call the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612, extension 2.

Minnesota awarded federal grant for math education

Minnesota has been awarded an $852,449 Workforce Investment Act (WIA) incentive award from the U.S. Department of Labor and U.S. Department of Education, announced Governor's Workforce Development Council (GWDC) Executive Director Brenda Norman.

The two-year incentive award will be used to fund up to three projects focusing on foundational math skills. To qualify for the award, Minnesota exceeded agreed-upon performance levels in placement after training; employment retention; and improvement in literacy.

"The focus of this award is a direct response to what employers, particularly in manufacturing, healthcare and biosciences, are telling us they need," said Norman. "To remain a global player all of us – educators, employers and policymakers – have to take responsibility for improving math education at all levels in Minnesota."

The GWDC plans to fund the projects this fall.

Minnesota is among 19 states that qualified for $16.6 million in incentive grant awards under WIA. Other states and award amounts included Iowa, $803,173, Indiana, $879,629; Michigan, $1,024,160, and North Dakota, $772,770.

Judy Kleinvachter was at home with June Kasprowicz, Joan Gerhls and Marie Steffen for company, but come Sunday, she joined the whole community for miles around at the center in Strandquist to celebrate Shirley Lefrooth's 80th birthday! Happy birthday Shirley! Shirley worked for several years at the Karlstad Bank in the insurance department where she met so many friends. A delicious luncheon was served by her relatives and friends and everyone had a great time visiting together. Shirley is still as lovely and gracious a lady as when she was half her age. Her husband Verne Lefrooth passed away several years ago. Shirley still lives in their home in Strandquist. She keeps busy helping their community.

Douglas Holmstrom and children Parker and Shelby from Farmington arrived on Friday to Dean and JoAnne Holmstrom's home to spend the weekend and attend the birthday party for Aunt Shirley. On Saturday, they visited Grandma Elsie Lefrooth and they returned to Farmington on Monday.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson went to Grand Forks today to meet Betsy's sisters, Florence from Florida and Polly from California at the airport. They are going to be here for the big celebration, the Karlstad Centennial.

Are video-game ratings a tool or a weapon?

by Paul K. McMasters
First Amendment Center

Never does the ponderous machinery of government and commerce rev up so quickly as when the republic is threatened by, uh, sex.

The sex this time is in a video game, the San Andreas version of Grand Theft Auto, the world's most popular game series and long criticized for its violent content. Earlier this month, discovery of a minute or so of animated sex secretly tucked away under layer upon layer of coded violence created shudders of alarm along Pennsylvania Avenue, Wall Street and Main Street, America.

Congress, preoccupied by a Supreme Court nomination, debate over energy and trade bills, re-authorization of the Patriot Act and in a rush to complete other pressing business before the August recess, nevertheless found time to fret about this development.

Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton, D-N.Y., called a press conference to urge the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to investigate the video game publishers, stores that sell the games and the industry organization that rates them.

Rep. Fred Upton, R-Mich., prodded members of the House into a 355-21 vote in favor of a resolution calling on the FTC to investigate.

The Entertainment Software Ratings Board (ESRB), the video-game industry group, changed the game's rating from "M" for players 17 and over to "AO" for adults-only. The ESRB also launched a re-examination of its whole ratings regime.

> However, ratings can be turned quickly from tool to weapon because they invite legal codification, which can translate into regulation, which translates into government power to restrict our choices when it comes to free expression.

The game's publisher, Rockstar Games, halted production of the game and promised a new version without the offending material as soon as possible.

Major retailers, including Wal-Mart, Target, Circuit City and Best Buy, pulled the games from their shelves.

Take-Two, the parent company of Rockstar, dropped $1 on Nasdaq after Clinton's press conference and lowered its financial forecast for the coming year.

In New York, Florence Cohen, 85, who bought the game for her 14-year-old grandson last fall, filed a lawsuit against Rockstar and Take-Two seeking unspecified damages on behalf of herself and consumers nationwide, the Associated Press reported.

And on July 27, the FTC's Division of Advertising Practices notified Take-Two that it was inquiring into advertising claims for the game.

Descriptions of the sexual indecency in the video game that launched this cascade of events ranged from "The scene depicts mostly clothed digital people performing sex movements" in The New York Times to "an interactive porn movie" in which animated characters "engage in a range of nude sex acts" in the Los Angeles Times.

For those who managed to crack the code and view the "mini-game" for themselves, the scene certainly was not something we would want a child to see - or a government to regulate.

Yet, regulation is just what many have on their minds. Clinton said she would propose a law making the sale of games rated M or AO to children a federal crime with a fine of $5,000.

Ironically, the usual instruments for crafting laws that might penetrate the First Amendment protections for free speech are the "voluntary" ratings schemes that entertainment industries have devised to insulate themselves from regulation. But, as the Los Angeles Times reported, Clinton's proposal "would give the force of government regulation to what are currently voluntary ratings."

Content ratings for movies, television programming, music, Internet sites and video games, among other media, provide useful information for parents wanting to protect their children from material they consider harmful.

However, ratings can be turned quickly from tool to weapon because they invite legal codification, which can translate into regulation, which translates into government power to restrict our choices when it comes to free expression.

That presents us with a choice between the power of government to control and the freedom of individuals to choose.

Although those of us who seek a less coarse, less crude culture for ourselves and our children are reluctant to characterize it this way, when we contemplate regulation of speech we consider out of bounds, our real target becomes too much freedom or the misuse of freedom.

Thus, in making that choice between our freedom and government's authority, we must take care. Certainly, freedom can be misused, but that is a choice each of us makes. If the individual exercise of that freedom is unwise, at least it is self-imposed and usually self-correcting.

On the other hand, when political power is misused to restrict or suppress speech, all of us are affected in one way or the other. That power is imposed, not chosen, and generally it is anything but self-correcting.

This midsummer madness reminds us once again that even fundamental freedoms can be hidden in the electronic code of video games and that we should restrain that impulse to surrender to others the right to restrict our rights.

Thanks for making 60-mile walk a success

To the Editor:

We would like to thank everyone who contributed financially or spiritually to make our 60-mile walk for breast cancer a success. We had a few aches, pains and blisters, but it was an AWESOME experience; I think everyone should do this! The strength and courage people with cancer have, to face each day is phenomenal – we have nothing to complain about.

The money we helped raise will help support the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation and the National Philanthropic Trust Breast Cancer Fund. It will save lives and go toward vital breast cancer research, education, screening and treatment.

Again, THANK YOU!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why are political strategists more important than the candidates?

To the Editor:

Karl Rove, the trusted behind-the-scenes political adviser to the president, is where he doesn't want to be. He is in the news. So, why is Rove such a polarizing figure, staunchly defended by Republicans and loathed by Democrats? A little history on Karl Rove may explain why.

In the early 1970s, when the president's father was the chairman of the Republican National Committee, he learned of a young man who had been accused of teaching political espionage and "dirty tricks" to college Republicans. Months later, after the news stories quieted down, the senior George Bush hired this fellow, Karl Rove, as a special assistant. Part of Rove's new job was to line up a car for George W. when he came to town. A quarter of a century later, the task of reinventing, and marketing a flawed George W. would fall to Rove. His solution would be to create "Compassionate Conservatism" and a candidate in which moderates, conservatives, and independents would each see exactly what they wanted to see.

In 1988, the senior Bush started his presidential campaign against Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis behind in the polls by 27 percentage points. The smear tactics of the late political strategist Lee Atwater destroyed Dukakis and Bush won easily. Rove, part of Atwater's team, added Atwater's dirty tricks to his own and has spent his time since thinking up new ones. It was Rove who had the idea to exploit the faith of Christian voters, having George W. use wedge issues, each one inflaming the innate human nature to judge others rather than look inward to better one's self. This compromising of Christian values for political gain violates an ethical and moral code distorting the moral compass of our country. "Love thy neighbor as thyself" is forgotten in the "win at all costs" political strategy of Rove.

Republicans are defending Karl Rove, like him or not, he is their strategic dirty trickster and their own political futures are dependent on protecting Rove. Rove is the architect who devised the winning Republican strategy in the last couple of elections. In the past, he has performed his political espionage from the shadows on unsuspecting political opponents. Now, when it has been found out that it was Rove who leaked the fact that Joseph Wilson's wife worked for the CIA, destroying her career, in an effort to discredit Wilson in his assertion that Iraq did not seek to obtain yellow cake uranium from Niger, they join Rove in trying to discredit Wilson. Outing Valerie Plame also puts at risk the careers and lives of all other CIA agents she worked with and jeopardizes our national security in a time of war. Rove told Chris Matthews that Plame was "fair game." The president's father, Bush Senior, however, doesn't seem to think so. As former head of the CIA he knows the consequences of blowing the identity of covert operators. After Wilson who had served the senior Bush administration, and had been appointed to ambassadorial posts by Bush Senior had publicly embarrassed the president, he congratulated him for his service and sympathized with him over the outing of his wife. It may be that the former president suspected Rove as in 1992 when Rove was banished from the Bush 1 re-election campaign after leaking information to Robert Novak. That Novak would knowingly out a CIA operative and threaten our National Security must infuriate the elder Bush, who, unlike his eldest son, is a careful and calculating man. Bringing Rove's political "dirty tricks" into the light of day could get the political pendulum swinging the other way. Without Rove, Bush would not be president and we would not be in the Iraq war. Without Bush's coattails and Rove's expertise, Republicans would likely not control the House and the Senate. And so, they seek to protect Rove, a man without ethics, a wolf in sheep's clothing.

While most political strategists attack on opponents weaknesses. Rove's strategy is to attack the strength of the opponent. This, in plain language, is character assassination. Bringing in a few obscure political operators to spread rumors and lies about the opponent, while building up a false personal for one's own candidate designed to fool voters and win elections, is Rove's strategy and he has proved it works. It's a sad day for American politics when political strategists are more important to winning elections than the candidates themselves and honestly debating the issues facing our nation.

Marshall Co. commissioners should be asked to explain actions

To the Editor:

Marshall County commissioners, at their Aug. 2, 2005 meeting, passed a resolution in response to the Supreme Court "Kelo vs. New London" case on eminent domain. The resolution encourages the State Legislature to use all means necessary to strengthen the original purpose of the rights of eminent domain.

The Commissioners state: "This board deems any departure from the original principles of eminent domain to be an assault on our basic foundation of liberty and a threat to the rights of private property ownership."

"This Supreme Court decision put at risk the very right of private individuals to be free from government interference in their right to keep and enjoy their private property."

Marshall County commissioners should be applauded for passing it. The only problem is that the same issue as Kelo is happening right under their noses by the Middle-Snake-Tamarac Rivers Watershed District (MSTRWD), and most of the commissioners have refused to help. The government is taking the farm and then going into farming themselves.

MTSRWD is condemning approximately 2,600 acres of land in Marshall and Polk Counties "in lieu of voluntary acquisition" for the Agassiz Valley Project. This over $6-million project is supposedly for flood control - but arguably only about 800 acres are being used directly for flood control and the balance is for the creation of wildlife habitat and nature preserves, and 640 acres, according to the watershed's plans, will be used by them for farming.

MSTRWD openly proclaims in their documents: "A portion of the project area is planned to be used to generate income either through traditional agricultural production and/or for native prairie seed production."

This issue is now in court – and a legal battle is raging. If MSTRWD is successful, no one's farmland in Marshall County – or in Minnesota – will be safe from government taking.

Marshall County commissioners, who appoint six of the seven board members of the MSTRWD, have sent a clear message that they support this project and support government taking land for farming. Consider their actions:

- Agassiz area landowners and farmers went before the county commissioners to explain this issue and plead for help. (This group includes the Northwest Minnesota Foundation and the Agassiz-Audubon Society in addition to other landowners.) The Marshall County Commissioners did not do anything.
- A formal complaint was filled with the Marshall County commissioners, which alleged wrongdoing by the MSTRWD and included the issue of wrongful condemnation. Both Roseau and Pennington County commissioners sent resolutions in support of a hearing (both have land in the MSTRWD but no right of appointment of managers). By a three-to-two vote, commissioners Boen, Bring and Vonasek voted not to have a hearing.
- Earlier this spring, the commissioners were asked to pass a resolution by several citizens that stated private land should only be taken if there is a "proven public necessity" and that land should not be condemned for "raising agricultural crops or for other general farm practices." The commissioners refused or failed to act on this resolution.
- Commissioners were asked to pass a resolution against taking or condemning land for "wildlife enhancement." Again they refused or failed to pass this resolution.
- Marshall County has a "no net land loss policy." In other words, any land acquired by a state agency – equal acres must be given to the county. Marshall County has failed or refused to enforce this policy concerning the watershed district.
- Seventy-five percent of the funding for this project is from Minnesota state bonding funds. The Office of the Legislative Auditor and the Department of Natural Resources recommended and asked for the return of over $850,000 from the MTSRWD because terms of the grant agreement were not followed. Marshall County Commissioners were simply asked to agree to a resolution that "rules and regulations of grant agreements" should be properly adhered to by MSTRWD. The Marshall County commissioners again refused or failed to adopt this resolution.
- Even more troubling, is that a year ago and just three weeks ago, the Marshall County Board voted to reappoint Board Members to the MSTRWD who strongly favor the condemnation action, using litigation to acquire land and condemning land so the watershed district can generate income through farming practices.

As a group, the Marshall County commissioners have committed the ultimate hypocrisy. (Del Ray Larson is the key dissenter.) As a group, their actions show they believe government can condemn land from farmers and landowners and then go into farming themselves.

Each county commissioner should be asked to explain why they have failed or refused to take corrective action locally on this issue. Again, the commissioners passed a great resolution – hopefully, they will implement it in their own back yard.

Respectfully,
Elden John Elseth
Warren

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

ST. HILAIRE, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA AUGUST 19, 1905

News Items

"A lot of new furniture for the schools arrived this week and is being put in place.

"Ten tons of butter in one month is not a bad showing for the St. Hilaire creamery.

"They say there was a performing bear at the train Thursday night. For further particulars, you might inquire of Leonard Holmes.

"The country roads are about the worst they have been this year and a large number of farmers are coming to town on horseback.

"The game wardens are getting busy these days trying to prevent chicken hunting before the season. Wet weather and bad roads however are doing more to keep the hunters at home.

"The sidewalks that the Great Northern is responsible for between the depot and town are about the muddiest place in town. There are cinders underneath, but on the surface it is pure mud.

"It was dry in town last Sunday, extremely dry, and about the only resort that was working was the village well and it did a big business.

"We have not been receiving any favors from the weather lately. While we have a good crop in sight, unless we have a radical change in the weather, it will be almost impossible to harvest it.

"Last Wednesday morning at Plummer fire destroyed the harness shop and dwelling of A. J. Reibe and the meat market and dwelling of A. J. Rothsten. The fire was started by a lamp exploding.

"Five of the J. R. girls enjoyed a marshmallow roast in the picnic grounds last Sunday. While in the midst of their fun three hooligans, who happened to be J. R. boys, came and helped enjoy the roast.

"Orders have been coming in thick and fast at the planer lately and they are now working a twelve hour shift. The planer crew and some of the teamsters now start at work at six o'clock in the morning and work until seven at night.

"The striking telegraphers on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific seem to have the losing side of the battle at present. Many of them have returned to work and new men have been put on. The railroads are now running their trains on time.

"A crew of Great Northern carpenters are at work this week lowering the depot and platform. This was one of the few high platforms on the line, being about four feet higher than the track. Both platform and depot will be lowered to be only one foot above the tracks.

"RED LAKE FALLS GAZETTE: A party of St. Hilaire people drove down from that place Saturday evening to attend the social dance held in the Knights of Pythias hall that evening. The following people composed the party: Misses Hannay, Grace, Cotton, Pettibone, Mrs. Pettibone, Mrs. Jens Nelson, and Messrs. Jens Nelson, Hannay, Pettibone and Grace."

From the Editorial Page

"For the past year or more a number of our exchanges have been so solicitous of our welfare as to repeatedly urge the SPECTATOR editor to get married. It is with pleasure that we are now able to state that their solicitations and good advice have not been altogether in vain, and we take pleasure in making the announcement that the SPECTATOR's foreman, Arthur P. Ittner will heed the advice and will be married next Monday to Miss Christine Torreson."

Wylie on the War Path

"CROOKSTON TIMES (Wednesday): From a reliable source it is learned this afternoon that the farmers in the vicinity of Wylie and the business men of Wylie are raising funds by the circulation of a subscription list for the purpose of endeavoring to compel the Great Northern to continue train service on the Wylie line.

"It will be remembered that some months ago the Great Northern discontinued passenger service to Wylie and sent its trains through Red Lake Falls and Greenbush via Tilden and the Northern Pacific. The change in conditions was a great blow to Wylie as the train service since that time has been of the freight variety and very irregular, according to people from that place. A session of the railroad and warehouse commission was held here to discuss the matter last spring but no change in the railroad's plans resulted.

"A thousand dollars or more will be raised to pay attorneys' fees in the action against the company, according to the reading on the lists which are being circulated and liberally signed. Congressman Steenerson of this city it is said is to be retained to fight the case for the farmers and people of Wylie. Mr. Steenerson is out of the city, being away on his summer vacation in the west, and no news of a definite nature in regard to the proceedings to be taken is available from his office. The information relative to the lists and subscriptions however comes direct from Wylie.

"The people of Wylie held a mass meeting last Thursday and elected Peter Hansel, J. G. Prior, and C. B. Cruzen a committee to go to St. Paul and lay their grievances before the state railroad and warehouse commissioners. The committee were here Thursday afternoon and state that the town and country are greatly excited over the later developments. It seems that orders have been issued to tear down the two elevators and that the work will commence in a few days. It is stated that the Romsos Brothers, who conduct a general merchandise store, and the Leppert Brothers, who run a hardware store, have made a settlement with the Great Northern and will remove to North Dakota. The other business men at Wylie and a number of farmers in the surrounding country now propose to fight and the sending of the committee to St. Paul is the first gun in the campaign. One hundred farmers and business men will each contribute ten dollars to start the ball rolling and it is intimated that an action will be brought in the courts at once."

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

50 YEARS AGO • AUGUST 17, 1955

Water Sport Show Presented By Jaycees Chapter Next Sunday

"A water sport show will be presented Sunday afternoon, August 21, beginning at 2 o'clock in and near the Tindolph park pool under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Picnickers in the park last Sunday enjoyed a preview of the show, as performers on water skis held a practice session featured by thrills and spills, giving the promise of an entertaining program Sunday.

"Starting at noon, boat rides up the river will be available at a charge of ten cents for children and 25 cents for adults. Additional rides will be offered following the program.

"The Legion municipal band will appear in concert in the park from 2 o'clock to 2:30, and will be followed by a boat parade and an open water skiing event in which all local skiers are invited to participate. Interested skiers are asked to register with Walt Kavanaugh by calling 1327.

"The remainder of the program for which no charge will be made, will consist of specialty and clown acts and stunts by small-fry skiers. Ormond Johnson, president of the Junior Chamber, invites local residents to turn out and enjoy the spectacle."

Meeting To Plan Newfolden Clinic Is Set For Friday

"Newfolden community residents have been invited to attend a meeting in the high school on Friday evening, August 19, at 8 o'clock, to discuss a proposal by the Clinic committee that the $6,127.13 now on hand in the building fund be used to begin construction on a dwelling unit to house a doctor, also providing suitable consultation rooms.

"Inasmuch as the Newfolden Civic and Commerce association is not incorporated, the committee also proposes that, in order to secure tax-exempt status for the projected building, funds on hand be turned over to Newfolden village.

"The committee recommends that a special board of directors be appointed to administer the clinic project. The report was submitted by Rev. E. J. Vick, chairman; Newell Smeby, A. O. Gudim, and C. H. Cook."

American Legion Post To Sponsor Flag Sale August 24

"A sale of flag sets to residents of Thief River Falls is being planned for Wednesday evening, August 24, according to Erwin Ferber, who is chairman of the committee for Ecklund-Holmstrom Post of the American Legion, sponsors of the project. The flag sale is conducted in accordance with the national American Legion organization's Americanism program to stimulate wider use of the American flag in the observance of all holidays. The post, with Harold M. Johnson as chairman, is holding its campaign prior to Labor Day with the hope that local residents will display their flags on that occasion."

Two County Roads Are Blacktopped

"After considerable delay due to difficulties with the base, the work of blacktopping State Aid Road [SAR] No. 2 from the south city limits approximately six miles to the intersection with SAR 1, east of St. Hilaire was completed early this week, County Engineer Joseph Seidel, announced.

"The work of applying the two and one-quarter-inch mat was carried out by the C. L. Nelson company of Brainerd.

"Seidel also stated that the county highway department has completed the application of a two-inch mat to the road past the Soo Line round house from Eighth street north to the golf club bridge over the Thief river. The project brings to an end the dust nuisance which has plagued home-owners along the heavily traveled highway."

FROM THE UPPER FALLS

THE NEWS, JOHN W. EASTMAN, PUBLISHER AUGUST 17, 1905
THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

Soo Bridge Too Low
Bridge Is Only a Temporary One
East Grand Forks Transportation Company Has Protested to Officials

"A complaint has been made to the government that the Soo railroad company has constructed a bridge across the Red river at Oslo, which obstructs navigation.

"The structure is a temporary one, owing to the inability of the company to get steel for the construction of a drawbridge, which is required by the government. Steel has been laid on the temporary wooden bridge and steamboats cannot pass beyond that point.

"The East Grand Forks Transportation company, owning a line of steamers on the Red river, have for years hauled a vast amount of grain from the country beyond Oslo and this company has filed a protest with the government against the maintenance of any bridge across the Red river that will interfere with navigation.

"The Soo line is now constructing at Ardoch, about ten miles west of the Red river, and work is being rushed as rapidly as possible in order that the road may be given an opportunity to handle a large portion of the crop from that section of the state.

"The East Grand Forks Transportation company is just as anxious to bring out a big part of the crop along the river north of Oslo and a demand for the removal of any obstructions to navigation may give the Soo company considerable trouble."

Backed Off the Ferry

"Last Saturday while crossing the Red Lake river in Louisville township, Red Lake county, Mrs. Emil LaCoursiere met with an accident that came near proving fatal.

"Mr. and Mrs. LaCoursiere were on their way to Red Lake Falls to do their trading and were crossing the river on the ferry when the accident befell them. Mrs. LaCoursiere and her child were sitting in the buggy, while Mr. LaCoursiere was handling the ferry. When about half way across, a small rope broke and frightened the horses. They backed off the boat, throwing Mrs. LaCoursiere and child into the river. The child was grabbed by its mother when the buggy went into the water and they were carried down stream fully five hundred feet before Mr. LaCoursiere could rescue them. The river is high these days and the water is extremely treacherous. It was a narrow escape from what might easily have proven a fatal accident."

Lockstep Is All Right

"C. J. Knox's colt, Lockstep, won the admiration of all at the county fair last week. Lockstep is certainly as fine a looking piece of horse flesh as anyone would desire to see and made some very good time in pacing. Several heats were done in less than 2.35 and the horse had an injured knee so the driver did not dare to force him any. The horse has been taken back to Warren where he will continue to be worked and before the season is over, he may make a very low record."

Plummer Has Its First Fire
Two Business Places Destroyed Monday Morning

"The new town of Plummer was visited by its first fire at about 4 o'clock Monday morning and two business places were destroyed. The buildings destroyed were the residence and butcher shop of John Rothstein and store building of Adolph Nelson occupied by A. C. Riebe as a harness shop and residence. Rothstein had $1,500 insurance; Nelson, $300 and Riebe, $500."

Editorial

"It is said that Thief River Falls is raising a crop of very wild young girls, and, if half of the stories floating about town are true, the situation is one that needs prompt attention upon the part of the authorities and parents in this city. If young girls, hardly in their teens and not old enough to wear long dresses, are getting drunk upon the streets, visiting houses of ill repute and otherwise conducting themselves in a shameful manner, it is about time that someone is punished. For some time there have been vague rumors of these occurrences upon the streets, but the arrest of a thirteen-year-old girl and her paramour last week has resulted in bring the matter to the attention of the public in a forcible manner. Thief River Falls is a young and growing town and, like all new places it has had what is known as a liberal policy, but, if the continuing of this policy is going to result in the ruin of the children of the town, the quicker it is stopped the better it will be for all concerned. The town cannot be made clean in one day, but a great deal in that direction would be accomplished if the resorts across the track were wiped out of existence and those who make their homes there driven out of town. School will soon open and to have these painted faced women parading the streets in front of the principal school house in town certainly has no good influence upon the children."

Newfolden

Elaine Thompson • 874-7945

Merle and Beulah Bjornrud went on a trip to Bemidji on Sunday to get acquainted with their 7th great grandchild, Abel Zion, who was born Thursday, the 4th of August. His parents are Matt and Jill Hanson. Matt is Steve and Bonnie Hanson's son. They also had a good afternoon visit with Steve and Bonnie. Bonnie had surgery for a broken bone in her right foot, so she is recuperating from that. It happened that their grandson was born at the same time she was having surgery so right after Bonnie's foot surgery, the nurse brought her in a wheel chair to see their grand baby boy Abel right after he was born. Steve and Bonnie now have three grandchildren. Where does the time go. It does not seem that many years since Steve and Bonnie were youth leaders at the EFC in Newfolden.

Private healthcare costs grew in 2004 at slowest rate since 1997

Spending for healthcare services covered by private insurance in Minnesota grew by 7.4 percent per person in 2004, according to a new report from the Health Economics Program at the Minnesota Department of Health. In each of the previous four years, spending per person had grown by between 10 and 15 percent per person. The 2004 growth rate of 7.4 percent was the slowest since 1997.

"The slowdown in healthcare spending growth is good news for families, job providers, government and all healthcare purchasers," said Gov. Tim Pawlenty. "The rising cost of healthcare is one of the most challenging issues facing our state and nation. Our administration is focused on driving reform that will encourage higher quality care, better use of technology and use of centers of excellence."

The Governor's Health Cabinet, formed in February 2004, has been charged with developing and implementing healthcare reform initiatives. The Health Cabinet is co-chaired by Cal Lundeman, commissioner of employee relations, and Kevin Goodno, commissioner of human services. It also includes Dianne Mandernach, health commissioner; Scott Brener, commissioner of labor and industry; Peggy Ingison, finance commissioner; and Glenn Wilson, commerce commissioner.

"It's still too early to tell if this represents the beginning of a long-term slowdown of cost growth, but the Governor's Health Cabinet is continuing to implement initiatives designed to keep this trend going in the right direction," said Mandernach. "If the downward trend continues, it will relieve some of the pressures consumers and businesses are experiencing from rapidly rising health insurance premiums." Mandernach noted the Health Cabinet is promoting the use of electronic health records, evidence-based healthcare guidelines and the Smart Buy Purchasing Alliance strategies for reducing healthcare costs while also improving the quality of care.

Although overall private health spending grew at a slower rate than in previous years, private health insurance premiums per person grew by 11.2 percent in 2004. The more rapid growth in insurance premiums compared to healthcare spending was likely a reflection of the fact that health plans' expenditures had been growing more rapidly than premiums for the preceding two years, resulting in some catchup premium growth in 2004. Over a period of several years, premium growth should be roughly equal in health plans' costs per person. As a result, if the slower cost growth continues, premium growth can be expected to slow as well over the next one to two years.

In addition to higher premiums, consumers have also been required to pay an increasing share of healthcare costs directly out of their own pockets in recent years, in the form of higher deductibles, co-payments and co-insurance. This trend continued in 2004 with enrollee out-of-pocket costs growing by about 15.2 percent per person, more than twice the 7.4 percent growth rate in spending per person paid for by private insurance.

The gap between healthcare cost growth and other key economic indicators such as per capita income and average wages narrowed substantially in 2004 due to both the slowdown in healthcare cost growth and stronger economic growth in Minnesota. Still, privately insured healthcare spending per person grew about 1.4 times faster than per capita income, 1.6 times faster than average wages and 2.6 times faster than inflation in 2004. The new report also analyzes the main drivers of growth in privately insured healthcare spending. The report shows that:

- "Physician services" was the only category of service that grew more slowly than the overall average from 2002 to 2004. Although physician services historically has accounted for about one-third of total spending growth, it accounted for only 11 percent of total growth from 2002 to 2004.
- Hospital services (in-patient and out-patient) accounted for 37 percent of spending growth during this period.
- Prescription drug spending, despite having grown at the slowest rate since 1998, accounted for 22 percent of total growth.
- Health plan administrative costs accounted for 10.1 percent of private insurance spending per person in 2004, an increase of 1.2 percentage points over 2003; however, administrative spending is still well below the historic average of 11 to 13 percent experienced over the last decade. The primary drivers of increased administrative spending were product management and marketing, claim processing, and spending for wellness and health education.

Sixty-one new laws went into effect Aug.1, 2005

Employment

Pay increase on the way The approximately 50,000 Minnesotans who earn minimum wage are going to receive a pay raise.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, a new law requires employers with annual gross sales of at least $625,000 to increase the minimum wage from $5.15 an hour to $6.15 an hour. Employers with annual gross sales less than $625,000 will need to increase the minimum wage from $4.90 an hour to $5.25 an hour. Employers will be able to pay employees under 20 years of age $4.90 an hour for the first 90 consecutive days of employment.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, the federal minimum wage for covered, nonexempt employees is $5.15 an hour.

The state's last minimum wage increase for employees of larger companies was Sept. 1, 1997, and Jan. 1, 1998, for employees of smaller companies.

Migrant worker violations increased Failure to pay migrant workers their required wages and benefits will cost employers more in penalties, under a new law.

The law will increase from $250 to $500 the penalty for employers who fail to comply with the terms of an employment statement provided to a migrant worker and with statutory requirements for the payment of migrant workers. The penalty will also apply to employers who fail to pay wages to migrant workers within the time period required by law, such as paychecks every two weeks.

Employers who fail to pay wages on time after employment is terminated will also face increased penalties. Current law requires a discharged employee who lives away from home to be paid within 24 hours, and makes employers who do not comply with this requirement liable for the employee's reasonable expenses for remaining away from home.

Under new law, if wages are not paid within two days of employment termination, the employer will have to pay the employee two times the average amount of his or her daily wage from the time of termination until payment has been made in full. The time frame for employers to provide benefits or wage supplements due to employees will be reduced. Formerly, employers would face a gross misdemeanor if they failed to provide the benefits within 60 days after they were due. The new law shortens the time period to 30 days.

Environment

Great horned owl protection clarified A new law clarifies the protected status of great horned owls in Minnesota.

Currently, great horned owls appear on Minnesota's unprotected birds list, along with such avian cousins as sparrows, blackbirds and pigeons.

Great horned owls are, however, protected under the federal Migratory Bird Treaty Act. Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the new law will remove the great horned owl from the state's unprotected bird list in an attempt to alleviate the confusion some conservation officers and others have had over the classification.

The new law also clarifies that a person who is authorized to take a great horned owl under a federal permit does not need a state permit, as well.

Omnibus provisions A new omnibus agriculture, environment and jobs and economic development law, sponsored by Rep. Dennis Ozment (R-Rosemount) and Sen. Thomas M. Bakk (DFL-Cook), has some Aug. 1, 2005, provisions.

Livestock siting provisions under the new law will place counties and townships on the same timeline for notifying the Pollution Control Agency and Agriculture Department of new or amended feedlot ordinances. (Art. 1, Sec. 90)

A township or county looking to adopt or revise feedlot ordinances would be required to prepare an economic impact statement at the request of its governing board.

The new law allows, under a Natural Resources Department forest classification process, state forest land north of U.S. Highway 2 to remain classified as managed for the purposes of off-highway vehicle use. Legislation in 2003 required the department to take an inventory of all state forests and by 2007 change their designation from managed, meaning trails are open unless posted closed, to limited, meaning trails are closed unless posted open. (Art. 2, Sec. 152)

And it directs the department to establish an off-highway vehicle safety and conservation grant program to encourage vehicle clubs to participate in safety and environmental training. (Art. 2, Sec. 28) The law specifies that boat trailers could be subject to seizure and forfeiture by the department because of a DWI arrest. (Art. 2, Sec. 139)

Also, the Pollution Control Agency and Office of Environmental Assistance is merged into one department. The new entity will be known as the Department of Environmental Protection. (Art. 2, Sec. 160)

Family

Birth certificates available for stillborns Parents of stillborn children will be able to receive a birth certificate, under a new law.

Under former law, parents of stillborns in Minnesota could only receive a death certificate.

The law, effective Aug. 1, 2005, is intended to help families deal with the grief of losing an infant.

Sponsored by Rep. Karen Klinzing (R-Woodbury) and Sen. Ellen R. Anderson (DFL-St. Paul), it requires those responsible for filing a fetal death report to advise parents that they can request a record of birth, inform them the record is optional and explain how to obtain a record if they want one.

The state registrar is required to prepare and file, within 30 days, a record of birth if one is requested.

The law makes birth certificates for stillborns retroactive. A stillbirth that occurred in Minnesota at any time is eligible for a birth certificate by the parents submitting a written request to the state registrar on or after Aug. 1, 2005.

Health

Two high profile provisions take effect An omnibus health and human services law contains a couple of high profile provisions that take effect Aug. 1, 2005:

- A controversial 75-cent per pack "health impact fee" on cigarettes will be imposed on tobacco distributors. The fee is expected to garner $401 million in revenues that will be credited to a newly created health impact fund. According to the law, the purpose of the fee is to recover costs related to or caused by tobacco use and to reduce the use of tobacco, especially by youths. A stamp on the cigarette packs will show that the fee has been paid. (Art. 4, Secs. 1-6)
- The so-called "Unborn Child Pain Prevention Act" will require a physician or physician's agent to inform a woman if an anesthetic would eliminate or alleviate pain to an unborn child caused by an abortion. The law would apply to abortions performed after 20 weeks gestational. The physician will be required to administer or arrange to have the anesthetic or analgesic administered, if the woman consents.

Students can possess some medications When headaches, menstrual cramps or other pains strike, secondary students will be able to take pills like Tylenol® or Motrin® on their own.

A new law, effective Aug. 1, 2005, allows older students to possess nonprescription pain relief drugs and use them according to label instructions without having to go to the nurse's office, as was previously required.

Parents or guardians will have to provide annual written authorization before their children will be able to take over-the-counter drugs on their own. The school district can revoke this privilege if a student abuses it.

Cold and allergy medications that contain ephedrine or pseudoephedrine, ingredients commonly used in the production of methamphetamine, are excluded from the provision.

Rep. Karen Klinzing (R-Woodbury) and Sen. Mady Reiter (R-Shoreview) sponsored the law. HF615/SF232*/CH126

Death certificate request expanded A new law will permit siblings to request a death certificate for a brother or sister.

Under previous law, the state or local registrar could only issue a certified birth or death record or a statement of no vital record found to a person who has a "tangible interest in the requested record," which was limited to the person of the vital record and their children, spouse, parent, grandparent or grandchild. The law does not address birth certificates.

Human Services

Law changes disabled terminology A new law changes terms in state statute like "mental retardation," "mentally retarded" and "handicapped persons" to terminology more desirable to those with disabilities, such as "disabled persons."

The changes, of which there are nearly 400 in state law, would fall in line with a national campaign called "The People First," that advocates for changes in descriptions of disabled persons.

Local Government

No rules against flag flying People wanting to fly the American or state flag outside their common interest property, such as a town home, can do so without fear of violating homeowner association's covenants.

A new law, effective Aug. 1, 2005, makes unenforceable "any provision of any deed restriction, subdivision regulation, restrictive covenant, local ordinance, contract, rental agreement, or homeowners association document" that restricts the flying of the American or state flag.

The law does not prohibit an association from placing a size limitation on the flag to be flown, regulating where on the person's property it can be displayed and whether it can be illuminated. A residential property owner or tenant who is denied the right to install a flag in compliance with association regulations and has to bring a lawsuit, may be entitled to recover reasonable attorney fees and expenses. However, if the flag is installed in violation of association restrictions or limitations, the party enforcing the restrictions is entitled to recover, from the party displaying the flag, reasonable attorney fees and expenses.

Recreation

Camping allowed on state fairgrounds Camping on the state fairgrounds will be preserved, under a new law.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the new law cements a compromise between the Department of Health and fair officials regarding space between campsites and public safety vehicle access.

Under the new law, the fair must operate a camping area on the fairgrounds. Camping will be allowed under the following conditions:

- RVs and tents must be separated from each other and from other structures by at least 7 feet,
- a minimum area of 300 square feet per site must be provided and the total number of sites must not exceed one site for every 300 square feet of usable land, and
- each site must face a driveway at least 16 feet in width with unobstructed access to a public roadway.

Furthermore, the new law clarifies that livestock and Midway exhibitors, who need to stay close to their operation, will be able to catch a few winks in their cars. During the state fair, a person may sleep in a vehicle in a designated fairground parking lot if they have a valid exhibitor parking permit.

Cave explorer responsibility People that go rock-climbing or cave exploring on private property, even with the landowner's permission, will be held more responsible if there is an accident, under a new law.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the law adds rock climbing and cave exploration to the list of activities where a landowner making property available for recreational activities, without charge, has less responsibility to prevent individuals from harming themselves.

Rep. Gregory M. Davids (R-Preston) and Sen. Mady Reiter (R-Shoreview) are the sponsors.

Davids sponsored a similar law one year prior, but Gov. Tim Pawlenty vetoed the measure in the wake of the April 27, 2004, deaths of three teenagers from carbon monoxide poisoning in St. Paul caves near the Mississippi River. Pawlenty said at the time, "We've seen, first-hand, the dangers involved in cave exploration. This bill could decrease precautions to avoid tragedy in the future."

Safety

Vehicle inspection quotas prohibited Quotas for issuing traffic and vehicle inspection citations will further be prohibited, under a new law.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the new law expands current statute, which applies only to the Minnesota State Patrol. It prohibits law enforcement agencies, in addition to the state patrol, from requiring troopers, commercial vehicle inspectors or law enforcement representatives to issue a certain number of citations over any given period of time.

Transportation

Notable provisions within the new omnibus transportation law that take effect Aug. 1, 2005, include:

- Fines for driving 20 mph or more over the posted speed limit will result in an additional surcharge of at least $25;
- A person's driver's license will be immediately revoked for six months if the person drives in excess of 100 mph; and-
- Motor vehicle registration and transfer fees are increased from $4 to $10.

Sandra Morrison takes the oath of office in the community of Newfolden

Friday, Aug. 19, Gloria Hauge, manager of United States Postal Service Post (USPS) Office Operations for the Dakota District, administered the oath of office to Newfolden's new postmaster, Sandra Morrison.

Morrison has been employed by the USPS since July of 1997. While employed by USPS, she served at Wahpeton for six years and most recently Red Lake Falls. She assumed the duties of postmaster at Newfolden after Pat Passa retired. Passa had been employed by the USPS for 35 years.

The oath of office makes it official for Morrison. Hauge said the job comes with serious responsibilities.

Morrison said, "the job comes with a lot of responsibility - security and confidentiality among many others, but I do enjoy it."

In addition to Morrison, there are five employees at Newfolden Post Office - two rural carriers, two rural carrier associates, and one postmaster relief. The post office serves approximately 596 people.

As summer turns to fall, Morrison reminds residents that they can help their postal carrier by making sure their mailboxes are in good repair, clear of ice and snow, and that their dogs are secure.

Morrison is looking forward to a long career with USPS in Newfolden. "I'm quite happy here. This is a nice community," said Morrison.

Morrison and her husband Bryan live in Red Lake Falls. Bryan is employed at Digi-Key in Thief River Falls so Morrision said they share a ride every day. Their son, Bryce, is stationed in Washington, DC, with the United States Navy. Their daughter, Brianna, 17, is a senior at Red Lake Falls Lafayette High School, but she is taking advantage of post secondary enrollment options and is enrolled at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Rail project could lessen traffic delays

The summer construction season finds Canadian Pacific Rail (CPR) working on its improvement projects in this area. One local project may decrease the time drivers spend stuck in traffic.

Two projects are in the process of being completed in the Thief River Falls area. One of the projects is expected to influence the amount of time drivers wait for trains at the Eighth Street railroad crossing.

For that project, CPR is extending two-yard lead tracks in the city. The project includes work near the Thief River Golf Club. The work began Aug. 8 and is expected to be finished by the end of November, said Laura Baenen, CPR communications manager for the Midwest.

In the past, Baenen noted, the railcars had to be split up and then the cars would have to be backed onto the tracks. With this project, that won't be the case. "It should speed up trains to get into town," Baenen said.

As a result, drivers will spend less time waiting for trains. "It should be blocking the Eighth Street crossing less," Baenen said.

Drivers who travel along Eighth Street will probably be glad about the possibility of spending less time in traffic. Gloria Reierson, who

This article is the second in a series of articles looking at the soon-to-be constructed Wal-Mart Supercenter.

No matter who one talks to in Thief River Falls, it seems everyone has an opinion about Wal-Mart. Some are opposed to it, some advocate having a Wal-Mart and some say they have no strong feelings about it.

"I'm not against progress for the community, but I'm concerned," said Elaine Grovum, whose home is located near the future Wal-Mart site along Nelson Drive and Highway 59 Southeast.

In April, a Wal-Mart representative expected that the store may be open in spring 2006 at the earliest. Construction work began in July at the site. The 155,000-square-foot store will sell clothing, food and other merchandise. It will include a tire lube express service and garden center. A Murphy Oil Corp. gas station will be located on another nearby parcel. A third parcel for another business is also located at that site.

County Commission

Despite departure Comstock continues to serve

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Though he has not resigned from his position as Pennington County commissioner, Arden "Bud" Comstock has left Thief River Falls to pursue a career opportunity.

Arden "Bud" Comstock

Comstock informed Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson of his decision to leave Thief River Falls for an unknown duration on Tuesday, Aug. 16, stating that he would be leaving for Florida on Wednesday (Aug. 17).

"It was a surprise to me," Olson said, noting that Comstock had admitted in previous discussions that he was considering job leads in Florida. Based on those discussions, Olson was led to believe that Comstock would continue his service as a county commissioner until Jan. 1, 2006 – then resign his position at that time.

Minnesota Statute Chapter 351.02 states several happenings that may lead to the vacancy of an elected county office. Among them is an item that states an incumbent may be removed if he/she ceases to be an inhabitant of the county or city for which he/she was elected or appointed. That may not be the case for Comstock, who still has a Thief River Falls address.

Lundeen Farms

County's Outstanding Conservationists

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Just one year after celebrating its centennial, Lundeen Farms of Deer Park Township has been named Outstanding Conservationist for Pennington County. Represented by Kelly and Connie Lundeen, Lundeen Farms will be recognized at the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District's (SWCD) annual banquet in the spring of 2006.

This isn't the first time in the farm's 101-year history that it has been recognized for conservation efforts. In 1968 the same farm, represented by Kelly's father Darrow, earned outstanding conservation honors. Gary and Joann Lundeen, Kelly and Connie Lundeen and Eric Reinbold, make up what is today called Lundeen Farms.

Farming practices have changed greatly since the last time Lundeen Farms' conservation efforts were recognized by the Pennington SWCD. Organic farming is increasing in popularity, farms are typically much larger and farmers specialize in crops or livestock but rarely both.

All are true with Lundeen Farms, which has grown in size, practices some organic farming and sold its livestock in the fall of 1995, remaining a grain farm since then.

Lundeen Farms has been chosen as Outstanding Conservationists by the Pennington SWCD, because of the farm's participation in several conservation programs that deal with forestry, wind erosion prevention, cropland management, pest management, wetland restoration and management and wildlife practices.

Sixty-one new laws went into effect Aug.1, 2005

Employment

Pay increase on the way The approximately 50,000 Minnesotans who earn minimum wage are going to receive a pay raise.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, a new law requires employers with annual gross sales of at least $625,000 to increase the minimum wage from $5.15 an hour to $6.15 an hour. Employers with annual gross sales less than $625,000 will need to increase the minimum wage from $4.90 an hour to $5.25 an hour. Employers will be able to pay employees under 20 years of age $4.90 an hour for the first 90 consecutive days of employment.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, the federal minimum wage for covered, nonexempt employees is $5.15 an hour.

The state's last minimum wage increase for employees of larger companies was Sept. 1, 1997, and Jan. 1, 1998, for employees of smaller companies.

Migrant worker violations increased Failure to pay migrant workers their required wages and benefits will cost employers more in penalties, under a new law.

The law will increase from $250 to $500 the penalty for employers who fail to comply with the terms of an employment statement provided to a migrant worker and with statutory requirements for the payment of migrant workers. The penalty will also apply to employers who fail to pay wages to migrant workers within the time period required by law, such as paychecks every two weeks.

Employers who fail to pay wages on time after employment is terminated will also face increased penalties. Current law requires a discharged employee who lives away from home to be paid within 24 hours, and makes employers who do not comply with this requirement liable for the employee's reasonable expenses for remaining away from home.

Under new law, if wages are not paid within two days of employment termination, the employer will have to pay the employee two times the average amount of his or her daily wage from the time of termination until payment has been made in full. The time frame for employers to provide benefits or wage supplements due to employees will be reduced. Formerly, employers would face a gross misdemeanor if they failed to provide the benefits within 60 days after they were due. The new law shortens the time period to 30 days.

Environment

Great horned owl protection clarified A new law clarifies the protected status of great horned owls in Minnesota.

Currently, great horned owls appear on Minnesota's unprotected birds list, along with such avian cousins as sparrows, blackbirds and pigeons.

Great horned owls are, however, protected under the federal Migratory Bird Treaty Act. Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the new law will remove the great horned owl from the state's unprotected bird list in an attempt to alleviate the confusion some conservation officers and others have had over the classification.

The new law also clarifies that a person who is authorized to take a great horned owl under a federal permit does not need a state permit, as well.

Omnibus provisions A new omnibus agriculture, environment and jobs and economic development law, sponsored by Rep. Dennis Ozment (R-Rosemount) and Sen. Thomas M. Bakk (DFL-Cook), has some Aug. 1, 2005, provisions.

Livestock siting provisions under the new law will place counties and townships on the same timeline for notifying the Pollution Control Agency and Agriculture Department of new or amended feedlot ordinances. (Art. 1, Sec. 90)

A township or county looking to adopt or revise feedlot ordinances would be required to prepare an economic impact statement at the request of its governing board.

The new law allows, under a Natural Resources Department forest classification process, state forest land north of U.S. Highway 2 to remain classified as managed for the purposes of off-highway vehicle use. Legislation in 2003 required the department to take an inventory of all state forests and by 2007 change their designation from managed, meaning trails are open unless posted closed, to limited, meaning trails are closed unless posted open. (Art. 2, Sec. 152)

And it directs the department to establish an off-highway vehicle safety and conservation grant program to encourage vehicle clubs to participate in safety and environmental training. (Art. 2, Sec. 28) The law specifies that boat trailers could be subject to seizure and forfeiture by the department because of a DWI arrest. (Art. 2, Sec. 139)

Also, the Pollution Control Agency and Office of Environmental Assistance is merged into one department. The new entity will be known as the Department of Environmental Protection. (Art. 2, Sec. 160)

Family

Birth certificates available for stillborns Parents of stillborn children will be able to receive a birth certificate, under a new law.

Under former law, parents of stillborns in Minnesota could only receive a death certificate.

The law, effective Aug. 1, 2005, is intended to help families deal with the grief of losing an infant.

Sponsored by Rep. Karen Klinzing (R-Woodbury) and Sen. Ellen R. Anderson (DFL-St. Paul), it requires those responsible for filing a fetal death report to advise parents that they can request a record of birth, inform them the record is optional and explain how to obtain a record if they want one.

The state registrar is required to prepare and file, within 30 days, a record of birth if one is requested.

The law makes birth certificates for stillborns retroactive. A stillbirth that occurred in Minnesota at any time is eligible for a birth certificate by the parents submitting a written request to the state registrar on or after Aug. 1, 2005.

Health

Two high profile provisions take effect An omnibus health and human services law contains a couple of high profile provisions that take effect Aug. 1, 2005:

- A controversial 75-cent per pack "health impact fee" on cigarettes will be imposed on tobacco distributors. The fee is expected to garner $401 million in revenues that will be credited to a newly created health impact fund. According to the law, the purpose of the fee is to recover costs related to or caused by tobacco use and to reduce the use of tobacco, especially by youths. A stamp on the cigarette packs will show that the fee has been paid. (Art. 4, Secs. 1-6)
- The so-called "Unborn Child Pain Prevention Act" will require a physician or physician's agent to inform a woman if an anesthetic would eliminate or alleviate pain to an unborn child caused by an abortion. The law would apply to abortions performed after 20 weeks gestational. The physician will be required to administer or arrange to have the anesthetic or analgesic administered, if the woman consents.

Students can possess some medications When headaches, menstrual cramps or other pains strike, secondary students will be able to take pills like Tylenol® or Motrin® on their own.

A new law, effective Aug. 1, 2005, allows older students to possess nonprescription pain relief drugs and use them according to label instructions without having to go to the nurse's office, as was previously required.

Parents or guardians will have to provide annual written authorization before their children will be able to take over-the-counter drugs on their own. The school district can revoke this privilege if a student abuses it.

Cold and allergy medications that contain ephedrine or pseudoephedrine, ingredients commonly used in the production of methamphetamine, are excluded from the provision.

Rep. Karen Klinzing (R-Woodbury) and Sen. Mady Reiter (R-Shoreview) sponsored the law. HF615/SF232*/CH126

Death certificate request expanded A new law will permit siblings to request a death certificate for a brother or sister.

Under previous law, the state or local registrar could only issue a certified birth or death record or a statement of no vital record found to a person who has a "tangible interest in the requested record," which was limited to the person of the vital record and their children, spouse, parent, grandparent or grandchild. The law does not address birth certificates.

Human Services

Law changes disabled terminology A new law changes terms in state statute like "mental retardation," "mentally retarded" and "handicapped persons" to terminology more desirable to those with disabilities, such as "disabled persons."

The changes, of which there are nearly 400 in state law, would fall in line with a national campaign called "The People First," that advocates for changes in descriptions of disabled persons.

Local Government

No rules against flag flying People wanting to fly the American or state flag outside their common interest property, such as a town home, can do so without fear of violating homeowner association's covenants.

A new law, effective Aug. 1, 2005, makes unenforceable "any provision of any deed restriction, subdivision regulation, restrictive covenant, local ordinance, contract, rental agreement, or homeowners association document" that restricts the flying of the American or state flag.

The law does not prohibit an association from placing a size limitation on the flag to be flown, regulating where on the person's property it can be displayed and whether it can be illuminated. A residential property owner or tenant who is denied the right to install a flag in compliance with association regulations and has to bring a lawsuit, may be entitled to recover reasonable attorney fees and expenses. However, if the flag is installed in violation of association restrictions or limitations, the party enforcing the restrictions is entitled to recover, from the party displaying the flag, reasonable attorney fees and expenses.

Recreation

Camping allowed on state fairgrounds Camping on the state fairgrounds will be preserved, under a new law.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the new law cements a compromise between the Department of Health and fair officials regarding space between campsites and public safety vehicle access.

Under the new law, the fair must operate a camping area on the fairgrounds. Camping will be allowed under the following conditions:

- RVs and tents must be separated from each other and from other structures by at least 7 feet,
- a minimum area of 300 square feet per site must be provided and the total number of sites must not exceed one site for every 300 square feet of usable land, and
- each site must face a driveway at least 16 feet in width with unobstructed access to a public roadway.

Furthermore, the new law clarifies that livestock and Midway exhibitors, who need to stay close to their operation, will be able to catch a few winks in their cars. During the state fair, a person may sleep in a vehicle in a designated fairground parking lot if they have a valid exhibitor parking permit.

Cave explorer responsibility People that go rock-climbing or cave exploring on private property, even with the landowner's permission, will be held more responsible if there is an accident, under a new law.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the law adds rock climbing and cave exploration to the list of activities where a landowner making property available for recreational activities, without charge, has less responsibility to prevent individuals from harming themselves.

Rep. Gregory M. Davids (R-Preston) and Sen. Mady Reiter (R-Shoreview) are the sponsors.

Davids sponsored a similar law one year prior, but Gov. Tim Pawlenty vetoed the measure in the wake of the April 27, 2004, deaths of three teenagers from carbon monoxide poisoning in St. Paul caves near the Mississippi River. Pawlenty said at the time, "We've seen, first-hand, the dangers involved in cave exploration. This bill could decrease precautions to avoid tragedy in the future."

Safety

Vehicle inspection quotas prohibited Quotas for issuing traffic and vehicle inspection citations will further be prohibited, under a new law.

Effective Aug. 1, 2005, the new law expands current statute, which applies only to the Minnesota State Patrol. It prohibits law enforcement agencies, in addition to the state patrol, from requiring troopers, commercial vehicle inspectors or law enforcement representatives to issue a certain number of citations over any given period of time.

Transportation

Notable provisions within the new omnibus transportation law that take effect Aug. 1, 2005, include:

- Fines for driving 20 mph or more over the posted speed limit will result in an additional surcharge of at least $25;
- A person's driver's license will be immediately revoked for six months if the person drives in excess of 100 mph; and
- Motor vehicle registration and transfer fees are increased from $4 to $10.

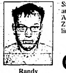
Lancaster man faces criminal sexual conduct charge

A Lancaster man has been charged after allegedly inappropriately touching a juvenile female.



Randy Schmiedeberg

Randy Ray Schmiedeberg, 51, has been charged in Kittson County District Court with first degree criminal sexual conduct. He made his initial court appearance Tuesday, according to Kittson County Attorney Roger Malm.

The charge stems from an Aug. 5 report of a possible sexual assault. However, the criminal complaint indicated Kittson County law enforcement was unable to determine whether "an incident had, in fact, occurred or who the victim might be." On Friday, law enforcement learned such an incident had allegedly occurred July 25.

At that time, Schmiedeberg and a female under the age of 16 were in a vehicle traveling on County Road 10 in Kittson County. Schmiedeberg then drove onto 220th Street in Pelan Township. Schmiedeberg allegedly grabbed the female's hand and forced her to touch his genitals, according to the complaint. He then allegedly got on top of her and inappropriately touched the female in her vaginal area.

The maximum penalty for first degree criminal sexual conduct is 30 years in prison, a $40,000 fine or both.

Duane Edwin Lindquist, 72, East Grand Forks, and Harold Plett Dueck, 41, Neepawa, Manitoba, Canada, were taken to First Care Hospital in Fosston. The hospital incorrectly cited confidentiality issues in refusing to give The Times information on the status of Lindquist and Dueck.

At the time of the accident, Lindquist was driving a 2002 PT Cruiser southbound on 350th Avenue, and Dueck was driving a 1996 Chevy Astro eastbound on Highway 2. According to the report, Lindquist failed to yield to Dueck. Lindquist's vehicle sustained extensive damage, and Dueck's vehicle was totalled. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 12:39 p.m. Friday.

At the time of the accident, Matthew Brian Singh, 24, Clearbrook, was driving a 1997 Plymouth Neon eastbound on Highway 2, and John Brian Spina, 72, Roseau, was exiting a parking lot at Pete's Place. Spina attempted to cross Highway 2 and proceed north onto Highway 89. According to the report, Spina pulled into the path of the Singh vehicle. Singh's vehicle sustained moderate damage. The report did not list how much damage the Spina vehicle sustained. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 1:49 p.m. Friday.

Good Samaritan helps accident victim and TRF police

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Mei Sather is modest when it comes to the help she provided to an accident victim and police Aug. 15 in Thief River Falls.

"I did what I should," the Thief River Falls resident said.

Mei Sather

And the Thief River Falls Police Department appreciates her help. "It was very helpful and appreciated by us for her to show up and speak Chinese with this elderly lady," said Tim Miller, an investigator with the police department, who noted Sather acted as a translator between police and the accident victim. He added that Sather also comforted the accident victim.

On that morning, Sather and her young son, Richard, were on their way to Fargo, N.D. A half an hour before leaving, Sather called her friend Nu Zhu, who, Sather said, is like a family member to her. They talked. Shortly thereafter, Sather left her home, and Zhu left hers.

Sather soon saw a police car with its lights and sirens activated. She pulled over to let the police officer pass her. As she approached the intersection of Third Street and Atlantic Avenue, Sather saw the lights of emergency vehicles.

"From the far distance, I saw a lady on the floor," said Sather, who, out of curiosity, looked at the accident scene.

What she saw shocked her. "We slowed down, and I said, 'Oh my, I know who she is,'" Sather recalled.

It was Zhu.

Upon seeing Zhu, Sather knew she had to "jump out" of her vehicle. "My first response is she doesn't speak English," Sather said.

Sather knew Zhu would need help in communicating with the police officers. As a nurse practitioner, she also knew she may be able to help in other ways. Before she made her way to the accident scene, she told her son to stay in the vehicle.

Sather approached the accident scene. "I just tried to calm her, and I also tried to reach her family," Sather said.

At the time of the accident, about 10 a.m. Aug. 15, Zhu was riding a bicycle in the crosswalk at the intersection of Third Street and Atlantic Avenue. Carol Marie Johnson of Thief River Falls was driving her 2000 Buick Park Avenue on Atlantic Avenue. According to the report, Johnson said she slowly moved into the crosswalk to turn east onto Third Street. Her vehicle then struck Zhu.

The police were called and arrived at the scene. Shortly thereafter, before the ambulance arrived, Sather happened to be driving by that intersection.

"I knew she was scared," said Sather, who noted Zhu's eyes were not open. However, Zhu was conscious and tightly held onto Sather's hands.

Sather served as a translator between police officers and Zhu. Sather, who grew up in Taiwan, can speak Mandarin Chinese. She spoke in that dialect to Zhu, who grew up in China.

Sather asked Zhu about any allergies and her past medical history. Sather knew Zhu was in pain just by the way she was breathing and talking, Sather recalled. She didn't want Zhu to lose consciousness, so she continued to talk to her until an ambulance arrived.

"I think anybody would do the same thing," Sather said.

Zhu was taken to Northwest Medical Center (NWMC). She was treated and released from the hospital, according to the NWMC nursing director.

Zhu is fine, but in "lots of pain," Sather said. Zhu did not suffer any major injuries from her accident. Sather noted that Zhu was told to go back to the hospital for a checkup in a few weeks.

Even though what she did brought comfort to Zhu and helped police officers, Sather said, "I didn't do anything special."

Woman faces charges, others may have charges pending in burglary

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

One person faces charges and three juveniles may have charges pending in connection with a burglary Aug. 17 in Pennington County.

Alicia Rae Hardy, 20, Red Lake, has been charged with first degree burglary, second degree assault and felony theft. Three other people – all juveniles – may have charges pending in connection with the case, but no further information was available from the Pennington County Sheriff's Department or Pennington County Attorney's Office.

The charges stem from an Aug. 17 report to the sheriff's department of a burglary and vehicle theft in the 28000 block of Center St. E. At 6:13 p.m., a caller had reported that two people went to a residence and found four people who did not belong at the residence. Two of the people, a juvenile male and a 13-year-old Red Lake female, allegedly ran into a wooded area. The other individuals allegedly said they didn't have any gasoline for their vehicle.

Hardy was allegedly carrying a hammer, according to Assistant Pennington County Attorney Al Rogalla. The sheriff's department report indicated Hardy allegedly stayed in the house and told a woman she needed a drink of water. Hardy allegedly stole the keys to a car, so the woman exited the home and left with a man to call the sheriff's department.

Upon returning, they found a 1997 Pontiac Firebird was stolen. Also missing were a fuel can and at least three guns – a .357-caliber stainless steel Ruger, a nickel-plated .32 Special and stainless steel .22 caliber Ruger revolver. The report did not list whether the guns were found.

At 7:50 p.m. – almost an hour later – the sheriff's department learned the vehicle had been recovered in Red Lake. Hardy was allegedly behind the wheel and she had another person in the vehicle with her. It is believed that that person was not involved in the alleged theft and burglary. The resident's credit card was allegedly found in the vehicle, according to the sheriff's department report. The hammer was also allegedly found in the vehicle, Rogalla said. The sheriff's department report did not indicate whether the vehicle was damaged.

Witnesses reported seeing two allegedly wet and muddy juveniles near the residence after the burglary was reported. The juveniles later hitchhiked and were picked up by a passer-by. The vehicle was stopped by law enforcement, and the juveniles were taken into custody.

The sheriff's department report did not indicate what happened to the second juvenile male who is believed to have allegedly remained at the home when Hardy was there.

The incident remains under investigation.

Remember to stop for the red lights of a school bus

It's that time of year again – time to watch for school buses that are stopping to pick up students.

Last year, Thief River Falls police officers ticketed individuals for 13 stop-arm violations, according to Deputy Police Chief Craig Mattson. If drivers follow these laws, they won't have to be worried about those other red lights:

- Flashing yellow lights – Flashing yellow lights will be activated at least 100 feet before a school bus stop in a speed zone of 35 miles per hour or less and at least 300 feet before it stops in a speed zone of more than 35 miles per hour. The flashing yellow lights (at the top of the bus) warn motorists that the school bus is about to stop to either load or unload children. It is against the law to pass on the right side of the school bus while it is displaying flashing red or yellow lights.
- Flashing red lights – Flashing red lights warn motorists that the school bus is loading and unloading students. When a school bus is stopped with its red lights flashing and its stop arm extended, drivers must stop their vehicles at least 20 feet from the bus. Oncoming traffic and motorists approaching the bus from the rear may not move until the stop arm is retracted and the red lights are no longer flashing. Drivers are guilty of misdemeanors if they break this law. The penalty for this violation is a fine of not less than $300 and the person's driver's license may be suspended.
- Exception for separated roads – Drivers are not required to stop for school buses with their red lights flashing if the buses are on the opposite sides of a road that is separated by a safety isle or zone. The safety isle or zone includes a grass median or cement barriers. Painted stripes on a roadway are NOT considered a safety isle or zone.
- Passing a school bus – It is illegal to pass a school bus on the right side when its red lights are flashing and its stop arm is extended. It is also illegal to pass a school bus on either side when one or more children are outside of the bus while the red lights are flashing and the stop arm is extended. A law enforcement officer with probable cause to believe a driver has violated this law may arrest the driver within four hours of the violation.
- Vehicle owners may be penalized – When a vehicle is used to violate the school bus stop-arm law, the owner or lessee of the vehicle is guilty of a petty misdemeanor. However, if the owner or lessee of the vehicle can prove that another person was driving the vehicle at the time of the stop-arm violation, the driver – not the owner or lessee – will be charged with the violation.

Consumer information provided for military families

In support of Minnesota's 2,600 National Guard soldiers who will soon be mobilized for Operation Iraqi Freedom, Commerce Commissioner Glenn Wilson said Friday that the Minnesota Department of Commerce (MDC) Web site will include insurance and financial information especially for service members.

"First and foremost, we need to say 'thank you' to the men and women who have volunteered to serve our country in the National Guard and the Reserves. We must not forget their sacrifice, commitment and patriotism," said Wilson. "As they prepare for their deployment, each service member will be assessing their financial situation to make some necessary decisions. We want to make sure they have some information to help them in that process."

The MDC is the state regulator of insurance, mortgage, real estate, debt collection and other financial service industries. Minnesota and federal law have certain provisions for military personnel, including:

- A reduction of interest rates to 6 percent on mortgage or other loans.
- Waiver of license renewal procedures for insurance agents who are unable to comply because of military service.
- Deferment of certain private life insurance premiums and other payments for the period of military service.
- Reinstatement of health insurance if coverage was terminated, canceled or not renewed during active duty.

Details on these provisions can be found on the MDC Web site (www.commerce.state.mn.us). The information is intended to be helpful before, during and after deployment, but it is not a complete list of rights and benefits under state or federal law. Service members should contact their units' judge advocate for more information and counsel about their particular situations.

"Most lenders and insurance companies are very supportive of National Guard members and reservists, especially during deployment," said Assistant Commerce Commissioner Thomas Hagen, who is also a major and judge advocate in the Minnesota National Guard. "The Commerce Department has been able to help several families recently. In one case, the pregnant wife of a soldier stationed in Iraq was having trouble with their mortgage. She contacted the department, and we reminded the company of its obligations under the law. As a result, the interest rate was reduced from 7.075 percent to 6 percent, and a payment plan was established for homeowners insurance."

Military families encountering problems or disputes involving insurance, real estate, mortgages or any of the other industries regulated by the MDC should feel free to contact the department at 1-800-657-3602 (Minnesota only); (651) 296-2488; (651) 296-4328 FAX; or market.assurance@state.mn.us.

Living in a small town

(When you grow up in a small town like ours, there are certain things that make that small town similar to every other small town in the U.S. Here are some of those similarities. They all might not be true now, but most of them were when I was growing up. Am I right, or am I right?)

You know you grew up in a small town when...

- You can name everybody you graduated with.
- You know what 4-H means.
- You went to parties in a pasture, barn, gravel pit, or in the middle of a dirt road. On Monday you could always tell who was at the party because of the scratches on their legs from running through the woods when the party was busted.
- You used to "drag" Main Street.
- You said a curse word and your parents knew within hours.
- You had parties around the schedules of different police officers because you knew which ones would bust you and which ones wouldn't.
- You could never buy cigarettes because all the store clerks knew how old you were, and even if you were old enough they would tell your parents anyway.
- When you did find somebody old enough and brave enough to buy cigarettes, you still had to go out into the country and drive on back roads to smoke them.
- It was cool to date someone from a neighboring town.
- The whole school went to the same party after graduation.
- You didn't give directions by street names, but rather by references: "Turn by Nelson's house, go two blocks to Anderson's, and it is four houses left of the track field."
- The golf course had only nine holes.
- You couldn't help but date a friend's ex-boyfriend or girlfriend.
- Your car stayed filthy because of the dirt roads, and you will never buy a dark vehicle for this reason.
- The town next to you was considered "trashy" or "snooty," but was actually just like your town.
- You referred to anyone with a house newer than 1945 as the "rich people."
- The people in the "big city" dressed funny, and then you picked up the trend two years later.
- Anyone you wanted could be found at the local gas station or the town beer joint.
- You saw at least one friend a week driving a tractor through town or one of your friends driving a grain truck to school every so often.
- The gym teacher suggested you haul hay for the summer to get stronger.
- Directions were given using THE stop sign as a reference.
- When you decided to walk somewhere for exercise, five people would pull over to ask if you needed a ride.
- Your teachers called you by your older siblings' names.
- Your teachers remembered when they taught your parents.
- You could charge at any local store or write checks without any identification.
- The closest McDonalds (or whatever it was called) was 25 miles away or more.
- The closest mall (there were no malls in my day) was over an hour away.
- It was normal to see an old man riding through town on a riding lawn mower (or golf cart).
- You've urinated in a cornfield, behind a tree, on the slope of a ditch or off a bridge.
- Most people had a nickname and everybody called them by it all the time.

Down On The Farm

Honoring seasonal rhythms

When this country was founded, 95 percent of the populace lived on farms and produced their own food. Times have changed. Nowadays, how many people have work which is in any way tied to the seasons?

Today, only about 1.5 percent of our population farms. Construction workers work outside a great deal and feel the hot and cold on the job, but most of the rest of our population toils indoors under the numbing 12-month glow of fluorescent lights and the whir of air conditioning.

Some indoor work has an annual liturgy, to be sure. Tax accountants are busier the first two weeks of April than at any other time. Clerks at the mall either look forward to December or face it with dread, depending upon their disposition.

Teachers and students look forward to summer vacation, and then to Christmas break. Ministers dread Advent and Lent. Workers in mental hospitals, believe it or not, dread full moons.

I once asked a funeral director if he had busy seasons. He replied that November and March are particularly lucrative. He attributed the fluctuations in the death business to the stress people feel when the seasons change. July, he added, is usually so slow that most undertakers schedule their vacations for then.

But I suspect most jobs in this modern world don't change much as the year goes by.

Office workers in those tall skyscrapers in Manhattan have few seasonal rhythms. For those lost souls, it is just go, go, go, all the time. The only thing that changes is the duds they wear to get from their apartment to the office.

On a local level, it amazes me how owners of gas stations, grocery stores and restaurants can put up with the steady 12-month grind of dealing with the public. People need gas and food every day and they aren't always in the best of moods when it comes time to pay for it. Stress every day of the year!

In contrast, people in seasonal occupations can rely on a surge of adrenaline to get them through whatever form of harvest they perform. They survive the busy time by clinging to the knowledge that things are going to slow down soon.

Seasonal busyness wears some people out, but most seem to thrive under pressure. Old-timers look back on threshing with nostalgia. Canning, butchering, quilting bees - seasonal group survival activities - seem more remembered for the fun than the hard work.

I have a theory that all humans long to work together with others in their clan for survival, just as humans did every day 100,000 years ago, wandering around in tribes hunting and gathering roots and berries.

In the modern age, chances for such survival-related camaraderie are rare, limited to the short-lived spirit of togetherness which follows disasters such as tornadoes, hurricanes, floods and blizzards.

Part of the joy of living a life in touch with the seasons is that you occasionally get to experience survival-related urgency without having to go through a bombing of some sort. You've got to get that harvest in before it rots in the field. You've got to dig those beets before freeze-up.

Locally, at least, hunting season far exceeds any religious observance in popularity. Perhaps the insane zeal of hunters can be traced to a deep genetic drive to slaughter food before winter and dance around the fire at night with the other hunters while holding a mug of something fermented.

In any case, those of us in occupations which allow our everyday activities to ebb and flow with the seasons are the lucky ones. We don't have to call in sick Monday morning of hunting weekend in order to honor our seasonal rhythms.

Tips for parents: Starting the new school year right

The beginning of a new school year can be the start of a journey toward success if parents, students, and teachers work together. Here are some suggestions from the Iowa State Education Association and the National Education Association for parents who want to help their children start the new school year right.

The First Day Jitters. Start talking now about the upcoming school year and the first day of classes. Discuss what to expect on the first day - catching up with old friends and meeting new ones, learning classroom rules and finding out what's ahead. Take note of how you feel about your child going off to school. If you're anxious, try not to let it show!

If you're new to the area, take time to visit the school before classes begin. Walk, drive or show your child the bus route to familiarize him or her with the trip to school.

Getting to Know You. Take time to get to know your child's teacher. Let the teacher know that you appreciate feedback on your child's progress - both positive and negative. Alert the teacher to anything out of the ordinary that's going on with your child or family. Make a point of meeting other school staff members: the principal, school secretary, bus driver, cafeteria staff and others who work at the school. The better you know the school and how it operates, the more likely your child will be to have a productive and positive school experience.

A Place of One's Own. Whether it's a bedroom desk or the kitchen table, every child needs a regular place to study and complete homework. This area should be well lighted and equipped with school supplies like paper, pencils and a dictionary. Siblings should respect the time set aside for studying and not distract the child who is doing homework.

Kids (and Parents) Love Routines. Set aside a specific time for studying every night. Discuss with your child what time of day would work best. Right after school? Just before dinner? Immediately following dinner? If your child attends an after-school program, find out if students will be expected to do homework there. If your child completes homework assignments away from home, plan to review the work at a set time every night. If homework has already been completed, have the child use study time for reading or reviewing problem areas.

Create High Expectations. To learn, children must believe that they can learn. As the parent, you are the most important adult in your child's life. The feedback you give your child - what you say and do about his or her abilities - will have a lasting impact on your child's self-confidence. Be encouraging and praise your child for the amount of effort that he puts into a project. Let her know that doing her best is what counts.

Reading Can Be Contagious. Research shows that children who are read to in their early years do better in school. Make reading a habit in your home - for both you and your child. Each night before bed, read to your child for at least 20 minutes. If the child is learning to read, ask him or her to read to you. For older children, set 30 minutes aside each night for family reading time when everyone reads together silently. Keep plenty of reading materials available - books, magazines and newspapers. Let your kids see you reading and they're more likely to pick up the habit.

Be Prepared for Your Next Parent-Teacher Conference. Talk with your child beforehand about what she thinks are her best subjects or what he likes least. Find out if your child has anything that he or she would like you to ask. Write down your own list of questions. Feel free to ask about your child's progress or about anything you don't understand about the school program. Expect the teacher to show you samples of your son's or daughter's work and to discuss how student progress is measured. Ask how your child interacts with other students. Most importantly, talk to the teacher about ways you can work together to help your child.

Schools + Communities = Success. To be effective, schools need the support of parents and the community. Find out key dates during the year when there will be opportunities for you to participate in school events. Mark your family calendar and your personal datebook now to hold those dates.

Look for specific ways that you can support your child's school. Volunteer a few hours a week in the classroom. Offer to speak to your child's class (or others) about a special hobby or area of expertise. Encourage a local business to adopt your child's school. Join the PTA to ensure that you have a voice in the workings of the school. Offer to help with a special school project.

ABCs of back-to-school nutrition

It is almost back to school time and we all know what that means, right? A new backpack, pencils, notebooks...and good nutrition! Kids need quality fuel not only for recess and physical education class, but also for normal growth, development, and cognitive functioning. In addition, establishing good eating habits early in life forms a solid foundation for sound nutrition and lifestyle habits as adults.

Here are the ABCs of back to school nutrition to start the school year right. Always eat breakfast! Breakfast gives children the edge they need to get through the day with energy. In fact, research shows that breakfast eaters perform better in the classroom, are absent less often and even have better hand-eye coordination.

Students will be prepared for a day of learning with these quick-to-prepare and tasty breakfasts:

- Yogurt topped with granola or dry cereal
- Whole grain toast with peanut butter and a glass of milk
- Cereal topped with fruit
- Egg and cheese stuffed whole-wheat pita

Beef...It's What's For Dinner!

Many Americans don't realize that beef is power packed with essential nutrients and has the ZIP (zinc, iron, protein) that growing minds and bodies need. Beef is the number one food source of zinc, which is vital to the body's growth and development as well as the maintenance of the immune system. Eating beef also provides the body with a good source of iron to help muscles function and enhance intellectual performance. In addition, beef provides a bundle of protein to support the growth and maintenance of bones, muscles, and tissues. So, give your family the ZIP they need to fuel their active lives and have beef for dinner!

Come together as a family as often as you can. Did you know that family mealtime creates healthier children? The American Dietetic Association reports that children who eat at least six meals with their families have a superior dairy food, fruit and vegetable intake than those who come together as a family three or fewer times per week. And don't forget, when fixing dinner for your family, keep the MyPyramid in mind, which emphasizes the basics. Keep good nutrition simple and enjoy a variety of nutrient-rich foods from all five food groups.

School enrollment surpasses 1970 baby-boom crest

The number of students enrolled in elementary and high schools in 2003 – 49.5 million – surpassed the previous all-time high of 48.7 million set in 1970 when baby-boomers were of school-age, the U.S. Census Bureau recently reported.

After peaking in 1970, total elementary and high school enrollment fell during the 1970s and early 1980s. The enrollment increase of children of baby-boomers is expected to decline slightly between 2005 and 2010. This is due to a small decline in annual births from 1990 to 1997.

In 2003, 75 million people – more than one-fourth of the U.S. population ages 3 and older – were in school throughout the country, according to School Enrollment – Social and Economic Characteristics of Students: October 2003. Nine million children ages 3 and older were enrolled in nursery school and kindergarten, 33 million in elementary school and 17 million in high school. There were 17 million college students.

In addition to an increase in births during the late 1980s, immigration also contributed to the growth of the student population in elementary and high schools. In 2003, more than one-in-five students had at least one foreign-born parent.

Other highlights:

- Nursery school enrollment has increased dramatically, from about 500,000 in 1964 to about five million in 2003, an increase from about 6 percent to about 60 percent of children ages 3 and 4.
- The vast majority of 5-year-olds (92 percent) were enrolled in school in 2003, likely reflecting the availability of public kindergarten in most states. During the past three decades, the share of children this age attending all-day kindergarten increased from one in five in 1973 to more than three in five in 2003.
- Elementary and high school students today are more diverse than the baby-boom generation of students. In 1970, the student population was 79 percent non-Hispanic whites, 14 percent black, 1 percent Asian and Pacific Islander and other races, and 6 percent Hispanic. In 2003, 60 percent were non-Hispanic white, 16 percent black, 4 percent Asian and 18 percent Hispanic. (Data by race for 2003 refer to the single-race population, and Hispanics may be of any race.)
- The high school dropout rate of 3.8 percent in 2003 was not significantly different from the 3.3 percent rate in 2002, but was lower than the 4.7 percent rate in 2001.
- In fall 2003, 46 percent of high school graduates ages 18 to 24 were enrolled in college. College enrollment, totalling 16.6 million students, was up from 14.4 million a decade earlier.
- In 2003, one-in-three of the nation's 13 million undergraduate college students was attending a two-year educational institution.

Backpacks: How heavy is too heavy?

Children often complain about the increasing amount of homework they receive from their teachers - and the weight of that homework.

Recent studies conducted by the American Academy of Pediatrics indicate that about 30 percent of elementary and high school students around the country experience low-back pain resulting from carrying too much weight in their backpacks, and carrying them incorrectly.

Anne Packard-Spicer, DC, associate professor at Northwestern Health Sciences University and a faculty clinician in the University's Bloomington Natural Care Center, recommends that parents carefully monitor how much weight is being carried in their children's backpacks. Spicer has treated thousands of children over the last 10 years and notes that the weight of larger backpacks can affect a growing child's posture and spinal health. She also says other joints besides the child's spine can be affected because a heavy weight can throw the neck, shoulders and pelvis off balance.

"Be aware of your child's spinal health," says Spicer. "If your children complain of back pain, get them checked out immediately." According to Spicer, children hit their growth spurts between the ages of 12 and 14. During this time, a heavy backpack can cause changes in the shape of bones, which can cause permanent damage. "The whole skeleton is connected; you can't get away from that," advises Dr. Spicer.

Here are some tips from Spicer to help keep your child's back healthy and pain-free:

- Make sure backpacks weigh no more than 10 to 15 percent of a child's body weight. Any more will encourage bad posture and may induce back pain;
- Purchase backpacks with wide, padded straps and a pelvic strap. This will help distribute the weight to the hips and take weight off the back;
- Encourage children to wear their backpacks over both shoulders. Even though it's considered "cool" to carry a backpack over just one shoulder, it creates uneven muscle development in children's backs and shoulders;
- If there are many books that need to be transported, urge your children to carry some in their arms to take some of the weight from their backpacks;
- Consider purchasing a backpack that is on wheels. This new trend has become increasingly affordable and takes the weight of children's shoulders;
- Be a stickler about good posture. Backpacks may encourage students to hunch forward, but if they are carried and fitted correctly with the appropriate amount of weight, children should be able to stand straight comfortably; and
- Exercise. Free body movement while playing helps children's bodies return to normal posture.

College degrees nearly double annual earnings

Information from the U.S. Census Bureau reinforces the value of a college education: Workers 18 and over with a bachelor's degree earn an average of $51,206 a year, while those with a high school diploma earn $27,915. Workers with an advanced degree make an average of $74,602, and those without a high school diploma average $18,734.

According to new tables released on the Internet titled Educational Attainment in the United States: 2004, 85 percent of those age 25 or older reported they had completed at least high school and 28 percent had attained at least a bachelor's degree - both record highs.

Other highlights for the population 25 years and over in 2004:

- Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming and Nebraska had the highest proportions of people with at least a high school diploma, all around 91 percent.
- The District of Columbia's population had the highest proportion with a bachelor's degree or higher at 45.7 percent, followed by Massachusetts (36.7 percent), Colorado (35.5 percent), New Hampshire (35.4 percent) and Maryland (35.2 percent).
- At the regional level, the Midwest had the highest proportion of high school graduates (88.3 percent), followed by the Northeast (86.5 percent), the West (84.3 percent) and the South (83.0 percent).
- The Northeast had the highest proportion of college graduates (30.9 percent), followed by the West (30.2 percent), the Midwest (26.0 percent) and the South (25.5 percent).
- High school graduation rates for women continued to exceed those of men, 85.4 percent and 84.8 percent, respectively. On the other hand, men continued to have a higher proportion of their population with a bacehlor's degree or higher (29.4 percent compared with 26.1 percent).
- Non-Hispanic whites had the highest proportion with a high school diploma or higher (90.0 percent), followed by Asians (86.8 percent), African-Americans (80.6 percent) and Hispanics (58.4 percent).
- Asians had the highest proportion with a bachelor's degree or higher (49.4 percent), followed by Non-Hispanic whites (30.6 percent), African-Americans (17.6 percent) and Hispanics (12.1 percent).
- The proportion of the foreign-born population with a high school diploma (67.2 percent) was lower than that of the native population (88.3 percent). However, the percentages with a bachelor's degree or more were not statistically different (27.3 percent and 27.8 percent, respectively).

The data on educational trends and attainment levels are shown by characteristics such as age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, marital status, occupation, industry, nativity and, if foreign-born, when they entered the country. The tables also describe the relationship between earnings and educational attainment. Although the statistics are primarily at the national level, some data are shown for regions and states.

K-12 education tax credit and subtraction help families

Going school shopping? The Minnesota Department of Revenue reminds parents and guardians to keep cash register receipts and invoices. Purchases for your child's school needs might qualify for a tax credit or subtraction on your 2005 Minnesota income tax return.

The kindergarten through grade 12 education credit and subtraction help families pay education-related expenses. Both programs lower the tax you must pay and may even provide a larger refund when you file your 2005 Minnesota Individual Income Tax Return. The subtraction allows you to subtract 100 percent of qualifying expenses from your taxable income. The education credit reduces your state income tax liability or increases your refund by giving you credit for 75 percent of your qualifying expenses.

To qualify for either program, you must have paid for educational services or required materials during 2005 to help your qualifying child's K-12 education. You must have documentation to prove any specific qualifying expense. Canceled checks alone are not sufficient. The Department of Revenue may ask you to provide receipts for review.

Eligibility requirements

You may qualify for both the education credit and subtraction or qualify for only the subtraction, depending on your household income.

The education subtraction does not have an income limit. The education credit's household income limit is based on the number of qualifying children you have in kindergarten through grade 12. If you have two or fewer qualifying children, your 2005 household income (your federal adjusted gross income plus most nontaxable income) must be less than $37,500. The household income limit increases by $2,000 for each additional qualifying child.

To qualify for the education credit or subtraction, the child must meet the qualifying child definition for the federal earned income credit. A qualifying child must:

- attend kindergarten through 12th grade at a public, private or home school,
- be your child, stepchild, grandchild, foster child, sibling or sibling's child for whom you are responsible, and
- have lived with you in the United States for more than half of 2005.

Limits to expenses you may subtract

You may subtract your actual qualifying educational expenses, up to a maximum of $1,625 per qualifying child in grades K-6, and $2,500 for a qualifying child in grades 7-12. (The subtraction limit for a child who enters seventh grade during 2005 is $2,500. For a student who graduates in 2005, you can only use qualified expenses for the portion of the year that the student was in 12th grade.) There is no family maximum subtraction, only a per child maximum.

Limits to expenses for use as a credit

Beginning with tax year 2005, the $2,000 family credit limit has been removed. If your household income is $33,500 or less, your maximum family credit is limited to $1,000 times the number of your qualifying children in kindergarten through grade 12. If your household income is more than $33,500, your credit may be reduced. Your maximum credit limit will be determined when you complete your 2005 tax return.

Examples of expenses that may qualify for the education credit and/or subtraction

Qualifying expenses generally include:

- Purchases of required supplies and material for use during the school day,
- Instructor fees and tuition for academic classes taken outside the school day, and
- Private school tuition (qualifies for the subtraction only).

It takes more than a computer to make it at college

Getting your son or daughter ready for college includes buying the right technology gear to get them through those years on campus. But how do you know what they really need?

Creighton University Vice President for Information Technology Brian Young says many college campuses offer a purchasing program for computers.

"You can contact the college or university and find out what kind of program they have, purchase the computer and have it set up with all the software and antivirus protection that's needed, and it will be waiting for the students when they move in. It really makes choosing the right computer much easier," says Young.

O.K., so you have the computer, what else do they need?

USB flash drives are quickly becoming the way to carry documents, data, songs and pictures. They're light, can clip onto your backpack, your key chain or even your belt loop," says Young. "Students will still need blank CDs and DVDs as well."

Other important must-haves include: antivirus software (if not provided by the university), anti-spyware software, CD/DVD burner, wireless card (most campuses have wireless access points), iTunes (music to study by!) and a laptop cable lock.

But Young says there are items that your colleg- bound student may want that you might not agree are necessary.

"Cell phones are everywhere on college campuses and many students use their cell phone as their only phone. They can provide a convenient way to stay in touch with friends and family."

Young says an iPod or other MP3 player is a great way to keep music with you. Console gaming systems like Xbox and Play Station 2 are great to have as well, because they can help the student unwind and provide social opportunities.

What should students leave at home?

"Wireless routers, file sharing programs and viruses, we definitely don't want them bringing computer viruses to campus," says Young.

Pay special attention to asthma in September

As Minnesotans prepare to send their children back to school, they should also prepare for a possible peak in asthma attacks, said officials from the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) last week. The fall, especially September, brings the greatest number of child hospitalizations due to asthma.

This pattern has been consistent since 1998, the earliest year for which MDH has data on asthma hospitalization rates. Other states, including Michigan, Vermont, New Hampshire and Nebraska, have reported similar patterns.

The most distinct peaks in September are seen in children, with preschool children having the highest rate of asthma hospitalizations. School-age children, including young teenagers, have the second highest rates in September, while older age groups exhibit less seasonal variation. Though there is no single, proven reason for this peak, it is believed to be influenced by respiratory infections and increased pollen and outdoor mold counts.

"Parents of children with asthma can do many things to prevent hospitalization," said Minnesota Health Commissioner Dianne Mandernach. "As they're taking care of the usual back-to-school tasks, parents should also schedule a "well-asthma" visit with their child's healthcare provider to review their asthma management plan."

Parents should:

- Obtain an up-to-date Asthma Action Plan (AAP) from their child's healthcare provider and give a copy to the school nurse and/or daycare provider.
- Make sure the child has asthma rescue medications, holding chambers and peak flow meters for both home and school.
- Make sure the child has access to his/her asthma medications and knows how to use them.
- Minimize the child's exposure to things that could trigger an asthma attack, such as dust mites, secondhand smoke, mold and pet dander.
- Schedule a flu-shot appointment with the child's healthcare provider when the vaccine is available.

Parents of children who experience any of the following should question if their child's asthma is under control and should see a healthcare provider:

- If the child uses a rescue inhaler more than twice a week for asthma symptoms, or
- If the child wakes up at night with asthma symptoms more than twice a month, or
- If the child uses more than two canisters of rescue medication (such as albuterol) in a year.

Healthcare providers can take a number of steps to help families prepare for a possible increase in asthma attacks in September. For example:

- Healthcare providers can write a prescription specifically for a second rescue medication and holding chamber for school.
- Pharmacists can work with the family and the child's healthcare provider to get the proper asthma medications and equipment for both home and school.
- School nurses can work with the family, teachers and coaches to support the child at school with an AAP from the child's healthcare provider.

MDH is communicating with doctors, school nurses, pharmacists and other healthcare providers across the state to help them prepare for a potentially busy asthma season.

"Working together, families and healthcare providers can help minimize the possibility that children will need to be hospitalized for asthma attacks this fall," Mandernach said.

You can be involved in your school's wellness policy

by DeeAnn Leines,
University of Minnesota
Extension Service

Having healthy children is a goal every community has on its list of priorities. But what does it mean to be healthy?

Overall good health involves many aspects of a person's life (spiritual, physical and mental issues). In order to be truly healthy, a person must fulfill their needs in all of these areas. Raising healthy children involves the entire community, including parents, churches, schools and agencies. It takes involvement from many people in order to accomplish this goal. It truly does take a whole village to raise a child in a healthy manner."

As of June 2004, "wellness policies" are a requirement of all schools that receive federal funding for their nutrition programs. This is part of the Child Nutrition and WIC Reauthorization Act. By the 2006-07 school year, all such schools will be required to have a wellness policy in place. This policy will affect school-based activities, including the types of foods offered at concession stands, in vending machines and at classroom celebrations. The policy also includes nutrition education for students and the promotion of more physical activity.

In the United States, we live in a society of extremes. On one hand, we have Americans who do not have enough to eat. But we also have a serious and growing health problem of obesity and being overweight. Why can't we find the middle ground?

Obesity is now the most prevalent nutritional disease found in youth in the U.S. It is also a serious adult disease. Twenty years ago, 5 percent of our nation's children were considered overweight. Now, that figure has risen to 12 to 14 percent and is projected to steadily increase unless we make some serious changes in our lifestyles.

There are many reasons for the increase in obesity in our country. Increased consumption of high calorie, highly processed food, sugared soft-drinks and lack of physical activity are some of the contributors to obesity. In an effort to combat this, schools across the nation have been asked to develop wellness policies. The wellness committees are to be comprised of various people from the local community who will then develop their own school's policy.

If you have an interest in serving on this committee, contact your local school and volunteer. Community involvement is the key to the success of the school wellness policies. For more information about the Child Nutrition and WIC Reauthorization Act, see http://edworkforce.house.gov/issues/108th/education/childnutrition/billsummaryfinal.htm.

Americans spending less on back to school

According to the annual back-to-school survey conducted by Myvesta, a nonprofit consumer education organization, Americans plan to spend $225 less this year on back-to-school expenses. The average shopper plans to spend $3,164 this year, down 6.6 percent from $3,389 in 2004. This year's survey shows a return to the back-to-school spending of 2003, where the average shopper planned to spend $3,184. Of those surveyed, 47 percent plan to spend less than $1,000 on their back-to-school expenses in 2005.

"Back-to-school is the most expensive time of year for many American families; more costly than summer vacations and holiday shopping combined," said Steve Rhode, president of Myvesta. "Most families don't have extra cash this year to splurge on the latest and greatest back-to-school gadgets, clothing or dorm room decorations, and when they are spending, they they are looking to get the most for their dollar."

The Myvestar Back-to-School Survey was conducted July 29-31 in a random telephone poll of 1,000 adult Americans. Each respondent was asked about back-to-school purchases for themselves, family members and others. The average spending in each of seven categories includes electronics, $281 in 2005, $393 in 2004; dorm room supplies, $98 in 2005, $128 in 2004; clothing, $374 in 2005, $431 in 2004; fees, $1,852 in 2005, $1,455 in 2004; sporting/extracurricular activities, $141 in 2005, $207 in 2004; desk supplies, $146 in 2005, $142 in 2004; transportation, $462 in 2005, $1,030 in 2004; total for back-to-school, $3,164 in 2005, $3,389 in 2004.

Five of the seven categories included in the Myvesta Back-to-School survey showed decreases in spending, with the largest percentage drops in the categories of transportation and dorm room supplies. The average American plans to spend 55.2 percent less on transportation related expenses and 45 percent less on dorm room supplies. Spending on desk supplies remained relatively unchanged with a slight increase in spending of 2.8 percent. Thee only category where spending significantly increased was fees, where the average American plans to spend 21.4 percent more than they did last year.

"The one place where families cannot spend less on their back-to-school spending is fees, which we are seeing rise every year," Rhode said. "Colleges are raising tuition just about every year, and more and more school districts are passing increased costs on to the parents. In just about every other category, people are showing that they are trying to cut back and save where they can."

Agricultural literacy grants available to K-12 educators

Minnesota Agriculture in the Classroom (M-AITC) will be offering new opportunities in agricultural literacy funding for the 2005-06 school year. A long-standing education partnership, M-AITC will provide financial support to K-12 educators through an Ag Literacy Grant Program (ALGP). The mission of M-AITC is to promote understanding and awareness of the importance of agriculture.

The ALGP will offer grants in three new focus areas: Innovation in Ag Literacy, with up to $750 available per grant to encourage "outside the box" learning with an emphasis on multi-grade or entire school collaboration; Project Food, Land and People (FLP) Implementation, with up to $400 available per grant to any Minnesota educator who has attended a six-hour FLP workshop; and Special Project Mini-Grants, with up to $200 per grant for unique projects. The goal of this grant program is to offer cash awards to help educators more effectively integrate agriculture and the food system into their curriculum. Applications are encouraged in social studies, science, language arts and/or any other appropriate subject areas.

M-AITC Program Director Al Withers said nearly $10,000 has been budgeted for agricultural literacy grants for the 2005-06 school year.

"We've offered small mini-grants for many years, but this is the first year we are offering the larger Innovation and Project Food, Land and People grants," said Withers. "School budgets are very tight and this is one way we can help in the classroom. We are encouraging in-school teacher collaboration, involving more educators and grade levels, in an effort to expand agricultural literacy impact beyond the single classroom grant application."

There are three grant application deadlines for the school year: Sept. 15, Dec. 15 and Feb. 15. Educators are encouraged to apply for the first deadline, assuring more available funds and giving them nearly a full school year to implement their ideas. The grant application is available by logging onto www.mda.state.mn.us/maitc or educators can request a hard copy via e-mail at alan.withers@state.mn.us.

Nearly 70 businesses and organizations provide financial support to M-AITC each year so the program can provide free classroom materials and other opportunities to students and educators. Popular initiatives include the student Minnesota AgMag Series, "Food for Thought: A Geography of Minnesota Agriculture" curriculum, a new Agricultural Children's Literature "Book Bundle" and teacher training.

Local man injured after collision between garbage truck and car

A local man was injured Monday morning after an accident between a garbage truck and car.

Lowell Alan Hamrum, 49, Brooks, was taken to First Care Hospital in Fosston. He was then transferred to Innovis Health in Fargo, N.D. Hamrum was listed in stable condition Monday afternoon, according to an Innovis staff member.

At the time of the accident, Hamrum was driving a 1988 Chevy Corsica eastbound on Highway 2, and Randy Joe Lindseth, 42, Fosston, was driving a 1990 Ford garbage truck southbound on County State Aid Highway 41. According to the Minnesota State Patrol report, Lindseth failed to yield to the Hamrum vehicle.

Hamrum's vehicle was totalled, and the garbage truck sustained extensive damage. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 7:53 a.m. Monday.

Need for HeatShare donations increases

Mary is a senior citizen on a fixed income who has temporary custody of her grandchildren. She does her best to provide for her family with her limited income, but she may not be able to pay her heating bills this winter because of increasing energy costs.

The Minnesota Department of Commerce has predicted a 30 percent increase in heating costs for Minnesotans this winter. Such a drastic increase may make it impossible for people like Mary to pay their heating bills due to insufficient income, unexpected medical expenses and other factors.

The Salvation Army's HeatShare Program provides financial assistance to people who cannot pay their heating bills, but the program may have difficulty serving Minnesotans this winter because of rising energy costs and lack of funding.

"The increase in energy costs means more people will need help this winter," said Mike McGlone, HeatShare director. "It will definitely put a strain on the working poor and could financially cripple people with low income status. We need donations for HeatShare now more than ever to compensate for the higher heat bills and the increase in HeatShare clients. I urge all Minnesotans to make donations. They might need help from HeatShare one day, and we want to help."

HeatShare is funded by donations from utility customers through their monthly bills and donations sent to The Salvation Army. HeatShare offers assistance to people year-round but on a limited budget. The program works with utility companies to help families in need by setting up payment plans for HeatShare clients. These companies often place HeatShare inserts in customer mailings to help fund the program. The inserts provide information about HeatShare and request donations for the program.

In 2004, HeatShare served 4,715 households. The program saw an increase in service that cost $400,000 more than expected. The program's goal is to see families regain financial stability, so they can meet their monthly obligations on a continual basis. HeatShare is currently available to 85 percent of Minnesota's population.

"HeatShare is a very important part of The Salvation Army's basic needs services," said Maj. Daniel Sjögren, commander of The Salvation Army's Northern Division. "We are concerned about preserving quality of life for families in need and want to empower them to make positive life decisions through the HeatShare Program."

HeatShare has assisted Minnesotans since 1982. Eligible clients receive budget counseling, energy conservation education, family counseling and social service information through the program. For more information about HeatShare, call Mike McGlone at (651) 295-4700.

MDH report provides new insight into child maltreatment

The Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) recently released the Child Maltreatment Violence Data Brief, 2001-2002, which provides new insights into child maltreatment in Minnesota by looking at data from two sources: Minnesota's hospitals and county child protective (CPS) agencies.

The MDH report includes information on incidents treated and identified by hospitals as well as cases substantiated by CPS agencies. For the purposes of this report, child maltreatment is defined as physical, sexual or psychological abuse or neglect of Minnesota residents ages 9 or younger by a parent, guardian or other caregiver.

Some highlights of the report:

- CPS agencies substantiated more than 11,500 incidents of child maltreatment involving more than 10,000 children in 2001 and 2002 combined. Minnesota hospitals identified more than 600 incidents of child maltreatment that resulted in emergency department visits or inpatient hospitalizations for just over 500 Minnesota children.
- Young children are at the highest risk. Among CPS-substantiated incidents, children under age 5 were at the highest risk for maltreatment, and the majority of hospital-treated incidents occurred to children under age 3. The rates reported both by CPS agencies and hospitals were highest for children under age 1.
- Birth, step- and foster parents were the most common abusers in both CPS-substantiated and hospital-treated incidents of child maltreatment, 83 percent and 62 percent, respectively. Among CPS-substantiated incidents, the abuser was more likely to be a female (62 percent) while among hospital-treated cases, males were the perpetrators in just over half of the incidents.
- More than three-quarters of the CPS-substantiated incidents involved neglect while 80 percent of hospital-treated incidents involved physical abuse.
- Inflicted traumatic brain injury (ITBI), which includes Shaken Baby Syndrome (SBS), is a serious form of child maltreatment that can cause lasting disability or death. Preliminary data show that between 1999 and 2002, 163 children under age 5 were victims of ITBI that resulted in death (27 children) or an inpatient hospitalization (136 children). Inflicted traumatic brain injuries were the most costly form of child maltreatment and accounted for 50 percent of these hospital charges in 2001 and 2002.
- The total hospital charges for child maltreatment in 2001 and 2002 were $3.1 million. Medicaid paid 47 percent of all hospital charges, and commercial health insurance paid 44 percent.

Minnesotans who suspect a child is being maltreated should call their county social service agencies or the police. If a child is at risk of serious and immediate harm, 911 should be called.

Minnesota state agencies work together to prevent child maltreatment and to respond effectively when maltreatment is reported. The MDH works with local public health agencies to offer home visiting services. Home visits are a proven strategy to prevent child maltreatment. The MDH works with all counties to ensure children's safety, provides training for county child protection staff, reviews children's deaths that may be attributed to maltreatment, and collects statewide data on child maltreatment.

MDH is also working with partners, including the Minnesota Hospital Association, to implement legislation passed during the 2005 legislative session to help educate families about SBS, which is a term used to describe the range of medical signs and symptoms that can result from the violent shaking, or shaking and head impact, of an infant or small child. SBS frequently occurs after a frustrated caregiver loses control of an inconsolable, crying child. Public information materials – to be distributed through hospitals and other organizations – will help create greater awareness of SBS and how to prevent it.

Patients should understand dangers of metabolic syndrome

Family physicians say thousands of Minnesotans are unaware they have a condition that puts them at higher risk for Type 2 diabetes, heart disease and stroke. That's because metabolic syndrome – sometimes called insulin resistance – is not an illness in itself, but rather a cluster of issues that together make it more likely that a person will develop life-threatening health problems.

"We're actually looking for a grouping of symptoms that suggests a person is insulin resistant," said George Schoephoerster, M.D., a St. Cloud family physician and president of the Minnesota Academy of Family Physicians. "The problem is that many of these people feel healthy and don't see a doctor. They have no idea that the combination of these symptoms is putting them in danger."

A person with metabolic syndrome has problems with the way that their body metabolizes sugar. His or her body makes ineffective insulin, which can lead to Type 2 diabetes, hardening of the arteries and an increased risk of blood clots, which can cause heart attacks or strokes. The major characteristics of metabolic syndrome include obesity in the abdominal area; high blood pressure; a high blood sugar level, but one that is not high enough to be classified as diabetes; and abnormal fat levels, such as a high level of triglycerides (fat that forms in the blood) or a low level of high-density lipoprotein (HDL-C – the so-called good cholesterol). People who have three or more of these characteristics are said to have the syndrome.

Although most of those diagnosed with metabolic syndrome are considered overweight or obese, those with a normal weight can have it, too. Findings from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's most recent National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey show that at least 47 million Americans have metabolic syndrome. Experts predict many more have it and don't know it. Risk factors include a poor diet, sedentary lifestyle and a person's genetic makeup.

"Males with a waist circumference greater than 37 inches and females with a waist circumference greater than 31 inches should consider talking to their doctor about metabolic syndrome," said Schoephoerster. He added that patients with hypertension, those with a family history of diabetes, those with a lot of skin tags (another indicator of insulin resistance) and those older than 45 years old would likely benefit from a conversation with their physicians.

"Excess weight and lack of physical activity are underlying contributors to metabolic syndrome, but the good news is that healthy lifestyle changes can reverse the complications associated with it," said Schoephoerster. "Making smart choices early on can even prevent a person from developing it in the first place."

Doctors agree the best way to fight metabolic syndrome is to make an effort to lose weight. Exercising not only improves insulin levels, but it speeds up weight loss. Another suggestion is to reduce the amount of refined sugars that are consumed while increasing the amount of fiber and complex carbohydrates that are consumed.

"Making this kind of change in a person's life is not always easy," said Schoephoerster. "That's why working with a family physician you trust is so important. A good relationship with a doctor helps you to make good choices based on both your personal values and the best scientific information available."

Strandquist

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

On Friday, I learned that Randy Lorenson had passed away. He was a cousin to Larry Sands. His funeral is this afternoon, so I'm going to attend it. Condolences to all his relatives and friends.

Sunday morning, we were told of the passing away of John Lundell, son of LeRoy and Pearl Lundell, of Minnetonka, unexpectedly during the night. We are unable to realize it at this time. The obituary will be in the paper.

While most of us were in Strathcona on Sunday afternoon, Elsie Lefrooth joined a group who had a birthday party for Marlys Lefrooth and for Greg Lefrooth whose birthday was on Monday. Shirley Lefrooth took Elsie to her home and spent the evening there. Then, brought her home later. Today, the Lindstroms took Elsie to Strandquist to dine on this delicious potato dumplings at Irene's Cafe.

Judy Kleinvachter was a supper guest at the home of Wayne and Pat Larson on Sunday. On Friday, Larina Berggren and little Paulina took Grandma Judy to the Black Bear for lunch. I saw her at the Community Center having steak on Monday. On the go like that, it is no wonder she only had time for four more visitors, June Kasprowicz, Kelly, Amanda and Jessica Lefrooth.

There is only 10 more days until Karlstad is 100 years old!!! Come and help us celebrate!!!

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: Will Medicare Prescription Drug Coverage be for available to everyone?

A: Effective January 2006, Medicare's new voluntary prescription drug program (Part D) will be available to everyone on Medicare including both seniors and those with Medicare because of disability. This prescription drug coverage is not income based. Open enrollment for this coverage begins November 15, 2005 but Social Security is now taking applications from Medicare beneficiaries who may be eligible for extra help to pay for monthly premiums, annual deductibles and prescription co-payments of the new prescription drug program.

The extra help can save qualified people an average of $2,100 per year. To qualify for the extra help, a person or married couple living together must have limited income and resources. For an individual, your total annual income must be below $14,355 and your resources valued below $10,000. The limits for a married couple living together are higher: $19,245 in combined annual income and $20,000 in resources.

These resources can be slightly higher, an additional $1,500 per person, if you will be using some of the money for burial expenses. If you receive disability benefits from Social Security and are working, some of your earnings might not count towards those income and resource limits. Special expenses for things you need to keep working could be deducted from your earnings, too. If you did not get a letter and application in the mail, but think you might qualify for the extra help, go to the SSA Web site at www.socialsecurity.gov , or call Social Security toll-free at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778).

Anyone with both Medicare and Medicaid, or Medicare and Supplemental Security Income (SSI), or anyone whose state pays his or her Medicare premiums, will automatically qualify for this extra help and will not have to complete the application. It is important that all beneficiaries understand that even if they qualify for the extra help, they still need to enroll in a Medicare-approved prescription drug plan to obtain both coverage and the extra help.

Q: Can I get Social Security booklets in a large print format?

A: Yes. Many SSA publications are in alternative formats including large print, cassette tape and Braille. They are available at no charge and can be ordered from the SSA web-site, www.socialsecurity.gov. Go to "publications" at the top right of the home page and then click on "alternative formats". You can also enlarge web page print size by clicking on "need big text?" at the top right of the SSA home page.

The Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development recently announced that Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for July improved by one-tenth of a percentage point to 3.6 percent. The national rate was 5 percent. For the second month in a row, Minnesota's unemployment rate is at a pre-recession level.

Seasonally adjusted total employment grew by 8,000 in July. All of the employment increases occurred in the service-providing industries with trade, transportation and utilities adding 3,600 jobs; government adding 3,000 jobs; education and health services adding 1,500 jobs; and leisure and hospitality adding 1,400 jobs. Goods-producing industries, including natural resources and mining; construction; and manufacturing, all came in with nearly flat employment growth over the month.

"These numbers show steady progress for Minnesota's economy," said Commissioner Matt Kramer. "By regaining and retaining our pre-recession jobs' level, Minnesota is on track for healthy growth."

Despite departure Comstock continues to serve

is keeping his residence in Thief River Falls, he's keeping his house and plans to participate in some Pennington County Board meetings while working out of state. Olson said the board will address the situation at its Aug. 23 meeting.

Olson said, based on Statute Chapter 351 and a conversation with Minnesota Secretary of State Election Administrator Todd Pierce, that since Comstock has not missed any meetings or neglected his duties as a commissioner, the board would not have cause to remove him. Based on Minnesota Statute Chapter 351, Olson said that an elected county official can only be removed from office for willfully committing an unlawful act (malfeasance), willfully failing to commit a specific required act (nonfeasance) or to be negligent in the performance of duties as a public official (misfeasance).

Comstock has not resigned his position as a Pennington County Commissioner. Upon announcing his departure, he informed Olson that he intends to continue serving Pennington County's fourth district during what he described to Olson as an "extended vacation." If he does officially vacate the position, according to Olson, a special election will be necessary.

Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin stated that it is too early for the board to take action. He declined any further comment.

Calls to Comtock's Thief River Falls residence were not answered.

Comstock was elected to the position of county commissioner by by voters in Pennington County's fourth district in 1992. He has been re-elected four times, serving Pennington County since January 1993. Comstock's current term expires Dec. 31, 2006.

Resident's opinions vary

Wal-Mart has been the subject of several Thief River Falls City Council meetings. The majority of those in attendance at those meetings were either neighbors or business owners affected by the company's decision to build a store here.

Grovum attended and spoke at several of those meetings. Then and now, she noted she was concerned about it for several reasons.

"Looking at it from a homeowner's point of view, I'm concerned what it will do for the value of our property," Grovum said.

Noting that Wal-Mart had listened to her concerns about retention ponds near the future store and along Nelson Drive, Grovum said it did not listen to her concerns about the additional truck traffic on Nelson Drive.

Grovum added that she was concerned about the impact the store may have on Kmart, Oil Boyz, SuperOne Foods, Ben Franklin Crafts and Pamida.

Thief River Falls resident Ashley Olson intends to welcome Wal-Mart to the community. "Well, I personally am thrilled about Wal-Mart coming to TRF," said Olson. "Living on a tight budget, having Wal-Mart will definitely give me the opportunity to further stretch my family's dollar. Also, having a Super Wal-Mart will hopefully attract more businesses to set up shop here."

John T. Anderson, a former City Council member, said he doesn't have any strong feelings one way or the other about Wal-Mart.

"I just doubt it will be good for the town as a whole and businesses," Anderson said. Referring to a recent Times article, he noted that several business owners seem to be optimistic about Wal-Mart and their ability to compete with the business behemoth. He hopes they're right.

Anderson also noted his concerns about Wal-Mart's potential employment of individuals entering the U.S. illegally as well as its ability to pay employees a "living wage."

Thief River Falls resident Jenni Kriel is looking at the positive side of a Wal-Mart store being in the community. "If you think about it, how many people run to Grand Forks for Wal-Mart?" asked Kriel, who noted it will bring more money into Thief River Falls.

Kriel also noted the opportunities that may result from a Wal-Mart, including the possibility of different varieties of restaurants. She added, "It's going to bring more jobs – part-time, full-time."

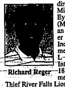
Reger appointed to Minnesota Lions Eye Bank Board of Directors

Richard Reger was recently named to serve on the board of directors of the Minnesota Lions Eye Bank (MLEB). Reger, an office manager at Tony Dorn Inc., has been a member of Lions International for 18 years and is a member of the Thief River Falls Lions Club.



Richard Reger

As an eye bank board member, Reger oversees Lions funding for the eye bank; reports on eye bank activities to the Lions of Minnesota; and promotes the eye bank to fellow Lions and the general public.

"The Minnesota Lions Eye Bank is one of the most successful and respected eye banks in the country," said Mike Molenda, board chairman. "Serving on its board is a great honor for a Lion. Board members are responsible for the success of the eye bank and are proud that their efforts have enabled many individuals to benefit from corneal transplants."

Reger has other responsibilities in addition to the eye bank, since Minnesota Lions give generously to many University of Minnesota sight programs. Board members regularly review funding requests for the Lions Children's Eye Clinic, the Lions Macular Degeneration Research and Rehabilitation Center, and research projects at the Lions Research Building. In the past 45 years, the Lions have donated more than $18 million to the people of Minnesota through sight-related endeavors at the University of Minnesota.

More than 1,000 people receive the gift of sight annually as a result of the corneal transplants performed with donations obtained and facilitated by the MLEB. Additionally, other vision-enhancing surgeries, research and training are possible because of eye tissues provided through the MLEB.

Tracking profits over time

by Greg Dvergsten
FBM Instructor, Thief River Falls

Time and time again, as a business owner and operator, you have come across seminars, workshops and news clippings emphasizing the importance of keeping accurate records. You are told that an accurate accounting of all financial transactions within the business will not only streamline year-end meetings with your tax professional but provide you with the necessary information to better manage your business. This is a true statement.

You are also told that detailed livestock production records and individual field crop records can provide you with the ammunition needed for improved decision making within your business. This is a true statement.

You are also told that these same sets of records, together with well prepared balance sheets, can assist you in properly analyzing annual business profits. Again, this is a true statement.

But as we have all come to know in agriculture, we have our ups and downs. Financial efficiencies and profitability may look great one year and not so good or even bad the next. This can play havoc with the producer's stress levels and overall outlook at times. With that said, I encourage farm operators to stay focused on monitoring business efficiencies and profit levels over a period of time. As the old saying goes, it is a marathon, not a sprint.

As I have been visiting with producers this summer in the management program, we have been reviewing their five-year historical data. This gives a clear picture of actual business progress and overall viability of the operation. As profit levels and efficiencies may be low or even poor on a given year or two, the trends over a period of years are what enable a producer to determine if the business is indeed moving in the right direction.

There are many good and necessary reasons for keeping and analyzing your business records annually. I encourage you to keep these records in a manner that easily allows you to monitor progress over time as a single year can be very misleading to the overall progress of a business.

If you would like or need assistance in this area, you may contact a Farm Business Management instructor in your area by calling 1-800-959-6282.

ACTIVITIES
Thumbprint Animals

Children are always interested in their own body parts, especially their fingers. This activity will use these basic interests and produce fun for both the child and the adult.

Use an ink stamp pad to take a fingerprint. Carefully put it on a sheet of paper. The next step is to use a crayon or sharp marker, and add legs, eyes, ears, horns or antennae. If you put two or three prints together, a wide variety of animals can be made.

Samples of the animals that can be made are a cat, dog, cow, deer, spider, caterpillar or horse. The only limitations are our own imaginations.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need small brown paper lunch bags, old newspapers, yarn or string and red and green paint.

PARENTING TIPS
Questions vs. Commands

Often parents will ask their child a question such as, "Would you like to go to the store now?" or "Do you want to go to bed?" when they really mean to give a command such as "It is time to go to the store" or "It is time to go to bed." Young children, however, take the questions literally and will probably answer, "No."

To avoid confusing the child, make your expectations clear. Give an order if you want him to do something. Ask a "yes or no" question only if you are willing to accept either answer.

If you "goof up" and ask your child a question when you meant to give a command and your child says, "No," the best procedure is to respond, "Okay, then we will go in five minutes. I will set the timer so you will know when." Then when the timer rings, rephrase the sentence to, "Now it is time to go to the store" or to bed or whatever.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When talking with your children, think about what you say and how you say it. Are you speaking clearly and in terms that your child can understand?

Getting the job done

by Rep. Mark Kennedy
U.S. Congressman

Every year, we in Congress push to get bills passed before spending the month of August visiting constituents back home. This year, I'm proud to say, we are sending to the president legislation that has been blocked by partisan politics for too long, including appropriations bills, an energy plan, and a highway bill.

Every year, Congress must pass 10 spending bills. This year, the House of Representatives passed, and sent, all of these bills to the Senate before July 4, for the first time since I've been in Congress.

I was able to include important provisions in some of these bills. In the Homeland Security Appropriations, my amendment passed requiring the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) to use the same technologies, including unmanned aerial vehicles, in protecting our northern border as we do on our southern one.

The U.S.-Canada border is over 4,000 miles long, and it consists of more than 430 official and unofficial ports of entry. This staffing shortage along the northern border poses a real security threat. In fact, due to this shortage, DHS has looked for new ways to monitor the Canadian border, such as a new proposed requirement for passports to get back and forth over the border.

Unfortunately, anyone who has spent much time "Up North" knows that this will not accomplish much to deter or prevent illegal activities, and will be a major headache for law-abiding Minnesota fishermen and hunters.

I was able to pass another amendment, this one asking the State Department to identify those countries sending dangerous meth-making materials into the United States. Meth is one of the most serious problems facing our communities. In Minnesota, and other states, the hard work of local law enforcement reaches only 20 percent of the meth problem that exists in small meth labs. But they lack the resources they need to reach the other 80 percent of international superlabs.

I was pleased that an overwhelming majority of members agreed with me. It's important to identify those who don't help us stop dangerous meth-making material from flowing into or out of the United States, and strip them of foreign assistance as a consequence.

Common sense energy solutions. We should all be pleased that after five years, common sense energy policy is finally a reality. Passing this vital legislation law is a huge step forward in reducing our dependence on Middle East oil, increasing our nation's energy security, and ensuring value-added opportunities for our rural communities.

Every time we go to the pump, we realize we must do something to reduce our dependence on Middle East oil, and focus instead on our homegrown Minnesota solutions, like ethanol and biodiesel. We can burn a cleaner form of energy, and, as a leading producer of soybeans and corn, stimulate Minnesota's economy and create jobs.

The energy bill also contains several provisions I requested, includ*ing an increase in the Renewable* Fuels Standard to 7.5 billion gallons by 2012, creates a 30 percent tax credit for investments in E85 refueling stations, expansion of the small ethanol producer credit to producers with annual production capacity of 60 million gallons, and extension of the renewable electricity production credit for wind.

Making sure we all spend less time in traffic, and more time at home with our families. After five years of hard work, the highway bill is on its way to the president's desk. This critical legislation funds our highways and infrastructure, and provides $64 million for projects in every corner of the Sixth District.

One of my top priorities since coming to Congress has been to make sure our transportation projects get the funding they need. This is a starting point for significant transportation improvements. I've received input from people across the Sixth District as the process moved forward, and I am happy with the outcome, given our difficult budget times. All Minnesotans should spend less time stuck in traffic away from their families. This bill helps us meet that goal.

During this session of Congress, we have taken great strides toward building a lasting legacy of accomplishment. As I head home to spend August in Minnesota, I'm pleased to share with you the great progress we've made.

VIP of TRF receives donation

Violence Intervention Project of Thief River Falls received a number of boxes of books and material from the Inspirational Outreach Association (formerly Woman to Woman), a nonprofit organization. For the past six years, the Springfield, Mo., based organization has collected thousands of donated new and used Bibles, devotionals, books and materials of inspiration, motivation, self-improvement and encouragement for women and children seeking shelter in family violence centers across the United States.

The books received are sorted, boxed and redistributed to family violence centers and shelters in order to create on-site libraries. These inspirational materials are a resource to encourage, support, motivate and inspire a new beginning for abused women and children. The libraries will empower the readers as they regain self-confidence, self-worth and find a new purpose for living.

Since its inception, the Inspirational Outreach Association has provided books and materials to over 50 shelters in 17 states in the Midwest, as it continues to spread across the United States.

"At some point in her life, one in every four women in America will be or have been physically abused by a husband or boyfriend. Family violence shelters are full of scared women and children in desperate need of guidance, support and encouragement in order to re-build a new life," said Kathi Diving, president of the Inspirational Outreach Association. "one book can bring encouragement and spiritual inner strength to one in need of hope."

The organization accepts only pre-paid shipments of new and used secular and non-secular books, Bibles, devotionals, magazines, coloring books, cassette tapes and many other materials that re-enforce moral values and have minimal violence. For more information, contact the organization via its Web site, www.w2wiop.org, or phone 417-882-6932.

County's Outstanding Conservationists

2004, through the Environmental Qualities Incentive Program. An additional 2,600 feet of field windbreak were planted this year. The windbreaks compliment an existing 10-row, 850-foot farmstead windbreak that was planted in 1978.

The field windbreaks will aid in the reduction of field erosion to wind. The Lundeens also practice residue management to reduce wind erosion. Residue is plant material remaining on the field after the crop is harvested, such as straw. Minimum tillage with a chisel plow allows enough residue cover to prevent soil movement during critical times when there is little or no plant cover in the spring and fall.

Erosion is also reduced through the use of buffers. A 3,800-foot-long by 120-foot-wide filter strip, located along the banks of the Red Lake River, is enrolled in continuos CRP. Additional field buffers have been installed along the field and ditches to reduce sedimentation and crop loss.

Lundeen Farms uses a regular crop rotation, reducing some of the need for fertilizers. Soil samples are taken and used to determine fertilizer recommendations. The Lundeens farm a total of 2,300 acres of cropland that is rotated between soybeans (one-third), wheat (one-third) and alfalfa, corn and sunflowers (remaining third).

"It varies from year to year," Kelly Lundeen said, adding that barley has also been included past rotations. "We used to put barley on our sunflower grounds. It worked great, because the sunflowers dried out the ground so if it was a real wet spring, we could still get the barley seeded early."

The rotation of alfalfa with grain allows more organic matter to develop in the soil. Soybeans are typically rotated after wheat in order to provide more residue for erosion control.

Approximately 280 acres of Lundeens' farmland is certified as organic. Organic crops include blue corn and soybeans.

Now a member of the Organic Crop Improvement Association, Kelly Lundeen admitted that organic farming, and the increase in weed growth, is hard to get used to. He also explained that land used for organic farming must not have any pesticides or commercial fertilizer applied to it for three years before it can become certified as organic.

Once land is certified organic, the use of chemical fertilizers is prohibited. Cultivation can be used to control weed growth and organic fertilizers, such as fish oil can be applied over the plant for nutrient needs.

Wildlife practices are also an important consideration made by the SWCD when choosing its outstanding conservationist. Through the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program, Kelly Lundeen planted 5.1 acres of trees and shrubs in 2005. They provide cover for wildlife. These trees and shrubs are growing along the Red Lake River filter strip, which also provides wildlife habitat. Another 140 acres of woodlots have saved for wildlife, recreation and hunting. Nearly 10 acres of food plots are seeded specifically for wildlife each year. Food plot crops include alfalfa, clover, rape, winter wheat, corn and soybeans.

Along with being leaders in conservation, the Lundeen's have taken active roles in the community, agencies and organizations. Kelly currently serves on the Red Lake Electric Cooperative Board; both hold leadership positions with Oak Park Lutheran Church – Connie is vice president of the Oak Park Lutheran Church Ladies Aid and Kelly is congregation chairman; and together the couple shared duties as Pennington County's representative of the King Agassiz program in 1993.

Rail project could lessen traffic delays

lives near the crossing, said she's had to wait at the crossing numerous times. "I grew up in this town, and I'm used to waiting," Reierson said.

Yet, Reierson noted that she finds she waits longer at other railroad crossings. To lessen the amount of time she waits at any railroad crossing, she takes alternate routes to wherever she may be going.

The other project includes the replacement of rail in areas scattered between Thief River Falls and Noyes. "We're replacing 51 miles of jointed rail with continuous welded rail," Baenen said. She added that the project should lead to a smoother ride, and less wear and tear on trains.

The rail replacement began in early July. It is expected to be completed in early November.

The Lundeen family, represented by Kelly and Connie Lundeen of Deer Park Township, was recently named 2005 Outstanding Conservationist for Pennington County. Lundeen Farms will be recognized at the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District's 2006 annual banquet.

The Thief River Falls TIMES

State softball tournament is a big draw for TRF

Sixty-one teams, over 700 players and 126 games played in two days made for a busy weekend as Thief River Falls played host to the 2005 ASA/USA-Minnesota Sports Federation Class DD North state men's slow pitch softball tournament.

Actually, the tournament spread outside the city limits. To accommodate the event, officials used seven fields in Thief River Falls, along with two in St. Hilaire. Entries stretched from Hutchinson to International Falls.

Sixty-four teams were scheduled to be here, but there were three no-shows.

"It was the largest softball tournament we've ever had," reported Bruce Lawrence, the tournament director. "We had the same (DD) tournament two years ago, but we didn't have as many teams."

The weather cooperated and game times stayed pretty much on schedule, according to Lawrence. "Things went really well," he said. "We had some good comments about our complex. They all seemed to like playing here – except for the distance they had to drive."

MPP out of Albertville won the double-elimination event with a unbeaten 7-0 weekend, including a 22-9 championship win over Mr. Jim's Allstate of Gilman.

Budweiser/Pizza Hut of Thief River Falls played eight games, winning six of them for a third place finish.

Three other Thief River Falls state tournament entries were NS1 (1-2), St. Hilaire Bears (1-2) and Budget (0-2).

Pigskin Preview serves football, lunch Saturday

Thirty-second edition of the Thief River Falls Pigskin Preview will revive a bit of the past Saturday during the high school football scrimmages scheduled to be held at Prowler Field.

When the event was introduced in 1974, the football action was complemented by a picnic-style lunch. Over time, the meal was discontinued. However, this year, organizers decided to put the aprons back on, and through donations from the business community, will once again offer a menu featuring roasted pork sandwiches, beans, chips and pop. Players eat free. Fans can purchase the meal for $5. Proceeds will go to the the Thief River Falls football program.

Scrimmages begin at 10 a.m. East Grand Forks, Crookston, Bemidji and Thief River Falls varsity and junior varsity teams will be matched up at the Prowler Field complex, with the varsity teams playing on the old game field and the junior varsity squads competing on the adjacent practice field.

Thief River Falls and Crookston freshmen will scrimmage at 10 a.m. on the Lincoln High School practice field.

Lunch will be served at the completion of the scrimmages.

Prowlers head coach Jeff Mumm welcomed close to 100 players in grades 9-12 to the start of practice Aug. 15. "We've got good numbers," said Mumm. "That's a few more than what we might have expected, but it's a nice problem to have."

Thief River Falls will open the 2005 season Friday, Sept. 2, at Crookston. Week 2 will find the Prowlers in Hibbing. Their home opener is Sept. 16 vs. Detroit Lakes.

The Prowlers are coming off a 6-3 season that ended with a 32-21 loss to Detroit Lakes in the Section 8AAAA playoffs.

Minnesota State High School League reclassification completed last spring has moved Thief River Falls from Class AAAA to Class AAA for football. The switch is in place for 2005 and 2006. The MSHSL makes enrollment, and sectional alignment adjustments every two years.

With the move, Thief River Falls went from behind the smallest school in Section 8AAAA to the largest in Section 8AAA, where the latest enrollment figures used by the MSHSL lists Thief River Falls at 525, Park Rapids Area 483, Perham 469, East Grand Forks 416, Pequot Lakes and Warroad both 355, Roseau 342 and Crookston 330.

The Prowlers replace Pelican Rapids (316) in the eight-team Section 8AAA alignment. The Vikings moved to Section 8AA.

East Grand Forks is the defending Class AAA state champion.

GREENBUSH RACE PARK

from Bob Hultgren

Greenbush Race Park hosted its final Sprint Car Special of the season Saturday. Twenty-one Northern Outlaw Sprints made the trip to race at the track.

NOPA Pure Stocks opened the feature racing with Jon Duray (Greenbush) going flag-to-flag for the win. Justin Osowski (Hallock) finished second, with Rick Beier (Thief River Falls) third.

Steffan Snare (Hallock) found victory lane for the third time in as many nights. Snare, who won the feature Thursday at Winnipeg, Man., and Friday in Grand Forks, N.D., held off a late charge from Jamen Foss (Greenbush) to win the Street stock final. Foss started ninth, but moved into second in the first five laps. Doug Groenhoff (Roseau) was third.

In the WISSOTA Super Stock feature, John Halvorson (Warren) reached a milestone as he picked up his 150th career win. While Halvorson led from start to finish, Bill Meader (Karlstad) ran second most of the race before being passed with just a couple of laps remaining by Matt Sparby (Bemidji). Meader did hang on for third.

Nolan Olmstead (Badger) paced another small field of Wissota Modifieds, leading all the way for the win. Rick Delaine, out-dueled Ben Wolden to finish in second.

Lee McRae (Winnipeg, Man.) started on the poll in the 4-Cylinder final, held off an early challenge for the win. Greenbush drivers Kurt Smith and Dustin Wahl finished second and third, respectively.

The 25-lap Outlaw Sprint feature featured three lead changes, six caution flags and two rollovers. Chris Shirek (Thompson, N.D.) would lead through the meat of the race before being "reeled in" by Wade Nygaard (Fargo, N.D.), who led the final couple of laps for the win. Dave Sobczak (Winnipeg) had a fantastic run, starting at he tail end and racing his way forward to finish second.

Next race at the Greenbush Race Park is the two-day Mini Sprint Special and Points Championship Races Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 3-4. The Pure Stocks, Streets, Super Stocks, Modified and 4-Cylinders, will join the Mini-Sprints for both nights of racing.

The Race Park is located one-half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 7.

ROCKET SPEEDWAY

from Bob Hultgren

Rocket Speedway lifted off for another exciting night of action Sunday evening. Weather conditions were cool and clear and the track was smooth and dry slick.

Anticipation was high as the Street cars took to the track. Steffan Snare (Hallock) entered the night with three consecutive wins over the previous three nights of racing in Winnipeg, Man., Grand Forks, N.D., and Greenbush. Snare's attempt at four consecutive wins was cut short by one spot however, as Jamen Foss (Greenbush) bested the field for the win. To the delight of fans, Foss, Snare, Terry BlackLance (Thief River Falls) and Roger Bernstrom were locked in a four-car battle for position at the front of the pack over several laps. Foss took the lead from BlackLance on Lap 6 and never surrendered it. Snare, who started tenth, finished second. BlackLance was third.

WISSOTA Super Stocks ran a caution-free feature race, with Scott Brown (Winnipeg) leading all the way for the win. Mike McCaughan (Manitoba) started eighth and quickly settled in for a strong second place run. John Halvorson (Warren) crossed the line third.

NOPA Super Trucks provided another nail-biter for fans. Dave Buffie (Winnipeg, Man.) ran the high side of the track to lead the first seven laps of the feature. Ricky Weiss (Winnipeg) caught the low groove and eventually passed Buffie at the midway point. Buffie continued to run high, but realizing he wouldn't get by the No. 7 truck, Buffie drove down to the bottom of the track. That's when Kevin Braget (Lake Bronson) jumped up to the high side, passed Buffie and challenged Weiss. Weiss would hang on for the win, with Braget a close second and Buffie third.

A wild finish in the NOPA Pure Stock final generated some jeers from the stands. A last-lap incident collected a good number of front runners, no determination of fault was decided, and the race was called in the order that the cars finished the previous lap. It was a strong win for Justin Osowksi (Hallock), who started eighth but led the final 12 laps for the win. Randy Jawaski (Kindred, N.D.) finished second, with Mike Peterson (Lancaster) third. Honorable Mention went to Al Berry (Oakwood), who had his best run of the season finishing fourth in the 18-car feature.

It took five laps for Jerome Guyot (Fannystelle, Man.) to race from his eighth place starting spot to the front of the 4-Cylinder field of cars. He led the final 10 laps for the win. Kurt Smith and Dustin Wahl, both from Greenbush, finished second and third, respectively.

With just two races remaining of the Rocket Speedway schedule, the points race is up for grabs in all five classes of cars. The next race is a scheduled two-day special Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 27-28. The Saturday show is a NOPA double points night. Hot Laps will be held at 6:30 p.m., with racing at 7.

The Rocket Speedway is located on the Kittson County Fairgrounds in Hallock.

Special fishing regulations addressed during meetings

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will hold public input meetings to discuss and take public comments on both new regulation proposals and existing special regulations for walleye, bass, northern pike, crappie, sunfish, muskie and trout on 53 lakes and three rivers located across the state. Of special interest to anglers are Upper Red Lake and Lake Vermilion, where new regulations are being proposed to protect and improve walleye, and Lake of the Woods, where the current regulation for northern pike has been evaluated.

Many of the new proposals are a result of a statewide review of existing regulations, which began in 1999. These discussions resulted in a suite of regulations designed to improve fishing for walleye, bass, northern pike, crappie, sunfish and bluegill. Referred to as the fisheries "toolbox regulations," these regulations provide simple, effective options for fisheries managers to choose from. Although managers can still propose regulations outside the toolbox options, use of toolbox regulations will minimize the number of different regulations, resulting in better angler compliance and streamline the evaluations of new regulations.

Lakes chosen for these toolbox regulations or for other types of regulations will be monitored over a 10- to 15-year period to evaluate the effectiveness of the regulations in improving fish populations.

In addition to new proposals, several public meetings will review regulations currently in place on lakes and streams. These regulations have been evaluated over a number of years. The public is invited to provide comment on whether to extend, modify, or drop the regulations.

Currently, the DNR has special or experimental regulations in effect for walleye in 49 lakes, bass in 45 lakes, northern pike in 103 lakes, crappie in 19 lakes and sunfish in 27 lakes. Much has been learned from these and earlier attempts to improve fish populations with length and/or bag limits, according to the DNR.

Lakes were posted this spring at public access points with signs that announced the proposals. Public notices for each of the meetings will be published in local newspapers. For more information on these upcoming local meetings, contact the local DNR Fisheries office.

For those unable to attend a local meeting, an open house will be held Sept 22 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the DNR Central Office in St. Paul. Staff will be available to take comment on any proposal. Additional comments can be submitted up to 10 days after the meeting by mail, by e-mail to al.stevens@dnr.state.mn.us, or by calling 651-297-3287.

Written or verbal comments will also be accepted at the local fisheries office up to 10 days following the meeting.

Grinding Day at Old Mill State Park

Tall grasses wave in the wind. The steam whistle blows. The grinding sound of a granite mill wheel fills the air. It's Grinding Day at Old Mill State Park, located between Newfolden and Argyle. On Sunday, Aug. 28, the public is invited to "step back in time" to experience life on the prairie in the late 1800s.

The Lars Larson family homesteaded this area and built the mill that becomes the center of attention at this annual event. An actor portraying Lars Larson Jr. will greet visitors to the Larson cabin at the mill site and talk about his start in the new world. Visitors will be invited to step inside the settler's cabin to see what life was like in the late 1800s. A guided nature hike to the 120 - year-old Scotch pines that were planted by Lars Larson Sr. between 1882 and 1884 will also be available.

At the mill, Marshall County Historical Society volunteers will start the granite millstones turning by firing up the Case 359 Steam engine, one of the few operational examples of its kind in the United States, and From 1 to 4 p.m., volunteers will demonstrate the workings of the mill and how grain is ground into flour. Visitors will be able sample fresh wheat bread and homemade jam thanks to the Friends of Old Mill State Park. Aunt Cookie's Red Rhubarb Jam and fresh-ground flour and bran from the mill will be available for sale by the Marshall County Historical Society. Face painting, scavenger hunts and other old fashion pioneer games are planned for kids.

Visitors may bring a picnic lunch to enjoy in the park or purchase food and refreshments from the Viking Volcanoes 4-H club.

Old Mill State Park is located on Marshall County Road 39 approximately 12 miles east of Argyle on Marshall County Road 4; 11 miles west of Newfolden on Marshall County Road 4; or 17 miles northeast of Warren on Marshall County Road 3.

All programs are free and open to the public, however a Minnesota State Park Vehicle Permit ($25 annual or $7 day) is required.

Merle and Beulah Bjornrud went to the Valley Home and had a nice visit with Gladys Johnson and Gina Gunderson. Those in the nursing homes enjoy company so much. I'm sure they get lonely. Merle and Beulah also went to visit Vernice Larson at Oakland Park. May God bless all those who are in the nursing homes.

Brady's story offers an example of how kindness can balance violence

We often read with regularity the headlines from much bigger cities recounting cruelty of incredible magnitude. It happens so often and with such frequency now that we often shrug our shoulders at the news with detached indifference, and say, It doesn't happen here. Unfortunately, when it does happen here or to someone we know, the magnitude of the violence tears away the callous indifference we've developed with little remorse for our feelings.

The story of Brady Anderson was one of those stories.

We were touched by the story of Brady's recovery. His recovery is nothing less than remarkable, some might even say miraculous.

We were touched by the suffering it caused the family. Paula Anderson stated it quite well when she said, "You feel like you're a piece of china with a thousand cracks, and one little touch and you're just going to fall apart."

How could it not?

It was a stupid and tragic event. That it affected so many should not surprise us.

The senseless violence, however, stands in contrast to the outstanding goodness and love demonstrated by Brady's friends and citizens of the community. We hope the kindness expressed by so many renews hope and serves as an inspiration by example to many others.

Lions and tigers and...another dumb idea

This isn't Africa...

The radical proposal to transplant African wildlife to the Great Plains of North America is about as farfetched as the plan to turn the Midwest into a vast Buffalo Commons. At least the Buffalo Commons idea had the sense to work with animals native to North America.

In North America, efforts to protect and reestablish many species, including bison, wild turkeys, bald eagles, wolves, elk and mountain lions, have met with considerable success. Why introduce large animals from Africa to the "vast plains" of the Midwest when there are North American species that could benefit from the same kind of effort?

Scientists and citizens of the United States have worked hard to reestablish many species, so why can't that be done in Africa? Why not focus on the problems of Africa in Africa?

Rather than "restoring" biodiversity, such a move would likely disrupt the balance that already exists.

Proponents argue that they aren't planning to back a truck up to some dump site and turn loose a bunch of elephants. The sites would be fenced.

That should put everyone at ease; especially, after recent media accounts of obvious problems involving exotic animals. Exotic animals, even native species, can be dangerous. As one individual pointed out, lions eat people. I don't know about you, but I rather like my position on top of the food chain.

The idea of "restoring biodiversity" on this continent to a condition closer to what nature was like before humans overran the landscape is half-baked. Current African species never existed on the North American continent so restoration can never be achieved. Rather than "restoring" biodiversity, such a move would likely disrupt the balance that already exists.

Many visitors already consider seeing bison on the plains as the highlight of their visit. Residents of the Great Plains are making great strides in learning how to promote the unique aspects of living here that makes it a great place to visit. Its abundant and natural wildlife is a great selling point.

Introducing African wildlife to the Great Plains of North America is just another dumb idea we can chalk up to academic arrogance.

Hugoson: Renewable fuels provide energy efficient alternative

by Gene Hugoson
Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner

Once again, renewable fuels opponents have come up with a study challenging the energy efficiency of ethanol and biodiesel. Once again, the study has not been able to hold up under close inspection.

As it turns out, this latest study has gaping holes. Experts from federal and state government, as well as the private sector, have reviewed the study and found evidence of sloppy math and assumptions that suggested a lack of understanding of modern agriculture.

For example, the study relies on outdated ethanol and corn production data. According to U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) experts, the study's authors assume an average ethanol production yield of 2.5 gallons per bushel of corn. That is 4 percent below the industry average as calculated by USDA and as much as 16 percent below the yield achieved by newer plants. This reliance on old production data is particularly damaging to the study's credibility because corn production and ethanol production have become much more efficient in recent years.

It's easy to see how even unbiased researchers could have come to a wrong conclusion using flawed data, but there is reason to question the researchers' objectivity as well.

Author Tad W. Patzek heads a group called the UC Oil Consortium. The consortium was founded to conduct cooperative research with the oil industry and provide laboratory and training services for the global oil and gas industries. Current consortium members include Chevron and Phillips Petroleum, and other oil giants have provided financial support for the group's activities. David Pimentel, the other author, is a professor emeritus in entomology – the study of insects. Past USDA analyses of Pimentel's work indicated that he overstates the energy needed to grow corn and produce ethanol.

For a more accurate and up-to-date view of ethanol's merits, consider a 2003 study from USDA. This study found a gallon of ethanol yields 67 percent more energy than the amount spent to produce it. In comparison, the same study found conventional gasoline yields 20 percent less energy than the amount spent to produce it.

Beyond the question of energy balance, it is clear that ethanol and other renewable fuels have a leg up on conventional gasoline when it comes to economics and the environment. Ethanol supports thousands of Minnesota jobs and generates $1.3 billion for the state economy. Minnesota's environment also benefits from ethanol because it reduces fine particulate emissions. The use of ethanol in Minnesota's gas is one reason the American Lung Association recently praised the state for its "green" energy policies.

Finally, and perhaps most important of all, ethanol helps reduce our alarming dependence on foreign oil. This particular benefit of renewable fuels becomes more important with each spike in prices at the gas pump. Given a choice between investing in Minnesota farm fields and Middle Eastern oil fields, I know where I'd rather send my gas money.

Human Rights: Time for another historic step

HAVA will be viewed as a great milestone in history

by Mary Kiffmeyer
Minnesota Secretary of State

This is a summer of historic human rights anniversaries in America.

It was 85 years ago, on Aug. 26, 1920, that the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was ratified, granting women the right to vote.

It was 40 years ago, on Aug. 6, 1965, that President Lyndon Johnson signed into law the Voting Rights Act, which in later years was strengthened with amendments to affirm the rights of non-whites to vote and be represented fairly in government.

It was 15 years ago, on July 26, 1990, that President George H.W. Bush signed into law the Americans with Disabilities Act, guaranteeing equal opportunities for people with disabilities in public accommodations, commercial facilities, employment, transportation, government services and telecommunications.

Today, I think we all can be pleased to say the rights of women and non-whites to vote and participate in government are hardly questioned.

In a couple of years, parts of the Voting Rights Act will be up for reauthorization. Today, the act is accepted as so unquestionably right that U.S. Representatives Dennis Hastert (R-Illinois) and Jim Sensenbrenner (R-Wisconsin) already are stepping up to offer reauthorization legislation. Currently, a commission is traveling the nation to hold hearings about the reauthorization, given the enthusiasm of Congress to move on this issue, it is likely that the act will be reauthorized long before the commission's report is even published.

As for the rights of voters with disabilities, progress has been made. Progress will continue to be made for voters with disabilities and indeed for all voters because of the Help America Vote Act (HAVA) of 2002. Already, HAVA has taken our country a long way in ensuring voters' rights to access, accuracy, integrity and privacy – including independence – in casting their votes. The challenges are complex but, in advancing human rights, well worth tackling.

Technology now exists to allow our society to do what our hearts always hoped to do: Meet the challenge of ensuring the dignity of every person, in voting and in life generally.

Federal money recently was made available for improving polling place accessibility. Also, the Minnesota Legislature this year authorized the expenditure of federal funds to purchase assistive technologies for voters with disabilities. Starting in 2006, voters with disabilities will be able to vote privately and independently – something that people without disabilities take for granted – by using what might be thought of as a sophisticated "pen" to mark their ballots, rather than relying on someone else to do it for them. The voting equipment we will be installing in Minnesota will be a type that can be used by anyone, with or without a disability.

Polling place accessibility improvements and assistive voting technologies are just a start.

People with disabilities have raised awareness of their desires to be independent. For this they should be applauded. They're helping to advance human rights that probably will be appreciated by more people than currently know it. None of us can know when we might need accommodations, either temporarily or permanently. Considering our aging population, I think issues of rights for people with disabilities will become increasingly prominent.

Upon complete implementation, I believe HAVA will be viewed as a great milestone in the history of voter rights in our country. I think it will help to bring closer the day when the rights of voters with disabilities are as accepted and embraced as the rights of women and minority voters are today.

Sen. Dayton denounces special interest gun liability bill

Calling it a giveaway to the National Rifle Association, U.S. Sen. Mark Dayton has expressed his disappointment with the Senate Republican majority for its effort to push through and pass the Protection of Lawful Commerce in Arms Act (S. 397), before the August recess. The legislation, also known as the gun liability bill, allows the manufacturers and sellers of firearms to enjoy special immunity from liability, even in cases of gross negligence and recklessness, which no other American industry has.

"The Senate's passage of the gun liability bill, which protects gun manufacturers and distributors from liability for negligence, is one of the most disgraceful actions that I have seen since I joined this body, four and half years ago," said Dayton. "This legislation has absolutely nothing to do with protecting Americans' Second Amendment rights, which I fully support. This is about meeting the demands of a powerful special interest group, and it demonstrates the full extent of the gun lobby's influence in the Senate."

S. 379, which the president is expected to sign into law, will prevent most civil lawsuits against the gun industry. Had this bill passed in 2004, the victims of the D.C. sniper shootings would have been stripped of their right to a fair day in court. Instead, the D.C. sniper victims and their families were awarded a $2.5 million settlement from Bull's Eye Shooter Supply, the dealer who "lost" the snipers' assault rifle, along with at least 238 other guns, and Bushmaster, the assault weapon maker who negligently supplied Bull's Eye, despite its disgraceful record of missing guns and regulatory violations. Furthermore, as part of the settlement, Bushmaster agreed to inform its dealers of safer sales practices that should prevent other criminals from obtaining guns – something Bushmaster had never done before.

The American Bar Association and the International Brotherhood of Police Officers opposed S. 397, as did Minneapolis Police Chief William McManus.

The Senate adjourned for recess until Labor Day. This bill was given higher priority than the FY 2006 Defense Authorization Bill, in which Dayton was planning to offer an amendment that would add $120 million for child care and family support for the families of reservists and National Guard men and women. The defense bill also authorizes the funding of all military programs for the coming year.

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

Giant 172-Foot Balloon Lands At Middle River

"A giant plastic balloon, 172 feet in diameter, which had been released early Monday at International Falls, attracted the attention of a large number of Thief River Falls residents when it passed over this city Monday evening at 8 o'clock at a height of 15 to 20,000 feet. The balloon, one of a series being set aloft by the U. S. Air Force air research and development command, landed Tuesday at 7:45 a.m. at a point two miles southeast of Middle River. It was located by a plane of Winzen Research, Inc., which radioed the location to two cars from International Falls, which went to the scene and brought the balloon and its contents to the local airport.

"The giant bag, which reached an elevation of 110,000 feet, carried two capsules containing 200 white mice. Nearly all of the white mice were found to be in excellent condition after the flight, only a few being dead. They were flown from this city Tuesday afternoon to research headquarters in Minneapolis.

"The purpose of the balloon launchings into the stratosphere, it was explained, is to probe the hazards of flight in this area."

New Owner Takes Over Two Cab Lines

"Ole Fladeland, recently of Red Lake Falls and a native of Reynolds, North Dakota, Monday took over the ownership of the two local taxi firms formerly operated by H. A. Dietz as Dietz Cabs and by Olaf Homdrom as City Cab.

"Fladeland said he will operate five cabs, and also will maintain two wreckers to provide service to AAA members.

"Married and the father of three children, Fladeland will be joined here by his family September 1. He formerly lived for ten years in Boston, Massachusetts.

"Mr. Dietz, who has operated his cab line in this city since the fall of 1937, stated that he planned to continue as a driver for the new firm after taking a short vacation.

"Olaf Homdrom has accepted a position as safety and job training supervisor with the State School of Science at Wahpeton, North Dakota, and will live at Jamestown, moving their with his family September 1."

Jaycee Water Show Witnessed By Huge Audience

"A huge crowd assembled at Tindolph park Sunday to witness the enjoyable water sports show staged under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. A large number of water skiing adepts, both young men and women, thrilled the spectators with their expert performance and more than twenty motor boats took part in a parade that opened the program together with a concert by the Legion municipal band. Ideal weather favored the occasion."

New Court House Occupancy Put Off

"Due to delays arising from a variety of causes, it appeared this week that the new Pennington county court house will not be completed and ready for occupancy until some time in the last half of September, County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr announced. He added that the last of the furniture for the new structure is scheduled for shipment August 26."

"A delightful party last Thursday evening had for its hostesses Mrs. Godfrey Larson and Miss Mabel Stokke, who entertained a group of friends at the home of the former in honor of Mrs. Fred Lass of Vermillion, South Dakota, nee Belle Vignes, a bride of two months. The evening was spent in a social manner and a luncheon was served by the hostesses at a late hour. The guest list included Mrs. Lass, Mrs. Edna Anderson, Mrs. R. J. Joringdal, Mrs. Morris Odegaard of Hazel, Mrs. Ed. Stokke, and the Misses Clenora Urdahl, Olive Olson, Esther, Hilda and Betsy Ness, Olga Lund, Belle Sagmoen, Grace Mostue, Lillian Erickson and Ruth Samuelson."

For Lucy Warner

"The Misses Gladys and Laura Bowers were hostesses at a shower given Saturday afternoon at their home in compliment to Miss Lucy Warner, who will be a bride this month. The afternoon was spent hemming towels and a six o'clock supper was served by the hostesses. Miss Warner was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Those participating in the affair were Misses Lucy Warner, Gladys and Laura Bowers, Leonore Lieberman, Margaret Thill, Viola Baker, Peggy Shaw, Katherine Patton, Marguerite Barzen, Lenore Jaranson, and Mrs. J. C. Holte and Mrs. Charles Dostal."

FROM THE UPPER FALLS

THE NEWS, JOHN W. EASTMAN, PUBLISHER — AUGUST 24, 1905
THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

Soo After the Business
Farmers Will Get a Good Price for Grain
Elevators Will Not Be Allowed to Form a Combination This Year

"If rumors in circulation are true, and it seems very probable that they are, farmers along the Soo line near the Great Northern completion points are going to get a good price for their grain this year. The Soo is going after the business of hauling wheat in the northern part of North Dakota and also in this section and will pay a much better price than ever before. Heretofore the elevators on the Great Northern line have been more or less under the management of one concern and as a result they have charged the farmers a good margin for hauling their grain. The Soo, it is said, has informed the elevator men on its line that they will have to compete for business this year and that they will not be allowed to form any combination with elevators on the Great Northern. This will mean a war between the elevator companies on the two roads and the farmers will get the benefit."

Is It Public Property?
City Attorney Lee Says the Reserve Is
People Who Own It Say Otherwise and Are Not Worrying Any

"City Attorney H. W. Lee has filed a report for the city council stating that it was his opinion, although he had not gone into the case thoroughly, that the so-called reserve along the river bank on the East Side was public property.

"The matter was brought to the attention of the council at the last regular meeting by W. A. Kratka and others, who asked that this reserve be opened up and the council referred the matter to City Attorney Lee.

"A large portion of this property is not in the hands of private parties, having been sold by Wiley Tindolph, who owned the property before it was platted into city lots. Those who have purchased, or at least a number of them, have had attorneys look up the title and they report that it is the best title that can be obtained and can never be taken away from them.

"In this connection it is stated that the street back of the Methodist church property is not public property, but that the title to this is owned by private parties, although it has been used as a street for years and was intended to be a street by the parties who platted the land."

The Split Log Drag
Road Built With One South of Town
A Fine Illustration of What Others Could Do at Little Cost

"There has been a great deal of talk in the papers of this section of late regarding the merits of the split log drag in the building of good roads. They are so simple and cheap to make, that every farmer could have one by a small amount of energy, but we have heard of only one operation.

"Mr. Charles Elgsten of the town of Rocksbury, has used a split log drag from his farm on the east side of the river north to Greenwood cemetery, the city limits of Thief River Falls. As all will remember, this road has always been a very rough clay road and in wet weather almost impassible. By the use of only a split log drag, this piece of road has been converted into one of the best highways in the state of Minnesota, and the cost of getting it in this fine condition has not been great.

"In Missouri, where the split log drag originated, each farmer runs one from his own front gate to his neighbor's front gate toward town. If the farmers around here would get the 'Missouri habit' we would soon have fine roads, and Mr. Elgsten has demonstrated that the split log drag is alright."

Sold a Corn Binder
First One Ever Sold by a Local Dealer
M. C. Burns the Seller and Peder Engelstad the Buyer

"The first corn binder ever sold by a Thief River Falls machinery dealer was delivered last week by M. C. Burns to Peder Engelstad, the well known Rocksbury farmer. A similar binder was sold a few years ago by a St. Hilaire dealer, but there are not many of them in use in this section, although in the near future this will surely become a great corn country.

"Mr. Engelstad is one of the progressive farmers of the town of Rocksbury and is a good example of what intelligence, push and energy can accomplish upon a piece of land in this section. Starting not so very many years ago, with but a small capital, he now has one of the best improved farms in this section of the state, a large amount of good grade stock and is in decidedly comfortable circumstances."

Progressing in Good Shape
Bulman Brothers have a Crew of 25 Men at Work

"Sex Bulman came down from the Red lake country the first of the week. He reports that the Bulman Brothers now have a crew of twenty-five men at work logging on the Tamarac river getting out logs for the Thief River Falls Lumber company. Everything is progressing in a satisfactory manner and by the time it freezes up a large amount of logs will be on the skids ready for hauling. No hauling will be done until after it freezes up. The wet weather has caused the making of roads a problem, but where the pine is being cut it is good and dry."

Want Ad

"Teacher Wanted: To teach a five months term of school at Jelle, Beltrami county, Minnesota, to commence August 15, 1905. Wages $35 a month. Applicants please write to Jacob Anderson, Jelle, Minnesota."

150 Feet Down and No Water
Work Delayed on Account of Lack of Pipe

"The matter of drilling for water for the water works plant has been delayed for a few days, the city being out of pipe. The well is now down to 150 feet and no water has yet been discovered. How far the city will have to drill is a matter of speculation.

"The iron for the water works tower and tank has not yet arrived and it will probably be close to the first of November before the whole system is completed and accepted by the city."

Post Office to Be Removed
Will Go into the Dobner-Meehan Building

"It is quite probable that the post office will be removed to the Dobner-Meehan building when it is completed, although this is not yet a settled fact. Postmaster Richardson favors the move and it is quite probable that the post office department at Washington will act upon the matter in a short time and abide by the recommendation of Mr. Richardson.

"The move will not only place the post office in more suitable quarters, but it will be located in about the business center of the town and will be sure to give general satisfaction to all of the patrons of the office. The removal will be about October 15."

Minnesota job vacancies are down over the year

Minnesota job seekers are competing for fewer employment opportunities than last year, according to the latest Minnesota Job Vacancy Survey released by the Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development Labor Market Information Office. Job vacancies in the state are down by 10 percent from one year ago to 58,839 or five job vacancies for every 10 unemployed people.

Despite a general decline in openings, a number of industrial sectors in the state are showing strong hiring demand. Health care had another strong performance with health care support vacancies up 38 percent. Vacancies in management occupations were up 66 percent over last year. Architecture and engineering openings also grew with nearly twice as many job vacancies during second quarter 2005 compared to last year.

"The survey results are consistent with the employment trends we have seen over the past few months, said DEED Commissioner Matt Kramer. "The Minnesota Job Vacancy Survey is an excellent source for determining which occupations are currently in demand in Minnesota."

The biannual Minnesota Job Vacancy Survey began in the fourth quarter of 2000 and is the nation's longest-running survey of job opportunities. More than 10,000 employers across Minnesota were surveyed during the second quarter of 2005. The next Minnesota Job Vacancy Survey will be conducted during the fourth quarter 2005.

Major findings from the latest Minnesota Job Vacancy Survey are available online at www.deed.state.mn.us/lmi.publications/jobvacancy.

Retka reviews new manufacturing textbook

The manufacturing world can be complicated. Even for those who have worked their entire careers in manufacturing, there are always new technology and skills to learn. It's for those reasons that the National Council for Advanced Manufacturing (NACFAM) created the Manufacturing Skill Standards Council (MSSC) and developed a series of skill standards that are modernizing industry and education.

"The skill standards were created by the congressional National Skill Standards Act in 1994 and from there we worked to define what a manufacturing worker needs to know and be able to do on the production floor," explained James Retka, manufacturing specialist in the Center for Outreach and Innovation at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC).

The development of standards was a collaboration between 110 corporations and national trade organizations, 27 labor unions and professional societies, and 52 educational providers. In late 2000, the MSSC completed the development of the first and fundamental component of the system – the skill standards. The MSSC Skill Standards, called "A Blueprint for Workforce Excellence," are the product of over two years of intensive field research involving more than 700 companies, 3,800 workers, 300 subject matter experts and 30 facilitating organizations.

Retka has been a member of MSSC for more than five years, and for the past year and a half, participated in the development of assessment modules, used to gauge the proficiency of those involved in manufacturing's many roles.

Retka said that from a manufacturer's standpoint, testing can provide insight into employees best suited for positions. "[Supervisors] will immediately begin to recognize the value of the employee to the organization," Retka said.

He explained that there is also great worth for a manufacturing employee to participate in testing, including higher pay scales, greater opportunities for advancement, and having a certified skills set that can transfer to another employer.

During the time that MSSC was working on the assessment, the council was also working with international publisher McGraw-Hill.

The publishing company was working on a new textbook tied closely to the national skill standards and assessment system, "(and) they were pleased to get another reviewer from education with manufacturing expertise," Retka explained.

In 2004, Retka became involved in the textbook following an MSSC Subject-Matter Expert Workshop he attended in Indianapolis.

Retka contacted John Gorman, senior editor at Glencoe/McGraw-Hill, and was soon receiving manuscript chapters. "I would review the chapters for accuracy of content and contribute graphics or artwork where appropriate," Retka said.

Over the course of a year, he was involved with the book, "High-Performance Manufacturing: Portable Production Skills." The textbook is the first of its kind, looking into manufacturing skills, how to prepare for them, and, more importantly, how to test for them.

"Before this, nothing really existed as a study guide into manufacturing skills," said Retka. "The textbook, complementary Manufacturing Applications workbook, and Instructor Resource CD help to crosswalk skills needed in 14 sub-sectors of manufacturing, and is the most broad-based effort in identifying and testing for core skills to date," he went on to say.

"Jim was great to work with," said Gorman. "Every chapter he sent in contained valuable information and high-quality input."

In fact, Gorman was so impressed with Retka's work on the book that Retka was the first person he called to review the book and prepare it for reprint. "That's how impressed I was with his input," Gorman said.

The book was released in April and is being sold to educational institutions and incumbent workers. It is available internationally and through mass retailers such as www.amazon.com.

Retka hopes the textbook will soon be used in NCTC's own Manufacturing Process Technology program.

"Students in manufacturing programs are working on assessments as part of their graduation requirements. This book can assist in preparing for certification," Retka said.

He would like to see manufacturing skill standards become as widely accepted as the ASE certification is in the automotive industry. Testing, as part of the skill standards, will soon be available at the ACT Testing Center, on the Thief River Falls campus of NCTC. Retka explained that a client pays a one-time registration fee of $50, and each testing module has a $45 fee. There are four assessment modules available for complete certification as an MSSC Production Technician.

Retka says that he sees his association with MSSC and Glencoe/McGraw-Hill continuing. "There will be textbook revisions and support materials like lab workbooks. I hope to stay involved."

The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce recently presented Animal Xing with its First Dollar of Clear Profit. Jamie Dallman (center), manager, and "Annabell" accepted the dollar from Chamber Ambassadors Kermit Genereux, representing Genereux Realty, and Edie Brandli, representing Mary Kay. Animal Xing is located at the former Fashion Boutique store, 212 Third St. E. It sells birds, rats, chinchillas, dwarf rabbits, hedgehogs, dwarf hamsters, hamsters and guinea pigs. It will soon sell snakes, kittens and some lizards. The business, which is licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will also take customers' requests. ## Grinding Day at Old Mill

Council authorizes closeout of crosswind runway grant

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Three years and millions of dollars later, the Thief River Falls City Council has authorized the closeout of a cost-share grant for the crosswind runway. However, that was after a lengthy discussion Aug. 23 about the costs associated with that project.

The discussion ensued after council members were presented with a cost analysis of the project at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport. They were told the original 2002 total budgeted amount for the project was about $3.83 million for engineering, land and construction costs. However, they learned that the actual cost was about $4.04 million, including about $88,000 that resulted from a mathematical error. The council later negotiated the amount it would pay for that error.

For more than 10 years, city officials have been discussing the crosswind runway. Construction began in 2003, and the 5,000-foot crosswind runway was slated for completion in summer 2004. Signage issues delayed the opening of the crosswind runway. In January 2005, a plane landed on the crosswind runway for the first time.

Brian Grund, an engineer with Freeberg & Grund of Bemidji, appeared before the council to discuss the matter. He noted the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) had additional discretionary funds that could be used for the project. Hence, he was in the process of closing the first airport grant.

Grund added that he is still in the process of closing the second airport grant for the lighting of the crosswind runway. That grant will be closed once a contractor fixes a navigational aid on the crosswind runway. The navigational aid is "off slightly," said Grund, who noted it did not meet specifications. The contractor, however, has been at the airport to fix the problem and will have to speak to the manufacturer about it. Grund said he hopes to close that grant in two weeks.

Ag disaster declared in area

17-county area declared agricultural disaster areas

Gov. Tim Pawlenty announced Friday that 17 Minnesota counties, mainly in northwest and north central Minnesota, have been declared agricultural disaster areas due to excessive rainfall earlier this year. Farmers in these designated areas will be eligible to receive assistance from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), specifically the low-interest Emergency Loan Program administered by the Farm Service Agency (FSA).

USDA Secretary of Agriculture Mike Johanns made the declaration after a request by Pawlenty in late July. The request was made following the receipt of Damage Assessment Reports from each of the affected counties that received excess rain, hail and high winds from the first week of May through mid-July.

Commissioners' hands are tied

Board must wait 90 days to take action in Comstock situation

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

As anticipated, recently departed commissioner Arden "Bud" Comstock was absent from the Aug. 23 meeting of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners, while he pursues a career opportunity in Florida on a self described "extended vacation." His leave and its potential affects were discussed by commissioners.

Comstock informed County Auditor Ken Olson of his decision to leave Thief River Falls for an unknown duration on Tuesday, Aug. 16, stating that he would be leaving for Florida on Wednesday (Aug. 17).

Olson stated that he had conversed with Association of Minnesota Counties Executive Director Jim Mulder about the process of removing a commissioner and the type of participation allowed for a commissioner who is unable to attend meetings. Olson stated, based on his research and

Culture

School Board hears choir curriculum

by David Hill
Editor

Monday, Aug. 22, Darcy Reese outlined her proposed cultural diversity curriculum to representatives on the board of education for School District 564 in Thief River Falls. The curriculum takes a hard look at the challenges and issues faced by American Indians, blacks, and Jews.

Reese said she's excited about the curriculum, which will be challenging for her students. She added that it will get these white, Norwegian Americans out of their comfort zone.

The curriculum will be divided up into three sections. The concert will be in May and she would like to take the students on a tour of Washington, DC, and New York, N.Y., June 13-19.

If you're not from this area, you might not know that Darcy Reese is the Lincoln High School choir director and that she was talking about a curriculum for choir students. You might also not know that Reese has made a career of developing talented voices by presenting students with challenging literature that not only teaches them about music but a lot about history, culture, and life.

Choir is a popular program at Lincoln High School. This year, 189 students have signed up for the choir programs. When the group goes on tour, generally 80 to 84 students go.

The theme for the curriculum she presented to the board of education Monday is "Woven Voices, Woven Threads." It will involve bringing professional musicians, choreographers, composers, and educators to Thief River Falls to work with the students. Three of the people she would like to visit the school sat

Heidi Hoks: A new design to her tapestry

Hoks leaves the TRF Public Library to become a regional coordinator

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Heidi Hoks

It's time for a new design on the tapestry of Heidi Hoks' life. Hoks, the library manager at the Thief River Falls Public Library, has taken a new position in St. Cloud. Wednesday (today) is her last day on the job in Thief River Falls.

Hoks is leaving the area to become the regional coordinator for youth services at the Great River Regional Library System in St. Cloud.

Hoks' time in Thief River Falls hasn't just centered around books and the library. She has shared her musical talent at local churches and has also worked on many Thief River Falls Community Arts Council (TRFCA) productions.

Given Hoks' background in the arts, it's only fitting that she compare her life and the community of Thief River Falls to tapestries. "Hopefully, I will have added to the tapestry of Thief River Falls, and I think each of us has a certain tapestry we work in the community and with each other," she said.

As part of her new job, Hoks will work on programs for preschoolers through teens in 32 libraries in central Minnesota. "That's just going to be like heaven on earth to me," said Hoks, who is looking forward to being closer to her mentors. She is also looking forward to shoe shopping at her favorite shoe store, DSW, as well as shopping at St. Cloud bookstores.

Besides working on programs for preschoolers through teenagers, Hoks will supervise the [illegible] six of the 32 libraries. Hoks will also work with collection development.

Her decision to leave Thief River Falls comes after more than two decades of service to the community. Twenty-two years ago, she accepted a job as the assistant director of the Northwest Regional Library System (NRLS). Over the years, her job was transformed due to budget cuts and staff problems.

"I went from programming to cataloguing to collection development all the time to grants writing to management of the library," said Hoks. "It's been an evolving [illegible]."

Hoks doesn't regret any of it

Man sentenced for felony refusal to submit to a blood-alcohol test

A Thief River Falls man was sentenced Aug. 22 in Pennington County District Court on a felony offense of refusal to submit to a blood-alcohol test.

Allan Wayne Chosa, 39, pled guilty to the charge. In a plea agreement, a felony offense of first degree driving while intoxicated was dismissed. Chosa was sentenced to 54 months in prison with credit for time served. On May 20, a Thief River Falls police officer observed Chosa driving in the wrong lane on Fifth Street. According to the criminal complaint, Chosa has at least three prior alcohol-related offenses in the past 10 years – including revocation and refusal to submit to a blood-alcohol test in 2001 as well as 2004; and for an alcohol concentration of 0.10 or more and revocation in 1997.

Dana Marie Dirks, 33, Thief River Falls, was sentenced Aug. 18 on a felony offense of malicious punishment of a child. A charge of fourth degree assault on a police officer was dismissed. Dirks was sentenced to 91 days in jail stayed for two years. She was also ordered to serve unsupervised probation for two years. Dirks was ordered to undergo an alcohol assessment and follow the recommendations in a Child in Need of Protection or Services (CHIPS) file. On July 15, police were dispatched to the 100 block of Main Ave. N., where Dirks was "beating up" a juvenile female. Dirks had punched the juvenile in the face. Dirks also threw a bench at a police officer and police officer intern. She called the police officer a vulgar name and punched him in the chest. As he brought her downstairs, she continued to resist arrest, charging him with her head and head-butting him in the chest.

Numerous traffic offenses and other misdemeanors are included in the latest edition of the Pennington County Citation Disposition Bulletin.

Minnesota signs on to national sex offender registry

On Aug. 22, Governor Tim Pawlenty announced that Minnesota has joined the National Sex Offender Public Registry, a cooperative effort between state agencies and the federal government to provide nationwide sex offender information to the public. The registry, which is accessible through an Internet Web site, allows the public to obtain information about sex offenders across the country without accessing each state's records individually.

"Minnesota is committed to keeping its communities safe from sexual predators," Gov. Pawlenty said. "The National Sex Offender Public Registry is an important way for parents and families to remain informed and engaged about what's happening in their neighborhoods and protect their most vulnerable from these predators."

The Web site, which is sponsored by the Department of Justice, allows a user to submit a single national query to obtain information about sex offenders through a number of search options, including state, county, city, name and zip code. The results will come up with a complete profile for the sex offender, including the offender's conviction.

Information about Level 3 sex offenders in Minnesota and sex offenders in the 27 other participating states and the District of Columbia is available at http://www.nsopr.gov/. States participating in the national registry are: Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, Nevada, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

The Minnesota Department of Corrections maintains a searchable database on Level 3 sex offenders in the state at http://www.doc.state.mn.us/level3/search.asp

State report cards are out

The state report cards for all public schools in Minnesota are available on the state's Web site at www.education.state.mn.us and at the Minnesota State Fair today. Our report cards are pretty much as expected from the test scores we received lately from the Minnesota Department of Education. We actually thought we may have received four stars in math at Challenger Elementary School (CES), but received three. We did receive four stars in reading at both CES and Franklin Middle School (FMS). Four stars are the result of very good scores on the state tests this past year in reading. Three stars indicate we are meeting the standards. Four stars or five stars indicate a level of performance that exceeds these standards. We have been putting extra emphasis on reading and our test scores are going up. This year, both FMS and Lincoln High School (LHS) are putting additional emphasis on reading in all content areas, so that should increase student test scores even more in years to come.

Last year, both LHS and our Area Learning Center (ALC) had four stars, so all of our schools have been demonstrating quality test scores in various areas at different times. Our goal, of course, is to demonstrate those high quality scores every year in both reading and math. As the state adds tests in science and social studies, we hope to do equally well in those areas. Although there are no standardized tests in other curricular areas, we do have measurements that indicate our music and arts curricula are very good as well as other areas in all of our schools.

We have some new curriculum in industrial technology this year that represents an advanced level in the area of automation and robotic education. This is part of an effort with the community college level in Minnesota as well as a degree that is being developed at the University of Minnesota. We also have College in the Classroom courses that we started last year in social studies, biology and foreign language. Our plans are to increase those opportunities for students in years to come.

All in all, we have tremendous opportunities for our students in ISD 564, and we are working every year to increase and improve those opportunities. No Child Left Behind, the federal education law, mandates that we provide excellence for all our students and that we demand high quality from all our students. We are embracing that challenge in our district. Indeed all schools in Minnesota are working to achieve that challenge. Minnesota is a leader in the nation in education, regardless of what measurement you use. We are at or near the top in all categories.

About 20 schools in our Northwest region, including ISD 564, heard a message from Dr. Willard Daggett last Wednesday morning in the Ralph Engelstad Arena. Daggett is a leading educational researcher from New York who travels internationally discussing the state of education in our United States and the challenges we face. He acknowledged Minnesota as a national leader in nearly every category as well. Daggett challenged all in attendance, however, that as good as we are, it is not good enough considering the state of education in the world as we relate to the world economy and worldwide demographics. As we have been saying in our school district these past few years, "We have to continually improve." Regardless of the benchmark, I believe we can honestly say that we are improving. We must not let up however. We must continue to seek ways to improve all that we do both academically and economically, and we must do it with our focus on each individual.

Daggett expressed it would be relatively easy to focus on excellence if we did not consider equity. It would also be relatively easy to focus on and attain equity if we didn't need to consider excellence. However, in our country, our challenge is to do both - at the same time - something that many other countries that we are measured against do not do.

We are in the hustle and bustle of fall already. As I write this article, we have had two days of workshops and have two days to go before school starts for the students Sept. 1. Everyone should be especially careful these first weeks in traffic as we have many students waiting for buses and crossing streets and highways. It is easy to become preoccupied whether you are the driver or the pedestrian. Use extra caution. Have a great September. God bless.

Haymond selected for national institute award

Torture, death and destruction practiced on a wide scale do not seem to be typical material for study in a university setting. Such subject matter became the meat of discussion for 22 scholars for five weeks this summer in College Park, Md. Dr. Jack Haymond of Northland Community and Technical College was selected to be one of these participants.

Sponsored by the Center for Renaissance and Baroque Studies at the University of Maryland, this institute titled "Inquisitions and Persecutions in Early Modern Europe and America" is one of a number of post-secondary seminars and institutes funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities. Selections were made on a series of criteria, which included developing an original research topic to be vigorously pursued during the period of the institute.

The institute was structured on three areas, Spain and its newly acquired possessions in the Americas after the century of Christopher Columbus; England during the century of religious turmoil that resulted in a civil war; and the early New England colonies. (With the exception of Rhode Island, the early English colonies often had callous records of favoring certain religions while discriminating against others.)

Haymond noted that the 400th anniversary of a grim mass assassination attempt will be "celebrated" this November. A plot by religious zealots in 1605 came very close to decapitating the English government and opening the country to invasion and civil war. The "Gunpowder Plot" was intended to blow up Parliament, kill the king and important nobility as well as leading judges all at once. Haymond noted that even today the foiling of this plot is celebrated with fireworks in Great Britain.

Numerous plots, especially to assassinate the king, took place in England over the next several generations. Haymond's research project centered on the instigators of two "false plots" against the life of the king. False accusations have been an effective means of attacking an opponent.

Haymond remembered his experience as being a wonderful opportunity to work with highly dedicated college teachers/participants and institute scholars and guest speakers who were accomplished in their areas. Haymond said that the group was interdisciplinary in that not only were historians involved but also faculty who specialized in Elizabethan and Spanish literature of the period.

Spying on my neighbors in the swamp

Since I moved into my swamp hut, I have been spying on the cast of swamp creatures with my binoculars from my perch in the crow's nest which hangs from my living room ceiling.

My favorite, hands down, is the family of trumpeter swans, still nine strong, whose seven young now imitate their parents by flapping their still featherless grey wings.

The young swans are skilled mimics. When one parent sticks its neck under the water to pull weeds off the swamp bottom, they all do the same. When the parents crawl up on the tuffets of grass to chew some reeds, the young ones waddle up to chew, too.

The swan family moves as a unit, usually with one parent in front and one in back. They can sit in one spot for hours and suddenly decide to cross the swamp, which raises the question: Why did the swans cross the swamp?

To get to the other side, I suppose, where there must be better tasting algae for them to sift through with their beaks as they swivel their long necks from side to side.

Second favorite are the great blue herons, lanky things which are equal parts beautiful and ugly, graceful and clutzy. Grand in flight, the long-necked herons become snake-like when they stealthily stalk the shallows for frogs and minnows, their beady yellow eyes only adding to their reptilian creepiness.

I didn't think my swamp was deep enough to keep any sort of fish alive, so I was shocked to see a blue heron nab a minnow and toss the quivering thing back like a shot of tequila. Turns out, birds restock their own food supply by dragging minnow eggs which have stuck to their legs into the shallow ponds each year. Clever!

It took a while to identify the green heron, a shy little thing which reminds me of the Spy vs. Spy character in Mad Magazine. If it didn't have a pink chest and greenish wings, it would be completely dowdy, a crow without curves.

As it is, the green heron bounces around on the dead sticks which stick up out of the swamp, the same unsightly sticks I was about to shave off with the skid-steer loader last winter when some force of nature, I think it is called gravity, caused me to go through the ice.

So, nature takes care of its own. Not only do the green herons love those sticks, but so do the dozens of ducks and flocks of songbirds which come and go as the season progresses. I can't very well scrape the sticks off next winter no matter how thick the ice gets.

After watching the birds, I also won't be able to saw down the big dead tree that gets in the way of my view. It is the favorite pecking place of a piliated woodpecker with its red spiked punk-rock hairdo.

Some critters are permanent residents; others just pass through. A pair of otters stirred things up a few weeks back, wrestling around, pushing each other off the logs, taking sudden runs at the ducks, who seemed to enjoy the game enough to flutter just out of range only to float back into the danger zone within seconds.

During a three-inch downpour last week, three great egrets settled into the swamp. Related to the herons, they are just as gawky, but a striking pure white. They hunched atop some stumps like creatures drawn by Dr. Seuss for the duration of the deluge before they up and left, apparently for good.

Early one morning, I caught a racoon stalking baby ducks. Stupid me, I didn't know racoons swam. I thought it was a beaver until the thing trundled up into the grass. It hasn't returned.

Neither has the actual beaver, which made a single trip across the swamp last spring before deciding that the place wasn't worth a dam.

During the dry spell, the water receded enough for some mud flats to emerge. During that time, what looked to be sandpipers came to drill for mucky treasure with their lengthy beaks. When the rains raised the water again, they left.

And so, I have already passed dozens of hours scanning the swamp for new critters, or for old ones acting in new ways. Work goes untouched, boxes of junk remain unpacked, tomatoes rot in the garden, but I am having too much fun spying on my neighbors to care.

Provost Kent Hanson rides with Biker Bob

On Tuesday, Aug. 30, Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) Trustee Emeritus Bob Erickson made his fourth visit to the campuses of Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC). But this year was different as Erickson made the 59-mile trek between the Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks campuses with NCTC Provost and Vice President Kent Hanson, Health and Fitness Instructor Anita Lizakowski and NCTC student Nick Ricks.

Lizakowski was the first person to enlist for the ride as a way to promote the new health and fitness program at NCTC-Thief River Falls. Once Hanson heard of the idea, he quickly signed on.

"I think this is also a great way to show that our campuses, which merged as one college in 2003, are only a bike-ride apart," Hanson said.

Erickson is currently on a 2,300-mile state bicycle tour to raise money and public support for part-time students. During the trek, which is expected to take 30 days, Erickson will tour all 53 campuses in the MnSCU System. Tuesday, he traveled from Bemidji to Thief River Falls to East Grand Forks.

Before participating in his fourth "Scholarship Challenge," the 59-year-old Erickson said, "Part-time adult students are not treated fairly by Minnesota's current financial aid program. The state needs to change its formula to give part-time students an equal opportunity."

In the first three years of his bike tours, Erickson, who lives in Bloomington, raised more than $228,000.

...It's back-to-school time again. Did you...

This week, backyards, city streets and playgrounds will be deserted as area children return to school. Parents will have a sigh of relief, knowing they have done the best they can to send their children back to school properly shod, shorn, scrubbed, garbed, geared, chastened and cautioned. Nonetheless, here is a last minute checklist that moms and dads can use to make sure they have done everything they should before school starts. Parents, did you...

- Buy the right clothes? This checklist item doesn't matter anyway, because, no matter how many cute outfits, new shirts and designer jeans you bought, your child will inevitably come home after the first day of school and tell you he or she absolutely has to have "such and such" brand of shirt or jeans because that's what all the other kids are wearing this year. This brand is always the one you didn't buy.
- Buy shoes? It is very embarrassing to send your child off to school in summer's grungy, worn-out sneakers because you forgot to buy new ones. Worse yet, it is even more embarrassing when the kids have to go to school barefoot because you can't even find summer's grungy, worn-out sneakers.
- Buy underwear and socks? These items are easily overlooked because what child cares about what is underneath everything anyway? Mark my words though, the kids will have a fit that first morning of school if they find out they have to wear old undies and socks. ("All the other kids will have new ones!")
- Buy notebooks, paper, pens, pencils, colored markers, crayons, erasers, rulers, scissors, glue, pencil boxes, note pads, binders, folders and anything else you can think of? These items don't matter either, because, no matter how many school supplies you buy before school starts (when they are handily on sale), the kids will come home after that first day of school with lists of things you didn't buy and they absolutely must have - by tomorrow - and none of it will be on sale. Of course, you didn't see hide nor hair of the lists before 8:30 p.m. the evening of the first day of school.
- Get your child's hair trimmed? This is one of those funny little things that you won't notice until about 8 p.m. the night before school starts. Suddenly, you will realize that Johnny or Janey looks like a sheep dog, and not a barber or beauty shop is open. Don't panic, and, whatever you do, don't get out the shears and try to do it yourself. Johnny or Janey will manage one more day with his or her shaggy locks. Anyway, they'll more than likely come home with all kinds of wonderful new hairstyle ideas after that first day of school.
- Sign all those forms you got in the mail? If you forgot, get busy and do it right now. And when you've finished, sharpen your pencil again because there will be a whole bunch more for you to sign - you got it - after the first day of school.
- Plan breakfast? Every child in town always has a big, bountiful breakfast on the first day of school. The children hardly ever eat their beautiful breakfasts, and they rarely have such a sumptuous morning meal again during the school year, but it is, after all, something parents do the first day of school. I think it shows how happy they are to see the kids go off to school again.
- Make sure you have lots of cash on hand? Children don't like it when you have to send them to school with a check for lunch and milk money. In fact, some children have been known to scream and jump up and down and scream, "NONE of the kids bring CHECKS for their lunch tickets!!!") Just for the sake of peace, keep some cash on hand. Besides, you will need it for the purchases you have to make between the first and second days of school, such as gym shorts, shirts, pants and shoes and those additional school supplies. You will also need money to pay for additional things on the second day of school, like activity tickets, insurance, yearbooks, participation fees and extracurricular dues.
- Check behind your child's ears? This is very important. Strange things have been known to accumulate behind a child's ears during the summer months. Children don't sit still long enough in the summer for parents to notice what goes on behind their ears. Once school begins, however, children are held captive in one spot for several hours in rows. In those rows, someone inevitably notices what is behind children's ears, especially after [illegible]. If there is something [illegible] there, it could be devastating to [illegible] social life.

Should you buy ID insurance and credit monitoring?

by Greg Tullis
FBM instructor, Moorhead

There are many horror stories of identity theft in the news. Along with these stories are offers of Identity Theft Insurance and Credit Monitoring that you can purchase from various vendors. Are these offers right for you? In some cases they may be, but be aware of free alternatives that may be available.

For $25 to $70 a year, you can purchase ID insurance. Identity theft insurance does not reimburse your stolen money, but it pays expenses such as lost wages (only up to $2,000 in some plans) and legal fees. Many don't pay when it's theft by family members, a common form of ID fraud. Should you buy it? According to MONEY magazine, you should buy identity theft insurance only if your time is literally money. If you run a small business or bill by the hour, for example, coverage for lost wages may be helpful.

Another service offered is credit monitoring which scans your files at one or all three of the major credit reporting agencies and alerts you to changes in your file and may cost $24 to $155 a year or more depending on the level of coverage. The higher-end monitoring services may even offer counseling and help with restoring your good name. Should you buy this service? Again, according to MONEY magazine, you should buy credit monitoring services only if you are a victim of ID fraud or burglary, or if you're a business owner or real estate buyer who can't afford any halt on your credit after an ID fraud.

Why not buy some of these services? You already are not liable for fraudulent Visa and MasterCard charges if you report the loss in a timely manner. You also can receive a free annual credit report from each of the big three credit agencies at www.annualcreditreport.com. By staggering your orders, you can see a report every four months. Be aware of sites that offer a free 30-day trial but charge rather large fees if you don't cancel. The truly free one is the Web site listed above.

The best policy is to reduce your risk in the first place. Shred personal documents, review your accounts regularly, and do not give personal information over the phone or e-mail to someone you do not know personally.

For more information about identity theft or credit monitoring, call Northland Community and Technical College at 1-800-959-6282 and ask for the Farm Business Management instructor nearest you.

SOCIAL SECURITY Q&A

Q: Can I file for disability benefits if I'm still working? My doctor said I should file for benefits but I do not want to stop working until I know if I can get Social Security.

A: You can file an application for disability benefits while still working but, depending on your specific situation, it may not be a good idea. A basic requirement for Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability related benefits is that the applicant must have a medical condition preventing substantial work activity for a period expected to last at least 12 months or expected to result in death.

Also considered are other factors such as your age, education and work experience. If you are working at time of application the SSA representative will need to evaluate your work activity to determine if it is substantial or not. If the work is substantial the application is usually denied without any medical decision being made. If the work is not substantial the claim is sent on for a medical decision.

Several items go into deciding if work should be considered substantial and this answer is not intended to be all inclusive. In 2005, gross earnings of $830 or more per month for a non-blind individual is an indication of substantial earnings but subsidies or special allowances made by the employer to help you continue work are considered as are special expenses incurred that enable you to work.

For comparison, say you have a serious illness but continue doing your regular work as normal and earning over the mentioned $830 gross per month in 2005 because you need the income. If you then file an application while still working it would likely be denied because your health was not preventing substantial work activity. However, if you are still working but, because of your health, had to greatly reduce your hours, change the work you were doing or make other changes so that your earnings are no longer substantial, the application would likely be sent on for a medical decision. A similar work evaluation process is used for the self-employed.

In summary, you can file an application for disability benefits while still working but, depending on your specific situation, it may not be a good idea. One last point: sometimes determining if work is substantial is a very clear cut decision and sometimes it is not. As always, filing an application gets you a formal decision with appeal rights. Speak to a SSA representative and then make your decision.

Reese told the board of education not to worry about the cost. She's on top of it. She has already begun raising money and has sent letters to organizations and individuals who have supported her in the past.

Reese said she will be visiting with students and parents this fall to gauge their support and interest in going on tour.

People's Poet

Lee Richards, on-air talent and reporter for Thief River Falls Radio, has proposed a performance of Robert Service's poetry. Richards explained that there has been some interest in the past for his recitation of the poetry of Robert Service, which he heard as a child from his father. He also proposed working with the drama department at Lincoln High School in developing a performance that utilized their talents. Any money raised from the performance would go back to the school.

Robert Service (1874-1958) was born in England, educated in Scotland and then lived in Canada, Paris, and the United States. His first experience in writing poetry took place in Whitehorse, Yukon, where he was asked to recite at a church gathering. His works include: "Ballads of a Bohemian," "Ballads of a Cheechako," "Bar-Room Ballads," and many others. An obituary in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph described him as the "people's poet."

Richards entertained the board of education with a short recitation of one of Service's poems.

Quality Compensation

Superintendent Irv Peterson discussed a meeting on Q-Comp that he attended. Peterson said a lot of questions were answered at this meeting, but that he's still not sure of all the specifics. In any event, he urged the board to pursue the proposal.

Q-Comp or Quality Compensation is a performance pay system that awards educators for their performance.

At its Aug. 8 meeting, the board of education approved a motion to submit a letter of intent to the Minnesota Department of Education and to develop a contract for the purpose of meeting Q-Comp regulations and promoting its implementation in the 2006-2007 school year.

The next meeting of the board of education will be at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 12, in the conference room of the District Service Center.

PARENTING TIPS

Preparing Your Child For School

Starting school is a big step in the life of a child (and his or her parents). Parents of young children often ask about what they can do to prepare their child for school: the first day and all the rest. These parents need to know that preparing children for school is like preparing them for life.

It happens little by little over a long period of time. It's not something you sit down and do in one hour.

Experts recognize that what you, the parent, do during the first years of your child's life will greatly influence his learning and his ability to learn. Parents, who are actively involved in their children's lives, help their children become more successful in and out of school. They can do this by spending time with them, talking with them, listening to them, and taking them places. If you would like to know more about what parents can do to stimulate their child's desire to learn, contact the Early Childhood Family Education program by calling 681-8670.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Have conversations with your child. In other words, exchange ideas, encourage your child to express his/her thoughts, listen as well as talk to your child.

Council authorizes closeout of crosswind runway grant

Grund also requested modifications to his project contract and referred to an $88,000 mathematical error he made.

Grund noted that the difference in budgeted and actual costs were due to several things, including "overrun things," materials testing and the mathematical error. Grund's error apparently occurred when he used a multiplier of 0.4037 instead of 1.4037.

Grund alerted Public Works Director Ron Lindberg about the error in an October 2004 e-mail, Lindberg said. Lindberg told Grund that if the FAA said it was an eligible expense and discretionary funds were available, Grund could request that the council make a modification to his contract.

"Is the FAA still willing to pay for your mathematical error?" Mayor Dale Wennberg asked.

"Yes," Grund said.

Even though the FAA is willing to pay for Grund's error, the fact that the city will also have to pay for a share of it did not sit well with some council members.

"I have a problem with this, especially your mathematical error," Wennberg said.

Grund responded that his firm provided its professional services as part of a negotiated contract. He noted the firm's hours did not change, but its overhead amount did.

"Like I said, it's a simple mathematical mistake," Grund said.

Referring to her business and the potential for accidentally marking merchandise at a low price, council member Harriet Worker said she would have to "eat" the price difference if she did such a thing.

"That's kind of a big mistake," Worker said about Grund's error.

"I agree," Grund said.

Council member Glen Kajewski asked about the number of construction days the firm spent at the airport since it needed to be on-site whenever construction crews were there.

Grund replied that he or his employees were at the airport whenever the contractor was there.

Kajewski also asked how many hours each day the firm's employees spent at the airport.

The firm's employees were there during the construction day – from about dusk till dawn, Grund responded. However, he never stated a specific amount of time.

"What is the city's share of what we're talking about tonight?" Wennberg said.

"It's about $29,000," Grund replied.

"Can you split the difference?" asked Worker. "Are you willing to eat part of it?"

Grund said he would be willing to do so. He later said, "Our fees for this are consistent with the work we've done anywhere else when all is said and done."

Wennberg noted that the project, when in the planning stages, was originally estimated at $2.5 million. He added that it became a $4 million project after the FAA found discretionary funds.

The project was redesigned for $20,000 at Grund's own expense, Grund said. Grund noted he volunteered to redesign it. "I'm not out to get the city," Grund said.

Grund had also requested $25,000 for an amendment to the contract for the second cost-share grant – for electrical work related to the crosswind runway. Due to the mathematical error for the first grant, he offered to reduce the $25,000 to $7,000. Grund would then pay the contractor out of his own pocket. The council unanimously approved that offer to make up for the mathematical error on the first grant. Therefore the city would save a portion of the $18,000 since the project is being paid through cost-share grants.

In another airport matter, the council approved authorizing City Administrator Jodie Torkelson or Lindberg to accept a grant award from the Department of Aeronautics. The grant will be used to update the airport master plan.

Ulteig Engineers of Detroit Lakes and Reynolds, Smith and Hills Inc. of Duluth received the low bid of $193,700 for the project, Lindberg said. Of that amount, he said, the grant will cover 95 percent, or $184,015, and the city will cover 5 percent, or $9,685, of that amount.

Following the open council meeting, council members met in closed session for about 40 minutes to discuss a personnel matter. The council then reopened the council meeting to the public.

City Attorney Paul Ihle explained the meeting was closed to discuss the employment of Wayne G. Johnson, who had two previous reprimands and had been charged with terroristic threats after a July incident. Ihle did not state why Johnson had been reprimanded in the past, however, he noted the council had reviewed Johnson's prior reprimands and the July police report while in the closed session.

(Johnson had been charged with terroristic threats after allegedly making threatening statements to a [illegible] Bakke Insurance employee.)

The council unanimously approved requiring Johnson to serve a five-day unpaid suspension. After that time, Johnson's employment would be terminated.

Johnson, who was employed as a water distribution foreman, was not present at the council meeting.

It is believed this was the first time in about three years that the council has closed a regular council meeting. It is also believed that this was the first time in at least three years that a personnel matter has forced the council to close a regular council meeting. However, it is not uncommon for city councils to close meetings for personnel matters given that it is against the law to discuss such matters in open meetings.

City Council approved advertising for a firm to clean and televise approximately 20,000 linear feet of the city's storm sewer system. Lindberg noted that accounted for about 20 percent of the storm sewers in the city. He anticipated that the cleaning and televising would cost less than $50,000. Quotes will be opened Sept. 9, and the lowest bidder will be awarded the bid Sept. 13.

The council approved an amendment to an existing contract with Ayres & Associates Inc. for additional engineering services on the city's dam. Steel stoplog design-work is among the services included under the contract amendment. The additional services under the amendment are estimated to cost a total of $9,500.

City Council approved renewing the lease with St. Bernard's Catholic School for the use of the gym at City Auditorium. The lease spans from October 2005 through April 2006 at a rate of $315 per month. As part of the approval, the council also referred the possible sale of City Auditorium to the Public Works Committee.

The council took a rezoning matter off of the agenda. The issue involved potentially rezoning Atlantic Avenue from Third to Eighth streets from General Industrial (I-2) to General Business District (C-2). The Planning Commission had recommended tabling action on the proposal to enable further review during the Comprehensive Plan planning process.

City Council approved the Jorde Second Subdivision preliminary plat. The plat included plans for 12 lots east of the Thief River Golf Club in North Township and west of Dewey Avenue.

The next council meeting is scheduled Sept. 13 at 5 p.m. at City Hall.

Commissioners' hands are tied

conversations, that there is no way Comstock could participate in board decisions without attending the meetings. He said if Comstock was in the state of Minnesota, interactive TV would be an expensive option, but he must be in state for that to be an option.

Olson repeated that Comstock is keeping his residence in Thief River Falls, he's keeping his house and said he might participate in some Pennington County Board meetings while working out of state.

Commissioner Bob Carlson said he was not happy with the situation and questioned, "If he keep's carrying a Thief River address and stays there until November or December, are we going to keep paying his commissioner's salary?"

Commissioner Don Jensen's response, "I don't know if we have much choice."

Olson described two scenarios in which Comstock could be removed from office. In the first scenario, based on Minnesota Statute 351.02, an elected official's office can be declared vacant if he/she establishes a primary residence out of the state, county, district or city that he/she was elected in. Olson noted that it can be difficult to determine which residence is primary.

The other scenario is based on Minnesota Statute Chapter 375.101. It states, "a vacancy in the office of county commissioner may be declared by the county board when a commissioner is unable to serve in the office or attend board meetings for a 90-day period because of illness, or because of absence from or refusal to attend board meetings for a 90-day period. If any of the preceding conditions occurs, the county board may, after the board by resolution has declared a vacancy to exist, make an appointment to fill the vacancy at a regular or special meeting for the remainder of the unexpired term or until the ill or absent member is again able to resume duties and attend county board meetings, whichever is earlier."

Responding to questions from commissioners, Olson stated that Comstock has not sold his house and may not have found a job in Florida and his leave could technically be considered on vacation.

Attending to a personal matter, Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin was not available to present a legal opinion.

Board approves payment to TRF Parking Lot Striping. Jerry Unruh of TRF Parking Lot Striping appeared before the board for the second straight meeting to discuss a disagreement in the total pounds of rubber crack sealant used on cracksealing project CP570506.

Unruh came before the board to dispute the cracksealing pound total of 74,500 pounds that the Highway Department claimed his business completed during the project.

Flaagan said boxes of rubber sealant were counted each day along the roadside by the contractor. He said [TRF Parking Lot Striping] would count box totals and the Highway Department's project inspector Roger Amundson, would double check the totals.

Regarding the payment of TRF Parking Lot Striping, Flaagan said he had conferred with Lou Tasa, assistant district engineer with Mn/DOT about the situation. Flaagan said Tasa agreed with the way the Highway Department was handling the situation.

Unruh presented a different point of view. He said that some days Amundson did not count box totals. Flaagan replied that on one occasion he wasn't going to, because the used boxes were not put out along the road, but he did anyway.

Unruh then made a startling accusation, that previous contractors were less than honest with their operations during projects.

[illegible] tacted Precision and they played shell games," Unruh said. "They put 36 boxes on the truck every morning and then they took a pallet off every night and they steal it. Precision takes a pallet and a half, Astech takes one pallet and they put 36 (empty) boxes on the truck in the morning so they're counted at night. I talked to ex-employees of Astech and its common practice...its ordered by Precision for a pallet and a-half a day to be stolen and by Astech for one pallet per day to be stolen. If we would've stole 36 boxes per day, we would've been out of rubber before we finished number three."

Flaagan responded that he didn't know how previous contractors would have stolen that large a quantity.

Unruh responded that the project inspector never checked totals in the morning. "I could've easily stolen 36 boxes. You guys have been screwed out of a semi load of rubber every single year."

Jensen responded, "It's hard to know if that's true or not."

"They told me that's the shell game they play—36 on the truck in the morning and out they go. Then they take a pallet at night and put it on the semi," Unruh said.

Jensen again responded, "I can understand how it could work, but I find it funny somebody wouldn't catch on to it."

"They're not the only ones that do it. I've been really educated this year."

Unruh also reiterated that his bid was for $71,925 to seal up to 105,000 at a unit price of 68.5 cents per pound. He added that the abstract for the bid read $71,925, "We did not bid by the pound. The way it is right now, I'm going to lose 25 to 27,000 because I did an honest, correct job on the site."

Unruh added that he did not steal any rubber and Commissioner Comstock counted the remaining boxes and subtracted them from the total of 105,000. Comstock announced his count of 79,200 pounds at the Aug. 9 County Board meeting.

Carlson questioned why there was more fuss over cracksealing this year than in previous years. "It hasn't been an issue in the 11 years I've been around here," Carlson said.

Unruh responded, "Because I'm honest."

Unruh later stated, "If I would've stole 36 boxes per day and did the shell game, you guys would be paying me, saying you did a damn good job Jerry, see you next year for the bid." He added that he can't be competitive when his competitors are allowed to steal.

Flaagan corrected Unruh's judgement saying, "If you'd put down all 105,000 pounds on 10 miles of road, you'd only be paid for half of the project.

After a 25-minute discussion, the board agreed to pay Unruh based on a work total of 79,200 pounds – an increase of $3,179 over the highway department's plans to pay TRF Parking Lot Striping for 74,500 pounds of cracksealing.

The request up from last year's county contribution of $80,466. # Ag disaster declared in area

Kittson, Roseau and Marshall counties received more than a 50 percent increase in normal precipitation. Corn and soybeans are most affected by excess moisture. In other areas, the moisture caused root rot in the sugar beet crop and some scab showing in harvested wheat.

"This agricultural disaster declaration will bring some needed assistance to farmers and their families," said Pawlenty. "One-fifth of all jobs in Minnesota are related to agriculture and it's important to help our farmers and related workers following this tough stretch."

Primary counties in the disaster declaration are Aitkin, Beltrami, Benton, Clearwater, Dakota, Grant, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Mille Lacs, Pennington, Roseau, Traverse, Washington and Wilkin.

Minnesota counties adjacent to these primary counties are also included in the Secretarial Natural Disaster Determination. They include Anoka, Becker, Big Stone, Carlton, Cass, Chisago, Clay, Crow Wing, Douglas, Goodhue, Hennepin, Hubbard, Isanti and Kanabec. Farmers in the following counties are also included: Mahnomen, Morrison, Otter Tail, Pine, Polk, Pope, Ramsey, Red Lake, Rice, Scott, Sherburne, St. Louis, Stearns and Stevens.

Farmers located in one of the primary or adjoining counties interested in low-interest emergency loans should contact their local FSA offices for more information.

Heidi Hoks: A new design to her tapestry

"It's been a wild and wonderful ride," she said.

Hoks has seen a lot of changes during her years as a Thief River Falls librarian. Over the years, the library's catalog has gone from a card catalog to a microfilm catalog to an automated catalog to now a web-based automated catalog.

That wasn't the only change Hoks has experienced. In the past, the library only carried print media and records. Now, its collection includes a variety of media.

The library also has to teach reference skills to the public. It's teaching the public whether certain Web sites are valid reference tools.

"It's actually more complicated now than with just books," Hoks said.

Those who have worked with Hoks have praise for her. "She was just so cooperative that it was fun to work with her," said Jerry Wigness, former Thief River Falls city clerk/treasurer who worked with her as part of his former job. He also noted Hoks, along with others, helped provide entertainment for the city's employee Christmas parties.

Hoks' boss, Barb Kalinoski, also has praise for Hoks' job performance as well as her work with the TRFCA. "She has a lot of talent," said Kalinoski, NRLS director, who has worked with Hoks for 22 years. "It's been fun working with her and watching her work with the talents she has."

"She is so organized," said Key Teeters Asp, who, as a costume designer, has worked with Hoks on many TRFCA productions over the past 15 years. "She never, never loses her temper. She's so diplomatic in how she works with people and gets things done."

"When she gets on stage, she lights up," Wigness said.

Hoks has loved working with the theater group as well as working with her co-workers at the library. Yet, for the past 2-1/2 years, she has known she has needed a change or, as she puts it, a new design for her tapestry. Hoks recalled that God's voice kept telling her to be patient.

Then while she was serving as stage manager for the TRFCA's summer production of "Beauty and the Beast," which she also directed, she received a sign. She heard the song "A Change in Me" being performed. At that moment, she said she knew "Beauty and the Beast" would be her [illegible]

"Suddenly, I heard the voice say, 'It's time,'" Hoks said. Apparently, some of the young performers thought it was time, too and almost went on stage before Hoks stopped them.

After the show closed, Hoks went to Chicago as part of her job responsibilities. Kalinoski returned a day before Hoks did. She e-mailed Hoks and told her to look at the Great River Web site and click on the employment link. Hoks did and found an advertisement for the regional coordinator position.

Hoks applied for the job and was among five people who were called to be interviewed for the position. "I thought, 'Whatever's God's will,'" said Hoks, who has always wanted to live in or near St. Cloud.

Then she had second thoughts about forcing her youngest son, Peter, to move just before his senior year in high school. Her fears were quelled when her son found he would be able to walk across the stage with his soon-to-be-former Lincoln High School classmates when they graduate in May.

It will be hard for both of them and Hoks' oldest son, Phillip, to leave Thief River Falls. "I loved my job," said Hoks. "I've loved my friends. I love my folks, but I'm walking towards a new life."

Even though she will be working in St. Cloud and living in Sauk Rapids, Hoks will return to Thief River Falls to serve as an artist-in-residence for a week in October.

"I hope the community knows that I've loved it," said the Thief River Falls native who moved back here about 22 years ago.

The community probably knows that she's loved it, and it loves her. "I think the community will miss her, and they're losing a good hidden gem, but we're all excited for her," said Heidi Timm, a library associate who has worked with Hoks at the Thief River Falls Public Library for a total of five years.

"She'll be terribly missed, but it is just so wonderful to see women fulfill their dreams," Teeters Asp said.

Hoks will be fulfilling her dream of providing library services to children. Even though she will be leaving to fulfill her dream, part of Thief River Falls' tapestry will remain etched on her tapestry, Hoks said. "A part of Thief River is always [illegible] with me."

And she will get a new design on her tapestry.

Want a quick story-time with kids?

Ever want a quick story-time with young children, but don't have the time to plan for it? The Northwest Regional Library System (NRLS) will have story-time kits available for check-out starting in September.

The Family and Daycare Story-Time Kits were developed to help adults provide a story-time with little preparation. Parents and daycare providers are familiar with the importance of reading to children as it prepares the children for success in school; the more a child is read to, the higher his or her chance of succeeding.

The kits are designed to give busy parents and daycare providers the resources needed to read to children. Each kit is based on a theme with books, suggested activities, craft ideas, finger plays and an enhancement toy or activity. The activities reinforce what children learn from the story.

Seventy kits were developed with funding from a Library Services and Technology Grant and are divided into five categories: Transportation (trucks, trains, space adventure); family (kids, dads and grandpas, bedtime); animals (farms, things that swim, dinosaurs); learning (ABCs and 1, 2, 3; colors); and other (snow fun, eating, hats). The kits are available at public libraries in Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Greenbush, Roseau, Warroad, Warren and Hallock/Karlstad.

For more information, contact Barb Jauquet-Kalinoski, NRLS director, at (218) 681-1066 or the local library.

TRF football at Crookston...

Prowlers start season Friday

There are some high expectations for Thief River Falls entering the 2005 high school football season. The Prowlers will be out to defend their North Country Conference title, and they hope to take advantage of the Minnesota State High School League reclassification that moved them from Section 8AAAA to Section 8AAA.

But those are season-long objectives. First order of business is trying to start the year with a win against area rival Crookston. The two teams will meet Friday at 7 p.m. at Widseth Field on the University of Minnesota-Crookston campus.

This will be the fourth straight year the two teams have met in Game 1. The Pirates have won the three previous meetings: 12-2 in 2001; 14-6 in 2003; and 32-12 a year ago.

The sports rivalry between the two communities maintained the intensity of the series over the years, even with the Prowlers classified Class AAAA and the Pirates Class AAA. Now there is a possibility of a post-season rematch.

Crookston is the only Section 8AAA team on Thief River Falls'' 2005 schedule. Six of the Prowlers' regular season games are against North Country Conference opponents Hibbing, Duluth East, Cloquet, Grand Rapids, Duluth Central and Duluth Denfeld. The other contest is a Week 3 home opener vs. Detroit Lakes, a team scheduled to join the North County Conference in 2006.

Crookston was the runner-up in Section 8AAA last year to eventual state champion East Grand Forks.

This year's edition of Thief River Falls football will be led by senior quarterback Michael Forney and anchored by a large defensive line.

Forney completed 62 of 106 passes for 1,045 yards and 11 touchdowns last year. He was intercepted four times. He stepped right into football practice after returning from the 2005 Under-18 Junior World Cup hockey competition Aug. 9-14 in Piestany, Slovakia; and Breclav, Czech Republic.

"Michael is an outstanding athlete," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm. "He is a Division I college prospect in both football and hockey. "His competitiveness and his leadership ability makes him stand out. He can make the plays. He throws a very catchable ball, and he can also run with it."

The Prowlers have featured outstanding running backs over the years, including Alec Holen, who rushed for 1,270 yards and averaged 10.95 yards per carry last fall. This time around, it will be likely be a group effort that nets those kinds of yards. The opening night starters will be senior Chad Johnson at fullback and senior Jon Drees, along with junior Michael Benedict, at the halfback spots.

Forney will not lack for receivers when he puts the ball in the air, according to Mumm. "We have a bunch of kids who can catch the ball," he said. A trio of seniors expected to be the top targets are Alex Carlson, Ryan Olson and Matt Nordhagen.

The offensive line is led by returning starter Ryan Brummund at center; Tony Dorn and Drew Kjono at the guards; Andrew BlackLance and Tanner Jensen at the tackles. BlackLance is a junior; the others are seniors.

"We've got a lot of size up front," pointed out Mumm. "We just have go out there and play aggressively."

It's that size that prompted Mumm to abandon the 3-5 defense employed by the Prowlers in the past in favor of a split-4, where tackles replace linebackers.

"We want to utilize our big tackles," he explained. ""We've got a lot of kids who can play for us in the line. We're going to be real physical up front."

There will also be a change in the secondary, mentioned Mumm, with the Prowlers using move zone coverage instead of their traditional man-to-man assignments.

"We'll be competitive – very competitive," promises Mumm.

Preseason injuries have been a nuisance, the coach acknowledged. Junior Andrew Peralta, expected to be one of the leaders in the defensive line, has been slowed by ankle injury suffered during a national summer wrestling tournament; senior running back/linebacker Lucas Genereux has been sidelined while a broken hand from baseball heals; and senior Kyle Trontvet, looking to play in the defensive backfield, left Saturday's Pigskin Preview scrimmages with a broken arm.

"Injuries in the preseason like that really bother me," said Mumm. "I really feel bad for Kyle. He's a senior and probably the hardest worker on the team. He never missed any of off-season workouts. It's a real shame when someone like that gets hurt."

Ashley Leister of the Prowlers lined up this baseline return during the 2005 Thief River Falls girls high school tennis team home opener against Grand Rapids. A senior. Leister played No. 1 singles against the Thunderhawks.

Baseball Thieves alive and kicking

■ Thief River Falls amateur baseball operation looking for players, money

by Mike Lundgren
Sports Editor

Chanc Keefe is willing to take another chance at organizing an amateur baseball team for the 2006 season. The player-manager of the Thief River Falls Thieves hasn't tired of the year-to-year challenge to find players and money – not yet, at least.

The 2005 Thieves went 11-12 while finishing second in the Norman-Polk League then putting together a 2-2 post-season Class C tournament run with wins over Ada and Cass Lake, along with losses at the hands of Crookston and the state-qualifying Moorhead Brewers.

"We finished about where I thought we would, maybe even a little better," offered Keefe. "We had a lot of young kids who had to get adjusted to using wood bats."

Amateur baseball returned to Thief River Falls in 1994 when former Lincoln High School players Corey Poole, Barry Dowers and Chris Nelson organized and ran a team that finished 14-7-1.

Howard Dalager, following a six-year stint as the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball coach, took on the Thieves' job in 1996. The program was on the verge of folding before Keefe stepped forward in 1999.

It's a challenge to keep the operation going, admitted Keefe. "You got to have players and money," he said. "This year, we had the players, but the money was not there."

Keefe figures the Thieves can run on a budget of about $2,000. A big part of the expense account goes to umpires. Keefe gave a special tip-of-the-hat to Mike Drury, who volunteered his umpire duties for the 2005 home opener. He also acknowledged the contribution made by Marty Collins of Budget, who donated baseballs this summer.

Many of the costs are out-of-pocket expenses covered by the players themselves. Transportation is done by car pooling – usually not a major problem since the Thieves' longest trip this year was to Ada.

Keefe was joined on the Thieves' 2005 roster by Ben Wiegelt, Paul Frank, Caleb Crapeau, Stacy Wiseth, Steve Wiseth, Dusty Gagner, Josh Langlie, Zack Collins, Courtney Skjerven, Gabe Carlson and Garrett Hoglo of Thief River Falls, along with Cory Cardinal, Adam Violet and Josh Remer of Red Lake Falls.

The job of keeping the Thieves going is both satisfying and frustrating, according to Keefe. An opportunity to continue playing a game they've learned to love since being introduced to the sport as a child is the draw for the players. However, with job and family commitments, fitting in time for baseball is sometimes a challenge for many players, he admitted.

And without financial support, money might also be a major factor in the Thieves' continued existence.

"We'll try it again next year," said Keefe, who stressed that the biggest factor in the Thieves' future is getting commitments from enough players. Finding a way to help cover expenses would be a plus, too, he confessed, but if the players are on board, the team will be back on the field in 2006, he promised.

Northland volleyball has New York debut

It's a guessing game each year when Northland Community and Technical College coaches try to predict how the Pioneers will stack up against the rest of the Minnesota Community College Conference teams. High personnel turnover throughout the league's two-year schools can dramatically alter a team's make-up from year to year.

If you have a tough time figuring what kind of talent your conference rivals will bring to the table, imagine the questions surrounding the competition Northland will face to open the 2005 volleyball season.

For the first time in the program's history, the Pioneers are making a cross-country volleyball trip. Second-year head coach Missy Majerus saw the benefits (a major recruiting draw and a chance to develop team chemistry, etc.) enjoyed during spring trips made by the Northland baseball and softball teams and decided to offer the same opportunity to her volleyball players by lining up an appearance at the Broome Community College Invitational in Binghamton, N.Y.

The eight-team event will be played Saturday, Sept. 3, when Northland joins Genesse (Batavia), Erie (Buffalo), Corning (Corning), Monroe (Rochester), Onodaga (Syracuse) and Broome, from New York and Pennsylvania's Northampton (Bethlehem).

All of them are National Junior College Athletic Association Division III members. Broome, Genesse, Erie, Corning, Onodage and Monroe are part of the 64-campus State University of New York (SUNY) system. Northampton plays in the 22-team Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Conference.

Northland team members covered the cost of the venture through fund-raising efforts and out-of-pocket expenses. The trip will include a Friday scrimmage.

Majerus admits she doesn't know what the Pioneers are getting into, but is quick to accept the challenge.

"I expect us to be the kind of team that will be competitive every time we step on the floor," she said. "That doesn't mean we'll win every match, but we want to go out and be competitive."

A small turnout at the start of preseason drills has grown to 10 players with the recent addition of Red Lake Falls graduates Angie Gagner and Amber Stirling.

Others on the roster include Jamie Dahlen, Jill Lappegaard and Jasmin Barth of Thief River Falls; Chelsey Fering and Kelli Jo Ste. Marie of Red Lake Falls; Kelli Rutherford and LeAnn Haugen of Fisher, and Whitney Halvorson of Newfolden.

Rutherford and Fering are returning sophomores. Fering's role as spot player in 2004 will be expanded to all-around duties this fall, and in Rutherford, the Pioneers have one of the top setters in the MCCC Northern Division.

"We have some holes to fill," acknowledged Majerus, "but we have a couple of players with experience. We expect Chelsey to play a big role, probably as an outside hitter, and Kelli is an excellent setter. She's the key. Having her on the floor is like having a point guard out there in basketball – she runs the offense."

Second outing for the Pioneers will be their Wednesday, Sept. 7, home opener against Northern Division opponent Itasca at 6:30 p.m. in the Northland gym.

After Week 1 bye, NCTC football team tackles Spartans...

Pioneers start week later

A first-week bye idled Northland, while the rest of the Minnesota Community College Conference football teams started their 2005 seasons with Aug. 27 games. The Pioneers are anxious to get their feet wet Saturday when they play a 1:30 p.m. season-opener at Fergus Falls.

"The kids are ready to play a game," said Northland coach Guy Finstrom, who is looking for the Pioneers to bounce back from a 1-8 season. "I think we're a lot stronger right now than we were at this point last year," he said.

Week 1 featured an MCCC Southern Division sweep against Northern Division foes as Fergus Falls beat Hibbing 29-15, Ridgewater defeated Itasca 20-9, Rochester out-scored Vermilion 59-20, Minnesota West knocked off Mesabi Range 29-19 and Central Lakes downed Rainy River 17-6.

Two freshmen quarterbacks will be given the opportunity to lead the Pioneers' first-game offense: 6-3, 215-pound Chris Blanchette from Burnsville and 6-2, 210-pound Calvin Tolliver from Atlanta.

"We're fortunate to have two pretty good quarterbacks," said Finstrom. "They can both run and throw. We'll give them both chance to show what they can do and see if a No. 1 guy emerges."

Running backs who will likely get their share of carries in the opener include Davon Gilmore, a 6-2, 250-pound sophomore from Columbia, Mo.; Steve Stene, a 6-0, 210-pound sophomore from Fertile; Andrew Saracino, a 6-1, 175-pound freshman from Westminster, Colo.; Will Leetch, a 5-7, 176-pound sophomore from Salol; and Deonte Lewis, a 5-10, 180-pound freshman from Milwaukee.

They will run behind a large offensive line featuring the likes of freshmen Joe Wicklander, 6-3, 324-pounder from Slayton; Dwayne Smith, 6-3, 305, Sarasota, Fla.; Brendan McGinn, 6-2, 240, Westminster, Colo.; Chris Miller, 6-2, 292, Kansas City, Mo.; and Colin Shafer, 6-3, 230, Pembina, N.D.

Freshmen Daniel Swenson, 6-3, 250, Fertile and Oliver Pazdry, 6-3, 255, Brooklyn, N.Y., give a little size to the defensive line.

Alfred Boyd, a 6-3, 250-pound sophomore from Northlake, Ill.; David McKee, a 6-0, 240-pound freshman from Camden, N.J.; Devon Tolstad, a 5-11, 170-pound sophomore from West Hope, N.D.; and Randolph Anderson, a 6-3, 170-pound freshman from Aurora, Colo., have had strong camps at linebacker.

Improved speed in the secondary will be noticeable this fall, according to Finstrom, who has been impressed with the work of Bryan Lowery, a 6-2, 200-pound freshman from St. Louis and Jordan Lofstrom, a 6-0, 170-pound freshman from Karlstad.

Other Saturday match-ups for MCCC teams will find Itasca at Central Lakes, Hibbing at Ridgewater, Mesabi Range at Rochester and Minnesota West at NDSCS.

Kyle Jensen, Thief River Falls, left, was victorious in his professional boxing debut at Seven Clans Casino on Saturday, Aug. 27, defeating Dean Sargent. The show, billed as Countdown at the Clans, featured seven professional and four amateur fights.

TRF's Jensen wins in pro boxing debut

Saturday night was a night of firsts at Seven Clans Casino, Thief River Falls. In the same night that Seven Clans hosted its first professional boxing event called Countdown at the Clans, a seven-bout card complete with a title bout and ring girl who braved the 50 degree weather, Thief River Falls based mixed martial arts fighter Kyle Jensen made his professional boxing debut. Jensen defeated fellow Minnesota boxer Dean Sargent by Technical knockout 12 seconds into the second round.

Jensen said he was pleased to come away with a win in his first fight, but admitted that he has work to do.

"He was a good puncher," Jensen said of Sargent. "He won the first round. I got a win and that's good enough for me, I guess," Jensen said.

Jensen aggressively stalked Sargent from the opening bell of the four-round fight. Sargent successfully defended Jensen's early charge and by the end of the first round appeared to be in control of the bout after landing a few hard shots.

Conditioning came into play early in the second round. Jensen landed one body shot. It was enough to make Sargent turn his back on Jensen and signal the referee that he was done.

Jensen was victorious in two of three amateur bouts prior to making his professional debut on Saturday. He said conditioning came into play during his amateur bouts too, but he never faced anyone with the size or power of Sargent.

"This guy was a much harder hitter and he was a bigger opponent," Jensen said, comparing Sargent to his amateur foes.

Jensen said the timing of the Countdown at the Clans show was perfect, because he had been working on the boxing or standup aspect of mixed martial arts for the past couple months. Though he is a mixed martial arts fighter first, Jensen said he would like to box again.

"I'm going to take some time to work on my boxing and I'm definitely going to fight another professional fight," Jensen said.

In other bouts, Golden Gloves national champions Raphael Butler and Travis Walker were victorious over John Dixon and David Robinson respectively. Fans were treated to the professional debut of Minnesota Golden Gloves champion Joey Abel, who fought Richie Goosehead to a one-round no contest. That match was stopped when Goosehead fell through the ropes and was subsequently injured.

Fans also witnessed an exhibition battle between Scott Ball and James Wayka, which resulted in a no contest and a successful title defense by Canadian Welterweight champion Larry Sharpe over John McLain.

Countdown at the Clans results

Swim season is under way for Prowlers

Thief River Falls opened its 2005 girls high school swim season Monday by participating in a pentathlon event hosted by Detroit Lakes.

Swimmers from Perham, Park Rapids Area, Thief River Falls, Fosston/Bagley, Crookston, Roseau and Warroad joined the host Lakers in the event in which times from the 50-yard freestyle, 50 backstroke, 50 breaststroke, 50 butterfly and 100 individual medley were added up to determine final pentathlon positions.

Detroit Lakes junior Karena King led all swimmers with a combined time of 3:10.66. Thief River Falls senior Allyson Helling was second at 3:14.17 and Park Rapids Area junior Brandi Werner was third with a 3:15.04.

King had the top times in the breaststroke (34.07), butterfly (28.98) and I.M. (1:08.17) Helling was the fastest swimmer in the freestyle (26.96), while Werner was first in the backstroke (31.11).

The Prowlers had two additional top-ten finishers in freshman Kailey Bakken and junior Ashley Meunier, seventh and eighth, respectively, at 3:27.70 and 3:27.78.

"Overall, the girls swam well for the beginning of the season," said Thief River Falls coach Lacy Knott, "especially considering they were swimming more events then they normally do."

Knott said she was particularly impressed with the efforts of Kailey Bakken, Janessa Hansen and Dani Simenson.

The Prowlers will be idle until a Sept. 8, dual at Park Rapids.

ROCKET SPEEDWAY

from Robert Hultgren

Hallock's Rocket Speedway concluded its 2005 schedule with a two-day special Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 27-28. The weather was great both nights and the track was smooth and fast for the action. The weekend special also brought the best car counts of the season with 74 in the pits Saturday night and 67 participants Sunday. The Sunday races also brought one of the best crowds to the track this season.

One of the highlights of the weekend was the rollover of Lynn Lucken's No. 30 during the Saturday night Super Truck feature. The Winger driver was not injured. However there was extensive damage to his vehicle. His crew worked hard to have the truck back on the track for Sunday's program.

All six classes that raced at the Rocket this season were very competitive, and that was true again Sunday night as the points championships were determined. In all 113 different cars participated during the 2005 season at the Rocket.

Officials at the Rocket Speedway expressed thanks to all racers, track workers and volunteers, spectators and sponsors for their participation in the 2005 racing season.

TRF welcomes NCTC staff and students

Welcome Northland Community and Technical College staff and students to Thief River Falls.

As always, the start of the school year is often remembered for changes on the campus that greet students and staff. For many staff and students, the most significant change this year will be the absence of Dr. Orley Gunderson. Gunderson presided as president of the college for many years and his guiding hand will be missed. And yet, we welcome with enthusiasm Dr. James Davis of Worthington, who is serving as interim president until a replacement for Gunderson is chosen by Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU).

There are many other new faces at the college. Many of you are embarking on a new journey. Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) is a comprehensive community and technical college that offers certificates and degrees in a variety of majors and areas of study. As you reach for your personal goals, you no doubt will grow in other ways. According to NCTC, 74 percent of you will be employed while attending the college. So, if you don't already have a connection to the community (76 percent of you are from northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota), many of you will develop that connection. We hope that your visit to our community will bring you many rewards. We also hope that this experience will also help you develop a keen sense of civic responsibility and cultural awareness.

What has become of Labor Day?

Labor Day - summer's last hurrah.

To many of us, Labor Day has become our last opportunity to celebrate summer, yet we approach it with mixed feelings. The day off from work allows us to hold family reunions, picnics, go to ball games, or just do nothing at all, but it also means that the week before we have to work extra hard to make up for the lost day, or prepare for a week of trying to catch up. It wasn't always just another holiday.

In 1882, a parade in New York City celebrated the growing influence and importance of ordinary working men and women. By 1893, more than half of the states observed Labor Day. In 1894, it became a federal holiday.

Unions have been receiving a lot of press lately. The striking Northwest Airlines mechanics, and the split in the ranks of the AFL/CIO, are good examples. But other than those instances, one rarely hears about unions, much less of tributes to the ordinary working man or woman.

It makes one wonder who belongs to a union, and whether anyone today knows what we're celebrating on Labor Day.

Myles Olson, steward for Teamsters 320, the city employee's bargaining unit in Thief River Falls, said he believes the unit was organized sometime in the 1960s. He's been a union member for almost 32 years. In those years, city employees have never had to revert to a strike to settle differences. They've had picnics and some of the negotiations may have been difficult, but they've never had to revert to a strike. This union is in a contract year, and it isn't in the midst of negotiations.

I think everyone prefers it that way.

Union members are little less active today than say 20 or 30 years ago, Olson said, but he cannot put a finger on why. They seem to be a little more complacent, he said.

Though declining participation has meant a loss of some political clout, Olson believes the union is still important. In Thief River Falls, the union is the exclusive bargaining unit. Everyone who is not in management needs to belong to the union, though they can opt out under the "Fair Share" law. The issues are much the same as they were 30 years ago. Olson said wages and benefits generate the most discussion. Negotiating as a union, however, makes it easier. The issues, he said, become less personal.

There won't be any parades or other activities on Labor Day. Olson said the Teamsters will be holding a picnic for its members and their families but it's on Sept. 9.

Labor Day no longer seems to be known for celebrating working class solidarity, or an an opportunity to pay tribute to working men and women, or an opportunity to "set the world right." It's just another vacation day, and it seems that we like it that way.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Watershed Board and staff to be commended

To the Editor:

On August 16 of this year, I was privileged to be included in a tour held by the Middle-Snake-Tamarac River Watershed District and the city of Warren highlighting the completed and ongoing flood damage reduction projects within the watershed district. This tour was held in conjunction with the August meeting of the Red River Watershed Management Board.

The tour included an overview of the Angus-Oslo #4 flood water retention site, the Snake River Impoundment combined with the Warren diversion project, and the Agassiz Valley Water Management Project. Each of these projects is unique, yet they all strive to accomplish the same goal, flood protection for the people of the District. The individuals involved in the implementation of each of these aforementioned projects deserve the gratitude of the entire area. Without the involvement of the townships, the county, the Watershed Board of Managers and their staff, the Warren City Council, and the project work teams, these changes would not have been possible.

The Warren Diversion alone will save the residents of the city many hundreds of thousands of dollars in flood insurance premiums, not to mention the fact that they are protected from the damages caused by repetitive catastrophic flooding. The Angus-Oslo #4 offers downstream agricultural protection to valuable farm land during a flood event, and the Agassiz Valley Water Management Project was initiated by local township boards over concerns for protecting their infrastructure. The combined effects of these projects also affect the peak flows on the main stem of the Red River, offering those downstream added protection from a flood event.

Please thank those who have dedicated their valuable time and expertise to make these projects a reality. Some of those involved have been subject to undeserved criticism, and deserve far better treatment.

Sincerely yours,
John N. Finney
Humboldt

Governor proposes pay plan for politicians

Seeking to reform the way Minnesota government works, Gov. Tim Pawlenty unveiled his "Performance Pay for Politicians" plan.

"You shouldn't get paid when you don't get your work done. The rest of the world understands that and so should politicians," Pawlenty said. "I've advocated for performance pay for legislators and me all year. Now I'm asking that this proposal be the first bill passed by the legislature during the 2006 session."

The proposal would hold legislators and the governor accountable by requiring legislative work to be completed on time or face real consequences. The key element of the plan is:

- In the odd-numbered year of the legislative session, if the Legislature did not pass a budget by the constitutional adjournment date legislators and the governor would forfeit their salaries for the month of June.

If a budget is not completed by June 30 of the odd-numbered year, additional penalties would be incurred:

- Legislators and the governor would forfeit their salaries for July and August or until the month after a budget is completed if it occurs after September 1.

These provisions would also apply to a supplemental budget in even numbered years if a budget is required to correct a projected shortfall.

"Unfortunately, constitutional and fiscal year deadlines didn't provide the necessary incentive to complete legislative work on time in 2005," Pawlenty said. "Cutting off pay if the job isn't done can help us make sure that Minnesota never goes through the drawn-out struggle we saw this summer."

Brita Sailer: Why did it take 2005 Legislature so long to complete its work?

by Rep. Brita Sailer

Since the session ended in mid-July, I've had a chance to visit with neighbors and constituents around the district. One question I often hear is, "Why couldn't the Legislature get its work done on time this year?" Most people think partisan gridlock was to blame, but the cause was actually more complex. Here's how I explain the long session:

1. From the beginning, we had to do last year's work this year. The Legislature convenes yearly and alternates between longer, budget-setting sessions (like this year) and shorter sessions that determine which bonding projects to approve. The 2004 Legislature failed to take action on a bonding bill to fund public land purchases and building construction through state borrowing. Our first major accomplishment this session was to pass the bonding bill with wide bipartisan approval, but the weeks spent on bonding this session delayed our work on the budget.

2. The budget issues at stake this session were significant. The state once again faced a sizeable deficit. School districts across Minnesota were suffering from massive cuts and levies caused by three years of flat state [illegible] funding. The governor's budget proposed eliminating health insurance coverage for 27,000 working Minnesotans who cannot get health insurance through their jobs. Furthermore, the governor painted himself into a corner with his "no new taxes" pledge to the Taxpayers League, making negotiations challenging at best. All of these issues are critically important to the future of our state.

3. Still, we knew the challenges we faced, and it was very frustrating to see the clock tick toward budget deadlines without significant progress. I tried desperately to avoid the partial government shutdown, voting nine times for temporary budgets that would "keep the lights on" and allow state workers to remain on the job. I co-authored a bill to cut off per diem for all legislators in the event of a special session, and refused to accept per diem pay myself. As we go forward into next session, I'm working with my House colleagues to change the procedures and rules governing the legislative process to try to prevent future special sessions.

It's very important to honor time lines, yet I would rather see the issues of crucial importance for the people in our district addressed. This session, we succeeded in reaching a balanced [illegible] compromise on our budget challenges. We provided a 4 percent yearly increase in per pupil [illegible] tion funding, which will give much-needed relief to our schools. We were able to slow the growth of state health care expenses while preserving insurance for the 27,000 working Minnesotans threatened with losing their health coverage. And we improved Local Government Aid to Greater Minnesota, which translates into some relief from property tax increases for many of our communities. In a compromise, all sides give up, and get, some things. That was certainly the case this year. This session may have been lengthy, but the results were good for our area and the state as a whole.

If you have comments or questions on these or any other legislative issues, please do not hesitate to contact me. The session may have ended, but my office is always open. I can be reached at 327 State Office Building, Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55155; (651) 296-4265 or toll free at (800) 920-5867, or by e-mail at rep.brita.sailer@house.mn

The U.S. Census Bureau reports that as of July 2005, there are 149.6 million people age 16 or older in the nation's labor force. Among the nation's workers are 80.2 million men and 69.4 million women. These men and women represent 66 percent of the civilian noninstitutionalized adult population.

Coleman: Pleased with Grand Forks BRAC report

"I am pleased with the BRAC Commission's vote to extend the time the air-refueling tankers will be stationed at Grand Forks Air Force Base, giving the region time to make the necessary transitions in order to minimize the impact on jobs and the community. Clearly, the Commission took into consideration the concerns expressed by all of us in the Minnesota and North Dakota delegations that the communities of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks would suffer great economic hardships by losing jobs and the population associated with the base.

Minnesotans comprise a significant number of the Guard members in North Dakota, and Minnesota and North Dakota are at the top when it comes to recruiting and retention. I look forward to the possibilities a new follow-on mission may present to Minnesota and North Dakota in support of military operations around the world."

Governor: Pleased with BRAC report on Duluth

The following is a statement from Gov. Tim Pawlenty regarding the decision of the Base Closure and Realignment Commission (BRAC) to retain the jets in the 148th Fighter Wing:

"I'm extremely pleased that the commission has recognized the value and strategic importance of the 148th Fighter Wing. This is great news for the men and women of the 148th, the city of Duluth, our National Guard and the state of Minnesota.

"Although the BRAC process won't formally conclude until the commission's findings are presented to the president and Congress, I am confident that our work with state and national military leaders will result in a positive outcome.

"Like the rest of the Minnesota National Guard, the 148th is a national leader in many respects. I know the members of the 148th are looking forward to being a part of the Air Force team for many years to come."

Kennedy: Prescription plan offers savings for seniors

Congressman Mark Kennedy lauded the results of a new study showing that for older Minnesotans, out-of-pocket costs for prescription drugs will drop substantially under Medicare's prescription drug coverage program.

"This is great news for every senior who depends on prescription drugs in their every day lives," said Kennedy.

The analysis was done by the accounting firm PriceWaterhouseCoopers for a consortium of more than 200 groups that includes AARP, the National Council on the Aging, and the American Academy of Family Physicians.

"The Prescription Drug Benefit we passed in Congress is already working to make prescription drugs available and affordable for all seniors who depend on them, through the drug card that became available last year," said Kennedy. "When the full benefit kicks in next year, the average low-income senior in Minnesota stands to save 90 percent on their prescription drug costs, and the average income senior stands to save 44 percent."

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

Legion Sells 300 Flags Wednesday

"Nearly 300 homes in the city are now supplied with American flags as a result of a canvass of the residential section by members of Ecklund-Holmstrom Post of the American Legion last Wednesday evening, August 24. Erwin Ferber served as chairman of the flag sales committee.

"The flag sale was conducted for the purpose of promoting Americanism, one of the four fundamental programs of the Legion organization. For residents who may still wish to purchase flags, they may be secured by calling Mr. Ferber, telephone number 461."

Lions Inspect New Hartz Warehouse

"Members of the Lions club, following their luncheon meeting last Wednesday, made a tour of inspection of the huge new warehouse of L. B. Hartz Stores, Inc., with Mr. Hartz as their guide. [This is the warehouse building just west of the high school.]

"The visitors were impressed by the size of the stocks of merchandise carried in the warehouse, which measures 320 by 100 feet in dimensions. They observed, too, the exact system in which the stocks are distributed, as well as the method of handling the tall stacks of food products and other items through the use of motor-driven elevator trucks.

"In the office across the street Hartz explained features of the International Business Machines (IBM) equipment used to maintain inventory records and handle billings to the 225 or more controlled-account and independent stores served by the Hartz organization."

Many School Districts To Vote On Annexation

"Numerous rural school districts adjacent to Thief River Falls are holding special elections during the next few weeks to vote on the question of dissolving their districts and annexing to the Thief River Falls district, No. 18. They are also voting on the question, 'If the county board shall merge the district with SD 18, shall all the taxable property of both districts become liable for the combined bonded debt of both districts for the construction of buildings and purchase of equip*ment?*'

"Notices have been published in the Times for such elections in Districts 15, 46 and 31 on August 30; District 41, September 2; District 26, September 3; District 127, September 7; District 194 and 30, September 8; District 2, September 13; and District 133, Marshall county, September 9. The meetings are called for 8 p.m.

"In School District 15 of which A. W. Oski of the Mavie community is clerk, the vote Tuesday evening, with 13 ballots being cast, was unanimously 'yes' on both questions submitted.

"In District 46 in Cloverleaf township, only six votes were cast, and they were unanimously in favor of annexation to District 18."

Cooler Weather Comes This Week

"Following unseasonably high temperature readings of 84 Saturday and 81 Sunday, a maximum of 71 and a low of 52 were recorded Tuesday. There was a great deal of thunder and lightning Sunday, but no rain of any consequence was recorded. The late harvest continues to make steady progress toward completion."

"School starts Tuesday.

"The stock yards have been repaired and now made secure; an improvement much needed.

"J. J. Soll started Wednesday evening for Fosston where he intends meeting several nimrods [hunters] and all will engage in a few days' hunting.

"John McAndress, block man for the Nicols & Sheppard Threshing Machine company from Grand Forks, was here between trains Monday making final settlement with the farmers who purchased the big threshing rig last spring.

"H. E. Iyes returned from an editorial trip Tuesday and will now give his automobile more attention.

"The rain Saturday morning delayed harvesting a few days. In fact the showers we have had recently have delayed most everything in the way of farming.

"The eclipse of the sun Wednesday morning was observed by some of our early risers. Not being of the above mentioned class, we did not participate in the great phenomenon.

"Thursday morning the weather man got busy again and the rain came down in the same fashion it has all summer, putting the farmers to rest, delaying harvesting and making the threshing machine men feel as if they would need the assistance of a house-moving outfit in order to keep their outfits above ground.

"Tuesday evening a lawn party was given by Miss Ella Johnson and Mrs. H. R. Hanson on the lawn at the Hanson residence. All kinds of games were in progress and merrymaking was at its height when a young lady sat on a bee hive and began tapping it with her heels to let the inmates known that they were alive. Soon the bees answered the summons and came out to swarm. The young lady gave a scream and the gallants who responded to the call participated in the welcome of the bees, leaving evidence of their defense. The party then thought it best to stay in the house, but so persistent were the bees that they followed and later the seekers after pleasure abandoned the place and assembled at the home of Miss Ella Johnson where the evening was joyously passed in dancing.

"Charles Fellman moved his family from the claim to the village Monday that his children may attend school, thus taking advantage of the law permitting a homesteader to live during the school year where the children can attend school.

"The opening of the hunting season was not very bright. None of the local sportsmen were missed from their places of business and all of them had a tired expression in their faces, not so much from business cares but from the fact that to go hunting was impossible on account of the continuous rain.

"Some pedestrians more bent on mischief than the welfare of the village seem to take particular pleasure in breaking all the boards possible in the sidewalk. Such vandalism usually occurs in the evening and when the guilty parties are caught, as they certainly will be, an object lesson should be made of them."

River Falls Items -

"The marriage of Mr. Gust Konikson and Miss Johanna Eugenia Johnson occurred on August 26th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Konikson in River Falls, Rev Alex Sand officiating. The groom is a prosperous farmer of River Falls and the bride is a young lady who arrived in America from Sweden about half a year ago."

Newfolden

Elaine Thompson • 874-7945

Hello everyone. Another week has quickly gone by. Soon the boys and girls will be off to school and then the snowballs will come.

Sunday, August 14th, Kathy and Kameron Harstad came up from East Grand Forks to visit Hanna Moen.

Curtis and Elaine Thompson went for a short ride the day I can't remember, but it wasn't raining and they also stopped over to Harvey Skyberg's for a few minutes.

Diane Nelson went over to Hanna Moen's on Monday the 15th. She also had her grandson Colten Lind with her.

I want to wish Elton and Yvonne Underdahl a most blessed anniversary for so many years. There will be a reception on Saturday, August 20th from 3-5 p.m. with a program at 3:30 p.m. at the Newfolden Community Center. A meal will be served and there will be entertainment from 5-7 p.m. See you all there.

I would really like it if you would write your news because many times I don't know how to spell some names, there are so many new names, and you can leave your news at Sonny's Foods or here at the door or there will be a [illegible] [illegible]. Try and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] much news [illegible]

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
AUGUST 9TH, 2005, 10:00 A.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Pennington County Board Room in Thief River Falls, MN, Tuesday, August 9th, 2005, at 10:00 a.m. Members present: Bob Carlson, Arden "Bud" Comstock, Donald Jensen, Oliver "Skip" Swanson, and Charles Naplin. Members absent: none.

Howard Person met with the Board and said that he received a notice from the Grand Forks Landfill that their price will be going from $32.75 to $33.50/ton effective January 1, 2006. He stated that our transfer station will need to increase $1.75/ton to keep everything running smoothly and profitably. After some discussion, the Board decided that the Solid Waste Committee should meet with Les's Sanitation in regards to this issue.

Howard then stated that Steve from Les's Sanitation would like to construct a bunker for housing crushed glass. It's estimated they will need 11 yards of concrete poured at a cost of $1,100 to $1,200. Funding for this project could be paid from the SCORE account, and labor would be provided free of charge by the Sentence-to-Serve crew. Motioned by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Jensen, to approve 11 yards of concrete to be poured for a glass bunker at a cost of approximately $1,200, which is to be paid from SCORE account funds. Motion unanimously carried.

County Auditor Ken Olson then presented to the Board a Satisfaction of Mortgage Deed on the part of David and Joani Frederick. Motioned by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Swanson, to authorize Chairman Naplin to sign the Satisfaction of Mortgage Deed of David and Joani Frederick. Motion unanimously carried.

Auditor Olson then questioned the Board in regards to the County's interest in purchasing the old City Auditorium. After discussion it was decided that the issue would be brought to attention at the next City and County meeting on September 12th, 2005.

Jerry Unruh, owner of TRF Parking Lot Striping, then met with the Board and County Engineer Mike Flaagan to discuss the crack sealing contract with the County. He stated the project is complete and that he used less crack sealant than he had to order, therefore leaving him with a large amount that he can not return. After some discussion on the contract and how the project was bid, there was a motion by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Comstock, to refer the disagreement to the County Attorney, the Highway Committee, and the contractor's representative. Motion unanimously carried. The Board then stated they would also like a report on the matter at the next Board meeting.

Engineer Flaagan then presented a resolution for the construction of a cold storage and salt shed facility. He explained using State Aid Maintenance Funds to fund half of the project, and that the limits would be based on the ratio of County State Aid Highway (C.S.A.H.) expenditures to total cost. Motioned by Commissioner Jenson, seconded by Commissioner Swanson, to approve the following resolution requesting $65,000 in C.S.A.H. maintenance funds for the construction of a cold storage facility and salt shed. Motion unanimously carried.

Resolution

WHEREAS, Pennington County desires to use part of it's Regular County State Aid Highway (CSAH) Maintenance Account fund for a portion of the Highway Facility Upgrade Project and:

WHEREAS, Pennington County request a level of funding for this project based on the ratio of CASH Expenditures to Total Cost.

Percentage of CASH Expenditures to Total Cost: $750,616.65/$1,503,527.67 = 50%

CSAH funding request for out shop: $130,000 x 50% = $65,000.00

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the County of Pennington hereby requests Regular CSAH Maintenance Account funds in the amount of $65,000 for the Highway Facility Upgrade Project.

Mike then discussed the County's motor graders and the possibility of needing and acquiring another. It was decided that the Highway Committee should meet and discuss the possibility of reducing one motor grader district and also the need for motor graders versus trucks.

Auditor Olson then presented the Board with a resolution for the installation and maintenance of railroad flashing light signals with gates at the intersection of CSAH #3 with the tracks of the Soo Line Railroad Co. in Hazel, MN. Per the contract, the County's share of the cost shall be 10% of the total signal cost. Motioned by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Jenson, to approve the following resolution to install and maintain railroad flashing light signals and gates at the intersection of CSAH #3 and the Soo Line Railroad tracks in Hazel, MN. Motion unanimously carried.

Resolution

BE IT RESOLVED, that the County of Pennington enter into an agreement with the Soo Line Railroad Company (D/B/A Canadian Pacific Railway Company) and the Commissioner of Transportation for the installation and maintenance of railroad flashing light signals with gates and constant warning circuitry at the intersection of C.S.A.H. 3 with the tracks of the Soo Line Railroad Company in Hazel, Pennington County, MN, and appointing the Commissioner of Transportation agent for the County to supervise said project and administer available Federal Funds in accordance with Minnesota Statute, Section 161.36. The County's share of the cost shall be 10 percent of the total signal cost.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the County Board Chair and County Engineer be and they are hereby authorized to execute said agreement and any amendments thereto for and on behalf of the County.

County Sheriff Mike Hruby then met with the Board and presented three resolutions for the Board's approval. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, the Chief of the Thief River Falls Police Department is hereby authorized to be the fiscal agent and administer this grant on behalf of the Pennington County Sheriff's Department.

The second resolution presented by Sheriff Hruby adopts the National Incident Management System (NIMS) as the standard for incident management. This is a required for any County that intends to apply for federal preparedness, prevention, or planning grants. Motioned by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Comstock, to approve the following resolution adopting the NIMS. Motion unanimously carried.

Resolution Adopting the National Incident Management System (NIMS)

WHEREAS, the President of the United States of America issued Homeland Security Presidential Directive 5 to enhance the ability of the United States to manage domestic incidents by establishing a single, comprehensive national incident management system; and

WHEREAS, the President, in Homeland Security Presidential Directive 5, tasked the secretary of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security to develop and administer a National Incident Management System; and

WHEREAS, the secretary of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security developed and administered the National Incident Management System (NIMS) to provide for interoperability and compatibility among federal, state, and local capabilities; the NIMS will include: a core set of concepts, principles, terminology, and technologies covering the incident command system; multi-agency coordination systems; unified command; training; identification and management of resources (including systems for classifying types of resources); qualifications and certification; and the collection, tracking, and reporting of incident information and incident resources; and

WHEREAS, Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty issued Executive Order 05-02: DESIGNATION OF THE NATIONAL INCIDENT MANAGEMENT SYSTEM (NIMS) AS THE BASIS FOR ALL INCIDENT MANAGEMENT IN THE STATE OF MINNESOTA; and

WHEREAS, the collective input and guidance from all federal, state, local, and tribal homeland security partners has been, and will continue to be, vital to the development, effective implementation, and utilization of a comprehensive NIMS; and

WHEREAS, it is necessary and desirable that all Pennington County agencies and personnel coordinate their efforts to effectively and efficiently provide the highest levels of incident management; and

WHEREAS, the NIMS standardized procedures for managing personnel, communications, facilities, and resources will improve the ability of Pennington County to utilize federal funding to enhance local and state agency readiness, maintain first responder safety, and streamline incident management processes; and

WHEREAS, the Incident Command System components of the NIMS are already an integral part of various incident management activities throughout Pennington County, including current emergency management training programs; and

WHEREAS, the National Commission of Terrorist Attacks (9-11 Commission) recommended adoption of a standardized Incident Management System; and

NOW, THEREFORE, we do hereby establish the National Incident Management System (NIMS) as the Pennington County standard for incident management.

The final resolution presented by Sheriff Hruby is to promote intrastate mutual-aid agreements. Mike stated that this is essential in the event of emergencies and disasters, such as fire, outside the political subdivision. Motioned by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Comstock, to approve the following resolution promoting the use of intrastate mutual-aid agreements. Motion unanimously carried.

Resolution Promoting the Use of Intrastate Mutual-Aid Agreements

WHEREAS, Chapter 12, Section 12.331 allows for intrastate Mutual Aid, and direct, timely assistance between jurisdictions is critical; and

WHEREAS, the possibility of the occurrence of natural and other disasters of major size and destructiveness exists and is increasing; and

WHEREAS, there is a need to ensure that preparations of Pennington County will be adequate to deal with disasters; generally protect the public peace, health, and safety; and preserve the lives and property of the people of the state; and

WHEREAS, it is necessary to provide for the rendering of mutual aid among the political subdivisions of the state and to cooperate with the federal government with respect to carrying out emergency management functions; and

WHEREAS, it is the policy of Minnesota that all emergency response functions of this state be coordinated to the maximum extent with the comparable functions of the state government, including its various departments and agencies, of other states and localities, and of private agencies of every type, to the end that the most effective preparations and uses may be made of the state's labor supply, resources, and facilities for dealing with any disaster that may occur; and

WHEREAS, the director of each local organization for emergency management may, in collaboration with other public and private agencies within this sate, develop or cause to be developed, mutual-aid arrangements for reciprocal emergency management aid and assistance in an emergency or disaster too great to be dealt with unassisted. These arrangements must be consistent with the local emergency operations plan and, in time of emergency, each local organization for emergency management and its members shall render assistance in accordance with the provisions of the mutual-aid arrangements; and

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved that Pennington County promotes the efficiency and effectiveness of intrastate mutual aid by designating a county administrator, public safety director, police chief, sheriff (if applicable), fire chief, public works director, or other officer who, exercising discretion and considering the needs of the political subdivision and its inhabitants, to dispatch equipment and personnel as considered necessary if a danger of fire, hazard, casualty, or another similar occurrence exists outside the political subdivision and by its suddenness it would be impractical for the governing body of Pennington County itself to authorize the dispatch of equipment and personnel to combat that emergency or disaster.

Bryan Malone, Soil & Water Conservation District Administrator, then met with the Board to present a Wetland Exemption for Woodland Court at the south end of Spruce Ave. The project involves the installation of street, curb and gutter, storm and sanitary sewer, and will impact approximately 1600 square feet of wetland. Many children throughout the region began the fall semester of school on Thursday, Sept. 1. Leading this pack of returning students in School District 564 - Thief River Falls, were Ryan (left), and Dacian (far right). Educators...and parents, too, have been planning for the start of a new school year.

Anticipation for "best year ever" grows

by David Hill
Editor

Even in his room at the District Service Center, the Superintendent of School District 564, Irv Peterson, said he can sense the anticipation of a new school year.

At a awards and motivational meeting in the Imperial Room of the Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls on Wednesday, Aug. 24, Peterson told the District's educators that they have a calling.

"Fall is the time when we educators become reinvigorated," said Peterson. "It's because we have a calling."

Peterson recalled his feelings when his mother left him with his first grade class. It was a scary moment, he said. He encouraged educators to remember their experiences and said many students entering school this year may be a little scared, too. "Even if they act like they're all grown up," he said, "they need us. Remember," he said, "we're here to serve others. We're here to help children."

The best year ever

"We're going to have the best year we've ever had," said Peterson.

Peterson outlined the mission of the District and encouraged teachers to chart a course of continuous improvement. "We want to get better every day so we can do the best job we can to help students grow."

Peterson also outlined the District's goals. He encouraged educators to remember what their role as educators entails - to lead, to be passionate and committed, to share their knowledge and wisdom, to be a mentor and critic, and a person who takes risks, and has a positive attitude. The person who accomplishes all these things, he said, will leave a legacy that he or she can be proud of.

Peterson said, "We have the potential to make a tremendous difference." He challenged educators to make a difference in the lives of children and the next generation.

Awards and other motivation

During the meeting, several awards were presented. Several awards presented to educators in the District during the past year were recapped, and several educators were honored for their years of dedication to the District and students. New awards were also presented.

Superintendent Peterson presented a Friend of Education award to Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Plummer. Stumpf chairs the finance committee of the K-12 education budget

Bob Erickson led the way the morning of Tuesday, Aug. 30. Erickson, Minnesota State Colleges and Universities trustee, made his fourth visit to the campuses of Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC)...on his bike. Erickson is on a state bicycle tour to raise money and public support for part-time students. Tuesday, he left from Thief River Falls with some riders in tow on his way to the NCTC campus in East Grand Forks.

Biking for scholarships is an inspiring journey for NCTC students and staff

by David Hill
Editor

Bob Erickson has raised more than $228,000 for a scholarship program that benefits part-time adults students attending college in Minnesota, almost all of it while riding his bike.

With four other bike riders Tuesday morning, Erickson made the ride between the Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) campuses of Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks.

"It was fun," said Jon Kays, a first year NCTC student from Thief River Falls.

Kays, 18, may be a little more prepared for a 59-mile ride than others. Kays is currently training for a 32-mile ride from Grand Forks, N.D., on Sept. 10, and a 100-mile ride called the Headwaters 100 on Sept. 24. He has also participated in another race, most recently a 10-mile event in Bagley, which he won.

Kays said the five traveled at an even pace, which was broken up several times so that no one was pushed beyond their limits to complete the four-hour ride.

Kays said he suffered no ill-effects from the ride, and the next day wasn't even sore. In any event, he said the purpose of the ride was not necessarily for training, but for a cause. Another benefit was getting to know Bob and Howard Beane.

Howard Beane has been on three previous rides with Erickson. Since he retired nine years ago, the 74-year-old said he has been riding about 8,000 miles each year on his bike.

Kays said it was a pleasure getting to know Beane, and there were no breakdowns or other problems. The only bad experience occurred when a lady driving a large white SUV passed them and yelled at the riders to get off the road. The riders said there was no other traffic on the

Hospital and Clinic focus on neonatal care and pediatrics

Relationship between clinic and hospital is mending

by David Hill
Editor

Northwest Medical Center and Dakota Clinic are building on their reputations as regional healthcare facilities by expanding their emphasis on neonatal care and pediatrics. It wasn't too long ago that the relationship between the hospital and clinic could best be described as strained.

Recent changes, however, have signaled an air of cooperation. Among the changes, Dakota Clinic implemented plans to focus on a regional women's healthcare center. That emphasis and a change in leadership at Northwest Medical Center has also led to a more cooperative attitude between the healthcare providers.

The new Chief Executive Officer at Northwest Medical Center, Christine Harff, said the hospital is working much more closely with Dakota Clinic. The purpose, she said, is to help the patient by providing as many services locally as possible.

In fact, the hospital and clinic appear to be working in concert, and leaders at the clinic and hospital have been meeting every other week to discuss important issues. Harff said the hospital and clinic want to respond to the needs of the patient and community.

To that end, in June about 24 nurses and some respiratory staff from Northwest Medical Center attended a nationally recognized seminar on stabilizing babies in need of transfer called STABLE (Sugar, Temperature, Airway, Blood Pressure, Lab work, and Emotional Support). The course was taught by staff from Innovis Health.

With an increased focus on neonatal care and pediatrics, it is hoped that the number of patients choosing to have their babies at Northwest Medical Center will grow.

Harff and Janell Hudson, director of nursing at Northwest Medical Center, noted the increased number of doctors at Dakota Clinic specializing in obstetrics and gynecology - child birth.

The hope is that more mothers will choose to have their infants born closer to their home and community.

Part of the effort in this regard then must necessarily involve training nurses and staff on how to stabilize infants that might be born premature or need additional care.

According to Hudson, there were only 14 newborn transfers in 2004.

Pediatric care is receiving increasing attention, too. Harff and Hudson noted that there is a pediatrician in town now.

Dr. Suresh Sreedharan joined Dakota Clinic in February. Since he joined Dakota Clinic, Hudson said the number of patients has more than doubled.

Hudson said they are improving pediatric competencies of nursing staff. Some experienced RN's have

Wal-Mart construction is having an impact on local contractors

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

This is the third article in a series about the soon-to-be-constructed Wal-Mart Supercenter.

The construction of a Wal-Mart Supercenter is having an impact on local contractors.

Wanzak Construction of Fargo, N.D., is the general contractor of the store, but at least two Thief River Falls firms are subcontractors working at the site. Thygeson Construction is one of them.

"It's been a pretty good experience so far," said Bruce Thygeson, vice president of Thygeson Construction. Thygeson noted his firm is doing site construction, including backfilling around the building, and utilities work.

Thygeson noted the firm has hired additional employees to work on the Wal-Mart project and/or its other projects.

Thygeson Construction began its work at the site in mid-July, and Thygeson expects the firm's work will be completed in time for the deer hunting season.

Lee Plumbing and Heating is another Thief River Falls firm that is serving as a subcontractor at the Wal-Mart site. The firm was expected to begin its work at the site Monday, said Larry Lee, the firm's owner.

Lee expected his employees would work at the Wal-Mart site for the rest of the duration of the construction with the possible exception of a few weeks. He currently does not anticipate hiring extra employees to work on the project.

In April, a Wal-Mart representative expected that the store may be open in spring 2006 at the earliest. Construction work began in July at the site. The 155,000-square-foot store will sell clothing, food and other merchandise. It will include a tire lube express service and garden center. A Murphy Oil Corp. gas station will be located on another nearby parcel. A third parcel for another business is also located at that site.

USDA selects watersheds for 2006 CSP

Agriculture Deputy Secretary Chuck Conner announced Aug. 25 that 110 watersheds, with at least one in all 50 states, Guam and Puerto Rico, are eligible for the 2006 Conservation Security Program (CSP).

In Minnesota, two CSP watersheds have been selected – the Red Lake Watershed and Thief Lake Watershed. Both watersheds are located in northwest Minnesota and represent 463,073 acres of cropland and pasture land. There are 1,013 producers who are potentially eligible for the 2006 CSP in the Red Lake and Thief watersheds. The Red Lake Watershed covers parts of Beltrami, Koochiching, Clearwater and Itasca counties while the Thief Watershed includes parts of eastern Marshall, northern Beltrami and northern Pennington counties.

"This voluntary program recognizes farmers and ranchers for their ongoing stewardship activities on working agricultural lands," said William Hunt, state conservationist with Minnesota Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). "Natural resource conservation efforts by America's producers benefit everyone through healthier soil, cleaner air and water, and improved fish and wildlife habitat. CSP successfully demonstrates a cooperative public-private conservation partnership."

The sign-up period will take place in early fiscal year 2006. These watersheds represent more than 120,000 of the country's potentially eligible farms and ranches, covering more than 46 million acres that are evenly split between cropland and grazing land.

NRCS held the first CSP sign-up in 2004. This CSP announcement brings the number of watersheds enrolled to 330 across the country, covering 250 million acres that have been eligible for the program.

The 2006 CSP will include a renewable energy component. Eligible producers will receive compensation for converting to renewable energy fuels, such as biodiesel and ethanol, for recycling 100 percent of on-farm lubricants, and for implementing energy production, including wind, solar, geothermal and methane production.

CSP will be offered each year on a rotational basis in as many watersheds as funding allows. Additional information on the CSP can be found at www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/csp.

Visual art display to be in TRF

A mini-display of the Northwest Minnesota Art Exhibition will be at the Thief River Falls Public Library Sept. 5 to 15.

Over 120 pieces were included in the larger weeklong show. Out of those pieces, 15 have been selected for the tour. A variety of smaller pieces were chosen to tour, representing a cross-section of artists, media and hometowns.

This activity was made possible with funding from The McKnight Foundation and an appropriation to the Northwest Regional Development Commission by the Minnesota State Legislature. Agriculture Deputy Secretary Chuck Conner announced Aug. 25 that 110 watersheds, with at least one in all 50 states, Guam and Puerto Rico, are eligible for the 2006 Conservation Security Program (CSP).

In Minnesota, two CSP watersheds have been selected – the Red Lake Watershed and Thief Lake Watershed. Both watersheds are located in northwest Minnesota and represent 463,073 acres of cropland and pasture land. There are 1,013 producers who are potentially eligible for the 2006 CSP in the Red Lake and Thief watersheds. The Red Lake Watershed covers parts of Beltrami, Koochiching, Clearwater and Itasca counties while the Thief Watershed includes parts of eastern Marshall, northern Beltrami and northern Pennington counties.

"This voluntary program recognizes farmers and ranchers for their ongoing stewardship activities on working agricultural lands," said William Hunt, state conservationist with Minnesota Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). "Natural resource conservation efforts by America's producers benefit everyone through healthier soil, cleaner air and water, and improved fish and wildlife habitat. CSP successfully demonstrates a cooperative public-private conservation partnership."

The sign-up period will take place in early fiscal year 2006. These watersheds represent more than 120,000 of the country's potentially eligible farms and ranches, covering more than 46 million acres that are evenly split between cropland and grazing land.

NRCS held the first CSP sign-up in 2004. This CSP announcement brings the number of watersheds enrolled to 330 across the country, covering 250 million acres that have been eligible for the program.

The 2006 CSP will include a renewable energy component. Eligible producers will receive compensation for converting to renewable energy fuels, such as biodiesel and ethanol, for recycling 100 percent of on-farm lubricants, and for implementing energy production, including wind, solar, geothermal and methane production.

CSP will be offered each year on a rotational basis in as many watersheds as funding allows. Additional information on the CSP can be found at www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/csp.

Seminar looks at low cost manufacturing

"Successful Strategies for Competing in a Low-Cost Manufacturing World," a seminar jointly produced by 360vu and Highway 2 West Manufacturer's Association, will identify successful strategies that owners and operators of small U.S. manufacturing companies can use to compete effectively with low-cost producer nations like China.

The seminar will be from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Sept. 15 at the American Indian Resource Center on the Bemidji State University (BSU) campus in Bemidji. Registration is from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. The cost of the seminar, which is open to the public, is $40. Registration forms can be requested by sending an e-mail to Cass@paulbunyan.net. The presentation will be from 8:30 to noon with a lunch to follow.

Department of Employment and Economic Development (DEED) Commissioner, Matt Kramer, will be the keynote speaker over the lunch hour.

In this global market where low-cost countries are gaining market share in manufacturing, some U.S. companies are not just surviving, but also thriving. What is their formula?

Through a mix of internationally-recognized speakers and a panel of successful manufacturers, 360vu will share key insights from their latest round of global research. Learn why some companies are highly successful when competing with low-cost regions.

Visual art display to be in TRF

A mini-display of the Northwest Minnesota Art Exhibition will be at the Thief River Falls Public Library Sept. 5 to 15.

This exhibit was selected from artwork displayed at the Northwest Regional Arts Council's sixth annual art show, which took place at Ada-Borup High School over the week of April 20-24, 2005. Participants in the show included 32 adult and 70 high school visual artists from the seven Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Over 120 pieces were included in the larger weeklong show. Out of those pieces, 15 have been selected for the tour. A variety of smaller pieces were chosen to tour, representing a cross-section of artists, media and hometowns.

This activity was made possible with funding from The McKnight Foundation and an appropriation to the Northwest Regional Development Commission by the Minnesota State Legislature. For more information, contact Mara Wittman at (218) 745-6733, e-mail her at mara@nwrdc.org or visit www.nwrdc.org and click on the arts.

Nelson reminds producers of CDP deadline

Pennington County Farm Service Agency County Executive Director John Nelson reminds farmers and ranchers not to miss the deadline for the Crop Disaster Program (CDP). Sept. 9 has been established as the deadline for producers who had 2003 and 2004 losses and qualify for assistance under the CDP.

CDP also provides assistance for quality losses for eligible crops, including payments for falling numbers below 300 on wheat.

Farmers and ranchers seeking additional information on CDP should contact the staff at their local county Farm Service Agency (FSA) office.

Culkins attend Shaklee annual conference

Russ and Thelma Culkins of Thief River Falls, joined thousands of Shaklee Independent Distributors from throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Japan and Malaysia at the Shaklee National Conference, Aug. 10-14, in Chicago, Ill., where they were introduced to new products and were inspired by presentations from internationally-recognized speakers, including Professor Wangari Maathai, 2004 Nobel Peace Prize Laureate.

Shaklee Corporation holds a conference each year to educate, motivate and recognize the accomplishments of Shaklee Independent Distributors. This year's conference also kicked off the company's 50th Golden Jubilee anniversary and unprecedented growth.

Roger Barnett, chairman and CEO of Shaklee, said, "Dr. Shaklee was a visionary not only in terms of his philosophy of providing natural, environmentally-friendly products, but also as an innovator in business. You should all be proud of your achievements in building successful home-based businesses. You have shared the gift of health and helped improve the lives of millions of people.

The first keynote speaker was Professor Wangari Maathai, 2004 Nobel Peace Prize Laureate. Maathai is recognized internationally for her persistent struggle for democracy, human rights, and environmental conservation. Her heartfelt speech about our shared future and commitment to a healthy environment was deeply inspiring to the supportive audience of entrepreneurs. Roger Barnett presented Maathai with a donation of $105,000 to help support the Green Belt Movement, a grassroots, non-governmental organization she founded in 1977.

Paul Zane Pilzer, world-renowned economist and author of "The Wellness Revolution," was also a keynote speaker. Pilzer shared his research and predictions on the burgeoning wellness movement and how entrepreneurs can become part of the growth in wealth over the next 10 years that will create 10 million new millionaires.

The conference highlighted Shaklee's nutritional sponsorship of the U.S. Ski Team and U.S. Snowboarding Association. Shaklee Distributors had the opportunity to meet two world champion skiers who are planning to participate in the Winter Games next February 2006 in Turin, Italy.

Additionally, two new products were introduced at the conference: Nutriferon™ is the only supplement with a patented, clinically proven botanical blend created by the [illegible] which [illegible] natural interferon, and Vita-Lea GOLD™, a scientifically advanced multivitamin/multimineral for adults age 50 and older.

Kyle's 20 Miles fundraiser Sept. 17

The summer before Kyle Myhre's senior year, in an effort to improve himself and to benefit the football and hockey teams on which he played, he took on the challenge of rollerblading 20 miles every day. He was dedicated and amazed everyone with his resolve to accomplish this rain or shine.

Kyle Myhre, 18, died on May 7, 2004, as a result of an automobile accident near Red Lake Falls. In honor of Myhre, "Kyle's 20 Miles" Rollerblade Marathon, Walkathon and Bicycle Tour will be held on Saturday, Sept. 17. There were many ideas for raising funds, but this one was the perfect way to honor and remember Kyle, by taking what he has done and giving others the opportunity to do it as well.

Interested participants are invited to dust off their bikes, find their rollerblades or walking shoes and get their friends together for a day of fun and exercise. On Sept. 17, the first annual "Kyle's 20 Miles" will be held at the Myhre Farm. Participants must be in sixth grade or older and will collect pledges to be donated to the Kyle A. Myhre Memorial Fund. As a tribute to Kyle, who proudly wore number 20 on the Red Lake Falls Eagles hockey team, organizers are asking for a minimum pledge of $20 to participate.

Registration for the event will be held at J.A Hughes Elementary School, beginning at 11 a.m. until noon. The proposed 20-mile route goes east on Highway 1 to County Road 12, South on No. 12 to the Myhre residence. This is 10 miles. Those choosing to complete the 20-mile run will be transported back to the beginning and will repeat the route. There will be five checkpoints where participants may stop for water. Participants may choose to stop at any checkpoint.

Bikes and walkers are welcomed and encouraged to also participate. A volleyball tournament and other yard games for all ages will be available throughout the day at the Myhre residence. A pig roast and meal (freewill offering), open to the community, will be served. A bonfire at dark and music provided by Sharpe Entertainment will finish off the event. The Red Lake Falls Sportsmen's Club is sponsoring a shotgun raffle, and the drawing will be held at 8 p.m. that day.

Registration and pledge forms are available at Lafayette High School, J.A. Hughes Elementary School and Brent's Food Pride in Red Lake Falls. In Thief River Falls, they can be picked up at KTRF Radio or Hugo's. For more information, contact Josie Myhre at 218-698-4615.

The Kyle A. Myhre Memorial Fund is a component fund under the Red Lake Falls Education Endowment and Project Fund through the Northwest Minnesota Foundation. Through the fund, scholarships will be awarded to deserving students, and grants will be awarded for community projects.

The Kyle A. Myhre "Learn to Fly" Scholarship will be awarded to an applicant graduating from Lafayette High School, to assist him or her in attaining higher education and reach their goals.

The Kindness Always Matters Award, which recognizes Kyle's personal inspiration to support the community, his character and willingness to help others, will be given to a student who has been nominated based on his or her contribution to the school and the community. This award is paired with a post-secondary scholarship allowing the recipient the opportunity to realize his or her educational dreams and share his or her personal inspiration with others.

The Kindness Always Matters Community Grant Project, honoring Kyle's memory, will benefit charitable, educational and community programs, projects and activities that improve or enhance the lives enjoyed by residents and visitors to Red Lake County. Any community group within Red Lake County will be eligible to apply for a grant to assist them with their needs or to help support their projects. The Kindness Always Matters project started with Kyle. He was always willing to help anyone.

Parents Forever course offered Sept. 15, 22 and 29

The next session of "Parents Forever" – a course for divorcing parents – is scheduled for Thursdays, Sept. 15, 6-8 p.m. and Sept. 22 and 29, 6-10 p.m. Classes are held at the Northwest Service Cooperative, 114 W. First St., Thief River Falls.

When a mother and father divorce, it is a major life change for all members of the family. Each family member's emotional, psychological, physical and financial well-being are impacted. Children are often affected for years to come by decisions made by their parents during the divorce process. This course helps provide divorcing couples – or those contemplating divorce – with information that will help them make decisions that minimize the stress of this transition time.

Topics included in the class series are: Impact of Divorce on Adults, Impact of Divorce on Children, Money Issues in Divorce, Legal Issues and Role of Mediation, and Pathways to a New Life. Cost of the course is $45, which includes books. This course provides the requirements for divorcing couples, as mandated by the state court system. Other Parents Forever courses are scheduled for November.

For more information or to register for the course, call the Pennington County Extension Office, 683-7030. There is still time to register for the September class.

Kids win with Feelin' Fit 'n' Fine program

Kids won two ways with Feelin' Fit 'n' Fine, an initiative to get them to exercise more. They won prizes, and they were winners because they exercised.

For the program, kids exercised and/or ate healthy foods. Parents or others marked their scorecards, which they then turned into the program's local sponsor, Inter-County Nursing Service of Thief River Falls.

Morgan Zerwas

Bella Yoder

Bryana Vigness

The program recently concluded for the summer. There were 19 participants in Pennington County, and seven participants in Red Lake County. The program will return next year.

Morgan Zerwas won for week seven, and Bella Yoder won for week eight. Bryana Vigness completed and turned in the most scorecards, thereby winning the grand prize.

Altru named one of nation's 25 Most Improved Wired Health Systems

Altru Health System, Grand Forks, N.D., has been named one of the nation's 25 Most Improved Wired hospitals and healthcare systems in 2005 by "Hospitals & Health Networks," the journal of American Hospital Association. This is the third year Altru has received this recognition.

The 2005 Most Wired Survey and Benchmarking Study measures the nation's hospitals on their use of information technologies (IT) for quality, customer service, public health and safety, business processes and workforce issues. According to the results of the survey, the nation's most wired hospitals use a wider array of IT tools to address quality and safety, than other organizations; they have significantly larger percentages of physicians who enter orders themselves, compared with other organizations, and they conduct a larger percentage of clinical transactions through the use of information technology.

Those survey results were used to name the 100 Most Wired, the 25 Most Improved, the 25 Most Wireless, and the 25 Most Wired – Small and Rural. This year, 502 respondents, representing 1,255 hospitals, responded to the survey.

Governor Pawlenty: Minnesota's schools get even better

Recently released Annual Yearly Progress report, MCA reading and math scores, and School Report Cards show strong improvement

Minnesota schools showed clear improvement on both the annual No Child Left Behind (NCLB) adequate yearly progress (AYP) measures of student academic achievement and the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessment (MCA) reading and math tests.

Gov. Tim Pawlenty and Education Commissioner Alice Seagren announced the AYP and MCA results at a press conference at the Minnesota State Fair and released the 2005 School Report Cards. In all grades, reading and math test scores are up from 2004.

"Over the past two-and-a-half years we have established clear and rigorous standards, set high expectations and brought accountability to our schools," Pawlenty said. "These results show that the hard work of Minnesota educators is paying off with real and measurable improvements in the classroom.

"In today's globally competitive world, it's more important than ever that we teach our children the skills they'll need to succeed," Pawlenty continued. "Additional funding is important, but our ultimate goal is better results for students and parents."

Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Minnesota schools showed broad and systemic improvement in the 2005 report. The number of Minnesota schools not showing required progress on the annual No Child Left Behind (NCLB) adequate yearly progress (AYP) measures of student academic achievement dropped from 464 schools in 2004 (1,969 schools measured) to 247 schools in 2005 (1,975 schools measured), a nearly 50 percent reduction.

- In 2004, 122 elementary schools, 92 junior high and middle schools, 142 high schools, 49 charter schools and 104 alternative learning centers (ALCs) did not make AYP.
- This year, these numbers decreased across the board, with only 31 elementary schools, 40 junior high and middle schools, 89 high schools, 36 charters and 83 ALCs not making AYP.
- 284 schools that did not make AYP last year achieved better results in 2005.
- Only 68 schools that made AYP in 2004 did not meet this year's higher standards.

Under NCLB, adequate yearly progress represents a certain level of student achievement on statewide tests. Every year, the achievement level for making AYP is raised. Even under the higher standards for 2005, more Minnesota schools are making AYP. "Minnesota students and teachers are rising to the challenge as these standards raise the bar for quality public education," said Seagren.

Schools meet AYP requirements in one of two ways: Meeting targets for the number of their students performing above state standards on state-developed tests, or reducing the number of students who score in lower performance levels by 10 percent. AYP is calculated separately for all students in a school, each ethnic group, students in special education, English language learners, and students receiving free and reduced-price meals. Results for the group of all students and each subgroup must meet AYP requirements in order for a school or district to make AYP.

More flexibility for schools

For the first time this year, schools and districts could make AYP based on two- or three-year average scores on state tests, a more flexible standard MDE negotiated with the U.S. Department of Education. In 2005, 78 schools and 78 districts that would otherwise have been identified as not making AYP benefited from this new standard.

"Student performance goes [illegible] normal variations from year to year," noted Seagren. "We take No Child Left Behind seriously and [illegible] carries serious consequences for schools. Working with [illegible] educators, we have designed a system that does not punish schools for normal variations in performance."

Of schools not making AYP in 2005, 131 did not meet the requirements for only a single subgroup. Thirty-five of these missed making AYP for only their special education students. Under another new provision this year, schools with fewer than 40 English language learners in a particular grade do not have to measure yearly progress for that group, similar to the provision for special education students. So, in 2005 only 21 Minnesota schools did not make AYP for this group compared to 140 in 2004. For other subgroups, schools must measure yearly progress for groups of 20 or more.

School Report Cards include more information

Minnesota's 2005 School Report Cards, also released recently, contain a wealth of information on AYP scores and other school accountability measures. For the first time, School Report Cards include financial information at the individual school level. "Minnesotans can use this new information to learn more about how public education dollars are spent for each school in the state," Pawlenty said.

School Report Cards include star rankings comparing school performance on statewide tests and in areas including school climate and academic opportunities. For academic achievement in reading and math, schools receive three stars for making AYP and may receive additional stars, up to five, for performance above NCLB requirements. Schools receive only two stars for the first year of not making AYP in a given subject area. Schools that do not make AYP for two or more years receive only one star.

In 2005, more schools received three or more stars than in 2004 while the number of schools with one or two stars decreased. Also, 123 Minnesota schools received five stars in both reading and math in 2005 compared to 71 in 2004. There were more one-star schools that had not made AYP for two or more years in 2005 than in 2004.

Test scores improve systemically, achievement gaps narrow

Results from Minnesota Comprehensive Assessment (MCA) tests in reading and math determine AYP and star rankings for schools. Significant improvements in MCA scores this year drove many AYP gains. In each subject and grade level tested, more Minnesota students achieved proficiency in 2005 than in 2004, signifying systemic change.

Results for seventh-grade math showed the most improvement with 76 percent of students tested showing proficiency in 2005; only 67 percent reached that level last year.

Eleventh-grade math scores went from 70 percent at proficiency in 2004 to 81 percent showing proficiency in 2005.

Achievement gaps between white and minority students continued to narrow. For example, the difference between white and African-American students reaching proficiency on the third grade reading test declined 6.3 percentage points since 2001, though at 30 points it is still large. There was an over 8 percentage point increase in African-American students' proficiency between 2004 and 2005.

Better teaching helps raise scores

Along with many other schools, those that had adopted the Teacher Advancement Program (TAP) showed student achievement gains on MCA results. At Waseca's Hartley Elementary, third graders increased their average MCA math scores by 100 points to 1678 between 2004 and 2005, cutting the percentage of third graders scoring in the two lowest achievement levels on the same test by two-thirds.

"Waseca Public Schools is very pleased with the scores achieved by our students on the MCA tests," said Superintendent James [illegible]. "The student achievement [illegible] due in large part to our TAP implementation. TAP allowed us to focus on our relative weaknesses and to implement research based strategies to address those weaknesses."

At Andersen Open Elementary in Minneapolis, another TAP school, fifth-grade average math test scores increased to 1430, a 58-point increase from 2004. "TAP is a schoolwide commitment of ongoing professional growth in which goals and activities are tied to state standards, the School Improvement Plan and the District's Strategic Plan," said Andersen Open Principal Mark Bonine. "The TAP Model has helped our teachers to clearly focus on working together to implement proven instructional strategies and measure the resulting student achievement gains. I firmly believe that the implementation of the Teacher Advancement Program was a significant factor in the dramatic gains in our test scores this year." Last year, 20 percent of Andersen Open students fell in the lowest achievement level on that test; this year, only 11 percent did.

Other TAP schools, which include Seward and Webster Open in Minneapolis and Waseca's Intermediate, Waseca Junior and High Schools, all showed growth on the MCAs. In addition, Webster Open is no longer in corrective action and made AYP this year.

Minnesota's Q Comp program, incorporating improved professional development, regular assessment and compensation tied to student achievement, was modeled on TAP. "We know TAP works to raise student achievement," Pawlenty said. "Q Comp gives Minnesota schools and teachers a powerful tool to make improvements."

Corrective action schools show improvement

Some of the most dramatic improvements came from schools that had not made AYP for several years. In 2004, eight schools in Minneapolis and St. Paul had not made AYP for four or more consecutive years. With help from MDE specialists and their own district staffs, those schools developed corrective action plans and received assistance to improve student achievement. This year, six of those eight schools made AYP for the first time in five years. Last year, 33 student subgroups in the eight schools with corrective action plans did not make AYP; in 2005, only two subgroups in two of those schools did not meet their achievement targets.

"Six corrective action schools making AYP shows major improvement," said Seagren.

"We have a flexible accountability system that does not unfairly identify improving schools. The dire predictions that more and more schools would not make AYP as the student achievement bar was raised are not coming true."

New tests of new standards due for 2006

Student achievement information on the 2005 School Report Cards comes from results on the 2005 MCA tests in reading and math. This is the last year MCA tests will be based on the state standards that were replaced by the new Minnesota Academic Standards. Next year will be the first year of testing under the new standards with new MCA-II tests. Therefore, it will not be possible to make comparisons between this year's MCA results and next year's MCA-II results. MDE experts are in the process of determining how to use the new MCA-II tests results in AYP calculations and associated School Report Card star rankings.

The financial information included on the 2005 School Report Cards, reported by school districts to MDE, has been under review since last spring. It represents the most current and accurate financial data on state school districts and individual schools. Those with questions about School Report Card financial information or other data provided by school districts should contact their local school officials. The School Report Card section of the MDE Web site also now includes helpful lists of schools by district.

Minnesota School Report Cards for 2005 are available from the MDE Web site (www.education.state.mn.us).

Robert Sweetgall to speak about walking for health

Every step helps your heart, lungs, leg muscles, and brain work better. Research shows that people who walk more than 25,000 footsteps per week (one and one-half miles per day) live longer, healthier lives compared to people who hardly move at all.

The community is invited to hear Robert Sweetgall, an internationally known motivational speaker on the subject of Walking for your health. Sweetgall is excited to get area residents moving and motivated to exercise. America's Pied Piper of Walking has walked seven times across America, including an 11,208-mile foot journey through all 50 states in 365 straight days.

An author of 18 books on walking and wellness, Sweetgall has appeared on hundreds of radio and television talk shows, NBC Today, CBS Morning News, NPR Radio and Evening Magazine, and has spoken to over one million people live. He has also pioneered the leading school Walking Wellness programs used by thousands of schools in America.

"Move To Improve" will be held on Monday, Sept. 19, at 7 p.m. at the Lincoln High School [illegible] Thief River Falls.

"Smart Steps" will be [illegible] Wednesday, Sept. 21 at noon at Warren-Alvarado-Oslo School Auditorium, Warren.

Quin County CHS, Inter-County Nursing Service and North Valley Public Health are proud to sponsor this exciting and motivational program for the residents of our counties.

Oakland Park Nursing Home to offer two-month nursing assistant course

Oakland Park Nursing Home (OPNH) will offer an 80-hour nursing assistant and home health aide certification course beginning Sept. 12, lasting approximately two months. Classes will be held twice a week, most likely in the evenings, based on the needs of students' schedules.

The cost of the course is $350. The student's employer will reimburse that amount to the student when he or she is hired as a nursing assistant. The student must also successfully pass a criminal background check to remain in the class. To obtain an application and schedule for the class, or receive further information, call 681-1675 or stop at OPNH and ask for Terri.

Support efforts to rebuild New Orleans

Although this area has had plenty of disasters, none can compare to what is going on in New Orleans this past week. The stories are heartrending: Of people forced to leave their elderly relatives behind to sure death by drowning, of a man who lost the grip of his wife's hand in the storm surge and hasn't seen her since, of families split up by the deluge and unable to connect.

I have never been to New Orleans. Those who have been there generally loved the place. If nothing else, it was an experience never to be forgotten. Great food. An atmosphere of celebration all year long. A colorful history running back nearly 300 years.

The French founded the city in 1717, which, if you've ever been to Paris, goes a long way towards explaining New Orleans' reputation for toleration of sins of the flesh and general licentiousness to the present day.

The French version of "Let the good times roll," is the official city motto. Even when the United States took control of the city in the early 19th century, New Orleans refused to adopt the largely Protestant customs and habits of the rest of the country, thinking them puritanical and domineering.

The city has a history of tragedy as well. French settlers were mistreated when the Spanish took control from 1862 to 1800. The French, eventually known as Cajuns, were snubbed by the Creoles, immigrants of Spanish origin, and were forced out into the swamps where they developed a culture all their own.

New Orleans eventually became a major center of the slave trade. Advertisements for slave auctions in New Orleans newspapers appear in American history books to this day, so vividly do they illustrate the horrors of human commerce.

Andrew Jackson won the bloody Battle of New Orleans in 1812, unnecessarily, it turned out, for the peace treaty had been signed 10 days before. Word didn't reach New Orleans in time, and Andrew Jackson gained the status as a hero which would eventually put him in the White House.

Jazz is generally thought to have originated in New Orleans. Certainly, the funeral processionals with a dixieland band playing "Just a Closer Walk With Thee" are a New Orleans original.

Because I have never been to New Orleans, I have always been curious as to its allure.

The response of stoic northern Minnesota Lutherans who've been to New Orleans doesn't tell a person much. They just shake their heads and say, "Boy, that Bourbon Street is something else." If you press them for details, they just shake their heads some more and maybe blink a few times.

"This farm boy never thought he'd see anything like that," said a neighbor of mine who'd been to the Big Easy for a convention. More shaking of the head, but no details. I didn't press.

Now the question will inevitably arise: Should the rest of us, through our federal taxes (or years of future debt, as the case may be) pay to restore and rebuild a city which seemed doomed by its unfortunate location to the fate it met last week? Couldn't it happen again?

There will be undertones and grumblings, some already audible, hinting that some higher power, in a poetic stroke of vengeance, simply took a moral cesspool and turned it into a literal cesspool. Sorry about the human cost, these people say, but what should a modern Sodom and Gomorrah expect?

Well, I am selfish. I want to see New Orleans one day, and I want to see it in all its glory. I want to experience Bourbon Street and see what the local Scandanavians who have been there are shaking their heads about.

I want to taste the legendary food. I want to see the Napoleanic architecture. I want to stay out until 6 a.m. just to say I could.

I say, we've got the technology. Let's clean the place up, protect it from future deluges and keep one of the more vibrant and unique cultures in this country alive.

Farm Management Minute

Managing a lifetime of crops

by Jon Christensen
Farm Business Management

August is always an interesting month on the farm with crops being harvested and the changes that each harvest brings. Growing up on the farm, I can remember swathing a field of oats a certain way because of storm damage. One day, my landlord, who had spent a considerable number of years farming, walked out to my machine and talked about how much work it was to get as much crop as possible into the bin. "You only get so many crops in your lifetime as a farmer, so you better make the most of them," he offered. How true his words were and still are.

Lately, I was thinking about the 30 (plus or minus) crops a farmer might get in his lifetime as a manager of the soil and how each one is marketed. One way is to stand at the marketing "home plate" and try to hit a home run with each crop and sell the whole crop at the market high. I personally don't know of any human being who is quite that skilled or lucky to accomplish an annual home run in the volatile market we face. Sure, it might happen, but it doesn't happen consistently.

Each farming operation is unique and each requires unique recordkeeping to "hit the home run." If we were to take five farming operations using Farm Business Management (FBM) Finpack's cost of production per unit with family living expenses added in, we would get these different costs for soybeans: $7.12, $6.79, $5.11, $5.12 and $5.37. The difference in numbers is a result of the differences in each farming operation. It is important to know your costs, which likely are not the same as that of another operation.

My question is, why not work to increase the odds of consistency in "hitting a home run" by using FBM services? FBM's marketing plan assists you in marketing your product when it is at its highest potential, helping control some of the risk and stress associated with marketing your product.

If you would like assistance managing your lifetime of crops, contact an FBM instructor in your area by calling 1-800-959-6282. We want to help your "time at bat" yield many "home runs."

Katrina victims in Minnesota need to register for assistance

Victims of the Hurricane Katrina disaster now residing in Minnesota are eligible for disaster assistance and should register with FEMA and the American Red Cross.

Disaster victims are encouraged to register with both FEMA and the Red Cross. Registering with both organizations will help responders identify the locations of those that have evacuated the impacted area.

Victims can register by calling FEMA at 1-800-621-3361 or at www.fema.gov. Registration information is on their homepage.

The American Red Cross is also offering assistance with food, clothing and shelter. St. Paul and Minneapolis Red Cross chapters cover most of the metro area. If you do not know your chapter, call the St. Paul chapter.

The Minneapolis Red Cross telephone number is 612-871-7676; the St. Paul Red Cross telephone number is 651-291-6798.

...Time for blame later - Help people now

What can be said about the crisis in New Orleans that has not already been said? The hurricane was bad enough, killing many in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, but it is what happened to New Orleans after the hurricane that cuts to the quick.

Finding one cause for the tragedy is impossible. What happened was caused by many things, beginning even before the hurricane, when citizens were told to leave but were not given the help needed to do so. We can go on and on, not excluding the federal, state and city government inadequacies in preparation for a disaster like the one that happened, the lack of immediate aid, and, heaven knows, the problems that will surely be coming in the future.

There is plenty of blame to go around, let alone the can of worms we open when we include the fact that the majority of those suffering were lower class, and mostly black. Blaming will go on and on for a long time. One can only hope that this tragedy will open eyes to what is actually important in this country and in the world, and that is the people.

Moving on, they say a picture is worth a thousand words. The picture on the front page of Sunday's "Grand Forks Herald" is worth a million words. Before I read any further in the paper, I cut out the picture and put it by my computer. It is a powerful image of what is actually important in the world.

The picture was taken by the Associated Press on Saturday, six days after the hurricane came ashore. In the picture we see a little black girl walking along holding the hand of an old woman in a wheelchair. They caption says they are being evacuated from the Convention Center in New Orleans, which was said to be one of the worst, filthy, unlawful, hellhole places to be after the flood.

Tanisha Blevin, age 5, is the little girl in the picture. We might surely think that the woman in the wheelchair is Tanisha's grandmother or great-grandmother, but the woman is white. Her name is Nita LaGarde. She is 105 years old. I suppose she could be Tanisha's great-grandmother, but not likely.

Both are dressed in what looks like their best. How strange, after six days of horror, that this pair appears to be simply taking a walk, maybe to church. Ms. LaGarde is wearing a dress, clutching her purse, something those of us getting on in years tend to do whenever we go anywhere. She also has a large white tag pinned to the front of her neat black dress. I can't read it. Perhaps it tells her name and age or where she is going or where she is from.

Nonetheless, Tanisha walks along, head held high, firmly holding Nita LaGarde's hand, as if guiding her over a puddle. Nita is sitting tight in the wheelchair, a little frown of concentration on her face, but sitting proudly, and looking wonderful. It is impossible to tell who is caring for whom, but, looking at the picture, a person gets the impression that their hands will hold them firmly together no matter what they are doing. They are determined and they are helping one another. What a picture.

I hope I will learn more about the picture in the days to come. I hope Tanisha and Nita find their families and that someone takes good care of them. I hope that some day, with the grace of God, they can be safe and happy again with their loved ones, and the horrors of the tragedy will be just a fading memory.

And I hope that same thing for everyone who has suffered in this tragedy - the people we have seen on our television sets while we sit comfortably at home with our family around us, having plenty of food to eat, water to drink, soft, dry beds to sleep on, feeling comfy and safe while we watch the tragedy.

I hope it for the grandmother who is sitting patiently, holding her grandbaby, while tears track down her cheeks. I hope it for the children who have lost everything, including the supplies they bought for the first day of school, and sometimes, who have even lost their families. I hope it for the parents who are trying to take care of their children in the midst of the most horrible conditions that we could ever imagine. I hope it for those who feel so impotent in the face of such tragedy that all they can do is rage, or cry, or scream against it. Do you blame them? Wouldn't you do the same?

The News and Your Child

Today's children do not live in a vacuum. They are not only a part of our families and community, but with the communications system we have today, they are very much aware of our world.

To help a child understand all of these many messages and events in our world, it may be wise to try to share the news with him or her. This can be done through the newspapers or news magazines.

Encourage, help and assist the child in the clipping of various pictures that he or she can relate to. These may include people in our community whose pictures appear in the local paper, pictures of our president or pictures of children in other countries. They can be put on a bulletin board or attached to the refrigerator.

It is also wise to have a map to point out where these events are occurring in relationship to where you live. You may be surprised at a child's interest and knowledge.

Scavenger Hunt

For next week's Activities feature, you will need cucumber, mayonnaise, vinegar, vegetable oil, salt and dill weed.

Parenting Tips

Television and Children

Television can be so convincing that children believe most of the things it tells and shows them. But since children aren't yet experienced in the ways of the world, they can't always distinguish between what is real and what is make-believe. This can confuse and mislead. Children have been known to hurt not only themselves, but other people by imitating what the television tells and shows them.

Television can prove harmful to children in other ways. Spending too much time in front of the set can cause children to become passive and unable to be creative.

Many parents worry about the "hidden" message of television. They hear that some programs teach negative attitudes toward women, minorities and other social groups. They are concerned about the commercials that push toys, junk food, and sugared products. Especially worrisome is the mounting evidence of the relationship between television violence and the increase in violence in our schools and communities.

There is no need to go to the extreme of forbidding all television viewing in your home. Rather you can decide to cut down on how much television your children watch. Decide which kinds of programs they should watch and how often. If at all possible, watch some of the programs with them. This can frequently lead to family discussions of topics which might otherwise be neglected or postponed in day-to-day family life.

Something to talk about

Plan your child's television viewing. Decide what you want your child to watch. Then when the program is over, turn the television off.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: Do Social Security checks get to disaster areas such as from Hurricane Katrina?

A: Yes. Each disaster has its own specific solution for delivery of Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments but agency contingency plans are created quickly to ensure continued ongoing payments and to process other workloads such as benefit applications.

By the end of August SSA offices across the country had initial plans in place for working with Katrina victims. People with direct deposit will continue having benefits electronically deposited to their selected financial institution. If the financial institution is affected by the storm and unable to process funds any SSA office in the country will be able to help arrange alternate payment.

People can also contact Social Security across the country toll-free at 1-800-772-1213 from 7:00am - 7:00pm local time. Emergency paper check delivery arrangements are made with the Post Office. When checks cannot be delivered to area households, arrangements often include central post office pick-up locations but, again, any SSA office or the SSA toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, will be able to help arrange alternate payment.

The effects of Katrina are huge and SSA will adapt to help our public as time goes on. As Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) establishes emergency centers, Social Security employees will be there to help. SSA disaster plans were used in the Grand Forks area during the 1997 flood to continue paying benefits and to process other workloads. Disasters aside, SSA has standard procedures in place to track and replace missing checks. Very few check problems are encountered with direct deposit and its use is encouraged for everyone.

Did you know? In January 2006, a new Medicare prescription drug coverage program begins that will be available to everyone on Medicare. Social Security is now taking applications from people having Medicare who may be eligible for extra help to pay for monthly premiums, annual deductible and prescription co-payments under the new prescription drug program. Call any SSA office or go online at www.socialsecurity.gov for information and to complete an application. Anyone with both Medicare and Medicaid, or Medicare and Supplemental Security Income, or anyone whose state pays his or her Medicare premiums, is automatically eligible for this extra help and will not have to complete an eligibility application although they will need to select a coverage plan starting in November.

State of Minnesota encourages people to buy green power

Would you spend a couple of dollars more a month to keep the air you breathe cleaner, reduce the impact of global warming, and improve the economy in Minnesota? It's as simple as contacting the local electricity provider to ask for green power.

Environmental benefits are huge. Thousands of Minnesota residents and businesses have already made the commitment to buy green power from their local electric utilities and are reducing their contribution to air pollution. In fact, buying as little as $1.50 per month of green power for a year is the same as not driving a car 2,400 miles. A recent state law requires every electrical utility in Minnesota to offer its customers the option of buying green power, and the Minnesota Office of Environmental Assistance has kicked off a campaign to encourage residents and businesses to sign-up.

For most of Minnesota's electrical utility green power programs, your purchases generate new wind power. That wind power, much of which is generated right here in our state, replaces electricity that would primarily come from burning coal – one of the dirtiest fuels for producing electricity. Here in Minnesota, 75 percent of the energy we consume comes from coal – less than 1 percent currently comes from wind. But your purchase of green power can change that. Already almost 30 new wind turbines have been built with the purchases of utility green power customers, and each of those can produce enough electricity to power several hundred homes.

It's clean. The clean air benefits from wind power are significant and include reduction in several air pollutants. Carbon dioxide (a primary contributor to global warming); sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxide emissions that contribute to acid rain and ozone pollution; mercury emissions that significantly contribute to fish consumption warnings in lakes; and small particulates and other unhealthy emissions that have contributed to recent air quality alerts in Minnesota. In addition, wind power development is providing significant benefits to Minnesota's economy, especially in rural parts of the state where farmers and local communities reap the benefits of keeping our energy dollars in Minnesota.

How it works. Residents and businesses can buy small amounts of green power for as little as $1.50 a month or more, or buy as much as 100 percent of their electricity usage. For the average home, a month of 100 percent of green power would cost about $6 to $14 more than traditional energy sources. Every dollar spent on green power goes directly towards the generation of new green power. Since utilities cannot directly specific electricity to a specific place, green power does not go directly to your house. However, when you purchase green power, the utilities increase the total amount of green electricity that travels over the entire system. The Minnesota Department of Commerce certifies that green power programs meet the requirements of state law and verifies the utility's reporting of green power sales.

It's simple. All it takes to start buying green power is to contact your electricity provider. (That information should be on your electric bill.) Simply ask to sign-up for its green power program. The amount you choose to purchase will be added to your future bills. While buying green power does cost a few dollars more each month, try some of these tips to conserve energy at home and you may not even notice the cost of buying green power:

- Turn off lights, computers and appliances when not in use
- Turn your thermostat down (cooler) in winter and set your air conditioner higher (warmer) in the summer.
- Sign up for your utility's off-peak programs or energy conservation special rates and rebates.
- Buy Energy Star rated, energy efficient light bulbs and appliances.
- Get a home energy audit. Seal cracks and insulate.

Anticipation for "best year ever"

division. In presenting the award Monday, Peterson said Stumpf has been an advocate of the students and schools in northwestern Minnesota, and was instrumental in getting probably the best education bill to come out of the Legislature for many years.

Sen. Stumpf, who had recently returned from a national conference where speakers including Bill Gates and Nobel Laureates, said all of the speakers talked about vast changes in technology. But, he said, they also said the most important thing in making this a better world is education.

"The whole tenor of education," said Stumpf, "is such a personal thing. We can't get caught up in technology or some other new program, but really," he said, "it's a personal thing that really has more to do with teachers."

It's the teacher, he explained, who helps students reach their potential, not technology or some new program. "You will have an impact on the world and future," said Stumpf.

Peter Hess Awards

Also at the meeting, Denise Laymon of the Thief River Falls Education Foundation, presented the Peter Hess Memorial Award to two educators. The award was established by friends and family of Peter Hess who died in 2003, and who had a great appreciation for teachers. The award is accompanied by a $500 unrestricted award. This year, the awards were presented to ADawn Melbye, and Superintendent Irv Peterson.

ADawn Melbye has served as an agriculture education teacher at Lincoln High School since August of 1998. During her tenure in the District, she has received numerous awards, the most recent of which, the Teacher Achievement Award from the Minnesota Academy of Excellence Foundation, was announced in June.

Irving Peterson has served as Superintendent of School District 564 since May of 2001. During his tenure, he has focused on continuous improvement. He serves on several education-related board including the Minnesota Rural Educators Association (MREA) board of directors. In April of 2005, he was named Administrator of Excellence by the Minnesota Association of School Administrators.

Toxic algae can spell danger for pets and livestock: When in doubt, best keep out!

Spending time in, on, or near one of Minnesota's thousands of lakes is a great way to beat the heat. And going to "the lake" for the weekend is a ritual for many Minnesotans. But lake lovers, especially those with pets or livestock, need to be aware of a potential hazard stemming from algae growth in lakes during summer. Under certain environmental conditions some algae species, called blue-green algae, can become toxic. Pets and livestock drinking lake water containing the toxic form of these algae may become sick and even die.

Algae occurs in virtually all lakes in Minnesota, but its concentration can vary considerably from lake to lake. It is most abundant during warm weather in water that is hard, alkaline, and rich in nutrients (primarily phosphorus and nitrogen, which fertilize aquatic plants as they do crops and lawns). Special characteristics of blue-green algae allow them to reach greater abundance than other types of algae. Some types of blue-green algae are able to use nitrogen from the air as well as other forms of nitrogen dissolved in the water, which gives them an advantage over other kinds of algae that depend only on nitrogen in the water.

Blue-green algae can use sunlight more efficiently than most algae. Some of them contain pockets of gas allowing them to float on upper layers of the water and outcompete other algae for sunlight. In nutrient-rich lakes, blue-green algae can become so abundant that they completely dominate other free-floating algae. The whole appearance of the lake water can be changed by these large concentrations of algae. This conditions is called an algae bloom.

The lake water will become cloudy, with a green or blue-green cast or hue. It often develops a strong musty or earthy odor as the algae accumulate in large floating mats and begin to decompose. In extreme cases, surface scums of dead and decomposing algae may occur. Fish in the lake may develop a temporary earthy flavor. The lake is best described as having a look of pea soup at this stage.

These are the blooms that can occasionally become toxic. Toxic blue-green algae blooms are strongly influenced by the wind. Sometimes, the wind can completely dissipate a toxic bloom in just a short time (hours) or longer (a day or so). At other times, the wind increases the danger of a toxic bloom by concentrating (windrowing) the floating algae mats toward the downwind shore of a lake.

Most problems occur when the algae are concentrated around a shoreline and livestock, pets, wild animals and birds drink the water or otherwise ingest the algae. Toxic effects in animals can occur only when they ingest the contaminated water or algae. Farmers can suffer severe livestock losses from blue-green algae poisoning of their cattle's watering source.

The degree to which an animal is affected depends on several factors: the amount of water or algal cells ingested, the animal's body size, amount of food in the animal's stomach, the sensitivity of the species and individual animal, and the type and amount of toxin present in the bloom.

An animal that has ingested toxins from an algae bloom can show a variety of symptoms, ranging from nausea and skin irritation to severe disorders involving the circulatory, nervous and digestive systems, and severe skin lesions. In the worst case, the animal may suffer convulsions and die.

Humans are seldom seriously affected by toxic algae because the unpleasant odor and taste of water associated with a blue-green algae blooms tends to make them avoid it. However, humans and animals may experience illness or other health effects if there is skin contact with algal toxins or large amounts of algae are ingested while toxins are being produced.

The Minnesota Department of Health recommends that humans not ingest the water, nor let children or pets enter the water. Contact with these algal blooms should be avoided. If contact does occur the material should be washed off thoroughly, paying special attention to the swimsuit area. If your pet comes in contact with a bloom, wash off your pet's coat to prevent the pet from ingesting the algae while self-cleaning.

Swimming in water with an algal bloom may cause symptoms such as: skin rash, hives, runny nose, irritated eyes, and/or throat irritation. Swallowing or ingesting water with an algal bloom may cause symptoms such as: vomiting, diarrhea, or nausea; headache, throat irritation, or muscle pain; in severe cases paralysis, respiratory failure, or even death. It may also cause seizures or convulsions in your pets.

How can I tell if a bloom is toxic?

Not all blue-green algae blooms are toxic; in fact, the vast majority of them are not. But because they can occur so quickly and can vary so much in toxicity and frequency, all blue-green algae blooms are potentially dangerous. They cannot be accurately predicted and there are no easy laboratory tests for the toxins produced. A blue-green algae bloom can change from non-toxic to toxic or vice-versa without a significant change in appearance.

Since toxic blooms are unpredictable and laboratory analysis is expensive, it is best to approach the problem as one would changing weather conditions. If the water looks threatening, avoid it until a more "normal" appearance returns. A blue-green bloom should be avoided if it changes from just "greenish water" to a thick, blue-green or green, paint-like scum. Often the bloom can be avoided by simply moving livestock or recreational activities to the opposite side of the lake.

If you suspect that an animal has been affected by an algae bloom, you should contact your veterinarian as quickly as possible. Some of the toxins that can form in a bloom have the ability to kill in an hour or less, while some may take up to 24 hours to take effect. For more information on toxic algae or to report a possible toxic bloom, please contact: Matt Lindon, MPCA, at 651-297-8218, or toll-free from Greater Minnesota at 1-800-657-3864.

Anita Lizakowski, health and fitness instructor at the college, was one of the other riders. Lizakowski said there were no problems and that it was a great experience. The next day, she said she went for an hour-long massage, but that it was a great experience.

Lizakowski's reasons for participating in the ride was to raise awareness of the health and fitness program at NCTC. An unexpected bonus, she said, was riding with Howard and Bob who were truly inspiring. Lizakowski said those riding with Erickson and Beane gained a new appreciation for the benefits of lifetime physical fitness.

Lizakowski isn't planning another long bike ride anytime soon. Although, she said she is thinking about riding again next year. She said Erickson is also thinking about next year. She said he hopes the number of bike riders will double.

This is Erickson's fourth "Scholarship Challenge." It is a 2,300-mile state bicycle tour to raise money and public support for part-time students. Erickson is a Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) Trustee Emeritus.

Participants on the ride from Thief River Falls to East Grand Forks were: Erickson, Beane, Lizakowski, Kays and NCTC Provost and Vice President Kent Hanson, and NCTC student Nick Ricks of Thief River Falls.

If he can do it, we can too. Bob Erickson of Bloomington has been raising funds and awareness for part-time college students. On several of his bike tours he has been joined by Howard Beane, 74, Harrisburg, Penn Tuesday, Erickson and Beane (far right) were joined by (from left) Jon Kays and Nick Ricks, Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) students, Provost and Vice President Kent Hanson, and Anita Lizakowski, NCTC health instructor

Writing bug bites and doesn't let go even after 50+ years...

TRF native publishes his first book

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Many years ago, Calvin Vraa took an interest inventory that told his future. It said there were two careers he was suited for: psychologist or author. He has now worked in both professions.

The Thief River Falls native recently published "When the Warflowers Bloomed," a novel about the love that grows between a World War II infantry officer and a concentration camp survivor after the officer liberates the concentration camp.

"I'm just really happy that I wrote it," Vraa said.

Vraa, a Maple Grove resident, returned Aug. 20 to Thief River Falls to sign copies of his book at the American Legion Club.

For most of his life, the 70-year-old has enjoyed writing. The 1953 Lincoln High School graduate served as the sports editor of the Lincoln Log while he was in high school.

While attending Concordia College in Moorhead, he decided to become a journalist. However, his plans changed. After graduating with a bachelor's degree, he went on to receive his doctorate in counseling psychology from the University of North Dakota (UND).

Vraa's plans may have changed, but he continued to enjoy writing. Recalling his years as a student, he remembered that anything less than an "A-" on a psychology paper was unacceptable to him. Unlike a lot of people, he actually enjoyed writing his doctoral dissertation. However, he admitted it was a bit tedious.

After receiving his doctorate, Vraa taught at UND for 12 years and then spent the last 25 years of his career in a private psychology practice in Minneapolis.

Even though he didn't become a journalist, Vraa said, "The urge [to write] never left."

Vraa eventually acted on his urge to write. He wrote one novel about an unwed father who served in the military in the Vietnam era. He never published it. "It needs a lot of rewriting," Vraa said.

Then he read Cornelius Ryan's "The Longest Day." In the book, Ryan writes about a soldier who stumbles upon a farmhouse and meets a young girl. The soldier eventually marries the girl.

Immediately, Vraa had an idea for another book. He wondered what would happen if the soldier met the girl in a concentration camp. The plot of his second book was born.

Vraa didn't have to do too much research for his second book. He served in the Minnesota National Guard for almost 29 years as an infantry officer and later as company commander. Given his other foray into writing, he also had some experience in writing novels.

With his first novel, Vraa knew he had problems with literary style, plot and organization. "I knew I had to learn how to do that and do that right," Vraa said.

Doing it right meant being like Ernest Hemingway, who, Vraa said, rewrote chapters 39 times for "A Farewell to Arms." "I thought if Hemingway can rewrite chapters 39 times, I'll rewrite mine 20," Vraa said.

The actual writing of "When the Warflowers Bloomed" took seven years, 61 chapters and more than 400 pages to write. Yet, as Vraa said, "Good writing is a function of rewriting."

Vraa had time to write his second book. At the age of 62 and with his wife's encouragement, he decided to retire and finish writing a book. At the time, the lawyer from whom he rented an office had decided to exercise an option to take over Vraa's portion of the building. Vraa took his wife's advice and has a published book to show for it.

Vraa had worked with an agent for some time. With his age in mind, he decided to go into a form of self-publishing. Before having the book published, he had a professional editor critique it. The editor responded with a 35-page critique, which Vraa said, mostly contained good comments.

Vraa continued working on the book. His wife, Barbara, helped with some final proofreadings. And years after it began, his book was in the stage of final rewrites.

While "When the Warflowers Bloomed" was in the stage of final rewrites two years ago, Vraa began gathering information for his third novel. He said he hopes that novel doesn't take as long to write, and he doesn't expect it will because he said the story is shorter.

In the meantime, readers can check out his first novel, which is available at private booksellers, including Barnes and Noble, as well as www.amazon.com. The book will soon be available at the Thief River Falls Public Library.

Minnesota prepares for up to 5,000 displaced citizens

Gov. Tim Pawlenty has announced that the Federal Emergency Management Agency has asked the state to receive up to 5,000 citizens displaced by Hurricane Katrina. The governor has asked the state's Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Management within the Department of Public Safety to coordinate a response utilizing resources across state government.

"This is a national tragedy and it requires a national response," Pawlenty said. "Minnesota will welcome citizens displaced by the hurricane with open arms. We have already taken steps to prepare for those who need help and across state government we are working 24-hours a day to assist in any way possible."

Concept of Operations Plan

Mission: To bring displaced persons into Minnesota from the regions affected by Hurricane Katrina utilizing Camp Ripley as the base of operations.

State and Volunteer Agency Plan:

- Camp Ripley can initially house approximately 3000 people for a 30- to 45-day period.
- A variety of state agencies would provide staffing and resources at Camp Ripley to sustain the operation for that time period.
- The Department of Health and Department of Human Services would provide medical and mental health support personnel and provide access to offsite special care facilities.
- The Department of Health would coordinate overall medical support.
- The state of Minnesota would provide transportation from an airport to be designated (Minneapolis, St. Cloud or Brainerd) to Camp Ripley.
- The Minnesota State Patrol and other law enforcement agencies would provide law enforcement services at Camp Ripley.
- The Minnesota National Guard [illegible] at Camp Ripley.
- The Department of Natural Resources would provide an Overhead Team to support Donations Management utilizing the State Fairgrounds and coordinate transport of goods to Camp Ripley.
- The SEOC would be fully activated as a 24/7 operation with appropriate staffing levels. State agencies will be required to staff their areas of responsibility within the SEOC.
- The Department of Administration would provide contracting support for goods and services in support of this operation.
- A task force will be established to address the mid and long term housing and educational issues. The current long term housing availability statewide will accommodate up to 5,000 people.
- ARC, Salvation Army, Red Cross and other Voluntary Organizations will be asked to provide food support and registration at Camp Ripley.

The SEOC phone hotline for information regarding the Hurricane Katrina disaster response has been activated. The SEOC hotline will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday, Sunday and Monday taking calls in response to inquiries from citizens.

Citizens can receive advice about how to:

- Assist those affected by the hurricane
- Locate family and friends
- Register for assistance if you are an individual disaster victim

The Department of Public Safety Homeland Security and Emergency Management division operates the SEOC. Representatives from multiple state agencies, including Health, Agriculture, Transportation, Human Services, PCA, DNR and the National Guard will staff and operate from the center.

Teach ME! expands into Grand Forks

Mark DaParma, founder of Thief River Falls' only remedial tutoring center, has announced that Teach ME! will open in Grand Forks, N.D., this September. This will be the second location of Teach ME!

"There is such a need for individualized, one-on-one remedial coaching! We have been successful over the summer in developing systems which are an asset to the children and their families we have served. We've gotten great demand to bring our Learning Club to Grand Forks as well, so now we're taking the plunge!" said DaParma.

Teach Me! a Learning Club will be located in the Zion Methodist Church, just off of 24th Avenue and Washington. The Thief River Falls club is located at the United Methodist Church. Both centers are currently accepting enrollment for the fall semester.

Nationwide, the demand for individualized tutoring has experienced great growth over the last 20 years. Most parents are familiar with the Sylvan or the Huntington franchises nationwide. Teach ME!'s only goal is the academic success of children accepted into their program. Teach ME! has a unique approach combining technology with one-on-one individualized instruction. They focus on building sound mastery of the basic concepts and positively reinforcing skills before moving onto the next level.

"We've done our research," said DaParma. "We've consulted with experts in creating our methods. We're committed to bring excellence to the students and families at pricing they can afford. Our number one criteria for our teachers is they must be passionate about making a difference with children! It is heartbreaking when we do an in-depth assessment of a student going into, say perhaps, sixth grade, yet their reading and math skills test at third, fourth or fifth grade level. At the same time, it is like no other feeling for a teacher as they see the exact Ah-Ha! moment when a child 'gets it.' The smile on that child's face and the burst of self confidence is worth everything!"

Many parents bring their children to Teach ME! full of frustration and even resignation. Their first meeting is a "get to know you" meeting to learn about their struggles with academics, what they've done so far and what they plan to do. The second step is the in-depth assessment process which, unlike the standardized tests in schools, has no time limit. "If we take the time limit out of the picture, we can remove much of the anxiety," DaParma went on. "We see a more accurate 'snap-shot' of the child's mastery, which lets us develop a very, very targeted curriculum aimed at the missing skills. With this plan, we can get right to work on the areas of concern."

The next step is to meet as a group, create the plan and get started! "We're not a franchise out of New Jersey or some other location. We're local educators working with local kids. We don't have huge franchise fees or corporate dictates to follow. We will do whatever is in the best interest of the child to see them gain as much academically as possible. This is a lifelong goal, one which can affect a child for the rest of their life in earning power and even the approach they take to education as they raise their future family. If you give your child the chance to amaze you, it can be a miracle happening before your eyes! Learning is truly magic. I see the parents we have worked with over the summer as hero's who are willing to go the extra mile to give their kids a brighter future," stated DaParma.

Currently, there is one scholarship remaining for Teach ME! Interested parents or teachers can contact Teach ME! at www.teachmelearning.org. In Thief River Falls, call 218-686-5696 or in Grand Forks, N.D., call 701-741-4545.

Peer pressure on teens is often misunderstood

by Colleen Gengler
U of M Extension Service

Parents of teens typically talk about peer pressure a lot. They sometimes blame peer pressure when teens make poor choices. But peer pressure is often misunderstood in a number of ways.

Peer pressure isn't always negative. Peers may pressure others into negative behaviors or away from positive behaviors, but can push in positive directions as well. One of the best examples is peer pressure not to smoke. According to parenting expert Laurence Steinberg, "It is not a question of whether or not teens will experience peer pressure, but rather what kind of pressure."

Peer pressure exists in many forms. Parents think it is very direct - in your face. In reality, peer pressure can be much more subtle. It might happen when teens model a certain way to act or are supportive of what someone says or does as opposed to a directive.

Here is how one teen described a social situation in which alcohol was involved: "It's there if you want it, but nobody gives you a hard time if you don't – like no one comes up and shoves a beer in your hand and says, 'Here, drink it!' Of course, if everybody else is drinking you may feel a little weird just sipping a soda." Peer pressure comes from within and how much pressure teens place on themselves.

Not all teens react to peer pressure in the same way. Gender and age are factors. For example, boys are more susceptible than girls to peer pressure, particularly in risk situations. Younger teens are more easily influenced than older teens, with peer pressure peaking in about eighth or ninth grade. Individual characteristics such as confidence level, personality and degree of maturity make a difference. Peer pressure varies according to the situation: Being with one close friend, in the small clique of friends or seeing what the larger peer group is doing in school.

Often, parents want to blame their teen's friends for negative behavior. Actually, they need to look at why their teen chose those friends in the first place. No doubt there were similar interests there. Friends do not redirect a teen's choices and behaviors, but reinforce what was there to begin with. If a teen already has strong feelings or beliefs about an issue and is comfortable with those views, he or she will most likely stick to them.

Sometimes parents of teens feel as if they have no influence at all. In reality, it depends on the issue. Teens are influenced by peers on current pop culture choices such as music, fashion, activities and appearance. While these are very important to the teen at the time, they don't decide the future.

Teens are influenced by parents on longer term issues, including college and vocational choices, political, moral and religious concerns. That influence can lead to parents and teens having similar views, with variations based on peers and changing social opinion.

Understanding peer pressure better will help parents understand their teen.

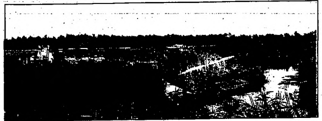
John Braastad, refuge operations specialist supervisor, and Larry Anderson, prescribed fire specialist, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, discuss the progress of a prescribed burn at the refuge on Aug. 30. The purpose of the prescribed burn was to inhibit cattail growth, improve wildlife habitat, rejuvenate growth and encourage the growth of sedge meadow.



▲ Scott Swanson operates a terra torch. He was supported by Darrin Franco. Both were working at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge Aug. 31 on a prescribed burn. The purpose of the prescribed burn was to inhibit cattail growth, improve wildlife habitat, rejuvenate growth and encourage the growth of sedge meadow.

▶ Flames from a terra torch easily made the jump across open water to cattails on the other side. Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge officials have been conducting experimental prescribed burns at the refuge. This one took place Aug. 30.

Fire makes room for new growth, improved habitat

by David Hill
Editor

Cattails seem to be a problem everywhere, even at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge. Because they're choking waterways and habitat, officials are experimenting with different ways of addressing the problem. Tuesday, Aug. 30, Agassiz officials conducted another experimental prescribed burn.

In a typical year, about 10,000 acres of the 61,500-acre wildlife refuge near Thief River Falls will be burned. The prescribed burns help rejuvenate plant life and habitat. By definition, "prescribed" burns are carefully regulated, even orchestrated: Conditions have to be just right, said Larry Anderson, prescribed fire specialist at Agassiz. And, conditions were just right Tuesday afternoon.

Even though this has been another "wet" year and they typically don't burn this late in the year, Agassiz is fast approaching its prescribed burn goal. The time of the year is only part of the experiment.

Maggie Anderson, manager at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge said they were very pleased with the results of a prescribed burn conducted in an area near the Kelly Pool and Upper Mud River Pool where they were working Tuesday afternoon.

Maggie explained that while the fire may not burn all the green vegetation, it does burn the dead undergrowth and deplete rhizomes (plant stems and roots that serve as a reproductive structure). After a hard frost, they'll burn the areas again and it should have a significant impact on cattails.

"You want cattails," said Maggie, "but sometimes they're too thick. Some ponds at the refuge are filling, and now hybrid cattails, which are more capable of surviving, are showing up at the refuge."

The purpose of the prescribed burn is to try to return the area to its more natural state. Maggie explained that it is hoped this effort will also promote the growth of sedge meadow because a lot of marsh birds use that habitat, and sedge meadow is vanishing from throughout the region.

"It's a challenge," said Maggie, "and it'll continue to be a challenge."

Maggie said they'll carefully monitor this experiment. If it's successful, and to this date it has been more successful than anticipated, they'll use it more frequently. If it doesn't work they'll return to pool management operations as have been practiced before.

Agassiz Refuge is trying other control methods, too.

Gary Tischer, refuge operations specialist, is experimenting with the use of herbicides. Four different plots have been identified for application of two approved chemicals in different application rates. The chemicals that have been approved are Aqua Neat and Habitat. Both are being provided by UAP Timberland. The purpose, said Tischer, is to create some openings in the cattails.

Tischer said the experiment will be closely monitored. Short-term results are important, but they'll be looking at the long-term results, too.

Tischer said there is a great deal of interest being expressed in the experiment, even by the chemical company.

While these experiments are time-consuming and important, other important management methods are evident at the refuge, too.

The Andersons, Tischer and the rest of the staff of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge invite the public to the open house at the refuge on Sept. 17. It's a great opportunity to see and experience what's happening at the refuge.

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge plan approved

A Comprehensive Conservation Plan (CCP) for Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge (NWR) has been approved. The plan includes input from the public, non-government organizations and local officials.

"We had a lot of great input," said Maggie Anderson, Agassiz NWR manager.

The CCP is meant to outline how the refuge will fulfill its legal purpose and contribute to the NWR System's wildlife, habitat and public use goals. The plan lists management goals for the next 15 years and how those goals will be accomplished.

Highlights of the CCP, according to Anderson, include the following:

- More hunting opportunities
- Removing trees from an area adjacent to Minnesota Department of Natural Resources land on the southeast corner of the refuge for grassland bird species
- Restoring natural river flows on the northeast corner of the refuge by taking out common stoplogs.

Anderson noted this was experimental. If refuge personnel later notice invasive species in this area, staff will go back to the old plan for impoundments.

Anderson noted that the aforementioned plans will not occur this year since step-down plans have to be implemented prior to these things occurring.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service approved the plan and is making it available online at www.fws.gov/midwest/planning/agassiz/index.html. Refuge officials have been working on the CCP since late 2002. Paper copies and compact discs with an electronic version of the CCP are also available. Call the refuge at (218) 449-4115 to request a copy or CD-Rom. Copies of the CCP are also available for review at the refuge and the Thief River Falls Public Library.

John Braastad checks out a back fire he started with the drip torch in his hand. Braastad, refuge operations specialist supervisor, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, was one of the participants conducting an experimental prescribed burn at the refuge Aug. 30.

The Thief River Falls TIMES

A punt return by Thief River Falls' Jon Drees netted 28 yards during the first quarter of the Prowlers' 2005 high school football season opener Friday at Crookston. The Pirates' Nick Sylvester gave chase on the play. Crookston won 42-20.

Crookston quarterback directs 42-20 Section 8AAA win...

Rude, Pirates beat TRF

A hit by Thief River Falls defensive back Michael Forney knocked Crookston quarterback Micah Rude off his feet just short of the goal line on this second quarter carry during Friday high school football action in Crookston. Rude took the ball into the end zone on the next play for the game's first touchdown. The Pirates went on to beat the Prowlers 42-20.

Welcome to Section 8AAA, Thief River Falls. Those who might have thought the Prowlers were issued a free pass from the Minnesota State High School League when realignment dropped them from Class AAAA to Class AAA in football this fall were reminded by Crookston Friday that being the biggest doesn't automatically make you the best. The Pirates put an exclamation point on that with a eye-opening 42-20 win at Ed Widseth Field on the University of Minnesota campus.

Micah Rude did a number on the Thief River Falls defense. Operating out of the shotgun, the 6-1, 170-pound senior quarterback was 13-for-17 passing for 198 yards, carried the ball a game-high 19 times for 90 yards and had a personal hand in all six Crookston touchdowns. He scored on runs of 1, 5 and 2 yards and threw scoring passes of 5 (Peter Curran), 21 (Justin Hasbrouck) and 3 (Curran) yards.

It was the fourth straight year the Pirates have beaten the Prowlers in the season opener.

Thief River Falls chopped a 14-0 Crookston lead to 20-14 at halftime, but then fell behind 35-14 nine minutes into the second half.

"We couldn't come up with a stop," offered Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm. "We had no answer to what they did out of the shotgun. It's not a very sophisticated offense, but they run it very well."

Thief River Falls' inability to capitalize on two early scoring opportunities might have set the tone for the night as the Prowlers gave up the ball on downs at the Crookston 10 and 29-yard lines on back-to-back first quarter possessions.

After a scoreless first quarter, the two teams put five touchdowns on the board in the second period. Rude finished a 9-play, 71-yard drive by scoring on a 1-yard run with 10:02 remaining in the first half.

Four plays later, Curran intercepted Thief River Falls quarterback Michael Forney at the Prowlers' 40. That turned into a six-play scoring strike for the Pirates as Rude and Curran hooked up on a 5-yard touchdown with 5:35 left. Conversion kicks by Elliot Hulst made it a 14-0 game.

The Prowlers struck back quickly when Forney found Alex Carlson over the middle for a 55-yard pass play to the Crookston 3-yard line that was followed by a next-snap quarterback sneak touchdown. Tom Loe's kick cut the difference to 14-7 with 4:52 on the clock.

It took Crookston just 2:11 to answer as Rude went to Kurtis Proulx for a 25-yard pass play, then found Hasbrouck for a 21-yard strike and a touchdown with 2:41 still on the clock. Hasbrouck caught the ball at the 10 and was able to spin out of the grasp of the defender for the score.

Thief River Falls appeared to have weathered the storm, however, when the Prowlers scored with just 17.6 seconds left to pull within 20-14 at intermission. The touchdown came after the Pirates mishandled a Forney punt with 63 seconds remaining. Sean Sorteberg recovered the ball at the Crookston 25, and after a 20-yard burst through the middle by Jon Drees, Forney followed his big offense line across the goal line on another quarterback sneak.

The hoped-for momentum was quickly lost, though, when the Pirates' Jared Quanrud got to the outside and returned the second half kickoff to the Crookston 49. Ten plays later Rude took a keeper through the middle and into the end zone for a 28-14 spread.

Quanrud, a 5-6, 155-pound junior, continued to be a thorn in the Prowlers' side when he recovered a Thief River Falls fumble at the visitor's 42 and then promptly took a first-down inside pitch 34 yards to set up a 2-yard Rude touchdown run to make it 35-14 with 3:15 remaining in the third quarter.

A 28-yard Forney pass to Drees and an 18-yard run by Michael Benedict were the big gainers as Thief River Falls went 66 yards in six plays for a 35-20 game in the third quarter's final minute.

Another long kick return, however, produced field position that eventually led to a 3-yard Rude-to-Curran touchdown toss at the goal line that added up to the 42-20 final.

Curran caught eight passes for 85 yards and Hasbrouck wound up with 88 yards on four catches. Quanrud followed Rude in the Pirates' rushing totals with 82 yards on 11 carries.

Drees led all ball carriers with 106 yards on 12 attempts.

Crookston is the only Section 8AAA team Thief River Falls will face during the regular season. The Prowlers will open defense of their North Country Conference title Friday at Hibbing. Their home opener is Sept. 16 vs. Detroit Lakes.

"It's a long season," mentioned Mumm. "We had a chance to see where we're at tonight, and we found out we have a ways to go."

NCTC volleyball team 0-3 in N.Y.

It was a 0-3 appearance for Northland at the Broome Community College Invitational volleyball tournament Saturday in Binghamton, N.Y.

The Pioneers' first-ever volleyball cross country trip featured three matches against teams from the SUNY system (State University of New York).

A strong Genesse (Batavia, N.Y.) squad handled Northland 30-14, 30-13 in the quarterfinals of the eight-team tournament.

Onodaga (Syracuse, N.Y.) swept the Pioneers 30-23, 30-21 in the consolation semifinals.

Corning (Corning, N.Y.) edged Northland 30-26, 25-30, 15-12 in the seventh place match.

"The trip was awesome," reported Northland coach Missy Majerus. "It was a great experience."

Majerus said her freshman-dominated team ran into a buzz saw against Genesse to start the season. "They were the best team there," she pointed out. "We had some trouble. They handled us pretty easily. It was the first time a lot of our kids played together, and it was apparent."

The Pioneers were more competitive against Onodaga and Corning, according to Majerus. "They were teams comparable to what we see in our league (Minnesota Community College Conference). Our kids hung in there and played hard. They didn't quit."

Northland starts MCCC play tonight (Wednesday) with a 6:30 p.m. Northern Division match at home against Itasca. The Pioneers will host Vermilion Friday in another 6:30 p.m. divisional encounter.

"I'm glad we made the trip (to New York)," said Majerus. "It gave us a chance to work through some things before we start league play."

Northland golf under way

First golf meet of the 2005 season for Northland Community and Technical College proved to be a challenge for the Pioneers, who placed third in a four-team event Thursday at The Pines in Brainerd.

Host Central Lakes won both team and individual honors.

The Raiders finished with a four-man 308, followed by Ridgewater at 348, Northland 376 and Fergus Falls 404.

Jon Drees ran behind his Thief River Falls blockers on this carry during Friday's season-opening high school football game at Crookston. Prowlers trying to open a path for Drees included Alex Carlson (17), Tanner Jensen (73), Andrew BlackLance (78), Ryan Brummund (67), Tony Dorn (68) and Cole Hunt (59). Drees gained a game-high 106 yards on 12 carries, but the Prowlers fell to the Pirates 42-20.

RLCC volleyball team starts with A, AA, AAA foes

Opponents from all three Minnesota State High School League volleyball classes sit atop the 2005 Red Lake County Central schedule.

The Class A Mustangs opened with a Tuesday (Aug. 30) match against Section 8AA Lake of the Woods in Baudette; took on defending Class A state champion Fosston Thursday (Sept. 1) at Oklee; and had a Tuesday (Sept. 6) match against Section 8AAA Thief River Falls in Plummer.

Lake of the Woods took three close games from the Oklee-Plummer cooperative 25-20, 25-18, 25-22.

The Mustangs wound up with an 0-2 first-week record when they lost an even-tighter five-game match to the Greyhounds as Fosston held off a Red Lake County Central comeback, 25-23, 25-16, 19-25, 14-25, 15-10.

"We had a 12-4 lead in the first game and let it slip away," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray following the loss to the Greyhounds. "Our serving was not the best (86 percent). We struggled with our passing a little, and we had trouble picking up their tips in the first two games."

GREENBUSH RACE PARK

from Bob Hultgren

Greenbush Race Park put the wraps on another season over the Labor Day weekend, with racing action both Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday evening's race was the Track Championship with Sunday's racing the Season Finale and points championship.

Track Champion feature race winners included Dan Wiskow (Roseau), Mini-Sprints; Jon Duray (Greenbush), Pure Stocks; Jamen Foss (Greenbush), Streets; John Halvorson (Warren), Super Stock; Rick Delaine (Stony Mt., Manitoba), Modifieds; and Kurt Smith (Greenbush), 4-Cylinder stock.

Saturday night's action set the stage for an exciting finale on Sunday with the points titles not out of reach in any class and especially close in the Streets and Modifieds and 4-Cylinders.

Foss collected wins in both his heat and the feature Saturday to draw into a tie with Steffan Snare for the Street championship.

In the Modifieds, point leader Nolan Olmstead blew his engine in the Saturday feature, opening the door for Delaine to close within three points heading into Sunday's finale.

In the 4-Cylinder class, Smith captured the feature win and pulled within four points of class leader Lee McRae.

Sunday's race program provided some of the most exciting action of the season.

In the Mini-Sprints Dennis Rantanen (Thief River Falls) went flag-to-flag for the feature win.

After breaking an axle on Saturday, Travis Beito returned to the track Sunday and held off a very competitive Pure Stock field to pick up the win.

The NOPA Street feature was one of the finest races ever on the Greenbush track. Phillip Hougard took the lead from Rick Beier on lap four of the feature and led the rest of the way for the win. Foss and Snare were tied for the point title going into the feature race. Foss started fifth and Snare ninth, and they would finish second and third, respectively, giving the title to Foss by just one point. The 19-car Street feature ran 15 caution-free laps.

In the Super Stocks the crowd cheered as local favorite Bill Meader (Karlstad) jumped out to lead the feature race. Meader however wobbled in turn four on the 12th lap and surrendered the lead to Mike McCaughan, who led the final three laps for the win.

Greg Ferris handled the Sunday night track very well. He jumped out to a quick lead running the bottom of the track and then moved up high after a mid race caution flag and raced for the feature win. Olmstead finished third, good enough to lock up the point title.

In the 4-Cylinder final, Smith took the lead from Dustin Wahl with just three laps remaining in the feature race, solidifying Smith's lock on a point's championship. The 4-Cylinder race was intense and punctuated by the rollover of Alain Touchette's car in the middle of turn one on the sixth lap. Touchette was not injured and in fact returned to the race for a couple of laps.

Greenbush Race Park season was concluded Sunday with the give-aways of the Brodin Sheet Metal go-cart to Hunter Hougard of Karlstad and the drawing for the Pinewood Sports Generator, won by Bill Meader of Karlstad.

The Race Park also held its annual points plaque ceremony following the races.

Greenbush Race Park officials thank all drivers, crews, fans and track workers for an exciting 2005 season.

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The holiday celebration over the last weekend is having its effects on most of these old timers. We sort of ran out of steam, but everyone seemed to have had a lot of renewal of old friends and those schoolmates of our time. Some of them had up to four generations of their own descendants. "Where had time gone." was heard more than once this week.

I had the privilege of the company of Roy's four sons from Friday until Sunday afternoon when they went to the Cities. There Royle Vagle flew back to Tulsa, Okla. to welcome his first granddaughter who came into this world Sunday morning between 7:30 when the first distress call came to him from Grandma Marie that Tom Sullivent was taking his wife Janna to the hospital, to the second call at 9:00 a.m. that little 6 lb. 4 oz. Emma Marie was there. Tom lived through it, Janna was fine. Marie gave a sign of relief, but the older brothers Trey and Trenton know that from now on, life would be different. Congratulations to all.

OPINIONS

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

A columnist leaves a written legacy

We noted with sadness the passing of Harold Storhaug last week from pancreatic cancer. I lose track of time quite easily now, but I think Harold had been a columnist for The Times for about five years. In his infrequent column called Rustic Writings, Harold wrote about the history of Thief River Falls and people in the community in such a way that whether you were there or not, you felt you were. One of his last columns in May was about a gripping B-29 flight in the Pacific Theater during World War II. I vividly recall another story about the many small neighborhood grocery stores that have disappeared from our community, and trying to imagine all the research he had to do for that column.

When a friend or acquaintance passes away, we inevitably think about his or her legacy, and even wonder what our legacy might be. I doubt whether Harold ever troubled himself about whether he would leave a mark in history that would be remembered as a gift for all times because he did so much for the community and his family, but through his stories he honored many residents and this community.

School is in session; watch for children

Last Thursday was the first day of the school year for many students in northwestern Minnesota. Where silence reigned, now peals of laughter and talk fill hallways. Where sidewalks were empty, now students wait for buses and parents. It's no time to let your guard or community down. School is in session, drive carefully. Children are so excited; it seems they never stop moving, so please keep an eye out for kids because they're not always looking for you.

Here are a few tips: Never pass a stopped school bus when red lights are flashing; look out for children in residential areas, playgrounds and school zones; watch out for children on bicycles or inline skates; be aware of and obey reduced speed limits in school zones; obey all traffic lights, signs and cross guards; drive slowly, so you can stop quickly if it becomes necessary.

Hospital and clinic relationship mends

The relationship between Northwest Medical Center (NWMC) and Dakota Clinic has gone through some ups and downs. During the past several years, the relationship has been rather strained. I suppose we can chalk up some of the differences to a conflict between personalities, which is certainly something I think most of us can understand. But the differences may have also been the result of other conditions - economic and otherwise. And, while time has changed, and the relationship is improving, time alone certainly hasn't caused change. Change in this case may have as much to do with changing conditions.

At some level, most of us are aware that there have been significant changes in the healthcare industry. Regardless of whether or not you believe those changes have improved our overall welfare (yet), the public is still demanding change, and the insurance industry is still demanding change. It is refreshing then, to see NWMC and Dakota working together to address those demands.

It isn't just a glossy book cover with nothing inside. Having attended one of these meetings, I can say that there's substance to the claims of greater cooperation. The individuals leading this change have established a process that involves meeting every other week to discuss various issues. At those meetings, leadership looks at issues that affect the patient, their facilities, the community, and the healthcare industry. Those issues include how to improve cost effectiveness, how to improve how things are being done, what isn't being done locally and why, and many other issues. There's lots of work to do. And they admit, that many of the issues are complicated, and that it will take time and lots of planning to successfully execute plans, but they are working together even if operating on separate campuses.

There are still some differences of opinion. Phil McKenzie, chief executive officer of Dakota Clinic, said he sees tons of opportunities, while Chris Harff, chief executive officer of NWMC, said she sees tons of potential. Saying these are the only differences would be to make light of a serious situation, but it is obvious both sides are willing to work together and discuss the issues.

Legislature must limit eminent domain

by Rep. Jeff Johnson

Much has been made recently here in Minnesota of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in Kelo v. New London in which the court allowed a city government to take the private homes of several individuals through the process of eminent domain in order to sell the property to a private developer as part of an economic development plan. Average, ordinary and typically unflappable Minnesotans have been expressing polite outrage ever since over what they rightfully see as a gigantic overreach of government and a frightening threat to basic private property rights.

I hope this anger doesn't diminish anytime soon since property owners have some serious work to do in the next few months, hopefully culminating in a victory in the 2006 legislative session in St. Paul.

It should be noted that the Kelo ruling did not really change much in Minnesota. Our courts have been giving government almost carte blanche for years to take property through the process of eminent domain. What the Supreme Court did do in Kelo for Minnesotans (other than get us all worked up) was to make it clear that state legislatures can put the brakes on this runaway eminent domain train if they so choose.

And that's exactly what must happen. If there is anything that has to be accomplished in next year's (hopefully) short session, this is it. Next year's Legislature ought to be able to come together without regard to party, ideology or geography and quickly agree on language to strictly define the ability of the government to take our private property only in those cases where the property is going to be truly put to PUBLIC use.

You want to build a park, a new highway or a school? We'll live with it, as long as just compensation is paid to the owners of any property taken in the process.

You want to kick Grandma and Grandpa Johnson out of their home to build a new Jiffy Lube? Forget it, unless Grandma and Grandpa Johnson are good and ready to sell through their own free will.

I will be making my top priority next year passage of the Private Property Protection Act, which will prohibit government from taking private property if the intent is to transfer or sell the confiscated property to another private entity rather than to use the property for a public purpose like a park or road.

Sounds simple and common sense? I agree, but prepare for World War III over at the Capitol as some governmental entities will stop at nothing to defeat the bill.

For me, their arguments will fall on deaf ears, as the concept of taking someone's home without his or her consent because we need one more Wal-Mart in Minnesota is an absolute perversion of one of the most basic principles of a free society - the right to own private property. It also tramples upon the rights of the poor and powerless in favor of the rich and powerful.

I encourage all of the thoughtful and appropriate citizens of Minnesota to join in this fight. Contact your state legislators to tell them that protection of private property rights and passage of the Private Property Protection Act must be one of the very few items that we cannot adjourn the legislature without in 2006.

Rep. Jeff Johnson (R-Plymouth) is House Assistant Majority Leader and Chairman of the House Civil Law and Elections Committee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

You don't protect freedom by taking it away

To the Editor:

Sen. Mark Dayton says that he fully supports protecting Americans. How do you protect Americans by taking away freedoms?

If we are to make gun manufacturers liable for the misuse of their product, isn't it just as reasonable to hold automobile makers responsible for the misuse of their product? There are 40,000 deaths on our highways. Over half of these are caused by misuse in some way - driving under the influence, negligence, no drivers license, et cetera.

In the case of automobiles, we hold the individual responsible for their lack of judgment or whatever it may be. Let's use good judgment and be reasonable about firearms control and place the blame where it belongs - on the individual!

Let's use and enforce existing laws and regulations, such as imposing mandatory jail time when a firearm is used in the commission of a felony! Stop blaming the object and blame the individual.

I, for one, will not vote for anyone who wants to take away my freedoms.

Governor encourages Minnesota to step forward to help victims of hurricane

Minnesotans are coming forward to assist as relief efforts begin in the Gulf of Mexico coastal region, Gov. Tim Pawlenty said last week.

"This tragedy is happening thousands of miles away, but Minnesotans are responding with compassion and assistance as if it occurred next door," Pawlenty said. "Our state and our people stand ready to help in any way we are called upon."

Minnesota's business community is among the many "first responders" to this crisis. Efforts by Cargill, 3M, General Mills, Thrivent Financial for Lutherans, Target Corporation, Deluxe Corporation, St. Paul Travelers and others are assisting those in need in the region.

Among state government efforts:

- Five Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) employees are part of a 20-person crew that left for Meridian Naval Air Station in Mississippi last week. The other 15 members of the crew are with Bureau of Indian Affairs, U.S. Forest Service, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. They will assist with debris clearing.
- Three additional DNR chainsaw crews are on standby and are ready to assist if needed.
- A C-130 cargo plane and crew in the Minnesota Air National Guard is on standby.
- Minnesota Department of Health, along with other states, participated in a conference call with the Centers for Disease Control.

The affected states report that this is an evolving situation and needs are still being determined. All Minnesota state agencies are monitoring the situation through the channels set up to respond in emergencies.

Minnesota National Guard Adjutant General Larry Shellito was in Washington, D.C., last week and participated in a meeting with National Guard Bureau Chief Lt. Gen. Steve Blum. At this time, the Minnesota National Guard has not been requested to respond as part of the recovery effort. Approximately 2,600 Minnesota National Guard members are preparing for deployment as part of Operation Iraqi Freedom. The National Guard Bureau has asked the Minnesota National Guard to focus on preparations for that deployment.

The Governor's Office has been in contact with the offices of Louisiana Governor Kathleen Blanco and Mississippi Governor Haley Barbour, as well as the Red Cross and Salvation Army, and continues to monitor the situation and offer any assistance as necessary.

Pawlenty continues to encourage Minnesotans to assist with financial contributions. Here is a list of phone numbers set up solely for cash donations and/or volunteers.

Sen. Stumpf welcomes area farm disaster relief

State Sen. LeRoy Stumpf (DFL-Plummer) encourages northwestern Minnesota farmers who sustained losses due to excessive rainfall earlier this year to apply for emergency loans. A total of 17 Minnesota counties have been declared eligible for the low interest loans from the Farm Service Agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"We are seeing a devastating increase in [illegible] and the extreme moisture has [illegible] considerable [illegible]," Stumpf said. "Both physical and production [illegible] from the excessive [illegible] and high [illegible] from [illegible] and make area [illegible] eligible."

Primary counties designated in the disaster area include Kittson, Roseau, Marshall and Pennington. Eligibility is extended to farmers in adjacent counties, including Polk and Red Lake.

Qualifying farmers are eligible for farm loan emergency loans offered by the Farm Service Agency at 3.75 percent annual interest. Under program rules, farmers have eight months to apply for the low-interest loans.

"For the past decade, our area has had more that its fair share of agricultural devastation," Stumpf said. "With so many farmers having weathered a barrage of disaster challenges, a little help to reduce [illegible] a long way."

Hunting Season Now Open
Ducks Are Numerous and Chickens Scarce

"The open season for hunting chickens and ducks commenced last Friday, but, owing to rain on that day and Saturday, few local hunters went out last week. Chickens are not as numerous this year as they have been in former years, but hunters have brought in some good sized bags. Ducks are quite numerous, but, owing to the large amount of water in the country, are hard to get at."

Fant Is On Strike
Long Distance Telephone Not Accepted
Has a Grievance Against the Northwestern Telephone Company

"H. Fant, the genial manager of the local telephone exchange and local agent for the Northwestern long distance line, is on a strike and refuses to accept or receive long distance telephone calls for the Northwestern people. Since Sunday this city has not had communication with the outside world over the telephone and how much longer it will be before the matter is adjusted is hard to tell. Mr. Fant states that he has a grievance against the Northwestern line and that, until it is adjusted, he will not accept or receive calls. A representative of the company will probably be here in a few days to fix the matter up."

Drive In Theatre to Open Here in Spring

"Construction is getting started this fall in preparation for a spring opening of a drive-in theatre a mile east of Kife's cafe [today this establishment is known as The Lantern], adjoining Thief River Falls on Highway 59, it was announced this week by R. J. Batko and Allen Paulson, both of Oslo, co-proprietors in partnership with Sam J. Segal of Minneapolis. The new theatre, they stated, will have a capacity of about 400 cars, and will be equipped with in-car speakers of the latest type, as well as with a modern snack bar. The drive-in will have facilities for showing CinemaScope, Vista-Vision and other wide-screen films.

"Batko and Paulson stated that they have secured the necessary permits and approval of plans from the state highway department, and that an investment of approximately $75,000 is contemplated.

"Paulson is co-owner of the Sky-Vu Drive-in now being operated one mile west of Warren."

Soo Veterans To Call Meeting Monday

"Thief River Falls Soo Line Veterans are calling a meeting to be held Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Elks clubroom for the purpose of considering details involved in securing a Soo Line steam locomotive as a monument to the industry and its contribution to the growth of this community. All interested persons are invited to be present."

Instrumental Lessons Open To Pupils, No Charge

"Pupils in the public schools wishing to receive free instrumental lessons are asked to contact John Moum, high school music director, or Miss Judith Halvorson, grade school director. Lessons on stringed instruments start with fourth grade, and band instruments with the fifth grade. Junior high school students also may receive lessons, it was announced."

No Heat Record Set This Summer

"June, July and August didn't set any heat records but collectively the three months were well above average in high temperatures, the University of North Dakota weather station said Thursday at Grand Forks. August average maximum was 83.53 degrees, compared with the average maximum of 78.4 for the 60-year period prior to 1955. For July 1955 the average maximum was 84.16, the 60-year average maximum, 79.7, and June this year was 76.0, the 60-year average maximum 74.8.

"During the three months there were 13 days higher than 90; six in July and seven in August, but none in June. Average number of days of 90 or better is 11. The three months, however, didn't match the hot 1936, when a record 109 degrees was recorded."

News Items

"Fred Gebott returned last Tuesday from Frazee and has taken his old position in the filing room at the sawmill.

"There is still a large amount of grain left uncut, particularly west of here, and it will take at least a week more of dry weather before they can get in the fields with binders.

"The hunters have not been having very good luck the past week and prairie chickens are reported to be very scarce. The roads are bad and many of the fields uncut, which also helped to discourage the hunters.

"It is given out that the operators who did not obey the strike order will be given double pay for August by the Great Northern.

"The wheels and pilot of the engine were liberally smeared with sticky mud and each car wheel had all it could hold. The conductor looked the train over for a minute and announced, 'We just came from Mud Lake Falls.'

"The village schools started Tuesday with the largest attendance ever recorded on the opening week. The seating room is now almost all taken and some provision must evidently be made if the usual increase in previous years in attendance continues. The enrollment in grades is as follows: Miss Hannay, 39; Miss Gigstad, 38; Miss Pirath, 44; Miss Pettengill, 39; Miss Westlund, 26; and Mr. O'Brien, 26, making a total of 212 pupils. The teachers and pupils started to work with their usual push and vigor and this school year promises to be the best in attendance and results obtained of all previous years."

River Falls Items

"Grain stacks have been going up fast the past week.

"The wedding party given by Mr. Konikson last Sunday was a pleasant one. A number of friends were present and a joyous time was had."

NOTICE OF HEARING BOARD OF ADJUSTMENTS & APPEALS CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 152 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that Steven Harder, 928 Knight Ave. North of Thief River Falls intends to construct extensions - roof overhangs onto his existing roof. He has applied for a Variance to the Zoning Code, which governs the Performance Standards for General Residential Districts (R-2) - Side Yard Setback and Front Yard Setback Requirements. The property is legally described as the Lot 15, Block 5, Oakland Addition.

And for the front overhang Harder is proposing to add 12 inches to his roof overhang, which requires a 12-inch variance to the 25 foot Front Yard Setback Requirement as it pertains to City Code, Section 152.025 (E)(1), Yard Requirements for the General Residential District (R-2).

Notice is further given that the Board of Adjustments & Appeals will conduct a Hearing on the Variance Request at 7:00 P.M. on Monday, September 19, 2005, in the City Council Chambers, City Hall, 405 Third Street East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. ## But Bob and Joyce Christensen are glad they moved

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

The news reports about Hurricane Katrina have struck a chord with Bob and Joyce Christensen. The Thief River Falls residents are former residents of Slidell, La., which was one of several southern cities affected by Hurricane Katrina.

"All I remember Joyce saying is, 'Boy, I'm glad we moved out of there,'" Bob said.

"I just sat glued to the television for a few days," said Joyce, who noted many places they had traveled to or near had been affected by the hurricane.

Slidell is located about 10 miles east of East New Orleans. Bob and Joyce lived in Slidell for 21 years – from 1977 to 1998. Once they retired, they decided to move to Thief River Falls, which is Bob's hometown.

Several of their friends still live in the Slidell area. They're all safe, Joyce noted.

However, at least one of their friends had a chilling story to tell. Their grandson's uncle, who is not related to Bob and Joyce, had a tree topple onto his house. It went through his home's roof, and he was waiting out the storm in the home's attic, Joyce said. Due to the tree toppling onto the house, he was able to get out of the house. He swam to what appeared to be a children's tree house.

"He spent two days in that tree, waiting for the water to go down," Joyce said.

The eye of Hurricane Katrina traveled up the Pearl River. A hurricane's eye is the center of the storm. In the Northern Hemisphere, winds move counterclockwise around it. Slidell is located three miles west of the Pearl River, where the hurricane traveled.

"[The eye] was about 30 miles wide, so it went right over our old house," Joyce said.

Another friend of the couple had a tree fall on his home's roof, but his home did not flood as his home is at an 18-foot elevation. The electricity did not go back on at his house until Sept. 6 – eight days after the hurricane, Bob noted. Their friend expected that natural gas service would be restored Sept. 8.

A former neighbor of the couple had four to six feet of water in his home, Joyce noted. The water receded in a few days.

Getting fit together

TRF residents share benefits

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

The need to be physically fit is becoming more apparent than ever and in a world where physical fitness is often an after-thought, group exercise may be the answer. Cardiovascular training in a group setting has become a popular way for individuals to become physically fit in an environment that keeps workouts fast paced, fun and exciting.

Traditional group exercise classes include aerobics, dance and yoga and are typically led by certified group exercise instructors. According to Dr. Jim Langland, sports medicine and strength and conditioning specialist at Dakota Clinic, a good group exercise instructor can create an aerobics program that is easily adjustable to a participant's training skill level. Ideally programs should allow participants to work at their own pace in a positive environment that encourages physical fitness.

Group exercise may be what the doctor ordered for many looking to improve their physical fitness in a group exercise, but some may not feel comfortable exercising in a group setting.

"My opinion is that there is not a benefit of a particular form of exercise over another," Langland said. "The most important (benefit), from a standpoint of fitness and exercise, is that people need to do it. Some people find aerobics an outstanding and motivating form of exercise. The biggest benefit of group exercise is the motivation factor and hopefully people can arrange their schedule so they make it."

Some potential participants may be discouraged by the idea of working out in a large group. Langland lists that as the biggest deterant for many to begin any type of exercise program. Another drawback to group

New Breakthrough Technology in Cataract Eye Surgery

Cataract surgery has become one of the most successfully performed surgical procedures in modern medicine. Now there is a new technique for cataract surgery that makes the experience easier and more comfortable for the patient.

The Clear Cornea technique makes an incision ⅛th of an inch long. The opening is so small, that in most cases, no eye patches or sutures are required.

When making this tiny incision, your doctor uses a sharp diamond blade that causes very little trauma to the eye and allows clearer vision more rapidly than with older techniques. Patients can return to normal activities with minimum interruption in their daily routine.

If you or someone you love has signs of cataracts, such as blurred vision or glare, call or visit your local eye care provider and learn more about this new procedure.

They blew it: 14 motorists issued DWIs

From Aug. 19 to Sept. 5, local law enforcement participated in a statewide mobilization to crack down on drinking and driving. During this time, officers from the Thief River Falls Police Department, Pennington County Sheriff's Department and Minnesota State Patrol wrote out tickets for 18 driving while intoxicated (DWI) offenses in and around Thief River Falls.

On Aug. 1, Minnesota became the last state to lower the blood alcohol concentration limit to 0.08. This simply means drivers cannot drink as much as they once could and legally drive.

"Enforcing the law is the most effective method to show that impaired driving is not tolerated on our roads," said Capt. Dick Wittenberg. "We are seriously dedicated to focusing our energy to arrest impaired drivers, so plan now for a sober ride or take a ride with us."

The Safe & Sober campaign is funded by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The program is designed to reduce traffic-related fatalities and injuries. The Minnesota Department of Public Safety Office of Traffic Safety coordinated the crackdown.

At the time of the accident, Stauffenecker had stopped his 1999 GMC Sierra at a stop sign at the intersection of Highways 11 and 32. Sollund was driving a 1993 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme westbound on Highway 11. According to the report, Sollund drove over the centerline and struck Stauffenecker's vehicle.

Sollund's vehicle was totalled, and Stauffenecker's vehicle sustained moderate damage. The State Patrol was dispatched to the accident at 11:17 a.m. Thursday.

Back-to-school assignment for all: Pay attention

The state's traffic fatalities are on the rise in 2005, prompting public safety officials to urge Minnesotans to heed traffic rules and prevent crash-related injuries and deaths – especially as roads swell with back-to-school students and vehicles, including bikes, scooters and motorcycles.

Officials said the key for motorists is to pay attention and slow down, specifically around buses, schools and crossing zones. School-age children are especially vulnerable in the "danger zone" – outside a bus where they could be hit by a passing vehicle or the bus itself. To date in 2005, there have been 23 pedestrian fatalities compared to 16 at this time last year.

"When kids return to school, risk increases on the road," said Katherine Burke Moore, deputy director of the Office of Traffic Safety (OTS). "Whether behind the wheel, on foot or wheels, everyone must obey the rules of the road and be alert to traffic activity, both on roads and sidewalks."

The return to school also brings a rush of young and inexperienced drivers. Teens are over-represented as a group in crashes and less likely to be buckled up. Burke Moore asked adult drivers to be patient with novice drivers, increased traffic and longer commutes, and said parents should insist that teens use seat belts.

Burke Moore also said parents need to instill safe habits in their children – watch carefully around buses, pay attention to traffic signs and crossing guards and no jaywalking. For children, especially the young, these procedures need to be demonstrated by a parent or guardian.

The back-to-school period is a reminder for parents to determine if the correct child passenger safety restraint is being used, whether it is a child seat, booster seat or seat belt. Usually only children over 80 pounds, 4 feet 9 inches, and 8 to 10 years old can fit correctly in lap/shoulder seat belts. It is recommended that children 12 years and younger always sit in the backseat. For more information on child passenger safety, visit www.buckleupkids.state.mn.us.

OTS offers materials on school bus safety and child passenger safety as well as a safe driving guide parents can use with new teen drivers. Visit www.dps.state.mn.us/ots and click on "Resource Catalog" to view materials online.

MDA seeks applications for sustainable agriculture grants

The Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) is now accepting applications for grants from Minnesota farmers, researchers, educators and nonprofit organizations that have innovative ideas for sustainable farming systems. The MDA's Agricultural Resources Management and Development Division has up to $70,000 to award this year.

Individual grants up to $25,000 are available for three-year projects that benefit the environment, increase farm net profits through cost reduction or enhanced marketing, and improve the farm family quality of life. Eligible projects may include, but are not limited to, enterprise diversification; organic production; cover crops and crop rotations to increase nitrogen uptake, reduce erosion or control pests. Other projects might include conservation tillage and weed management, integrated pest management systems, livestock production and manure management systems, nutrient and pesticide management and alternative energy production opportunities.

MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson encouraged participants to consider making an application. "Grants provide producers with an opportunity to display their creative approaches to agricultural and environmental enhancement," said Hugoson. "Each year, the application process leads to innovative approaches to caring for our environment."

Since 1989, 236 grants have been awarded to individuals for projects throughout Minnesota. An example of a past project is that of Laura and Brian Wilson, organic farmers from Alexandria, who successfully grew strawberries using alternatives to conventional pesticides and fertilizers. Tim Gieseke from Buffalo tested two water management practices, a rock inlet waterway system and contour curbs to collect runoff and direct it into a storage basin. Kent Dornick from Preston raised market hogs in hoop houses and in finishing barns to compare production systems and determine which was the most profitable for his operation. The results and details of past grant projects are highlighted in the Greenbook publication, which is free and available to the public.

Applications and more information are available on the MDA Web site, www.mda.state.mn.us/esap, or by contacting the Agricultural Resources Management and Development Division at (651) 296-[illegible]. Completed applications must be received by Dec. 16.

Jim Sundholm, director of the Covenant World Relief response to the hurricane disaster, stated the following on the Evangelical Covenant Church of America's Web site:

"Though it feels a bit impersonal, there is no question but that the biggest concern is dollars. Money can be easily transferred or even carried into needy areas - it grants the most flexibility in delivering relief to the people. Monetary contributions to the hurricane relief effort remain the fastest and most effective means of support at this point in time. Covenant World Relief is working with other national and international organizations in responding to the devastation left after the path of Hurricane Katrina."

A freewill offering will be taken during the concert. All proceeds will go to relief efforts that are already in progress. Donations, earmarked for hurricane relief, may also be sent to the church. Refreshments will be served following the concert. Everyone is welcome and invited to attend this fundraising event.

Haymond participates in history workshop

The steel industry has always been of major importance in the U.S. A major producer of steel was the Ohio River and Great Lakes area. Dr. Jack Haymond of Northland Community and Technical College was selected to participate in a history workshop dealing with steelmaking in Cleveland.

Twelve participants were selected nationwide for the workshop. The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) Landmarks in American History workshops are designed to provide community college faculty with opportunities to engage in rigorous study and examination of important and timely topics in American history as well as cultural issues. Travel and research directly related to the workshop topics give faculty direct hands-on work with important historical sites as well as the ability to utilize manuscript, archival and other primary historical sources. The workshops enable participants to experience and make connections between the workshop process and content with what they teach and to develop materials for their classrooms. Haymond's research project centered on the connection between the Ohio steel industry and Minnesota. The Mesabi and other Minnesota iron ranges provided the steel mills with most of their ore for much of U.S. history. The financial and industrial power brokers of the East extracted much from the land, labor and natural resources of Minnesota while sending most of the profits back to places like Ohio and New York.

A visit by participants to a working steel mill emphasized production. Haymond recalled that the mill was indeed a hot, dirty and dangerous place to work. The huge ladles that each carried several hundred tons of molten steel at over 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit were impressive and fear inducing sights. He said that if one of the huge steel cables carrying the giant ladles had broken while overhead, the molten steel would have made short work of those below. Statistically, steel workers live an average of seven years less than those who work in the front office. Those figures do not count the people who are killed in the steel mills.

Dr. Jack Haymond, who is wearing a Roman helmet, recently participated in an American history workshop. Haymond, an instructor at Northland Community and Technical College, usually wears helmets and other historical headgear in his classes. (Submitted photo)

The American steel industry that had been the world's leader for over a century mostly collapsed in the 1970s and 1980s. The majority of the steel being produced in the U.S. today is specialty steel for specific purposes. Major technological advances and computerization have resulted in far fewer workers being employed in steel mills today. To work in a Cleveland steel mill nowadays requires a two-year college degree.

The Landmarks in American History workshop was subtitled "A Case Study of Industrialization, Immigration, Labor, Race, Ethnicity and Gender." Much of the work done during the sessions related to how the mills affected almost everyone in the area. The lives of the workers and their families were determined by the big steel companies. How the working class neighborhoods developed and survived was a major part of the workshop. Ethnic relations were part of the mix and have persisted greatly over time. Racism and gender roles both had a major impact on life in a steel town. The struggle to receive decent wages, lower the workweek from over 60 hours, and increase safety all combined to enhance the labor movement. Unionization was difficult but in the end played a major part in helping those who toiled in the steel mills. It also helped their families.

While Cleveland was mostly able to recover from the negative impact of the closing of the steel mills, the same cannot be said of nearby Youngstown. The latter city was a sort of company town and was devastated by steel mill closings. The Landmarks in American History participants visited Youngstown and worked with people who related how the town's economy, self-image and well-being collapsed with the demise of the steel industry a quarter of a century ago. Streets are lined with empty and shuttered buildings. Crime is up, and a spirit of hopelessness pervaded.

The history workshop is funded through the NEH. The sponsoring agencies are the Western Reserve Historical Society and Case Western Reserve University.

Arctic Cat hosts blood drive

Arctic Cat has once again hosted a very successful drive, according to Lisa Moellenkamp, donor recruitment representative at United Blood Services.

"They had an outstanding turnout," Moellenkamp said. "Out of 62 people who volunteered to donate, 48 were able to give and 66 units were collected. There were nine people who donated for the first time."

Pam Cwikla coordinated the drive. Kay Nelson registered donors during the drive. The availability of blood is dependent on the success of blood drives held at many area business and community blood drives. The continued participation of Arctic Cat in the area's program is vital to meeting the challenge of providing this life-saving community service.

PARENTING TIPS

Loving Without Smothering

It can be hard to be a parent. Sometimes all the advice from "experts" can make you worry that you're not doing enough. This guilt can make you overprotective of your child. Try to be alert to how your behavior affects your child without becoming anxious about it.

If you make mistakes, try to learn from them and then let go. The wonderful thing about young children is that you get a new chance with each moment. They don't hold resentments.

Give your child a chance to be her own person. Don't do things for her that she can do for herself. Don't protect her from the natural consequences of her own mistakes. Expect her to take responsibility for herself whenever possible.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

If you feel your child is able to hang her coat on a hook (for example) then tell her so. In a matter-of-fact voice, say, "I expect you to hang your coat on the hook when you take it off." And then let her do it. You may have to repeat your statement.

Managing through tough times

by Greg Dvergsten
FBM Instructor, Thief River Falls

Although we can be very thankful that we didn't have to deal first-hand with the kind of devastation dealt the Gulf Coast due to Hurricane Katrina, many counties in the local area have again received presidential disaster declarations as well. Much of the region has again been pounded with excess rainfall and certain areas with damaging winds.

These conditions have reduced both yield and quality of much of the grain crops. Those factors, together with energy costs reaching all time highs, may send many producer cash flows into a tailspin. Soybean acres currently look favorable in most of our region so hopefully the beans and other row crops can hold their own in the rotation.

However, with potential cash flow issues for many of our area producers, it is important to start assessing your production and financial situation early and often. Assemble yield and quality data as the harvest continues for many crops or as soon as the harvest is complete at the latest. Based on these quality levels, establish an estimated value for each crop. Weigh this crop value, together with other known revenue sources, against financial obligations to be serviced by this year's production cycle. This information should provide a clear picture of the current liquidity or cash position of the business. Often, things aren't quite as bad as a person may have originally thought, but, if so, the sooner you are aware the more time you will have to explore options.

More importantly, share the information you have gathered with any farm managers or lenders involved. These people like and need to be informed so they can properly review and assist you in planning for the future. If a cash shortage is certain to occur, you want these professionals on your team as you assess your options. Either way, an informed team builds relationships and enhances communication.

We certainly can't do anything about the weather nor does it do any good to dwell upon it. We then must turn our attentions to managing the items that we can control. Just as it is the producer's responsibility to make sure all the proper insurances and alliances are in place prior to the growing season, it is also the grower's responsibility to promptly assess and respond each year to the hand we have been dealt.

If you would like or need assistance in preparing and assessing current cash flow issues in your business, you can reach a Farm Business Management instructor in your area by calling 1-800-959-6282.

Down On The Farm

Farm program highlights a lackof protection for foreign farm workers

For the past few months, I employed two exchange workers from Brazil. The experience was rewarding. Cassio and Danilo were both charming and hardworking. But in the process, I learned about a seamy side of our economy I hadn't known existed.

The concept of exchange workers looks good on paper: Foreign students, eager to learn English, work on American farms where they are hosted by American families and become part of an American farm for several months.

The farmer gets the benefit of the student's work for a fraction of what he would have to pay an American citizen. The student gets a valuable education and a substantial boost to his or her resumé. The pittance of a wage looks pretty good when translated into the currency of their home country.

The system would work well if all people were decent and if we still had family farms with Ma, Pa and some chickens and cows.

All too often, however, larger, less personal farms have come to rely on these foreign students for cheap labor. Some students live with families, but many are housed with other students in substandard, crowded conditions.

Because they live with students who speak their own language, the workers have little opportunity to hone their English. Their education is limited to learning the chores, which they then repeat day after day.

Some workers I talked to were made to work up to 16 hours per day, six days per week, without overtime, unless the farmer was of the sort to pay it. Some were told they would be provided food only to find that they had to pay for it out of their own miserable wage.

Others are treated better, of course. There are decent people everywhere. But one thing became clear to me: When these students are treated badly, they can't rely on anybody to come to their aid.

The reason? There is money involved. Some of the programs which bring in foreign workers are honorable, but others are motivated only by the bottom line. They exist due to the fees paid to them by the farmers. If they pull a student from a farm, they lose revenue.

Instead, some programs have taken to steeling their students for the worst. One has a month-long "boot camp" in Brazil for potential trainees which weeds out those who might get homesick or who might not be able to stomach the hard work.

Program literature emphasizes that students should simply work harder when faced with a tough situation. In one case, a student was forced to work several 24-hour shifts. When he complained, the program did nothing. It took intervention from his parents to get him moved to a different farm.

Do the students mind? I attended the final meeting of one of the programs, and came away with the feeling that however much they suffered, they were proud that they made it through. In fact, there seemed to be an esprit-de-corps amongst those who were sent the worst of what they called "hard farms."

So, just as you won't find support for the banning of fraternity hazing amongst pledges who have gone through it, you won't find much objection to the treatment of foreign student workers from the students themselves – once they've finished.

But I don't like it. These are the new migrant workers. They are eager for a better life. They are dazzled by American culture. They want very badly to please. And they are, in many cases, being used and abused for cheap labor.

The students know it. One told me that he added up his time. At minimum wage, with overtime, his hours would have been worth over $2,000 per month. For that work, he received $350. Yet, he wasn't angry. It was a great experience for him, now that it's done, he said, and he loves America.

Another student was so afraid of displeasing his host farmer that when he needed his wisdom teeth pulled, he did the morning milking, went to the dentist for the surgery, and came back and did the evening milking, all without telling a soul.

Foreign trainee farm programs can work. There are good, caring hosts. But when you have large farms desperate to trim costs to meet an already thin bottom line, abuse is not just a possibility, it is inevitable.

Adventist Community Services to host The Appearing

Interest in Bible prophecy has swelled within the last few years and now more than ever, people are asking, "Is the world about to end?" In response to this question, from Sept. 23-27, the Adventist Community Services of Thief River Falls, will be hosting The Appearing, a free multimedia event in which Pastor Shawn Boonstra of "It is Written Television" along with Dr. Jerome Bray, will explore the Bible to clear up confusion concerning the Second Coming, and share the hope that can be found in Christ's return.

"It is Written," a Christian ministry celebrating its 50th year on television, created this compelling series after fielding hundreds of questions whenever media outlets such as TIME, Newsweek and The Economist featured the Second Coming on their covers. In addition, Web sites like Bibleinfo.com have discovered a new trend regarding their most-visited online topics. Within the last two years, Web site visitors have shifted their attention from relationship issues to the Second Coming of Christ.

"Despite the increase in articles and television programs on this topic, people seem to have more questions than ever," said Boonstra. "With The Appearing, they will go straight to the source—the Bible—to find answers."

The Appearing will involve both satellite and local elements. Each one-hour program will include a Second Coming presentation by Boonstra via satellite, an uplifting musical selection, and a short Bible study with Bray, who will review the evening's message and answer any questions.

It begins Friday, Sept. 23, at 7 p.m. in the Adventist Community Services Adult Education room, 1004 Tindolph Ave. S., Thief River Falls. Registration can be done on-site during the event, by calling 218-681-4606, or by visiting www.theappearing.com.

Americans' quirky expressions

I'm often amused when I think of some of the quirky expressions we Americans often use. Perhaps they could be called colloquialisms or the vernacular, or perhaps not. There must be a name for them other than quirky expressions.

What I'm talking about is expressions like "the very beginning." Has anyone asked you to go back to the very beginning? And what is the difference between the very beginning and just the beginning? I would think they express the same thing. It just wouldn't seem right if Genesis 1 were to say, "In the very beginning, God made the heavens and the earth."

How about this – has anyone asked you to come to a "complete stop"? I guess I always assumed that a stop was a stop, complete or otherwise.

Here's another one that is heard frequently. You ask somebody if they enjoyed a concert or a meal or whatever. They might reply with "not really" or "not especially." I would say "not really" indicates a wishy-washy reply that could mean conditionally, probably or questionably, among other things. How about "the honest truth"? I think most of us would assume that the truth would be honest – not so, apparently.

I have an e-mail contact over in London who I have called on occasionally to get the British slant on something. He's Dr. Trowles, who is the librarian at the muniment room and library at Westminster Abbey. He has been helpful to me on a couple of occasions. He mentioned a tautological expression that amuses him whenever he hears it. The expression would be "a new innovation." A tautological expression is one that has repeating words that mean the same thing. The word "innovation" means new, so there would be no need to put the word "new" in front of it.

Another example would be "I myself." That is just a silly expression that hardly needs an explanation.

And then there is one of the most inane expressions I've ever heard. Let's assume that someone has a new concoction he or she wants you to try. You taste it and say, "You know, this isn't half bad." Now, if you try to parse that sentence, it could drive you up a wall. If it weren't half-bad, it must be half-good…or it might be all-bad. Then again, it might be all-good.

Let's leave it at this: If you judge this article to be "not half bad," being an optimist, I think I'll take it that you like it.

Thank you Harold for sharing your talents with us. May you rest in peace.

Kathryn Peterson, 87

Thief River Falls - Kathryn (Heieren) Peterson, 87, died September 5, 2005 at the White Bear Lake Care Center, where she had been a patient since late June.

She had been a life long resident of Thief River Falls, where she was well known and loved and will be sorely missed by all those who knew her throughout her life.

Funeral service were held on Saturday, September 10, at Abundant Life Church, Thief River Falls, with Pastor Wesley Langaas officiating. Casket bearers included Kurt Peterson, Eric Peterson, Neil Peterson, Jon Fila and Ed Lindell. Interment was held at Greenwood Cemetery, Thief River Falls.

Kathryn was born July 13, 1918 to Clara and Edward Heieren, their second child and oldest girl of the four siblings all of whom were included in her many musings of growing up in rural Silverton Township east of Thief River Falls in a predominately Scandinavian family. She had fond memories of her pet chicken, growing up in a two-room farmhouse, and having good times with her brothers and sisters on the farm "just being one of the boys".

She attended school in Thief River Falls and graduated from Lincoln Senior High School where she made many friends that she held dear for her entire life. She later had a career at the Minnesota Employment Office and then Land O' Lakes where she met her future husband, Harry Peterson on the very first day of work when he offered to give her a ride home. She and Harry married August 19, 1949 in Thief River Falls and made their home at 416 Crocker Ave N where they raised three sons and enjoyed life on the riverfront for many years.

Kathryn was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church where she was active in Circle and then the Abundant Life Church where she had been a member of the board and continued to the time of her death to enjoy reading printed sermons from the church even though she could not attend.

Kathryn will live on in our memories as she was a devoted mother and the best mother-in-law a girl could hope for. The family has its recipe boxes full of her wonderful recipes for lefse, krumkake and "Grandma" bread which she was pleased to share with anyone who asked. She loved dogs and could remember the dogs in her life from the early farm days when they adopted a former circus dog to her granddog, Zipper, whom she cared for until just shortly before her death. She was a good woman who will be sorely missed by all who knew her.

She is survived by her three sons, John (Kristin) of Sun Valley, Idaho, James (Rosanne) of Naperville, Ill.; and Joel of White Bear Lake; her four grandchildren; brother, Emil (Audrey) Heieren and sister, Janet Heieren.

She was preceded in death by her husband Harry, her brother Orville and her parents, Clara and Edward.

Their hearts are in Louisiana

But Bob and Joyce Christensen are glad they moved

from Bob and Joyce's former home is gone. Bob figured a tree probably toppled onto the home. "Everybody down there has had property damage," Joyce said.

Bob and Joyce lived in Slidell while Bob worked as an oceanographer for the Naval Oceanographic Office. That office was in Mississippi, and Joyce worked in New Orleans. Their home in Slidell was about halfway between their workplaces.

Bob and Joyce had also lived in Gulfport, Miss., another area affected by the hurricane. Many people were killed there as a result of the hurricane, and much more property damage was reported there as opposed to Slidell. They rented a house in Gulfport for six months while they looked for a home near New Orleans.

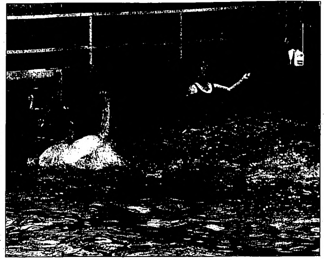
"We almost bought a house in Pearlington; well, we looked at one," Joyce said about the Mississippi town that was wiped out by the hurricane.

Bob and Joyce knew about hurricanes and the dangers they could impose on New Orleans. "When we were living there, we always knew there was the danger of something catastrophic happening down there because New Orleans is below sea level," Joyce said.

The two of them and their children evacuated for hurricanes even when they weren't told to evacuate. The only time their home sustained damage from a hurricane was in the 1980s. At that time, a tree fell onto their home, Bob recalled.

Joyce remembered the advice a New Orleans native gave her. Recalling the aftermath of Hurricane Betsy many years before and the number of people who died because they couldn't get out of their attics, he told Joyce to keep a hatchet in her attic.

Bob and Joyce don't have to think about keeping a hatchet in their attic anymore. Instead, they now think about keeping a snow shovel in their vehicles.



Water aerobics are a beneficial form of group exercise that is intended to work a participant's entire body in a low impact setting. Classes are offered at Franklin Middle School on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, beginning at 6 p.m.

SBA disaster loans are now available

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has announced that federal disaster loans are available to small, non-farm, agriculture-dependent businesses located in the counties of Aitkin, Beltrami, Benton, Clearwater, Dakota, Grant, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Mille Lacs, Pennington, Roseau, Traverse, Washington and Wilkin and the contiguous counties of Anoka, Becker, Big Stone, Carlton, Cass, Chisago, Clay, Crow Wing, Douglas, Goodhue, Hennepin, Hubbard, Isanti, Kanabec, Mahnomen, Morrison, Otter Tail, Pine, Polk, Pope, Ramsey, Red Lake, Rice, Scott, Sherburne, St. Louis, Stearns, and Stevens in the State of Minnesota.

"SBA's disaster declaration was issued as a result of a similar action taken by the Secretary of Agriculture to help farmers recover from damages and losses to crops caused by excessive rainfall, hail and high winds that occurred on May 7, 2005 and continuing," according to SBA Acting Disaster Area Director Frank Skaggs.

Under this declaration, SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) program is available to small, non-farm, agriculture-dependent businesses and small agricultural cooperative that suffered economic injury as a direct result of the weather's effect on agricultural producers. A business that sells goods and services to agricultural producers may be unable to pay bills and or meet expenses because of the reduced purchasing power of farmers and ranchers. Examples of eligible businesses are, but not limited to, farm implement dealers, seed and feed stores and spraying and irrigation businesses. Farmers and ranchers are not eligible to apply to SBA, but nurseries are eligible to apply for economic injury caused by drought conditions.

Eligible small businesses may qualify for loans of up to 1.5 million. These loans are available at a 4 percent interest rate with loan terms up to 30 years. SBA determines eligibility for the program based on the size and type of business and its financial resources. Loan amounts and terms are set by SBA and are based upon each applicant's financial condition. Under this disaster declaration, SBA cannot provide loans to agricultural producers, and cannot provide loans to non-agricultural dependent businesses.

"SBA can help these small businesses overcome their economic injuries by offering these working capital loans, but the help can't start until they apply," Skaggs added.

Interested business owners should contact SBA Disaster Assistance Customer Service Center by calling the toll-free 1-800-659-2955 or visit SBA's Web site at www.sba.gov/disaster for more information and to obtain a loan application. The Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) and speech impaired number is 1-800-877-8339. Completed applications should be returned to: U.S. Small Business Administration Disaster Assistance, 14925 Kingsport Highway, Fort Worth, Texas 76155.

TRF residents share benefits

exercise in general, is the lack of flexibility in scheduling.

"The biggest disadvantage of group exercise, is you're restricting your exercise to group exercise time," Langland said. "Exercise is something you should be doing daily."

While almost any type of cardiovascular and strength training exercise could be modified for use in a group setting, the majority of group exercise led programs fall into the broad category of aerobics. Both traditional and water aerobics have become a popular way to stay in shape for some Thief River Falls area residents.

Sixteen members of a senior aerobics class were asked to describe the benefits they receive from exercising.

"I think its very beneficial," said Doc. Samuelson. "It keeps you active."

"Before you can have an energetic group, you have to have an energetic leader," said Della Burstad.

"It helps with flexibility," added Marge Hanson.

For one member it provides a constant motivation.

"After retiring it was something to get me up and out," said Roberta Kloety. Participants also note that it increases flexibility and can increase energy.

Norma Johnson added, "You've got to stay in shape when you get old, otherwise you just lay there."

The opportunity for group exercise and the resulting increase in one's energy are more than enough of an incentive to workout for most. But for many arthritus sufferers, it's the therapeutic affect that drives them to return three times a week.

That is the case for Fern Williams, who said "My stiff aching bones love it."

"I think it helps keep me limber," added Ruth Suckett.

Connie Dorn, Heritage Center aerobics instructor said the program uses moderately paced aerobic activities that are low impact and designed to maintain strength and flexibility. Participants check their heart rate often during the workouts to ensure that they are exercising in their optimal zone.

Dorn affectionately describes her class as a group of "middle-aged teen agers." A group totalling as many as 45, including seven men, meets every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 to 10 a.m. Echoing the statements of some of her students, Dorn said the most obvious benefit of participating in a group exercise program is motivation.

Yvonne Habedank joined the Heritage Center's aerobics class in 1987. She too feels that the motivation provided by a group atmosphere has led to her continued participation, adding that a workout is "good for you mentally and emotionally."

Most aerobics classes are taught in such a way that they reduce joint impact as much as possible, but there are cases when traditional aerobics are too hard on joints. For those individuals, water aerobics may be the best way to reach physical fitness goals.

Water aerobics provide a healthy alternative for both interested exercise patrons who suffer from arthritis and other limiting conditions as well as those who wish to use water's natural resistance to build strength.

Langland feels that water aerobics are perfect for some of his patients. He noted that, "Water aerobics certainly have a significant advantage for certain subgroups...certain people with orthopedic conditions where the weight bearing in traditional programs causes pain...and frankly obese individuals can do better in water. For all users, joint impact is lessened by water, plus you have the resistance of water."

School District 564 Community Education offers a water aerobics class at Franklin Middle School. It meets at 6 p.m., three times a week on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Stephanie Duerkop leads the community education water aerobics class. Like Langland, she feels it is an ideal form of exercise because water provides great resistance for traditional aerobic type movement, without the impact of a hard floor. Duerkop also stresses that this is a class in which men and women of all sizes and abilities can participate.

"I want people to realize that this class is for everyone. Even serious athletes can benefit from this," Duerkop said.

Each water aerobics participant has his or her own reason for joining the class. Barbara Swenson was suffering from back troubles when she joined the class earlier this year. Now, after 24 sessions, her back pain is relieved and she continues to participate in the program at least twice a week.

Nancy Sandahl has attended water aerobics sessions three times a week, for the past year and a-half.

"I love the water, so for me it was natural to join water aerobics," Sandahl said. "You don't get as tired as with land aerobics. I absolutely love it, and Stephanie is a great instructor."

Bill Bartold, one of two men who regularly participate in the class, had a double knee replacement in 2004. Feeling that it was the best cardiovascular workout he could do while rehabbing his knees, Bartold began regularly attending sessions and hasn't looked back.

Bartold began working out in the water aerobics class a little more than a year ago and has since been joined by fellow "token male," Steve Schwartz. Schwartz, like many who have ventured into the water for a low impact form of aerobics, has realized nearly immediate fitness success since joining the class. Coupling Weight Watchers with a commitment to water aerobics, Schwartz managed to shed 60 pounds in eight months.

Prior to attending water aerobics on a consistent basis, Schwartz worked out at Dakota Clinic. He said weight and aerobic machines are a good source for physical fitness, but sometimes its hard to be motivated. For Schwartz, water aerobics provide a continuous challenge.

"If you push yourself hard, you can get a pretty good workout," Schwartz said, noting that working with a group provides additional motivation. "With machines its harder to push yourself to work up a sweat."

The Duerkop-run water aerobics program is intended to work a participants entire body and she wants them to know they've finished a workout when the class is over.

"I guess the big thing for me, is for them to leave here and feel like they accomplished something," Duerkop said.

Each water aerobics class consists of 20-25 minutes of arm work, that includes above water movements, punches and arm circles in the water. That is typically followed by 10 minutes of jogging in the water, followed by 20-25 minutes of leg and abdominal work in the deep end. Using the starting blocks, participants can perform crunches and curls, bicycle movements, kicking, leg lifts, side to side trunk twisting and stretching.

Duerkop said the program can be modified to fit each user.

"If we do something that you don't feel comfortable doing, I'll show something you can use instead to fit your needs," Duerkop added.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: Is there any SSA related advantage or disadvantage for me to be paid a lump sum on my remaining vacation balance in my last pay check?

A: Social Security uses a process called the annual earnings test (AET) to determine how your earnings in a given year impact SSA benefits payable to you for that year. There is neither advantage nor disadvantage to being paid a lump sum of your remaining vacation balance in your last pay check at retirement. As used here, earnings include only gross wages and net self employment. This is different from how your monthly SSA amount is computed!

For years after the first year of retirement an annual earnings amount is used for the AET but, in the first year of retirement, SSA also considers earnings on a month by month basis. Since people retire all during the year, use of month by month earnings helps you to start receiving SSA retirement at the point of actual retirement even if your overall gross wages or net self employment for the year are very high. Returning to the question, if your accrued vacation pay is received in the year of retirement, the SSA representative can explain it as part of the [illegible] questions on the [illegible] so that benefits [illegible] are not [illegible] by [illegible] before your retirement.

It is important that [illegible] SSA [illegible] reported earnings will be higher. If applicable, you do want to make it clear that the vacation pay also represents earnings from past years because the earnings from prior years will be excluded from your annual earnings test estimates used. That could become important if your accrued benefits are paid in the year after you retire and are large enough to involve the annual earnings test of that new year.

Having a letter from your employer stating what was earned before the year of your retirement will be very helpful to you in completing your annual earnings report. Keep that letter as you might need it again.

For more information about the annual earnings test see the SSA publication "How Work Affects Your Benefits" on the Social Security Web site at http://www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/10069.html#howmuch

Cross-country team turns in solid performance

Monday, Thief River Falls' cross-country team turned in another strong day of performances.

Thief River Falls Prowlers competed at a cross-country meet in Warroad Monday. Coach Rick Karboviak said, "The junior high girls really lit things up on the trail today with their teamwork. As they told me today, they brought home a little bling with their first place team medals."

In the junior high girls 3200, the team accumulated 67 points. TRF finishers included, 6. Megan Bergland, 14:30; 7. Paige Thune, 14:39; 12. Austyn Anderson, 14:58; 18. Emily Robson, 16:04; 22. Olivia Kilen, 16:21; 24. Emily Jones, 16:31; and 31. Harley Alby, 17:59.

The individual winner was Allen Hendrickson of International Falls in a time of 13:48.

The junior high boys performed well, too. "Brendan Skime also has a little streak going here of taking the 3200 crown at each race, and the other junior high boys are pulling through nicely, too," said Karboviak.

In the 3200, Brendan Skime recorded his third consecutive first place finish with a time of 12:09. The winning team was International Falls. Thief River Falls was third of six.

"Our junior varsity and varsity crews for boys are finding their niche and where they should be, having four races under their belts now," said Karboviak.

Karboviak noted that the varsity girls are gearing up for some pack attacks with close finish times. Overall, said Karboviak, it looks good as we prepare to hit the southern end of the region in Detroit Lakes on Sept. 20, and Fergus Falls on the 29th.

DNR offers tips to improve duck habitat

Declining waterfowl numbers are tangible evidence of human impact on duck habitat - a mix of wetlands and grasslands, reports the Department of Natural Resources' September-October Minnesota Conservation Volunteer magazine.

The issue's cover story, "Wetland Complexity," shows how loss of quality wetlands in Minnesota has resulted in declining waterfowl numbers. It also outlines key actions needed for improving that habitat and recovering ducks, including steps citizens can take to save wetlands.

"The current problems in waterfowl and wetland management are not new; they are the result of some 150 years of environmental degradation," writes Ray Norrgard, wetland wildlife program consultant for the DNR Division of Fish and Wildlife.

"What has changed is the intensity of land and water use. As the state's human population grows, the pressure people place on natural resources increases."

Norrgard describes these guiding principles as crucial to duck recovery efforts, including the DNR's revised duck recovery plan, due out in December:

- Emphasize unfragmented wetland/grassland complexes, which attract more breeding ducks and produce more young than isolated wetlands,
- Actively manage existing wildlife habitat, apply land-use regulations fairly and consistently,
- Evaluate effectiveness of hunting regulations and apply them accordingly, protect shallow lakes and relatively large, deep wetlands, the mainstay of fall habitat for ducks,
- Cultivate partnerships such as the Working Lands Initiative recently finalized by the DNR and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Readers will also find stories about the aerial surveys that have provided breeding waterfowl population estimates for the last 50 years, hunting etiquette on private lands, the varied forms and functions of fungi and highlights of Lac qui Parle State Park. The issue's Young Naturalists story focuses on animal vision.

DNR reports discoveries of Eurasian watermilfoil

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has confirmed the discovery of Eurasian watermilfoil in seven new lakes this summer, all within 60 miles of the Twin Cities. Milfoil has now spread to 171 bodies of water in the state since it was discovered in the late 1980s. The majority of infested water bodies are in central and north-central Minnesota, according to Chip Welling DNR Eurasian Watermilfoil Program coordinator.

The following lakes will be added to the list of waters infested with invasive, non-native species.

- Clear Lake, Waseca County: A 650-acre lake in the city of Waseca, which is popular with boaters and anglers.
- Wolf and Manuella lakes, Meeker County: Wolf is a 260-acre lake northeast of Hutchinson. Manuella is a 290-acre lake that is connected by a stream to Stella and Washington lakes, both of which were known to have milfoil since 1999.
- Lake Snelling, a 103-acre lake in Fort Snelling State Park, Hennepin County
- Long Lake in Pine Springs, Washington County. Long Lake is connected to Silver Lake by a stream, which flows from Silver to Long. Milfoil was discovered in Silver Lake in 1992. It is likely that the plant spread into Long Lake through the stream.
- Eagle Lake, Sherburne County.
- Pokegama Lake, Pine County. This lake is connected to the Snake River, which was found to have milfoil last summer, along with Cross Lake.

The full list and map of infested waters is available on the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us.

Despite finding evidence of the plant's spread, DNR officials said Eurasian watermilfoil is still known in fewer than 200 lakes across the state, thanks to continued vigilance from boaters.

"There are still thousands of lakes that don't have milfoil," Welling said. "We encourage boaters to remove all aquatic plants from boats and trailers, and empty water from bait buckets before leaving a public water access in order to help prevent the spread of harmful invasive species."

Welling added that assistance from the DNR is available to lake residents working with their lake association or local unit of government to assess the current and future abundance of milfoil in lakes. He also urged boaters to continue to take precautions to avoid spreading the plant

Strandquist Community News

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

Most of us have been relaxing after the 100th celebration in and around Karlstad this week. Most of us won't be here for the next Centennial, but we surely enjoyed this one.

Last Sunday, Jeremy and Lisa Johnson of Brooklyn Park joined Pearl Thompson, Lionel and Boots Johnson for supper at the home of Danny and Becky Johnson where they spent the weekend. Monday morning, they had breakfast at Grandma Pearl's home before returning home.

Elsie Lefrooth had company every day last week. Monday, Donny and Austin Lefrooth were there. Tuesday, Pearl and I beat her playing Aggravation. On Wednesday, Morris and Marcelyn Holmstrom spent time with her before going back to Park Rapids. Friday evening, David and Elaine Grovum of Thief River Falls took Elsie to the Black Bear Grill for dinner. She was busy knitting and finishing a wedding gift Saturday evening.

Kristopher Anderson, Kendrick Anderson and Julie from White Bear Lake spent the weekend at Paul and Shirley Anderson's home. Sunday evening, Morris Anderson, Don Aanenson and the Mark Kleinvachter family visited the Andersons.

Paul and Shirley Anderson spent Labor Day weekend at Dave and Jenny Jansson's home in New Ulm and visiting family in Chatfield. The Janssons joined the Andersons for a wedding in Chatfield.

The past couple of weeks, these folks visited at Judy Kleinvachter's home: Morris and Marcelyn Holmstrom, Vance, Kelly, Amanda and Jessica Lefrooth, Pat Larson, Matt Hammer, Marie Steffen and June Kasprowicz and Kevin Pietruszewski.

Kevin, a veteran from Kuwait and Iraq, came home to Terry and Betty Pietruszewski's to celebrate his birthday during a short furlough. He works construction over there. Kevin is going back soon. We are very proud of you Kevin! We pray that you will be safe. Abigail Larson of St. Cloud came to celebrate her birthday with him. Happy same day birthday to both of you!!

I received an obituary the other day for Gladys Nelson of Minneapolis who sent me articles pertaining to relatives and friends we had to write about. She was the daughter of Ole and Edith (Madsen) Nelson of Lancaster. Her mother grew up a mile from our house. The Madsens went to the Strandquist School and we were close friends.

Pie, cookie contest winners announced

It was a time to eat pies at Everybody's Market Saturday for Sheriff Mike Hruby, Mayor Dale Wennberg and Lisa Thompson, owner of Dee's Kitchen. The three judged the Thief River Falls Women of Today's homemade pie and cookie contest.

For the contest held at Floyd B. Olson Park, people of any age could submit a homemade pie. Kids 16 and under could also enter the homemade cookie contest. Proceeds from the contest and subsequent auction went to Christmas in Pennington County, which provides Christmas gifts to needy kids.

First place in the pie contest went to Heather Rathgeber of Thief River Falls. Rathgeber baked a pumpkin crunch pie. Jane Anderson of Thief River Falls received second place with her rhubarb custard pie. Melanie Warne of Thief River Falls received third place with her green tomato pie.

In the kids' cookie contest, which was open to ages 16 and under, eight-year-old Max Anderson of Thief River Falls won first place with pizzelles.

The following are the winning recipes of the first-place winners:

1 carton of cubed butter (1/2-cup per pie)

Mix pumpkin according to directions on can and pour into two pie plates. Pour cake mix evenly on top of pumpkin mixture. Sprinkle pecans over the entire span of both pies. Slice the butter over the entire span of both pies.

Bake in oven at 350° for 40 to 50 minutes. Cool and serve with Cool Whip or ice cream.

Pizzelles

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
3/4-cup butter, melted and cooled
1 tablespoon vanilla
4 eggs, slightly beaten

Elaine Thompson • 874-7945

Hello, once again to all my faithful people who give me news every week. Hope you had a good week.

Dinner guests at Merle and Beulah Bjornud's home recently were Bonnie and Steve Hanson from Bemidji, Minn. Steve was a speaker on Friday night for the youth night. Other guests for dinner were old friends of Merle and Beulah's Arnold and Arlys Olsen from St. Paul and Doris Nelson from Minneapolis.

Beth Moen stopped to visit her grandma Hanna Moen in the evening.

John and Bonnie Bjoness picked up Curt & Elaine Thompson last Sunday evening. They went to the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls for supper. The restaurant was remodeled nicely and they all enjoyed the evening.

Curt & Elaine Thompson enjoyed the 100th celebration of the Evangelical Free Church. They had it decorated very nice and had a very good dinner and ice cream treats. It was good to hear Pastor Earl Eveland, Marlin Bjornrud and Steve Hanson speak. They all had a very special greeting. It was very interesting. It was a very good turnout and each person got a trivet from the Free Church. It was made from spruce trees planted in front of the E. F. Church planted sometime before 1930.

Sunday, Richard and Pat stopped to have coffee with Hanna after church.

Those from the Merle Bjornrud family who came home to spend the weekend with them were Marlin and Jeanine Bjornrud and sons Seth and Brett from Embarrass, Minn. Pastor Marlin was the speaker Saturday night after the centennial banquet and the Evangelical Free Church.

ECHOES FROM THE PAST

Out in Society

From The Thief River Falls Times
September 11, 1930

Birthday Party

"Mrs. O. C. Paulson entertained a group of children at a party at her home Tuesday afternoon in compliment to her son, Robert, who celebrated his fifth birthday anniversary. Games were played and a five o'clock luncheon was served by the hostess at an attractively decorated table placed on the lawn. Robert was the recipient of many lovely gifts. The guest list included Robert Paulson, Barbara, Carrol and Paul Reep, Ruby Risberg, Marion and Edward Chommie, Lorraine Caspers, Shirley and Mary Ellen French, Elizabeth Dahlen, Claire Myrin, Joyce Bennes, Kathleen and Jack Scanlan, Ione Norby, Miss Ruth Mickelson and Miss Hilda Kaatz."

Surprise Party

"Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Evenson of Adgar township were complimented at a surprise party given Sunday afternoon at their home by a group of friends and neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Evenson, who have lived in the community for 26 years, are moving to Leonard where they will continue farming. Rev. E. L. Tungseth gave an inspirational talk after which a purse of money was presented to the honor guests by Christ Nelson in behalf of all the guests."

Celebrates Birthday

"Dorothy Tanem celebrated her ninth birthday anniversary last Thursday afternoon when her mother, Mrs. Arthur Tanem entertained a group of children at a party in her home, from four to six o'clock, in Dorothy's honor. Games formed the diversion of the afternoon and dainty refreshments were served at 5:30 o'clock by the hostess. There were 15 guests."

Eighth Birthday

"The eighth birthday anniversary of Shirley Anderson was celebrated Wednesday afternoon when her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Boom, entertained a group of little girls at a party in her honor. The afternoon spent playing games and a dainty luncheon was served at 4:30 o'clock. A beautifully decorated birthday cake centered the table. The guests were Shirley Anderson, Eileen Rolland, Norma Haugen, Doris and Lois Nelson, Vivian Ward, Marion Parbst, Charlene Anderson, and Evelyn and Dagne Tungseth."

Mavie Lutheran Church
E. O. Sabo, Pastor

"Sunday, September 14. Services with Communion in the Zion church Germantown at 11 a.m.

"The Silverton YP [Young Peoples] society will be entertained Sunday afternoon, September 14, at the Henry Hanson home."

St. Hilaire Charge
M. L. Dahle, Pastor

"Harvest Festival in Oakridge congregation Sunday, September 14. Service at 11 a.m. Offering. Dinner served at the church. Devotional meeting at 2-4. Several pastors will be present. The choir will sing. Every member is expected to be present. We look for a generous offering."

High School Progress Remodeling Program Reaching Completion

"The remodeling of the Lincoln High School building which has taken place during the past vacation is nearing its completion. The mechanical arts building and the Lincoln building have been joined together in such a manner that they now form one unit. This union has added four new classrooms, a nurse's office and music room and an office for industrial training. The new classrooms are equipped with new desks, cupboards, and microphones. Along the walls of the new hall are many new built-in lockers. In the basement of the new section there is a completely remodeled shop for industrial training. [This addition would have been found just south of Room 107, and explains why there was that funny jag in the main hallway going south past the principal's and attendance offices in later years; it also explains the presence of that doorway to the outside halfway down the stairs at the far south end of 'Old Lincoln' which must have been the only entrance to the 'mechanical arts building' mentioned here.]

"The rows of seats in the assembly, which were formerly three joined together, are now placed in single rows. The freshman girls' cloak hall has been joined to the physics room as a part of the room. The partition between the cooking laboratory and the room commonly known as 'Mr. Matheson's room,' has been removed, thus enlarging the cooking room a great deal.

"Dressing rooms have been provided for the boys in the basement of the main building.

"Boys' locker keys have been distributed upon a deposit fee of fifty cents. Girls will also be assigned lockers, using the same method as last year. With the installation of the new lockers, it will be possible to provide nearly every student with a safe place for his wraps."

City To Get Soo Steam Locomotive As Relic

"At a meeting Monday evening called by the local unit of the Soo Line Veterans association, plans were completed to arrange to secure a steam locomotive from the Soo Line, now almost completely Dieselized, to place on display in Thief River Falls, as a relic of a bygone day in railroading, and to recognize the contribution made by the Soo Line in the development of this community.

"Division Superintendent E. A. Hamerski stated that similar exhibits are being placed in several Wisconsin cities on the Soo Line and that one has already been set up at Enderlin, North Dakota. He said that Locomotive No. 1024, now in the local roundhouse, has been assigned to Thief River Falls.

"While the engine is worth more than $6,000 as scrap, Hamerski stated that the company was willing to donate it to the city on condition that a concrete base be provided, as well as a strong fence to preserve the engine from vandalism. He suggested that funds for the work might well be raised by popular subscription."

Western Auto Store Is Moved To Elks Building

"Stocks of the Western Auto and Sportmen's stores have been moved from their former location on Third street at Horace avenue to new quarters in the Elks building, formerly occupied by Henning Gibson's Hub Clothing, which is discontinuing business. The buildings formerly occupied by the stores are scheduled to be razed, and will be replaced by a service station."

Work Starts Soon On Second Drive-In Theatre Near City

"The Home Theatre company, owner of the Falls and Avalon theatres in Thief River Falls, decided at its annual meeting in Minneapolis Tuesday to proceed this fall with the construction of a 500-car drive-in theatre adjoining this city, it was announced today by Ward Nichols, local manager, who attended the meeting.

"The drive-in, the second project of its kind to be announced within a week, will be ready for operation next spring, Nichols said, and will be equipped with all modern features, including in-car speakers, CinemaScope screen and a snack bar, as well as sanitary facilities. Further details, he added, will be revealed next week."

Mercury Drops To Chilly 26 Sunday

"First killing frost of the current fall season hit this locality last week-end, a low of 26 being recorded Sunday morning. The corn fields were nipped, but some of the hardier flowers are still in bloom. Following the frost, temperatures mounted to a summery 73 Monday and Tuesday. A light shower brought .15 inch of rain Friday, followed 1.2 inch Saturday."

Furniture Going Into Court House

"Another step preliminary to the occupancy Pennington county court house, was taken this week when workmen began setting in place the furniture and fixtures for the various offices. In charge of the project are representatives of the Farnham company of Minneapolis which supplied the equipment."

Over Half Is Done
Steel Laying on Soo Going Rapidly Now
Will Reach Sarles Next Tuesday and Train Service Will Be Established

"A little over half of the steel on the Soo line from Thief River Falls to Kenmare is now laid, and the remaining part will be put down before it freezes up. The crew working on this end has accomplished much more than the crew on the Kenmare end, but both crews are now putting down about six miles of track each day and the gap is growing shorter all the time. The crew going west has laid over one hundred miles and the crew coming east has laid about half this amount.

"Next Tuesday the track layers going west will reach Sarles, North Dakota, the first division point and then train service will be established between this city and Sarles. Only mixed trains will be run at first, and not until the whole line is completed will regular passenger service be established."

News Items

"The first frost of the season occurred on Tuesday morning, September 12.

"Fred Campbell, who had his thumb cut in the shingle saw last week, is still unable to resume work.

"We have now had two days of fine weather and many have hopes that we are not going to have a flood. Still it might be well to own a boat.

"The Great Northern has commenced surveying from Roseau to Warroad and it is probable that another year will see this line completed to the Lake of the Woods.

"E. M. Hoff went up to Mike McAndress' last Saturday and spent the day in the field pitching bundles just to show the boys that he had not forgotten how to work on a farm.

"Henry Jackson is the proud owner of a new dog, which has just been sent to him. The dog is small yet, is a pointer, and of course is bred in the purple and will do great things, in the future. All dogs do.

"The PLUMMER PIONEER complains that young men in that village are buying liquor in the saloons and becoming intoxicated. The editor of the PIONEER happens to be both village recorder and justice of the peace and he should act on his own information.

"They are doing a whole lot of grumbling down at the sawmill these days. The order hook is full of orders for lumber, in fact the demand is good, but there is a car famine on and when they order a dozen cars they are lucky to receive a couple. That is why Manager Evans looks worried at times.

"If all years were as wet as this one, there is no use to deny the fact that a large number of the settlers who bought land on the Red lake river, paid $4.00 and upwards per acre for water instead of land, says the SUNBEAM. River bottom land is liable to overflow at times but it goes away again soon and the land can be used, but this river has stayed over the bottom land all summer and made it absolutely worthless, either for pasture or meadow lands. A large number of the farmers are of the opinion that if that six-mile log jam on this side by Thief River Falls was shortened up for about five miles, it would allow the water to get out and the river would go down.

"The heavy rain last Wednesday was a most disastrous one for the farmer. There is still a large amount of grain uncut and very little of it can now be saved. West of here there is a very large portion still standing and the fields are so wet that it will be practically impossible to save any part of it. Besides the grain, the potato crop is nearly a failure. Not one farmer in ten has as yet put up enough feed for his cattle and hay is hard to get. It is feared that they will be compelled to sell a large amount of stock because there is nothing to feed them. Farm work of all kinds is delayed and very little plowing will be done this fall. In fact, to be brief, this will prove to be about the worst season for the farmer since the country was settled twenty odd years ago."

River Falls Items

"Another good washing last Thursday.

"Last week you could see all kinds of farm work going on at the same time, such as cutting grass, raking and stacking hay, harvesting and stacking grain, while the threshing machine was turning out the golden grain.

"Last Monday the horsepower threshing company gave their machine a trial and found it as capable of threshing grain as it was ten years ago. They expect to do a big business this fall."

Fight May Be Bitter

"CROOKSTON TIMES (Tuesday): The Great Northern will fight bitterly the proceedings begun last week by Congressman Halvor Steenerson of this city to compel the road to maintain its road from this city to Wylie and to that end now has a large number of lawyers, surveyors and officials of the company in Wylie and in that vicinity taking notes of actual conditions and preparing arguments for the defense which will be submitted to the state railroad and warehouse commission before the end of the week.

"An imposing array of counsel appeared in the offices of the state railroad and warehouse commission last Saturday at St. Paul to argue the proposed abandonment.

"General Manager F. E. Ward of the Great Northern, General Traffic Manager W. W. Broughton and Assistant General Superintendent A. G. Costello were on hand, while the legal department was represented by General Solicitor R. A. Wilkinson. The protesting Wylieites were represented by Congressman Halvor Steenerson of Crookston and the state was represented by Attorney General E. T. Young.

"The track which the Great Northern proposes to abandon touches the towns of St. Hilaire, Wylie, Ives and Shirley. The first and last named are on other lines of the Great Northern, while Ives is on the Northern Pacific. Wylie is the only town on the branch which will be without railroad communication.

"James G. Prior, O. T. Romsos, F. C. Leppert and Peter Hansel, residents of Wylie, testified that the Great Northern had offered to move mercantile stocks and business concerns, free of charge, to other localities. The abandonment of the line will mean the disappearance of Wylie. The town has two general stores, a cheese factory, bank, hardware store, three elevators and several smaller establishments.

"Congressman Steenerson of this city, who has arrived home from the session of the state railroad and warehouse commission called expressly for the purpose of hearing the Wylie claim, stated to a TIMES man yesterday that the Wylie people, should they fail through the commission to secure redress, he will take the matter into the courts for final settlement. 'We will bring a mandamus suit against the railroad to compel the maintenance of the line to Wylie if the commission acts in favor of the road,' said Mr. Steenerson, 'and we believe that we have a case.'

"The party of railroad officials mentioned in the fore portion of this article came up Sunday morning and proceeded by team to the scene of the present trouble where investigation will be conducted during the next few days."

Barn Again! showed us important assets in TRF

A relatively small capital investment and a larger investment in time can yield impressive results. That was the case with this summer's major theme in Thief River Falls - Barn Again!

For years, the activities and events in East Grand Forks have been a source of envy, but so too have the results. One doesn't have to look far to find good examples of what I mean - the statutes that adorned street corners a few years ago - the Moving Wall, a tribute to fallen soldiers of the Vietnam War, which was displayed in Grand Forks, N.D., also a couple of years ago now. Not only did these events build goodwill in the communities and region, but brought people to the community, who might not normally have made the trip. Many probably made a day of it and went out for dinner and did some shopping, too.

Lots of goodwill and an economic windfall notwithstanding, the leadership and vision that organizing these events demonstrate, is a credit to those communities and their leaders.

When Faye Auchenpaugh of Northwest Service Cooperative and Caryl Bugge, director of the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village, explained that "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon," a Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition, would be coming to Thief River Falls, I jumped on the bandwagon. So did lots of other people.

> Congratulations to all of the people involved in Barn Again! It's a positive step forward for the community and a credit to your visionary thinking.

Auchenpaugh had a lot to do with securing the financial backing to make this happen. That financial backing came from several sources, including the Minnesota Humanities Commission, with funding support from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, The Hearst Foundation, National Endowment for the Humanities, Smithsonian Institution Special Exhibition Fund, the Smithsonian Institution Educational Outreach Fund, and the Patrick and Aimee Butler Family Foundation. In other words, a lot of time and effort was put into a proposal, but we offer our sincere gratitude to those organizations for helping make this happen.

The five-kiosk Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition was well put together and informative. But you know what? I remember being more impressed by the exhibits and activities that popped up around the exhibit. I remember the photographs of barns and farmsteads. I remember tractors, cars, the band and their music. I remember the stories and a presentation by an author and a photographer. I remember people willing to follow leaders. Impressive.

The event was important for more than just bringing people to the community, and contributing to the historical record of this community; it also brought to light the amazing resource the community has in the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village and Pennington County Historical Society. The museum and society provide this community with assets of incalculable value.

Congratulations to all of the people involved in Barn Again! It's a positive step forward for the community and a credit to your visionary thinking.

Encouraging signs of generosity

Encouraging signs of generosity are appearing everywhere. Maybe it's the fact that citizens in northwestern Minnesota have experienced the widespread affect of a disaster, but many local and area citizens are responding to the needs of those caught up in the tragedy caused by Hurricane Katrina.

> A flood of goodwill is needed to balance the terrible tragedy.

News reached us last week of a generous donation from Central Boiler. No sooner had that news crossed my desk than we received a telephone call from Challenger Elementary School, which was also raising money for hurricane victims, then a call from Franklin Middle School, then a local church group, then.... I hope it continues. A flood of goodwill is needed to balance the terrible tragedy.

We know where the buck stops, but we also know that pointing fingers - at this point - won't help the people feeling the influence of Hurricane Katrina.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere, email: lacours@mncable.net

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

...Have the gloves come off, then?

Sometimes I have been known to rant and rave in this column against whatever current politician or political action gets my goat. It is a free country. I pay my taxes.

And no, whatever administration is in office does not have to inform Sherry LaCoursiere of its reasons for doing things, as one of my readers (but probably not one of my fans) told me in an anonymous letter once. Evidently whatever I said didn't sit well with him (or her). So be it. It is a free country. He pays his taxes.

I wish people would write more letters to the editor. I enjoy reading them and am surprised at how interested, intelligent and informed our readers are, no matter how they feel about a subject. It is a free country. They pay their taxes, too.

Speaking of whether or not it is a free country, for the past five years, the press has been pussyfooting around the Bush administration, pretty much presenting a niceynicey face on everything presidential for the public. News media were not allowed (or perhaps it would be better to say "encouraged not to present") news that was detrimental to the current administration. I have a feeling that the time has come when the media is tired of being so submissive, and now the gloves may be coming off because of Hurricane Katrina.

During the presidential campaign of 2004, I became aware that audiences were especially chosen for the press conferences of the president. From what I understand, there is a White House Office of National Advance Operations that decides things like where the president will stand and how he will be pictured to show him at his very best. They have also been in charge of choosing the loyal Bush supporters who will surround the president as he gives his speeches or whatever. This handpicking of the audiences was, of course, attributed to the Secret Service taking good care of the prez. So be it. Whatever it is called, I call it managed.

However, somebody got brave and it was disclosed that the media members who rode on the president's plane with him during the campaign were also under some sort of information restraint. One might imagine the prez lounging around on the plane with the press, telling jokes and sharing confidences. Not so. The prez stayed apart from the press and they rarely interacted except during photo opportunities. Much interaction was through press releases. I guess you could say the media was just along for the ride. If I remember right, it wouldn't be too nice for any newscaster who crossed that line and reported stuff he shouldn't.

But I have noticed that lately the media has been a bit disobedient as far as following the mandates of the National Advance Operations office. Hurricane Katrina and its aftermath appear to have brought out the beast in those who are responsible for informing us of what is going on and loosened the hold the administration has on them.

It's really been surprising to hear some of our old favorite newscasters getting a little out of character and, one could say, "in the face" of some of the officials they are interviewing. I've heard the media criticize and I've heard them ask tough questions of those in charge of this debacle, no matter what their political party. I've even heard them do another media "no-no," and that is to voice their own opinions about what happened. Oh, boy, anarchy!

Many of the reporters who are covering this flooding on-site have simply seen more than they can stand. Some of them were in New Orleans when the hurricane hit and then they stayed through the flooding and all of the horrible aftermath. Some have said they have never seen such devastation and suffering in their entire careers. I've seen tears in the eyes of reporters who were always stiff and sober no matter what they reported.

The thing is, if one or many uppity muckety-mucks were to blame for what happened in Louisiana, through neglect, or ineptitude, or stupidity, or whatever, there needs to be some accounting. There needs to be some change or, some butt-kicking in this case, because many people have died and many people's lives have been damaged and altered forever because of what was done or not done there in the gulf area. If wrong was done, it needs to be reported so it will never happen again.

It is time to get back to old-fashioned news reporting when telling the truth was the main objective and pressures or threats from administrations were not allowed. What was seen was reported, and that was that. And when was that time again?

Comments on passport plan being sought

Sen. Norm Coleman has announced that the U.S. Departments of Homeland Security and State have formally submitted the Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative proposal for public comment. Citizens will now have until Oct. 31, 2005 to provide input on the plan, which would require all U.S. and Canadian citizens to have a passport or one of a limited number of other accepted security documents that establish the person's identity and nationality to enter or re-enter the United States. The requirements will take effect for travel between the U.S., Mexico and the Caribbean beginning on Jan. 1, 2007, and for travel to and from Canada beginning on Jan. 1, 2008.

On June 9, 2005, Coleman chaired a hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere, Peace Corps and Narcotics Affairs in Washington, D.C. to raise his concerns about the proposal. On Aug. 6, 2005, Coleman held three listening sessions in the border cities of International Falls, Baudette and Warroad regarding the proposal, where many constituents expressed concern over the everyday implications of the changes. Coleman invited Anne Barrett, the managing director of Passport Services at the U.S. Department of State, to attend the listening session and hear for herself the concerns from northern border residents.

"The Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative will have a significant impact on residents and travelers along the border and I am pleased that the public has opportunity to comment on this proposal," said Coleman. "During the listening sessions I held on this proposal last month along the Minnesota and Canada border, I heard a number of significant concerns over how this change will affect the everyday of lives of many of my constituents. Today, I am encouraging those residents along the border, and any other person who may be affected by this change, to take advantage of this opportunity to relay their comments and suggestions to the folks making this decision."

To provide information on the proposal to the general public, the Departments of Homeland Security and State are issuing an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (ANPRM) on the plan to the public. A more formal proposal will be issued later this year following review of those comments to implement the first phase of the initiative. This will take into account the comments received from the ANPRM, and will [illegible] comments on the new rule as well.

Those wishing to comment on the proposal may access the Federal e-Rulemaking Portal at www.regulations.gov and follow the instructions for submitting comments. Further information [illegible] proposal can also be found at www.travel.state.[illegible] or www.[illegible]

New state funding helps schools

by Rep. Brita Sailer

Even for those of us without school-aged kids, the first day of school is a community event. It marks the official end of summer, the lakes and state parks quiet down, and we see kids waiting to be picked up by the school bus early in the morning.

We've had a lot of good news lately about student achievement in our state. For the first time in over 10 years, Minnesota surpassed Wisconsin and Iowa to rank first in the nation in ACT scores (the rankings include states where more than half the students take the ACT).

The ACT is the exam taken by most college-bound students in Minnesota. In addition, the 2005 School Report Card scores showed big boosts in reading and math scores across Minnesota. This year, schools in Bagley, Blackduck, Clearbrook-Gonvick, Kelliher and Goodridge were all found to be making Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) under the guidelines of the federal No Child Left Behind Act. All Bemidji schools except one also made AYP.

These achievements are even more impressive considering the tight budgets our schools have been under for the last several years. Teachers and administrators have truly risen above the circumstances to provide the best learning environment possible. Fortunately, the education funding bill passed by the Legislature and the governor this year should provide welcome relief to area schools. As a new member of the Minnesota House, I was pleased to play a part in passing a 4 percent yearly increase in the per-pupil funding formula for each of the next two years.

Education is the key to our competitiveness as a region and as a state, and the key to our children's future. I was proud to help reverse the trend of declining state funds for education, and I hope this year marks the beginning of a renewed commitment to students.

Finally, as eyes turn toward the terrible devastation in New Orleans and along the Gulf Coast, my thoughts and prayers go out to all the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Living at the headwaters of the Mississippi, we have a geographic connection to the area: Bemidji and New Orleans are "sister cities." Our generosity in contributing to the relief efforts will be critical to getting aid to victims quickly. As the waters subside, the ramifications of the disaster on already rising gasoline and heating fuel prices will have a big impact in our area. Now more than ever, it is crucial that Minnesota's policy makers support ethanol and renewable sources of energy as alternatives. This is a problem that is not going to go away.

If you have comments or questions on these or any other legislative issues, please do not hesitate to contact me. The session may have ended, but my office is always open. I can be reached at 327 State Office Building, Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55155; (651) 296-4265 or toll free at (800) 920-5867; or by e-mail at rep.brita.sailer@house.mn.

Dayton urges investigation into gas prices

In a letter to U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales, U.S. Sen. Mark Dayton urged the Department of Justice to investigate the recent surge in gas prices around the nation.

Though the majority of Minnesota's oil supply comes from Canada, gas prices in Minnesota spiked following Hurricane Katrina, just as they did throughout the rest of the country.

The full text of Dayton's letter is below.

Dear Mr. Attorney General:

On September 1st, President Bush said, "There ought to be zero tolerance of people breaking the law during an emergency such as [Hurricane Katrina], whether it be looting, or price-gouging at the gasoline pump, or taking advantage of charitable giving, or insurance fraud."

I agree with the president, and I urge your department to investigate the sudden increase in gasoline prices in Minnesota and elsewhere in the country. In Minnesota, average gasoline prices have increased by 52 percent— from $1.97 per gallon to $3.01 per gallon, in just three months, from June 1st to September 1st. In just three days, from August 29th to September 1st, average gasoline prices in Minnesota increased 45 cents per gallon. Some gas prices in Minnesota increased by almost $1.00 per gallon last week.

Most of Minnesota's oil and gasoline supplies come from Canada. That certainly points to, in the president's words, "price-gouging." The similar price increases across the state also raise serious questions about price collusions by major suppliers and distributors.

I urge you to investigate those matters immediately and to prosecute any violations vigorously. Please advise me of your findings and actions regarding any gasoline "price gouging" in Minnesota or elsewhere in the country.

Northland Retired Educators sponsor the sixth grade essay contest each year. The students are invited to write about a grandparent or special older person.

The winners for this past year's contest were Amy Joy Halvorson, daughter of Bob and Jean Halvorson of Goodridge; Shanielle Peterson, daughter of Ricky and Brenda Peterson of Thief River Falls; and Emily Robson, daughter of Daren and Lisa Robson of Thief River Falls.

The winners; their grandparents, Helen Halvorson, Marian Peterson and Bruce Mattson; and teachers were guests at the Northland Retired Educators Banquet at the Best Western. The winners also read their essays at the senior program held at the 2005 Pennington County Fair.

The essays are written below as the students had originally written them with the exception of spelling and punctuation errors:

My Grandma Helen

by Amy Joy Halvorson

My Grandma Helen was born in Richville, Minn., on March 6, 1923, and her parents named her Helen Mavis Nygaard. Grandma was the baby in the family. She had three brothers and four sisters. Helen lived near Grygla when she was growing up. She liked to climb trees a lot. One time she could not get down a tree, so she called for help until her dad heard her and came to get her down. Grandma liked to go skiing and she pretended that she was delivering medicine.

Helen attended country school. There were three kids in first and second grades. After school, Helen played Indians with the other kids. Grandma and the other kids built a teepee out of dead trees. They also built a real fire. As being kids, the fire got away from them so they ran to the neighbor's house for help and water. Once an eighth grade boy came crawling on his hands and knees by Helen's desk, so she jumped on his back and rode around the room. All the teacher said was "Oh, Wilford, you should be ashamed of yourself." Grandma Helen blushed a lot.

Grandma started teaching at a rural school at age 17. Helen lived in the schoolhouse, but she ate all her meals at the neighbors' house. The neighbors were very kind Polish people who really knew how to cook! Grandma Helen said that she was fed royally there.

Helen spent three years in the United States Navy. She worked as a nurse in the spinal meningitis ward. Later, Grandma Helen worked in the surgery ward and the physical therapy ward. One time Helen was working the night shift, and all of a sudden, a man sat straight up with a pencil and piece of paper, and he wanted Grandma's name, address and telephone number. Grandma was in World War II. After serving in the Navy, Helen attended Seattle Pacific College.

Grandma Helen worked in the Mercy Hospital in Thief River Falls. One day, her old classmate Earl Halvorson came in to visit his twin sister who was a patient at the hospital. Earl and Helen eventually got engaged. Helen was 29 years old and Earl was 32 years old, so they both knew what they were doing. They got married on Oct. 10, 1952.

When Grandma Helen was 59 years old, her son Bob and his wife Jean had a son named Chancey Earl Halvorson. Then when Grandma was 62 years old, her son and his wife had another son, Cole Richard Halvorson. After that, Grandma was getting used to hearing the little pitter-patter of feet again. When Helen was 70 years old along came Amy Joy Halvorson, last, but certainly not least.

Grandma Helen and Grandpa Earl were absolutely thrilled when they found out that I was a girl. They took turns holding and kissing me. When I was about 8 years old, Grandma and I would tie ropes around each other and run around the house pretending that one of us was a horse. We sat on the stairs pretending to be bidding for horses at a sales barn. I also rode around the house on Grandma's back and always saying, "More! More!"

When Grandma and Grandpa were too old to play those games, I had them sit down in the living room, close their eyes while I hid a button, and then I told them to open their eyes and the first one who found the button got to hide it. Helen and I also enjoyed playing board games. Grandma Helen and I sometimes went on nature walks or rode the four-wheeler together. Later on, Grandpa Earl died, and it broke all of our hearts.

Grandma Helen stayed on the farm for about three months after that, and then she moved into an apartment house for people 50 and over. Now, Grandma enjoys watching me ride horses, going out to eat with me and knowing how I am doing in school.

In the past, Grandma Helen has been a nurse, Navy nurse, Digi-Key worker, farmer's wife, lab technician, teacher, sales clerk, hostess, waitress, World War II tutor, dairy store worker, and Helen has also worked at a children's home. Helen has just celebrated her third retirement party at the Best Western. She recently retired from Digi-Key.

Grandma is now 82 years old and getting older and wiser by the day. I love my grandma, and I love how she always tries to make it to anything that is important, and if she doesn't, she always has a good reason for it.

Granny Marian

by Shanielle Peterson

Today, I'm going to tell you about my wonderful Granny Marian! She lives a few miles out of Thief River Falls. She only lives about one mile from me. Sometimes when I was little, my mom and I would bike over to her beautiful house, and as we would get there, we would hear the noisy grain dryer. When we would get there, I would jump off my bike and run to knock on her door. She would sometimes see us, and she would rush to go and open the door.

Granny Marian is so caring! One time my cousin accidentally tripped me and I went sliding across the gray pavement, and she came running and made it all better. One other time I went ice fishing and I got just a little too close to the stove in the fish house. I got a big hole in the butt of my florescent pink pants. I jumped back from the stove quicker than ever. She made it all better though. She put on a heart patch over the torn hole in my snow pants.

When I was little, my mom had an idea that I should go to daycare while she went to work. Well, I went the first day and I cried because I hadn't been away from my mom before. I called Granny Marian that night, and I said, "I want to come to your house instead of that mean daycare place." Granny Marian said that would be fine with her, but Mom said that I should go to daycare to give it a chance. I didn't like that idea, so I finally got to go to Granny Marian's wonderful house and I got to play school down in the warm basement.

Granny Marian has curly brown hair that bounces when she walks. She has bright blue eyes the color of a clear blue lake. Granny usually wears comfy sweatshirts and slacks. When she's at church though , she's all dressed up from head to toe. Granny Marian likes to bake and cook. Granny also likes to watch the cooking channels on T.V.

Granny Marian is always in a happy mood! She always tells me that I'm always welcome at her cozy house. Granny Marian has always been there for me like when my mom and dad would have to go to a meeting or when my mom had her back surgeries. My mom would always have to go down to the Twin Cities for her back surgeries. I would always get to sleep over at her house, and I would jump for joy when I would get to go over to Granny's house. Now you know how much I love my Granny Marian!

Grandpa Bruce

by Emily Robson

One of the most important people in my life is my Grandpa Bruce. We have had many fun times together like this one time when we went ice fishing. That was a lot of fun. I feel that whenever we are together, no matter what we are doing, when he is there with me, I have fun doing it.

Grandpa Bruce is about seven feet tall. He is very, very big and STRONG! He has just a few scars on his knuckles and some scratches going up his arm. He has black hair with just a couple small gray hairs sticking up in every direction. It is really funny when he rubs his whiskers on my cheek. It kind of hurts though, too!

My grandpa has a great personality, and I'm not just saying that because I love him! He is very helpful and kind. He often volunteers to shuttle us wherever we need to go.

My grandpa has a lot of humor, too. He loves to tell jokes and get funny presents for Christmas and birthdays for my family. I personally think that the best part of his great personality is that I have never seen him get so mad that he has had to yell!

Some of the things my grandpa does in his free time is just going to play with his puppy named "Boots." He loves to go hunting and fishing, too. Sometimes, he likes to come over to my house just to visit us.

Some of the fun things I like to do with my grandpa are to go camping and fishing. Anything I do with my grandpa is fun.

Some of the reasons why my grandpa is important to me is because he is always there to help me. He cares a lot about our family and would do just about anything to help us out. All in all, he's just a great guy to be around.

My grandpa is a great guy and I love him to death, and if anything were to happen to him, I don't know what I would do. I would do anything for him. You know what? He would do the same for me and probably even more!

Local students attend Camp RYLA at UMC

Chasity Johnson of St. Hilaire and Sarah Mattison of Thief River Falls recently spent a week attending the Rotary Youth Leadership Award Camp (RYLA) at the University of Minnesota - Crookston (UMC).

A total of 121 students participated in the camp, which is devoted to developing leadership skills. The students came from 60 different high schools located across Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Ontario, Canada, all of which comprise Rotary District 5580.

Most of those participating in the camp will be high school seniors in the 2005-2006 school year. Student assistant and junior facilitators are high school seniors and college students who have previously taken part in RYLA. Participation in RYLA is offered to outstanding young men and women who have demonstrated leadership potential, academic achievement, participation in school and community activities, and work experience. The camp is offered each summer during mid-July.

Camp RYLA's mission is to provide outstanding high school student leaders with a variety of educational and recreational activities. These activities provide numerous opportunities for leadership and teambuilding, and they are designed to expand, improve and refine participants' leadership skills. The camp also promotes the development of active citizenship skills. RYLA campers are hosted by the Crookston Rotary Club, Rotary District 5580, and UMC, and they stay in the residence halls on campus during the week-long camp.

City approves levy decrease

Thief River Falls City Council approves a tax levy decrease of 2 percent

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

It's a decrease, not an increase.

At its Sept. 13 meeting, the Thief River Falls City Council adopted a preliminary tax levy decrease of 2 percent for 2006. That would lower the city tax levy from $1,745,177 to $1,709,623.

"We are proposing a 2 percent levy decrease compared to a 7.5 percent increase in 2002, 5 percent increase in 2003, 10 percent increase in 2004 and 1.5 percent increase in 2005," Finance Director Lisa Johnson said.

In her experience with property tax levies, Johnson said she doesn't recall ever seeing a property tax levy decrease. She attributed the decrease to $174,000 in revenue from Local Government Aid (LGA), meaning the city is now receiving the amount of LGA it received in 2002; an in-depth budget process; and belt-tightening when it comes to city personnel vacancies and whether to fill those posts.

Besides the preliminary property tax levy, the council also adopted the preliminary 2006 city budget.

The council will again vote on the 2006 tax levy and city budget at its Dec. 13 meeting. Prior to formal approval in December, the amount of the levy decrease can be lowered. However, it cannot be increased.

Given that the property tax levy will decrease in 2006, a Truth in Taxation hearing will not be held.

The council approved a contract extension with Mark II of Fosston for street improvements. "Basically, it would be providing the contractor with an additional 28 days for substantial completion of the project and 21 days for final completion," said Public Works Director Ron Lindberg, who noted this extension would put the contractor on the same time schedule as the one it has for the Nelson Drive work related to the future Wal-Mart store.

In a letter to the council, Mark II President Mark Hagen outlined several reasons why the company was requesting a time extension. Hagen wrote that rain, as well as utilities not detailed on plans for street improvements, led to the delays.

Hagen also wrote that the company had intended to immediately begin improvement work on Spruce and Barzen avenues after the bid was awarded. However, a pre-construction meeting did not happen until almost a month after the bid award. As a result, the company lost two weeks of time with two crews.

Lindberg noted Mark II has already hired a subcontractor to help it complete the street improvements within the extended amount of time it has been allotted.

City Council approved the low quote for storm sewer televising and cleaning. Roto-Rooter Plumbing & Drain of Grand Forks, N.D., had the low quote of $40,050. Veit Companies of Bemidji bid $61,250 for the project, and Infratech Inc. of Rogers bid $52,030.

"This would be the first project undertaken," said Lindberg, referring to it being the first project funded by the storm-water utility fund that was created in 2004.

The next council meeting is scheduled Sept. 27 at 5 p.m. at City Hall.

Two Thief River Falls intersections got some attention Sept. 14 at a meeting between the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) and city of Thief River Falls. Both of the intersections – Third Street (Highway 59) and First Street, and Highway 32 and Greenwood Street – were discussed due to the number of accidents occurring at those locations.

No action was taken; however, the two entities are continuing to discuss and think about improvements at those locations.

"I know there is a very big concern out there with traffic accidents," said Thief River Falls Public Works Director Ron Lindberg in reference to the Third Street (Highway 59) and First Street intersection.

That intersection is believed to be among the top six intersections for accidents in Mn/DOT's Northwest District, according to Thief River Falls Police Chief Kim Murphy. The Northwest District includes Pennington, Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Hubbard, Red Lake, Norman and Clearwater counties and parts of Koochiching, Itasca and Cass counties.

Sixty to 65 percent of all accidents at that intersection involved someone making a left turn, Murphy said. He noted the angle of that intersection caused visibility problems for

County Board approves tax levy increase

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Pennington County Commissioners unanimously approved a levy increase of 5 percent during the Sept. 13 meeting of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners. Pennington County's actual levy amount for 2005 is $5,233,043, an increase of $239,193 from the county's 2005 levy.

While the overall levy may be increased by 5 percent, several line items were actually reduced. Based on figures from the 2006 proposed levy, Pennington County will allocate less money to the Revenue Fund, $2,758,237, down from $2,775,717; Road and Bridge, $950,000; and Welfare Fund, $1,750,000; will remain the same.

Also, the county will have lower bond repayments to the Elevator/Long's Bridge Bond, $60,953, down from $64,641; the G.O. Jail Bond, $73,878, down from $76,031; and the LEC Radio Bond, $62,284, down from $63,979.

The only increases reported for the 2006 proposed levy were in the Oakland Park Nursing Home Fund, $290,000, up from $0 (new item); and the Highway Building Bond, $98,231, up from $94,524.

Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson noted that the 5 percent increase is down from more than 7 percent in previous budget drafts.

West Nile virus found in bird from TRF

Thief River Falls Parks and Recreation Department received notification on Sept. 14 that a bird it submitted to the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) has tested positive for the West Nile virus.

Myles Olson, city forester, stated that this means that the virus can be found in mosquitoes and birds in our region. It does not mean, he cautioned, that there is significantly more risk to people in the immediate vicinity.

Olson said the bird was submitted to the MDH about two weeks ago, and the city just received a response. Olson said the city has had a plan in place that addresses this eventuality. The plan calls for staff to notify the county health officer, the city council, and hospital and clinic staff. It also calls for specific measures to be taken to address the danger posed by the presence of the West Nile virus. Specifically, Olson said it calls for a reduction in the trap count threshold by 50 percent, which means the

Bicycling: Leisure, fitness and transportation

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

This is the second part of a series of features focusing on health and fitness in the Thief River Falls area.

As gasoline costs continue to climb through an ever growing ceiling, more and more area residents may be tempted to dust off that their old two-wheeled steed and pedal their way from destination to destination.

While it is unlikely that bicycles will gain the status of primary mode of transportation, it is clear that they are more valuable than ever as the cost of filling a tank of gas hovers just below the previously inconceivable milestone of $3 per gallon.

Dr. Jim Langland is a sports medicine and strength and conditioning specialist at Dakota Clinic. Since his college days, he has used a bicycle as his primary form of transportation to and from work. He also uses bicycling as a form of recreation and exercise.

"For me a bike is transportation, recreation and fitness," Langland said. "And I have different bikes that I ride for each."

Bicycling as a leisure/fitness activity

One Thief River Falls based bicycling group is combining both the leisure and fitness aspects of bicycling. Led by Ron Stordahl, Thief River Falls, the group varies between five and 15, and rides together twice a week during the summer months.

A lack of evening daylight is cutting into the group's available riding time. Seven riders met at a lot near the Multi Events Center for one of the season's final rides on Aug. 30.

"If the weather's bad, not too many people show up," Stordahl said, adding that it's only the hard-core riders after that.

While all of the cyclists enjoy the leisurely 12-mile ride, they have different reasons for making the trip twice a week.

Stordahl used to rollerblade as a form of fitness, but switched to bicycling because bicycles handle various surfaces better than roller blades. He began riding bicycle as a form of exercise a few years ago and has since taken to organized rides and bike tours. On Aug. 30, he was preparing for the St. Paul Classic.

"Ron's been a maniac," commented Dee Larson, who along with Stordahl, was logging about 12 miles a day, five days per week in preparation for regional rides like the St. Paul Classic, a non-competitive 30-mile bike tour.

Larson said she rides as both a form activity and exercise. Once an avid runner, Larson was forced to

Volunteers needed to observe court proceedings

Individuals living in or near Beltrami County are being provided with an opportunity to participate in an innovative volunteer and new court-monitoring program to assist the court system, clients and community. This will be the first of six counties in northwestern Minnesota to which the Greater Minnesota Racial Justice Court Monitoring Program (GMRJCMP) may expand.

The development of the court-monitoring program will require committed volunteers to "monitor" the criminal justice system in Beltrami County.

Volunteers will participate by attending courtroom proceedings and recording their observations. It has been proven that the presence of observers in the courtroom can promote accountability and serve as a reminder that the public has a vested interest in what happens in the court system and community.

Organizers hope the program will provide a forum for constructive dialogue, advocate resources for improvements, educate voters and raise public awareness.

To volunteer for the GMRJCMP, call (218) 444-2285 for more information and an application.

Fire destroys hay shed Saturday

Fire destroyed a hay shed early Saturday morning in Thief River Falls.

The shed was owned by Dale Rupprecht and located along 220th Street Northeast. It had been struck by lightning, Goodridge Fire Chief Dale Hanson said.

No injuries were reported at the scene of the fire; however, a firefighter slipped while loading water into a truck. Hanson noted the firefighter suffered from a cut knee that required stitches.

Rupprecht lost about 1,600 small square hay bales and 1,800 small squares of wheat straw, according to Hanson. Firefighters salvaged some of the 75 large round hay bales that were stored in the shed.

Firefighters used about 20,000 gallons of water to fight the fire, Hanson said. They were dispatched to the scene at 1:30 a.m. Saturday and were on the scene for about five hours. The Thief River Falls Fire Department provided mutual aid.

Motorists advised to use extra caution during harvest season

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is advising the public to drive with extra caution during the sugar beet and potato harvesting season.

In northwestern Minnesota, the harvest season is just beginning and will be in full swing in late September through mid-October. During this time, trucks are traveling 24 hours a day and roadways can become muddy and slippery.

To minimize potential collisions, Mn/DOT offers the following advice to drivers:

- Be extremely alert to both slow and fast moving vehicles.
- Use extreme caution at road intersections, especially at stop signs.
- Always wear your seat belt.
- Obey all traffic signing and posted speeds.
- Watch for mud and other debris on the road.
- Be alert at night and use headlights properly.
- Keep a safe distance from all other vehicles.

For statewide road condition information, dial 1-511 or log onto www.511mn.org.

At the time of the accident, Balderston was driving a vehicle near the intersection of County Road 4 and County Road 6. The vehicle left the roadway and then entered the north branch of the Two Rivers.

The sheriff's department was dispatched to the scene at about 9:28 p.m. Saturday. The accident remains under investigation by the department and Minnesota State Patrol.

Aquila Cares program expands to assist customers

Aquila Inc. is increasing its donation to the company's Aquila Cares program in its seven-state Midwest service area where customers are affected by higher U.S. energy prices, a company official said today.

Aquila Cares helps qualifying individuals in Aquila communities pay energy bills and make emergency repairs to heating and cooling equipment.

"To reach out and help those in our communities who may have difficulty paying heating bills this winter, we have increased our contribution to the Aquila Cares program five-fold, from $100,000 to $500,000 across our service area," said Norma Dunn, senior vice president of corporate communications.

Aquila will match customer and employee contributions to Aquila Cares, dollar-for-dollar, up to a total of $250,000. Also, Aquila is separately donating an additional $250,000 to the program. If customers and employees donate the full $250,000, the program will provide a total of $750,000 in assistance funds. Aquila's previous maximum contribution was $100,000, with the company matching 50 cents on every dollar contributed.

Since 2001, the Aquila Cares program has provided more than $1 million in customer and company funds to assist residents in the company's service area. Aquila Cares contributions are distributed by the following local assistance agencies in each state. HeatShare, which is administered by the Salvation Army in Minnesota.

Customers may make tax-deductible contributions to Aquila Cares on their monthly bills by calling Aquila Customer Service at 1-800-303-0752, or sending a check payable to Aquila Cares, P.O. Box 11975, Kansas City, MO 64138. Nearly 5,000 customers currently help their neighbors by including Aquila Cares contributions with their monthly energy bill payments.

"We encourage our customers to take steps now to help manage their monthly bills," Dunn said. Customers interested in spreading their gas bills evenly over 12 months can enroll in Aquila's StreamLINE® billing option by calling 1-800-303-0752.

While Aquila has taken actions to mitigate the price of natural gas for its customers, Dunn recommended that customers consider the following energy conservation measures to help reduce their energy use and further reduce winter bills:

- Adjust the thermostat during the day and night. Set the thermostat at 68 degrees during the day, and lower it a few degrees at night.
- Lower the water heater temperature a few degrees.
- Use cold water whenever possible. Many laundry detergents are effective in cold water.
- Check furnace filters monthly and clean or replace as needed.
- Don't block heating vents with furniture or clutter.
- Caulk and seal around windows and doors.
- Add insulation in the home's attic.
- Install a setback thermostat that will automatically lower temperature settings at night and at other designated times.
- More energy-saving tips are available at www.aquila.com.

Aquila also is matching employee, retiree and customer contributions, dollar-for-dollar, up to $500,000 in support of Hurricane Katrina relief efforts. In addition, the company is posting all of its open positions with agencies assisting hurricane victims in finding jobs.

TEN REASONS TO ADVERTISE

1. Advertising establishes contact. Consumers prefer to learn more about products and services through advertising. Advertising is a preferred method for introducing people to products and services and in converting wants into needs. Advertising cultivates new prospects. Advertising builds awareness. Before exposure to advertising only one in five buyers is aware of a company and/or its products. As awareness increases, buyers are more likely to consider purchasing that specific product.

2. Advertising builds preference. Consumers believe that buying a familiar brand usually guarantees approval (81 percent according to Simmons Research) while buying unfamiliar brands is risky (82 percent according to Simmons). Brand. preference is directly impacted by the advertising investment. Advertising is a proven means of raising a brand's reputation and preference level.

3. Advertising educates and develops prospects. Consumers prefer to learn more about products through advertising. Advertising becomes the knowledgeable salesperson missing from many stores today. Advertising turns wants into needs. Advertising helps educate and differentiate benefits from features.

4. Advertising reduces cost of sales. In a world with less knowledgeable salespersons, advertising reduces direct selling costs. Knowledgeable customers often know exactly what they want to buy, reducing the time needed to sell them. It costs about one-fifth as much to retain and sell an existing customer as it does to sell a new one. Advertising is a tool for selling existing customers more and reducing costs of sales.

5. Advertising helps sell existing customers more products and services. Nine out of 10 buyers continue to look at the vendor's ads after making the purchase. Advertising reassures buyers that they have made a good decision.

6. Advertising helps close the sale. Advertising builds traffic, provides incentives for acting now, provides links to Web sites, coupons and toll free numbers which all directly can close the sale. Advertising keeps them sold. Advertising reinforces good decisions, creates the best prospects for future sales. It cost? less to keep a customer than to find a new one.

7. Advertising is an effective sales tool. Seven out of 10 salespeople surveyed said they use ad reprints as a selling tool.

8. Advertising saves time for both you and your customers. Customers believe advertising saves them time and money in comparison shopping. Therefore the customer who has been exposed to advertising is closer to making an informed decision— saving you time and money.

9. Advertising keeps you top of mind. For most product categories, fewer than four percent buy a particular general merchandise product in a given week. About half of this four percent buy an item within a week of deciding to make the purchase. Seventeen percent tend to make impulse purchases, while twice that many (35 percent) like to shop around before making a decision. Once the decision to buy is made, the consumer relies heavily on advertising to help them decide where to buy.

10. Advertising works! Millions of manufacturers, retailers, service businesses, and individuals advertise every day. Over and over again. Because it works.

The Ungrateful Inhabitants

Well folks, we'd best start being wary of everywhere we go. The world is out to get us. Yes, Mother Nature is determined to rid us from her. It's not hard to see why; we are sort of the bane of her existence—torching her surface, wiping out her forests, depleting her limited caches of resources, etc. After all that, we can't claim to be surprised when, in Kurt Vonnegut's words, "the earth's immune system" starts to kick in.

With things like earthquakes, resultant tsunamis, and of course hurricanes, perhaps the planet is giving us little hints. There should be no dispute that the earth as a whole would be better off without us (I often imagine the world unaffected by humans, with all the roads and cement gone, and it's a beautiful place).

Now don't get me wrong, humanity can be a good thing . . . for us. Much of our efforts (those that aren't used to kill each other) are exhausted to benefit humans. We need fuel and places to sleep, don't we? But most of the time, we just aren't aware of what we're doing to the planet. We must remember that humans are really just animals, so what we perceive as "humanity" is just another form of animosity.

Northland College celebrates 40 years

Forty years ago this week, Northland College began in Thief River Falls. The first day of classes were held Sept. 20, 1965.

With 159 students enrolled in the freshman class, the college began on the upper floor of the old Lincoln High School (LHS). It did not have a sophomore class until 1966.

The college spent its first few years at LHS, where it had five classrooms and an office. It used the former public library as its student center and as a library.

The college opened with the following staff members – James Dalager, mathematics and physics; Merle Kruschke, history and political science; Charles Samuelson, biology; Robert Keiffer, English; May Issacson, librarian; Patricia Anderson, secretary; and Charles White, dean. Many part-time instructors from the high school taught college classes.

This year's total opening-day enrollment at Northland Community and Technical College was 3,612 at its Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks campuses, and through its distance education program. That number included 1,555 students in Thief River Falls and 1,586 in East Grand Forks, according to Lindsey Wangberg, director of marketing. Distance education students numbered 471. The total opening-day enrollment included 2,033 full-time students. The college is still accepting registrations for its Farm Business Management, customized training and College in the High School programs.

Tourist sites are so much better with friends

My Brazilian exchange worker, Cassio, wanted to see a little of America before he left from the San Francisco, Calif., airport for his home country. He asked me where he should go and how he should get there.

There's plenty to see between here and the coast, but getting there without a car is pretty difficult. I am always looking for an excuse, however flimsy, to travel, so I told Cassio I would drive him to California and we'd see some sights on the way.

We identified four objectives: First, Cassio wanted to see the heads at Mt. Rushmore. He had seen them in cartoons as a child in Brazil, but never thought they actually existed. To prove they did, the heads became stop number one.

When I explained Yellowstone Park with its geysers, Cassio thought that would be neat. So Old Faithful would be stop number two. The prospects of seeing bear, moose and elk while we were there didn't hurt, either.

Cassio had never been able to understand why Americans call one agricultural business a "farm" and another a "ranch." I tried to explain that ranchers wear cowboy hats while farmers wear seed caps, but that did no good. To illustrate the difference, stop number three became my Uncle and Aunt's ranch in Eastern Oregon.

Stop four was obvious: Everybody wants to see the big trees, particularly the one you can drive through. So, our trip was organized around the heads, the geysers, the ranch and the drive-through tree.

Joined by Raciel, another Brazilian student on the same schedule, we took off just as gas prices hit $3 per gallon. So much for the budget.

Crossing South Dakota on I-90, past the hundreds of ramshackle billboards for Wall Drug, Cassio wondered if we had any laws against "view garbage." Yes we do, I said, but Wall Drug must have gotten an exemption.

The heads were worthwhile, the Brazilians figured, although I had a tough time explaining why and how Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Teddy Roosevelt were chosen at the expense of the other presidents. Cassio figured we must have taken a vote.

After a stunning drive through the oft-overlooked Big Horn mountains, we headed into Yellowstone. The first burbling puddle of goo was a big hit, as were the second and the third. I became worried that we'd never get past the bubbling goo pots when a buffalo appeared.

So much for the burbling pots. Buffalo are everywhere in Yellowstone - almost as common as tourists - and the boys have dozens of digital pictures to prove it. To keep the guys at a proper distance, I had to explain the meaning of the word "gored."

I hadn't been to Yellowstone since I was 10, so much of it was new to me. I was impressed with Yellowstone Canyon, but not impressed when the guys insisted upon standing right on the edge of a 1,000-foot cliff for a picture.

The canyon provoked a discussion of the words "brink," "edge," "rim," and "gorge." The Portuguese/English dictionary was little help, and I struggled to explain: just what is the difference between the brink of a cliff and the rim of a canyon?

We hit Old Faithful just as a crowd of about 1,000 Labor Day tourists had gathered on benches to see it blow. It shot up as predicted, subsided, and everybody left. So much for goal number two.

The ranch in Eastern Oregon didn't disappoint. The horses, cows, pivot sprinklers and four-wheelers were a big hit. After we left, I asked Cassio if he now knew the difference between a ranch and a farm. Yep, he replied, although he didn't care to explain.

On the way to the Redwoods, we ran across Brazilian restaurant in Bend, Ore., with a pretty cook who spoke Portuguese. More pictures, lots of laughs - at my expense, for all I knew - and some awfully good Brazilian crepes.

Finally, the Redwoods. While I maneuvered the car through the hole in the trunk of one of the trees, Cassio and Raciel snapped photos. But capturing the size of the trees on camera proved frustrating. The trees just wouldn't fit in the viewfinder. So, we headed to San Francisco.

After I dropped the guys off, the car got quiet. The four day trip home was filled with scenery, but I didn't enjoy it nearly as much as when I had to explain it all to a couple of Brazilians who barely knew English.

Descendants of Halvor and Emma Halvorson, pictured here on their wedding day on Aug. 10, 1905, met to celebrate the couple's 100th anniversary of the Halvorson family on Aug. 6 and 7.

Descendants celebrate 100-year anniversary of Halvorsons

In recognition and honor of the Aug. 10, 2005 100-year anniversary of Halvor and Emma Halvorson, the 2005 Halvorson Reunion was held in Thief River Falls on Aug. 6 and 7.

The reunion was held at Seven Clans Casino, Thief River Falls. It began at 10 a.m. in the Makwa Room, with Alane Wick and Barb Helms greeting and signing in guests throughout the day, as descendants socialized and enjoyed coffee and delicious homemade baked goods.

At 1 p.m., the green 72-passenger Reunion Express, piloted by Dale Helms, pulled away from the hotel, loaded with eager descendants and spouses aboard. After driving north from Thief River Falls on County Road 44, the former farmstead of Morris and Adeline Halvorson was observed out of the right side of the bus. Sandra and Richard Halvorson were born while the family lived in this home. Morris and family moved to Bloomington in 1956.

The first stop on the tour was the Halvor and Emma Halvorson home farm. The home, which was built in 1931, is currently owned and occupied by Harold and Alpha Halvorson. The original Halvorson home was located in the same place as the existing one. It was moved more than once on the property and eventually ended up beside the existing barn. Remnants of the structure could be seen until about 10 years ago. All 10 of Halvor and Emma's children were born in the original house.

In 1948, a two-room schoolhouse that was located a mile south of the Alfred Solem farm was moved across the driveway from Halvor and Emma's place. This became the home of newly married Harold and Alpha Alvorson. Morris Halvorson remodeled the home in 1954. In the mid 1960s, Grandmother Emma and the Harold Halvorson family traded homes. Emma had lived alone in the 1931 home since Halvor passed away in 1956. Emma die in November 1966 and in November 1967, the home was sold and moved one mile east of the Thief River Falls Airport.

Many pictures off the 295 descendants and their spouses were taken on the side of the 1931 home. After rounding up those who wandered off to the river, the bus continued on to Steiner Hall for a reminiscent visit with family and visitors from the community. Steiner Hall, the hub of many past social gatherings, was alive again with conversation, fellowship and laughter.

The day concluded with stops at the Alfred and Rebecca Solem home farm, owned by Peter and Valerie Solem; the home of Lloyd and Carol Halvorson; and the resting place of Halvor and Emma Halvorson. The family gathered at the resting place of Halvor and Emma Halvorson as a memorial cross was placed at the grave.

..."Warning: Do not eat your fortune"

The other night I had Chinese food and got a fortune cookie. What fun, I thought, and opened it. It said, "Warning: do not eat your fortune."

Now what kind of fortune is that? What does it mean?

I turned the darned thing over, thinking that maybe the lawyers had come down on the fortune cookie bakers and now made them put warnings in their cookies, just in case anybody was dumb enough to eat the paper along with the cookie and got sick from it. No fortune there.

Were they saying I am fat? Did they mean I am so hungry that I might eat a piece of paper? Were they saying I would eat anything set in front of me? That isn't very nice.

The person I had dinner with got a normal fortune. Theirs said "The will to do, the soul to dare is yours for the taking if you prepare." Now that is the fortune I should have had. It's poetic. It's just oblique enough to make it interesting. It's what a fortune should be. I can relate to that.

I would have even welcomed a fortune that said something like, "This is your lucky day." I would have liked to hear, "Today you will get your heart's desire," "You'll have a nice dinner," or "You will have a nice (or even halfway decent) day." No, I couldn't have anything like that. I had to get what was probably the worst fortune in the entire box of fortune cookies.

Did it mean I would get a real fortune and then squander it. Maybe that is it. Maybe it really means I will win the lottery. Oh, good. Sure, that's it, of course. Yes, there it is. "Warning: do not eat your fortune." Naw, I don't think it means I'm going to get a fortune either.

Maybe it should have read, "You will be able to write a column about the most trivial thing you can think of this week." Sure!

PARENTING TIPS
Children and Time

One of the most frustrating things about being a parent is trying to get everything accomplished that needs to be accomplished. And then to make matters worse, you have a child who has no concept of time and dawdles. When you press him to cooperate better or to hurry, he becomes explosive.

How to cope? Here are several possible approaches:

- Examine your expectations. Are you expecting too much of yourself or your child? Is it possible to do all the things you did and keep house the way you did before you had children? Is it realistic to expect your young child to do things in the same time frame in which you, an adult, would do them?
- A child usually cooperates better and faster if you have given him a warning about five minutes before the activity must end. "You have a couple more minutes to play. Then you must put your toys away and put your coat on so we can go to Grandma's house."
- Tell him to say, "Goodbye" to whatever he is doing or whomever is present, and give him time to do it.
- Offer him a choice. But make sure that it is a choice of two things that fit within your limits and will accomplish what you want to have accomplished. For example, rather than "Do you want to go to bed?" say, "It is time for bed. Do you want to walk or shall I carry you?"

Each time you alert your youngster to anticipate an event, his ability to organize a time world increases. Also, the vocabulary associated with time, "pretty soon," "five minutes," will become relevant. When you give your child choices and abide by those choices, you show him respect which helps to build self-esteem.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about what will happen "first" and what will happen "next" or "after that."

Looking forward

by Danle Packard
FBM Instructor, Thief River Falls

Hurricane Katrina has come and gone, and now, the country has to pick up the pieces. What will the fallout of Katrina be for the 2006 production year? Some may say I haven't even finished harvesting the 2005 crop why should I be concerned with 2006. Well more than ever it is going to be important to look ahead, plan ahead and adopt the changes that will be necessary to survive.

We know that fuel and products derived from fuel will be more expensive. How expensive, I wish I knew; I suspect that they will be substantially higher. So we will need to sharpen our pencils sooner to make sure that we can absorb the additional costs. It will be more important to do enterprise analysis this year than ever before. Do you know your production costs? Not just the big three, seed, fertilizer, and chemical, but all of the costs? What will we need to not only survive, but thrive?

There are some bright spots in agriculture today. We still have strong real-estate values, low long-term interest rates, and cattle markets that have been and are strong. There are many new lenders in the market and we still have hard asset financing and strong government support.

We will need to cut out the frill and trim wherever we can. We will need to shine the light on all costs and determine what is important.

For what can we pay less? Some things will not be able to be trimmed. How about leasing rather than owning? How about custom planting, or tillage rather than doing it ourselves? What is the land capable of? Will we have to downsize acreages by letting go of less productive land that is not in good shape? Can we renegotiate rental rates on land and equipment? These are all questions that will need answers as we look to 2006.

It is never too late to start analyzing what we are doing. Sometimes you have to spend money to find the answers that you need. Your Farm Business Management (FBM) instructors can help you determine your costs of production and what you will need to do to survive through the coming year. They can help you compare and analyze each enterprise you are working with and help you determine what is the most profitable. Sharing financial information is never easy, but it is important that we find answers to the questions that need answering as soon as possible.

For more information on how you can survive through 2006, contact a FBM instructor near you at 1-800-959-6282.

Thief River Falls - Marvin Gilbertson, 86, died on Monday, September 19, 2005 at his home in rural Thief River Falls.

Operation keep us warm is gaining strength

At the time it seemed like a good idea raising funds for Katrina victims, and then Jessica Boseman realized that the local area residents will be feeling the price of Katrina, too. Boseman has started a fundraiser called "Operation Keep Us Warm," the purpose of which is to help local families with the rising cost of heating fuel. Boseman noted that the average cost to heat a home has already tripled.

Operation Keep Us Warm is seeking donations. The fundraiser will consist of a garage sale and a cook-out at Park Place Mall in Red Lake Falls on Oct. 15, 2005. Acceptable items to be donated at the drop sites are small household items, small electronics, clothes (in good condition) and smaller toys. Smaller sized donations can be dropped off at the following sites: Unity Bank (RLF), City of Red Lake Falls, Park Place Mall (RLF), City of Oklee (which are only open in the morning), Brooks Federal Credit Union and Bob and Jan's Grocery in Plummer.

"I am currently looking for a place in Thief River Falls to donate small items, so hopefully that will be in the next issue." If you have a large item such as a couch, chair or computer, please call Jessica directly at 253-4342. If you live outside these areas, please call me as well and we can have the items picked up.

"I feel for the victims in the south, but after talking to many businesses I decided to keep the fundraiser close to home. As some of you might already be donating time, money or supplies, I hope that you will be able to help this organization so when it hits 30 below, none of our neighbors in Red Lake County will suffer. My eyes have been glued to the television ever since this disaster has struck," said Boseman.

A wide array of help is being sent down to Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. "I just feel it is better to keep the money locally so that a Red Lake County resident who relies on fuel for their heating can get the help they need and do not run out of fuel. People with electrical heat don't have to worry between November and April, due to a state law. What happens to that family of five in the country who can barely make it each year farming and then has no way to get fuel into their tank? That is where Operation Keep Us Warm can help!"

The money that is donated will be donated to the Red Lake County Salvation Army, located at the Red Lake County Social Services building in Red Lake Falls. The money will be kept in a special fund for fuel emergencies. There are two stipulations, one being that they have already applied and been denied by Inter County Community Council and have been denied by "Emergency Assistance" through Red Lake County Social Services. After this process, no one will be rejected.

Boseman is in need of volunteers to help her with the garage sale and cook-out. If you can give an hour or many hours to help this cause, please contact either Jessica at 253-4342. The remaining items from the garage sale will be sent to Katrina victims via the Salvation Army or the Red Cross.

Many other local counties are going to be in need too. Hopefully the support of the local area will spread to other counties. And just because you live in a different county, don't hesitate to call.

Lending a helping hand to Hurricane Katrina victims

Staff report

Thief River Falls residents are lending helping hands to the areas affected by Hurricane Katrina.

The Thief River Falls Kiwanis Club raised approximately $675 for Hurricane Katrina relief at its annual fly-in and drive-in Sunday at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport, according to President Barb Natvik.

The Thief River Falls Lions Club will host a pancake breakfast in October for Hurricane Katrina relief efforts, President Pat Thibert said. Matching contributions will come from Lions Club members.

The Thief River Falls Rotary Club was expected to hold a meeting last week to determine whether it will hold a fundraiser to provide aid to those affected by Hurricane Katrina.

Money raised by those groups for Hurricane Katrina relief will be matched by the Dondelinger Foundation. The foundation has agreed to match up to $10,000 for Hurricane Katrina aid until the end of September, Bob Dondelinger noted.

"There's a tremendous amount of need down there in New Orleans," said Dondelinger, who noted the foundation approached the three clubs about matching any funds raised for Hurricane Katrina aid.

Northern State Bank has also provided an opportunity for local residents to donate to hurricane relief efforts. At its downtown and Hugo's locations, the bank has drop boxes for monetary donations. It is asked that individuals write out checks to the Salvation Army. It is expected that the drop boxes will be out for the next few weeks.

Students at St. Bernard's Catholic School have also raised money for those displaced by Hurricane Katrina. They raised more than $2,000. The students in pre-kindergarten through fifth grades had a root-beer float party to celebrate their successful fundraising effort. The fourth graders raised the most money. They will have a pizza party for lunch on a day of their choice.

Individuals are finding ways to make donations, too.

Bonnie Dunston, one of Pennington County's 2005 Senior Citizens of the Year, donated her $100 award to the Red Cross in East Grand Forks for hurricane relief. Dunston said that as they were about to leave for the Senior Citizen of the Year ceremony at the Minnesota State Fair, the news about the hurricane in New Orleans was just breaking.

Dunston said she just did not feel like partying when others were hurting. She added that President Bush had also suggested that people stay home, so she did.

Dunston said she understood it didn't create a problem at the State Fair. She said they just honored those who could be there. She said they did send her a ribbon and pin.

Dunston down-played her gesture saying, she didn't think it was all that great. She added that she certainly didn't do it to embarrass anyone. "It was just a thing I needed to do."

Social Security Q&A

Q: I had been married to my ex-husband for over 20 years before we divorced. Neither of us remarried and he recently died. I plan to file for his Social Security at age 60 as a divorced widow. Will those benefits be based only on his work while we were married or will they include his work afterwards also?

A: Your benefits as a divorced widow will be based on his earnings throughout his working life, not just the 20 years that you were married. As part of the application requirements you will need to provide your birth certificate, the marriage certificate and the divorce decree. The last two are used to establish the duration of marriage requirement. All documents must be either originals or certified copies provided by the state. Photocopies are not acceptable. Documents are returned to you.

Q: I'm confused. Will the new Medicare prescription drug coverage be available for everyone or is it based on income?

A: The new Medicare prescription drug coverage program that [illegible] 2006 will be available to everyone on Medicare. It is [illegible] of income. Some people [illegible] Medicare [illegible] be eligible for extra help to pay the monthly premiums, annual deductible and prescription co-payments of the new prescription drug program. This extra help is based on income and resources and Social Security is now taking applications from people having Medicare who may be eligible for it.

Again, the Medicare prescription drug coverage program will be available to everyone on Medicare and is not based on income. For more information about the Medicare prescription drug coverage see www.medicare.gov or call toll free 1-800-MEDICARE. For more information about the extra help, call any SSA office or visit www.socialsecurity.gov.

Reminder: Even though you use direct deposit to electronically receive your Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefit, you need to keep SSA informed if you change your mailing address, including to a 911 address. SSA usually mails several letters out to people about their benefits during the year. To report a new address, call the national SSA toll-free number 1-800-772-1213 or contact your local office.

Walter Brothers Farm tops DHIA list for July/August

Walter Brothers Farm was the top dairy herd producer for the months of July/August, according to the supervisor of the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA).

Supervisor Randy Rasmussen put the following herds in the Top 10 of the associations for the months of July/August:

1. Walter Brothers Farm – 270 cows, 90 percent in milk, 68 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 103 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

2. Todd and Kathy Johnston – 55 cows, 76 percent in milk, 63 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 102 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

3. Wayra Dairy (August) – 198 cows, 87 percent in milk, 62 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 104 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

4. Beyer Brothers Farm (July) – 73 cows, 90 percent in milk, 62 pounds of milk, 2.1 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 102 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

5. Beyer Brothers Farm (August) – 72 cows, 88 percent in milk, 62 pounds of milk, 2.1 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 107 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

6. Wayra Dairy (July) – 198 cows, 83 percent in milk, 61 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

7. Northwest Research and Outreach Center – 119 cows, 84 percent in milk, 60 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 1.7 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 97 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

8. Morlyn and Debbie Ornquist – 37 cows, 86 percent in milk, 59 pounds of milk, 1.7 pounds of fat, 1.7 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

9. Darin Lehmann – 40 cows, 90 percent in milk, 54 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat, 1.5 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 102 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

10. E. Duane and Faith Knott – 89 cows, 84 percent in milk, 53 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 1.6 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 102 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low even though the cow that is milking produces a lot of milk.

Bonnie Stewart at helm of NCTC Foundation

Bonnie Stewart

Bonnie Stewart of Fosston recently accepted the position of executive director of the Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) Foundation. She began her work Aug. 8.

"My goal for the foundation is to bring increased giving that will in turn increase the number of scholarships awarded to students," Stewart said. Her goals also include increasing the assets of the foundation, building alumni relations, working effectively with the board of directors and volunteers to increase awareness of the foundation, and to create a presence at the East Grand Forks campus.

That increased presence in East Grand Forks is part of the new direction for the NCTC Foundation.

The foundation was created in 1967 in Thief River Falls. It is a nonprofit organization with assets of approximately $2,000,000 and an annual budget of more than $100,000, much of which is endowed for perpetual support of scholarships. More than $60,000 is awarded annually in scholarships to students attending NCTC's Thief River Falls campus.

Stewart is posed to build assets for the East Grand Forks campus. "Our fund development efforts will have a positive impact on the ability of the foundation to meet our student's educational needs. As educational costs continue to increase, the Foundation can play a major role in strengthening the future of students, the college, and the communities in our region," she said.

The NCTC Foundation offices are now located in the Swenson House, located across from the Thief River Falls campus, off of Highway 1. Assisting Stewart in foundation operations is Michelle Bennitt, foundation assistant, who was recently promoted to that post.

Stewart earned her bachelor's degree in urban affairs from St. Cloud State University. She has more than 25 years of management and fund-development experience with nonprofit organizations and public agencies. Most recently, Stewart served as co-founder and executive director of The People Connection in Fosston. In 2003, she received certification from the College of Nonprofit Management at the University of St. Thomas through its Executive Director Leadership Program. This past spring, Stewart was honored with the 2005 Leadership Award from Minnesota Rural Futures.

Stewart resides in Fosston with her husband, Mike. They have four children, Maggie, Ted, Andrew and Ryan.

Wired for Words offered to pre-K students and family

Challenger Preschool Programs will be presenting Wired for Words, the first of four Building Language Together (BLT) events to be offered during the 2005-06 school year. Wired for Words sessions will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 27, from 4:15 to 5:45 p.m.; Tuesday, Sept. 27 from 6:30 to 8 p.m.; and Thursday, Sept. 29, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

All children eligible for kindergarten in the fall of 2006 and their parents are strongly encouraged to participate in one of the three sessions. All three sessions will be held at Challenger Preschool, 601 County Road No. 61, Thief River Falls. Childcare will be provided for siblings of eligible kindergarten students who are preregistered. Participants should pre-register by Sept. 24

During the first part of the session, parents will be provided with information to help them gain a greater understanding of how their child gets ready for reading and writing. During the second part of the session, parents and children will get to work on special hands-on activities together and will receive materials for activities that can be done at home. Research shows that most children who experience rich language and literacy activities at home and at school will have greater success in later learning.

Challenger Preschool programs asks that all families arrive promptly at the designated time so no one misses any off the important information shared during the beginning of the session.

Kay Nelson, Eagles Club host blood drive

United Blood Services wants to congratulate Kay Nelson and Eagles for organizing a successful blood drive held in Thief River Falls on Aug. 29. A total of 87 people volunteered to donate and 75 were able to donate 89 units of blood. Twenty donors donated on the automated 2RBC machine, which collects two units of blood at once. Four of the donors gave blood for the first time.

"Since the summer is traditionally a difficult time for blood centers, all the special people who provided the "gift of life" as blood donors and volunteers are appreciated," said Lisa Moellenkamp, donor recruitment representative from United Blood Services. "The people in Thief River Falls and the surrounding area should feel proud of their concern for patients who need blood."

Others who assisted with the drive were Lynda Scholin, Dorothy Chapman, Lillian Rux, The Times, KTRF-Chris Melbye, Buzz Nelson and Betty Scramstad. Space to hold the drive was provided by the Eagles.

Donations made during the drive helped the needs of many patients in 74 area hospitals served by United Blood Services.

DAV State Auxiliary commander visits local chapter

Sandra Halversen Butler from Bemidji, newly-elected Disabled American Veterans (DAV) Auxiliary State Commander, was a special guest at the DAV, Crookston Chapter 14 meeting held on Monday, Sept. 12, at the Northland Inn. Commander Jim Sheridan presided at the chapter meeting and Auxiliary Commander Phyllis Sheridan presided at the unit meeting.

Forget-Me-Not days will begin this week for the DAV veterans of Crookston Chapter 14. The Forget-Me-Nots are the small blue flowers of remembrance which are placed on window posters, distributed by members of the DAV to Crookston businesses. Funds are raised by contributions sent directly to the assistance of disabled veterans and their families in the Fargo, N.D. Veterans Administration Center.

State DAV Auxiliary Commander Sandra Butler relayed her motto, "Keep the Focus on Our Veterans" and stressed membership in the DAV organization. She also mentioned the importance in communicating with elected officials on various veterans issues.

It was announced that the State Fall Conference of the DAV and Auxiliary will be held at the Holiday Inn in Detroit Lakes on Sept. 23 and 24. Members interested in attending the fall conference may make reservations by calling the Holiday Inn in Detroit Lakes, 218-847-2121.

Local cadet earns honors

Cadet Chelsea A. Haviland, daughter of James and Alicia Haviland of Thief River Falls, has earned the superintendent's award for excellence at the U.S. Military Academy for the spring semester which ended in June 2005.

To be selected for the award, a cadet must simultaneously achieve excellence in all programs (academic, military and physical). The cadet is awarded a gold star encircled by a gold wreath which signifies the top five percent of cadets in each class.

Haviland graduated from Lincoln High School in 2002. She is concentrating her studies in management and plans to graduate in 2006 from West Point and be commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

Bicycling: Leisure, fitness and transportation

find a new fitness outlet due to injuries associated with running. Langland, Stordahl and Larson completed the St. Paul Classic on Sept. 11.

Competitive biking

Jon Kays rides in a different spectrum of the biking world than his group riding counterparts. Kays is a competitive rider who's finishing his second year of racing.

Kays is currently preparing for a 100-mile timed race called the Headwaters. The Sept. 24 event offers several divisions of competitive and non-competitive biking. He prepares for biking events in much the same manner as his Stordahl and Larson, by riding for extended periods of time.

"I ride for several hours at a time to get my body used to sitting in the saddle for an extended period of time," Kays said of his training. He added that your neck, legs and entire body are in a strange position for an extended period of time. To aid his training, Kays also utilizes both upper and lower body weight training to increase strength.

On Sept. 10 Kays competed in the Warrior of the North race contested west of Grand Forks, N.D. He finished 12th in the 36-bike field after staying with the lead group for most of the 32-mile race.

Had it not been for equipment problems, Kays may have finished much higher. Kays bike chain became loose and fell to the ground with just five miles to go in the U-shaped course. He was off his bike for just five to 10 seconds, but lost the lead group as it was heading into the wind.

Why bicycling?

While other forms of cross training are beneficial, bicycling is perhaps the best at combining a strength building workout for leg muscles with much less impact than running and much more respiratory benefit than walking.

Anita Lizakowski, a Health and Fitness Specialist Program director/instructor at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC), said bicycling, whether it be using a stationary bike, riding on flat terrain or mountain biking can be beneficial to riders of all skill levels.

"To enjoy bicycling you don't have to be in great physical shape," Lizakowski said. "You don't have to be in perfect physical condition to ride a bike. You can take your time and you can even ride as a family."

Lizakowski said bicycles also play a major in rehabilitation. She often prescribes a recumbent stationary bike for NCTC students who are rehabilitating an athletic injury. When using a recumbent bicycle for rehabilitation purposes, an injured athlete's range of motion can be controlled much better with a recumbent bicycle, than it can with a elliptical machine or treadmill.

Bicycle safety - a proper fit

While encouraging bicycling as a form of exercise, Langland warns that there are a few precautions to follow. Before bicycling, a rider should take a couple of minutes to make sure his or her bicycle is properly fitted to the rider's height and tires are inflated properly.

Farmers Insurance Group recomends that cyclists check their bikes for proper handlebar position, brake tension, seat height and pedals, wheels, tires and chain.

Handlebars should be tight and properly aligned with the front wheel. Caliper hand brakes levers should not be able to touch the handlebars before the brakes are fully engaged and the wheel is locked. Brakes should be centered over the rim and have at least one-sixth of an inch of rubber braking surface available.

Pedals should be secured to the crank arms while still being able to turn freely. Treads should be intact.

Bike wheels should be tested for proper balance by picking the bicycle up and spinning both wheels. Wheels should not rub against any part of the frame, fender or brakes. Rims should be free of rust, dents or kinks and missing spokes should be replaced.

A bike's tire condition will affect its handling. Tires should be inflated to the pressure recommended by the owners manual (stock tires) or tire manufacturer (aftermarket). Tires should be replaced when worn smooth.

A properly positioned bike chain should have approximately one-half inch of lag and make little noise. A chain that needs adjusting will make a cracking or grinding noise.

Langland feels that many leisure bicycle riders do not take the time to properly adjust their bike.

"If the bike is not adjusted right, you may not feel well when you are done," Langland said. "If the bike isn't tuned, the tires aren't inflated, it will make for a much less enjoyable experience.

Langland said that most recreational cyclists overlook the most important safety factor. "I think you have to use a helmet," he said. "The benefits of a bike helmet have been well established."

Many times people don't wear a helmet during a short ride. That's a mistake, according to Langland, that's when accidents frequently occur.

Bicyclists are reminded to ride with traffic and follow the same rules as cars. Langland said cyclists should remember that they are entitled to share the road with cars.

Langland said highway riding may make for the most enjoyable riding – just stay away from the busier roads.

"I gave up riding on state highways over a decade ago," Langland said, noting that they are much more dangerous because of the increased traffic."We have a lot of nice county roads where you can ride for miles."

Board accepts bids for motor grader purchase. Bids for a new motor grader were submitted by Ziegler Inc. of Crookston and RDO Inc. of Grand Forks, N.D. County Engineer Mike Flaagan said he was pleased with both bids. Ziegler submitted bids for both a new and low-hour Caterpillar machine for $191,210 and $165,497 respectively. Each bid included a repurchase opportunity of $98,250.

RDO Inc. submitted bids for a $140,580 brand new John Deere machine. RDO Inc. submitted a second bid for $142,710 for the same machine with a five-year or 5,000-mile buyback option.

Flaagan stated that if the county planned on selling the machine through one of the buyback or repurchase plans, the Zieglers offer for a Caterpillar machine would be the best offer. Citing the Highway Department's budget, Flaagan recommended the John Deere purchase from RDO Inc. All bids submitted were from the state of Minnesota bid.

Engineer's Items

- The board approved final payments for Highway Department projects SAP 57-610-09; SAP 57-622-06; and CP 57-05-06.
- The board approved advertising for a Highway Department maintenance position.
- The board approved Highway Department Maintenance Foreman Godfred Svir's request to accept quotes for a lawn mower with a 15-foot blade.
- A motion naming Flaagan and commissioners Naplin and Oliver Skip Swanson to the City Comprehensive Plan Committee was carried.

Traffic roundabout studied in TRF

drivers. Murphy added that the traffic resulting from the future Wal-Mart store would increase the possibility of accidents at that intersection.

From 2001 to 2004, there have been 23 accidents there, according to Lynn Eaton, Mn/DOT Northwest District engineer. He noted there weren't any fatal or major injuries associated with those accidents.

However, Murphy said that there has been one fatal accident at that intersection, but not during that time period.

"We don't have any firm plans," Eaton said about any improvements for the intersection.

"Hopefully, [an improvement] can be done much sooner than five years or seven years," Murphy said.

Eaton suggested a traffic roundabout as a way to decrease the amount of accidents at the intersection. A roundabout is a circular intersection.

"They tend to reduce accidents significantly," said Lu Tasa, State Aid engineer for Mn/DOT. "It's just a different type of an application for cities."

The geometry of the intersection may lend itself more to a roundabout, said Eaton, who noted there was "quite a bit of room" at the intersection to construct a roundabout.

"Where they come in at angles like at First Street, they work better," Tasa agreed.

Another option would be to straighten out the intersection. Some right-of-way would have to purchased if the council and Mn/DOT decided to straighten the intersection out, Eaton said.

Highway 32 and Greenwood Street intersection

Mn/DOT and city officials also discussed the Highway 32 and Greenwood Street intersection.

Lindberg noted that there have been several near misses in terms of accidents as a result of drivers turning left near the Best Western. Connecting the frontage road to Greenwood Street may lead to decreases in the number of drivers who have to drive on the highway, he added.

The distribution of new Arctic Cat products has also affected traffic in that area as well as other areas. There were 50 additional trucks per day for two weeks due to that distribution, Murphy said. Traffic was stopped along that highway, and traffic on Highways 1 and 59 was also affected.

Besides the traffic issues, Lindberg noted the city is looking at constructing a hiking or walking trail near the Highway 32 and Greenwood Street intersection. He said the trail may include an overpass or underpass.

Given the issues that were discussed pertaining to that intersection, Tasa suggested having a protected left turn on both sides. However, there will have to be more discussions between Mn/DOT and city officials before any improvements occur.

city will be spraying for mosquitoes soon. The spray they will be using requires contact and therefore must be sprayed while mosquitoes are active. Olson said they are now looking for a period when conditions are ideal. The success of such an operation is very dependent on the weather. The wind, for example, cannot be stronger than 10 miles per hour. Residents should also anticipate that crews will be spraying earlier in the evening because temperatures are dropping quickly after sunset and when temperatures drop, mosquitoes become less active.

Olson reminds residents that for most people the risk of becoming ill with West Nile encephalitis is very low. If residents still have concerns about it, he encourages them to visit the MDH Web site at www.health.state.mn.us, which is very informative.

In the meantime, Olson and the city of Thief River Falls encourage residents to take personal protection measures - use mosquito repellents, avoid outdoor exposures at dusk and dawn (peak feeding time for many mosquitoes), and wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants.

Great things happening at Challenger

by David Hill
Editor

Lots of great things are happening at Challenger Elementary School. Monday, Sept. 12, Challenger Principal Patrick Marolt and Mike Winen presented an update on activities and events at Challenger to the Board of Education of School District 564.

In education circles, it's no secret that great things are happening at Challenger Elementary School. Last summer, Challenger Elementary staff were invited to give a presentation at a Northwest Evaluation Association (NWEA) conference in Portland, Ore. With over two million students participating in NWEA testing, students in grades three through five at Challenger Elementary School recorded some of the highest growth rates. (Seventy-five percent of all schools in Minnesota belong to NWEA.)

"This is a big selling point for the community," said Steve Young, chairman of the Board of Education. Young explained that he had been visiting with a professional who had just moved to Thief River Falls, but wouldn't have moved to the community were it not for the community's school system.

Despite the growth and honors, Marolt and Winen said the school has established goals that reflect even more growth. Last year, about 72 percent of students achieved their goals in reading. This year, they want to see 75 percent of all students achieve their goals in reading. Last year, 76 percent of all students met their goals in math. This year, they expect 80 percent of all students to meet their goals in math.

Marolt and Winen reported on other data being provided by testing and a new computer system that's beginning to provide them with the ability to set goals and make data-driven decisions.

Marolt said he believes the positive results has been due to teachers working together and using the data that is now available.

They also discussed the school's theme of "Living Above The Line," and "Use Respect -- Be Responsible," which seems to have helped curb discipline problems. "It's all about respect and responsibility," said Marolt.

It's not all testing and data at the school. Marolt noted that with the help of local organizations and volunteers, Phase 1 of playground improvements [illegible] the school has been installed. The new equipment, which is on the grade 2 and 3 side of the playground, had an estimated cost of $29,000.

Marolt attributes the successes at Challenger to teachers, parents and students. He said he sees it as a triangle with all three working together.

Julie Kragness provided the Board of Education with an update on the literacy collaborative. The Literacy Collaborative is a research-based literacy model provided as a collaboration between the school and Ohio State University. It is designed to improve the literacy achievement of each child in reading, writing and word study.

Kragness said local efforts have come a long way. She recently attended a workshop in Boston. Kragness said that initially she felt uncomfortable with the thought of her peers relying on her, but she said teachers have been very excited about the program and have been asking many questions.

Participation in the program was made possible by a grant. The District received $10,000 in year one, $2,000 in years two and three, and $1,000 in year four. In addition, the District gets testing data, use of a Web-based product called a PDS2, 23 Palm Pilots, training and materials.

Young thanked Kragness for providing leadership in this District. He added that he had been approached by another teacher who spent a lot of time very excitedly telling him about the great things happening because of this program.

A dispute over an amount owed for repair and replacement of ceiling tiles at the Lincoln High School Auditorium has concluded. Harry Nelson, District business manager, said the outcome was about what the District had anticipated. He explained that the dispute arose when ceiling tiles began to fall and had to be replaced. The District claimed that the contractor was at least partly responsible, and had agreed to a $9,000 credit. The contractor did not agree with the District's assessment of the situation. An arbitrator with the American Arbitration Association concluded that the contractor was to be paid $22,556, with interest from Dec. 3, 2003 to Aug. 15, 2005 of $1,532, minus the District's claim of negligence in the amount of $9,656. The total amount owed the contractor is $14,432.

The administrative fees and expenses of the American Arbitration Association totaled $2,100, and the expenses of the arbitrator totaled $871.50.

Nelson noted that they had not received a bill from their law firm, yet.

The Board of Education approved a motion accepting the arbitor's decision.

The Board of Education has approved an adjustment to the 2005-06 budget. Nelson said that projected revenue was up by one percent, and projected expenses down by one percent, which, along with the recently approved increase in state aid, puts the District in a better financial position. Nelson noted, however, that the District has not settled with the teachers, and the projected increase in energy costs probably does not reflect what will actually happen. Current government estimates indicate a substantial increase in fuel costs. Last year, the District's total utility bill amounted to $610,000. Last year's diesel and gas bill amounted to $88,000. Last year's natural gas bill amounted to $273,000. An increase of 30 percent could have a significant impact on the District's budget.

Nelson suggested that the Board of Education revisit the issue later this fall. "We need to be aware of it because it will have an impact on the budget," said Nelson.

The change approved by the Board of Education was to adjust the 2005-2006 revenue budget from $19,441,347 to $19,888,059, and the 2005-2006 expenditure budget from $19,847,085 to $19,991,585.
